That victory at Hanover, according to head coach Kerry Ginty, was a huge confidence boost and a win that should put North Quincy back on track for a long state tournament run.

"I have to give Hingham credit," she said. "They played a consistent game and didn't make any mistakes. We had some starters out, but I'll take responsibility for the game getting away from us.

"It was a disappointing loss but we have to keep things in perspective. Yes, it ruined any chance for an undefeated league season. So, what we need to do is reevaluate our goals and regroup so we can go and make a deep run into the tournament."

Against Hanover, North Quincy won Game One

Home Game Friday Against Hanover

Raiders March On With 26-15 Win at Malden HS

By SEAN BRENNAN

The North Quincy Red Raiders are beginning to find their mojo and this recent development could spell trouble for the rest of the Patriot League's Keenan Division.

Coming off an impressive 34-7 shellacking of Pembroke HS on Oct. 1, North Quincy (3-2 overall) took their show on the road to Malden High School last Saturday and the team came away with another confidence-boosting victory. This time around, the Red Raiders won 26-15 in a non-league contest.

After starting the fall with a non-league home victory over Boston Latin (13-6), North Quincy took a couple steps back the next two weeks following losses to non-league opponents Oliver Ames (14-12) and East Bridgewater (46-28). Against Pembroke, which at the time was sporting a perfect 3-0 record, the Red Raiders played three great quarters and won in a rout.

With the team's confidence flying at a season-high, North Quincy struck first blood versus Malden when senior running back Seyi Adesuyan capped off the opening drive with an eight-yard touchdown dash; senior Mike Morrison got the drive moving with a long kickoff return. The two-point conversion rush failed.

Senior tailback Mike Curran put North Quincy up 12-0 with a four-yard burst into the end zone later in the quarter.

"Being able to get that first score helped to take the wind out of their sails," said NQHS head coach Jim Connor. "All of a sudden you have control of the game and it helps the whole team gain confidence especially playing a tough team on the road."

Malden responded later in the first quarter with a 25-yard scoring pass from quarterback Kevin Valley to Frankie Dunn. The successful PAT would cut the Red Raiders lead down to 12-7.

Connor, through his team's first four games, has expressed, consistently, the need for his boys to string together quality quarters. After playing a solid opening frame, North Quincy came out and put together a solid second quarter.

Adesuyan (two TDs) helped extended the North Quincy lead with a ten-yard TD run, which increased the score to 18-7.

Malden would cut into the Red Raiders advantage with a three-yard TD run late in the half; the two-point conversion sliced North Quincy's lead to 18-15 at the halftime break.

"We ended up stalling a little bit on offense late in the second quarter," added Connor. "We could have been up by three touchdowns but we let them back in the game. So, during halftime the coaching staff just told the team that they had to play a full game and eliminated our mistakes.

"The team just buckled up their chin strips and got ready to close out the game."

Clinging to an 18-15 lead, the Red Raiders defense stood tall throughout the second half. Malden started getting frustrated on offense and as a result began forcing the issue through the air. As a result, North collected two interceptions and held Malden scoreless.

The Raiders upped the ante in the fourth quarter on a four-yard TD pass from quarterback Joe Schmitz to Morrison. The PAT was blocked but senior Kyle McKay recovered the ball and ran it in for two-points.

"We played a good game but we need to play a complete game moving forward," said Connor. "We need to clean up some mistakes, but the effort is there and the team is starting to figure it out.

"This week, against Hanover, starts a six straight games against Patriot League opponents. The team is excited about how they have been playing, but we need to continue to work hard in practice and take things one game at a time."

North Quincy hosts Hanover HS on Friday (7 p.m.) in the first of six Patriot League games scheduled to end the season.

Notes: The Quincy Presidents lost to Duxbury HS, 35-7, last Friday at Veterans Memorial Stadium... The Presidents travel to Pembroke HS for a 7 p.m. start on Friday... QHS closes out the month of October with home games versus Middleboro HS (Oct. 22) and Hanover HS (Oct. 29)...QHS and NQHS will play Nov. 25 in the annual Thanksgiving Day game.

QYF League Results

The following are game recaps for Quincy Youth Football League. The below information was submitted from the QYFL.

The Storm - 26
Quincy Point Panthers - 0

In a game that was closer than the final score, The Storm improved its season record to 2-3 by shutting out the Quincy Point Panthers, 26-0, at Veterans Stadium. Holding The Storm to a 6-0 halftime lead, the Panthers, made up of mostly 6th and 7th graders, gave up yards grudgingly to their opponent's power running game.

After receiving the opening kickoff on their own 33-yard line on a long initial kick by The Storm's Nick Kelly, the Panthers fumbled on fourth and 3 and Andrew Kiley picked it up and returned it to the Panthers' 20-yard line. It took The Storm seven running plays and five minutes off the clock to get into the end zone, capped off by quarterback Joey Gaglione's 1-yard sneak. The offensive line, led by center Nick Manning, guards Dominic DiPalmo and Declan Mayo, tackles Fred Barsarmian and Sam Grossfeld, and ends Connor Cramond and Joey Dwyer, opened gapping holes for The Storm's running backs. The conversion attempt failed on a pass from Gaglione to Kiley.

On the ensuing kickoff there was no return and the Panthers started out on their own 45- yard line. Three running plays and one pass netted the visitors 8 yards and they turned the ball over to The Storm on downs. The Panthers defense stiffened up and ended the home team's four-play drive with a 6-yard sack of Gaglione. The Panthers followed with an eight-play drive, but was finally stopped on downs on The Storm 36-yard line. A Storm pass was intercepted on first down and the Panthers penetrated to The Storm 31 before time ran out in the half.

The turning point in the game came after The Storm took the opening kickoff, which was downed by Dwyer on his own 45-yard line. The powerful Storm running game then ran off 11 plays in a row chewing up seven minutes of the game clock, featuring five blasts by Kiley for 36 yards and culminating in a 1-yard plunge by running back Will Bronske. Zachary Dangora ran it in for the 1-point conversion making the score 13-0.

The Storm defense continued to confuse the Panthers offense, which featured excellent backfield schemes and some crushing blocks on the line. Leading the way of the defense for The Storm was Cramond at inside linebacker, Barsamian, DiPalmo, Mayo and Dangora at tackles, and Evan Aimola, Mac Deegan and Dwyer at linebackers. Ryan Manning in his first varsity game was involved in 4 tackles and Jeremy Downey, Kelly, Joel Lawless and Kevin Mock made key contributions to The Storm curtain.

After Kiley made a dazzling tackle on the next kickoff, the Panthers started at their own 35-yard line but fumbled after two plays with Kiley recovering on the visitors' 35-yard line. After a Kiley run of four yards and another for no gain, Kiley burst through the middle of the defensive line, broke five tackles and raced into the end zone for a 31-yard TD run. After a holding penalty against The Storm its conversion run failed, leaving the score at 19-0.

Kelly kicked off to the Panthers' 39-yard line and the visiting team again penetrated Storm territory. After a run of 25-yards they fumbled on a crushing tackle by safety Gaglione and Dangora recovered it. On the first play after the turnover, Gaglione hit Dangora on a swing pass coming out of the backfield to the left. Dangora took the ball in stride, raced down the sideline, cut back at the 10-yard line to elude the last Panther defender, and completed a 63-yard pass play, the longest play from scrimmage for the 2010 Storm. Kiley ran in for the conversion making the final score 26-0.

Final offensive statistics for The Storm included: Kiley: 10 carries for 77 yards, one TD and one running conversion; Gaglione: passing 2-4 passing for 67 yards and a TD - running 3 carries for 5 yards and a TD; Bronske: 4 carries for 10 yards and a TD; and Dangora: carries for 20 yards and a conversion, two receptions for 67 yards and a TD.

On the defensive side Barsamian and Cramond led with 5 tackles, Dangora, Kiley and DiPalmo had 4 each, and Aimola, Dwyer and Ryan Manning had 3 each. Bronske and Gaglione each had 2 passes broken up.

Next Sunday The Storm is the visiting team against the undefeated West Quincy Elks at 1 P.M. at Veterans Stadium. A win will bring The Storm's record even at 3-3.

West Quincy Elks - 26
NQ Apaches - 16

In a battle between the final two remaining unbeaten teams in the QYFL, it was the Elks that came out on top of the Apaches, 26-16, in a hard fought game by both teams.

Quarterback Scott Pollack threw for two touchdown passes for the Elks. One for 45 yards to Deyvon Jones and the other to Bobby Salvucci for 20 yards. Pollack also ran for a 70-yard touchdown. Deyvon Jones also chipped in for the Elks offense with a 20-yard touchdown run. Joey Weinstein and Sasha Cunningham both contributed to the Elks ground attack. Defensively, Jimmy Dalton, Alex Leo and Andy Johnson led the Elks with several tackles apiece.

For the Apaches Bryan Lenane was outstanding on both sides of the ball, as he returned a block extra point for 2pts and returned the second half kick off for a touchdown to bring the Apaches back within 8pts. Also playing well for Apaches were quarterback Pat Frasso, running back, Erick Cohane-Jones, who had some nice runs, and tight end Jake Bergonzi also had a good game. On the line, big Sean Dozier did a great job anchoring the offensive line from his center position, while Mike Connolly, Alex Chen and Steve Scolaro also played well. Lenane, Scolaro, Frasso and Bergonzi, all played tough on defense to slow down the high-powered Elks.

The undefeated Elks will try to stay perfect on the season when they face the Storm, the Panthers will host the Mustangs, while the Apaches and Manets will square off in the late game

Houghs Neck Manets - 12

To Defend Title Next Summer in Egypt

Jay Brooks: World Masters Judo Champion

By JOE REARDON

Jay Brooks made the commitment very early on in his training that he would leave no stone-unturned heading into August's World Masters Judo Championships in Montreal for the second time.

The 40-year-old Quincy resident had prepared for the competition like no other after finishing seventh in the event in 2005, this time knowing his competition would have to fight near flawless matches to defeat him.

Rather than focusing on his two main competitors, Didier Favier of France and Argentina's Fabian Lavalle, Brooks concentrated solely on what he planned to do on the mat. He felt primed and ready to compete a full month before the competition. If he carried out his strategy, Brooks was confident neither Favier nor Brooks would have a plan to combat it.

"You go in there and play your game," said Brooks. "You don't worry what they're doing. I felt really good. I trained and dropped a weight class. I went in knowing I had done everything physically and mentally."

His monk-like preparation proved to be the difference as Brooks captured the gold medal, defeating Favier and Lavalle along the way.

Brooks' trek to Montreal took him to Europe, where he trained for a month with some of the best judo talent in the world. When not on the mats perfecting his moves, Brooks was cross training with weights and putting the miles in running. In all, he trained solely on the world championships for four months, 3-4 hours a day. The workout regiment was extremely intense during his trip to Europe. Brooks trained for two hours at a time three times a day.

"It's hard here because judo's not as big a sport," said Brooks. "Over there, you have four or five guys on the mat."

Ironically, Brooks didn't need to resort to his strengths during the world championships, proving just how well rounded a fighter he is. "My strength is my ground game," said Brooks. "It's funny because I won this tournament standing. I was hardly on the ground at all."

Brooks was in complete control in Montreal and went into the competition far more prepared than he had at his first time on the big stage in 2005.

Brooks' seventh-place finish was far from disappointing, but he knew he was at a disadvantage because he was competing at a heavier weight. He lost to the gold and bronze medal winners along the way, but the experience made him less tense and more mentally prepared when he went to Montreal to compete.

"I was very focused," said Brooks. "I really zeroed into that specific event."

In the 2005 U.S. Seniors, Brooks competed in the open division at 140 pounds. On the way to copping gold, he defeated two competitors who weighed 280 and 360 pounds, respectively. Judo, Brooks said, has more to do with skill and quickness than how big someone is.

"It's all about being smart," he said. "I ran them around and I was able to get under them."

Brooks has come a long way since he first stepped on the mats at the tender age of 5. As a youngster he would go to the local gym across the street from his house. Brooks became intrigued when he learned that a judo competition was being held and decided he was going to enter. From there, he was hooked on the sport.

Brooks gets tremendous satisfaction teaching the art to kids at the Bayshore Athletic Club in Braintree. The sensei of Phoenix Judo, Brooks trains up to 40 kids who range in age from 3 to 13.

He's as passionate about his teaching as he is about competing. Brooks teaches the kids that judo is more than going head to head with an opponent on the mats.

"As long as they keep coming, I'm going to show up to help them," Brooks said. "It's not all about competition. It's about sportsmanship and improving yourself."

Winning, Brooks said, is simply a "by product" of training and discipline. "As long as there's one person who wants to learn, I'll be teaching," he said.

"I think I turned out to be a pretty good guy and a lot of that has to do with judo."

Brooks is eager to defend his title next summer, this time in Egypt. Now that he is older, Brooks knows he can't train intensely year round, and instead has to pick out certain competitions and lock into them.

"As long as I can walk, I'll keep competing," Brooks said.

North Quinny Volleyball Rebounds From Loss

25-23, lost Game Two 14-25, won Game Three 25-21 and lost Game Four 21-25; in the deciding Game Five, the Red Raiders smoked Hanover, 15-4.

The victory not only stopped any chance of a two-game losing streak, it also qualified North Quincy for the state playoffs. And it was a confidence boost for the young program.

"It was a huge win coming off that loss to Hingham," said Ginty. "It was our tenth win and it qualified us for the postseason, which was one of our preseason goals. It also showed me that my girls could respond to a loss as they played like they had something to prove.

"In someway that loss gave us something to work on and coming back and beating a strong Hanover team helped raise our spirits moving forward."

Last week, despite the loss to the Hingham, was another positive step forward for North Quincy. The team opened with a 3-0-match victory over Middleboro HS (25-15, 25-21, 25-9) on Oct. 4 and also shutout Randolph HS, 3-0, on Oct. 5. In both games, the Raiders got strong performances from juniors Olivia Umoren and Elizabeth Sullivan.

"Against Middleboro, Olivia was outstanding again," Ginty, said. "She finished with six kills, and Elizabeth Sullivan had five aces and 12 digs. These two along with Elizabeth Forde (three kills) really stepped up and played well."

Even with the loss to Hingham, North Quincy rolled to a 3-1 record last week, and with ten games left in the regular season, the team has the time to fix what needs fixing and to prepare for what they hope will be another state championship run.

"We had a goal to go undefeated in the Patriot League, and obviously that can't happen," Ginty added. "We have moved on from that goal and we are now focused on improving our game and preparing for what we hope will be a long postseason run."

North Quincy played at Whitman-Hanson HS on Tuesday. The team will host Randolph HS today (Thursday) at 5:30 p.m. before traveling to Boston Latin HS on Friday.

The Raiders will square off with Quincy HS for a second time on Oct. 25.

QRD Announces Ice Skating Registration

The Quincy Recreation Department announced that they would be conducting their popular low-cost eight-week program of Ice Skating Lessons with two classes on Wednesday afternoons at the Quincy Youth Arena.

This traditional Learn to Skate program has, for more than 30 years, offered boys and girls age 6-14 the opportunity to learn the fundamentals of skating in a low cost program with quality instruction.

Walk-in registration will take place at the QRD main office, located at One Merrymount Parkway, beginning today (Thursday, Oct. 14) and will continue on weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. as long as openings exist; online registration can be done at QuincyRec.com. Registration is done on a first-come-first-serve basis.

The program will have two separate classes beginning at 3:10 and 4:05 p.m. on Wednesdays starting Oct. 27, according to Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation. Mrs. Anne Eagles, a United States Figure Skating Association Professional, will instruct and supervise the classes and she will utilize the basic program of instruction designed by the USFA; both classes offer the same levels of instruction and run for eight weeks.

The cost of the program is $68 for the session, which includes instruction and ice time. Participants need to provide their own skates, which may be figure or hockey skates with a single blade.

For more information, call the QRD at 617-376-1394 or go online to QuincyRec.com.

Tryouts Oct. 16 at Adams Field

QBRL Announces Late Registration

Quincy Babe Ruth League, Inc, announced this week that any interested Quincy youngster who missed the league's Sept. 25-26 tryout registration period could still sign-up, via late registration and tryouts, this Saturday, Oct. 16 from 9 a.m. to noon at Adams Field.

QBRL features competitive teams and dedicated coaching staffs; QBRL includes district and travel teams for 13-14 and 15-year olds. The league will also be hosting the 13-year old Massachusetts State Tournament in 2011.

For additional information, contact Dick Lombardi at 617-479-5724.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

SCOTT DEWARE

While driving have you ever found you were as pre-occupied with your thoughts as you were in driving your car? Of course you have. All of us have been guilty of this at one time or another.

Once while driving through a residential section of a large city this happened to me. All of a sudden, I noticed a sign indicating 15 miles per hour as the speed limit. To my surprise, I was driving nearly 40 miles per hour. I had been driving in the line of traffic . . . my speed not governed by the maximum speed posted but influenced by the other drivers around me.

We became so involved in our everyday living that we fail to see many of the errors we can so easily fall into. We can be thankful when we find ourselves alerted by seeing something that will cause us to stop and take notice of ourselves. These instances may well be God's way of exercising His watchful care over us to stop us from drifting with the crowd and to be mindful of our doings . . .

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Some flashes of Aries ire might erupt as you confront an unusually bewildering situation. But you should be able to keep your temper under control as you work through it.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) That marriage 'twixt the arts and practicality that Taureans excel at once again highlights your enjoyment of much of the week. However, you need to watch any sudden urge to splurge.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Even with all the plusses apparently outweighing the minuses, you still might want to defer an important decision to make sure you have all the facts you need.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) One or two problems might threaten to derail otherwise smoothly running situations at work or at home. But a few well-placed words should help get things back on track quickly.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) This could be a good time for all you Leos and Leonas in the spotlight to open your generous Lion's hearts and share the glory with those who helped you accomplish so much along the way.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You might want to get advice from someone who's been there and knows these situations better than you do, before investing time or money (or both) in a questionable matter.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Be careful how you handle a workplace matter that seems out of place in the schedule you've prepared. Before you act, one way or another, find out who set it up and why.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Your entertainment aspect is strong this week. Besides providing a wonderful break from everyday obligations, sharing fun times brings you closer to those you care for.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Having a weekend fun fest? Your friend or relative who's down in the emotional dumps could perk up if you find a way to include him or her in your plans.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) If you're in one of those "the Goat knows best" periods, you might want to ease up and try listening to what others have to say. You could learn something.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) That new challenge is getting closer, and you should be out there now showing facts and figures to potential allies to help persuade them to rally to your support. Good luck.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Getting a head start on holiday plans could help free up some time later to spend on other projects. Meanwhile, a colleague has some ideas that you might find worth discussing.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are always there for others, and sometimes you need to be reminded that you need to be there for yourself as well.

Richard W. Reardon

Fleming's Restaurant Bartender

RICHARD W. REARDON

A funeral Mass for Richard "Ricky" W. Reardon of Quincy will be celebrated today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. at Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Mr. Reardon died Oct. 8.

He was born and educated in Quincy. A lifelong resident of Quincy, he graduated from North Quincy High School in 1983 where he played hockey and football. As a youth, he played for Quincy Youth Hockey and Quincy Youth Football.

An avid sports fan, Mr. Reardon loved watching and attending many games of his Boston teams. In addition, he enjoyed many long walks along Wollaston Beach.

Mr. Reardon was a bartender at Fleming's Restaurant in Boston for the last 10 years and was a member of the Chart House family for 19 years both in Boston and Daytona, FL.

Beloved son of Mary C. Reardon of Quincy and the late Richard Reardon; devoted brother of Maureen Brady of Canton, John "Jack" Reardon and his wife Paula, Paul Reardon and his wife Katie, all of Quincy, and the late Michael Reardon.

Loving uncle of Meaghan and Andrew Foulsham of Canton, Paul and Kara Reardon and Marianne and Michael Reardon all of Quincy; loving godfather of Drew Doherty and Kara Reardon; Brother-in-law of Liz Reardon of Atlanta, GA. He will also be missed by several aunts, uncles, cousins and two special friends, Barbara Daly and Tishie Storer.

Most of all, he will be lovingly remembered for his love and devotion to his entire family, especially "his kids" Meg, Paulie, Kara, Marianne and Michael.

Visiting hours were Wednesday from 3 to 8 p.m. at the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Burial will be in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to Autism Speaks, 5455 Wilshire Blvd., Suite 2250, Los Angeles, CA 90036.

PATRICIA M. SHORT

A Memorial Mass for Patricia M. (Carrol) Short, 87, of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday in St. Ann's Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Short died Oct. 9 at the John Adams Healthcare Center.

Born in Weymouth, she was raised and educated in Quincy schools and was a graduate of Quincy High School; she had lived in Quincy most of her life.

She was employed at the rectory of the former St. Boniface Parish in Quincy for 25 years, retiring many years ago. During World War II, she worked as a welder at the former Hingham Shipyard; she was also Past President of both the Weymouth Elks' Ladies Auxiliary and the Tobin Towers Association in Quincy.

Mrs. Short was a foster parent for over 30 years and was devoted to her family.

Wife of the late James J. Short; mother of Mary Gay of Quincy, James "Jamie" Short of Quincy, Kathleen Donovan and her husband Robert of Quincy, Jeffery Short and Troy Loutsenhizer of FL, and Julie Short of Quincy; grandmother of Kelly Malick and her husband Neil of Weymouth, Jennifer Brouwer of Weymouth, Christopher Gay and his wife Tish of Scotland, Robert Donovan of Quincy, and Saralynne Donovan of Quincy; friend of James Eddy of Quincy.

She is also survived by several great-grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Resident's Council Fund at the John Adams Healthcare Center, 211 Franklin St., Quincy, MA 02169.

We need you.

American Heart Association.

Daniel J. Campbell

Engineer, World War II Veteran

DANIEL J. CAMPBELL

A funeral Mass for Daniel J. Campbell, 88, of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday at Saint John's Church, Quincy.

Mr. Campbell died Oct. 7.

He was born in Lynn and worked as an engineer for the Charles T. Main Engineering Firm in Boston for many years. He served in the U.S. Army during World War II.

Husband of the late Doris Campbell; loving father of Roy R. Campbell and his wife Nellie of Middleboro, the late Joan Braccia and the late John D. Campbell Jr; cherished grandfather of Daniel, Michael and Ross.

Burial was in Massachusetts National Cemetery, Bourne.

Funeral arrangements were made by Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Marion C. Cedrone

Self-Employed Beautician

MARION C. CEDRONE

A funeral Mass for Marion C. Cedrone, 63, of Braintree, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday in Saint John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Miss Cedrone died peacefully Oct. 9 at the South Shore Hospital in Weymouth, surrounded by her loving family.

Born in Quincy, she was raised and educated in Quincy schools and was a graduate of Quincy High School. She was also a graduate of the Hanover Beauty Academy. She had lived most of her life in Quincy before moving to Braintree five years ago.

She was a self-employed beautician and owner of the former Salon 208 on Liberty Street in Quincy for 18 years. She retired 10 years ago.

She loved children and was devoted to her niece, Meghan, and her grandniece, Molly. She enjoyed cooking and trips to Foxwoods.

Beloved daughter of the late Aldo "Finn" and Edith M. (Harrington) Cedrone; devoted sister of Donna L. McGilloway and her husband Hugh of Braintree; loving aunt of Meghan McEvoy and her husband Sean of Abington; cherished grandaunt of Molly; dear friend for 44 years of Eileen Amorelli of Braintree.

Interment was in Pine Hill Cemetery, West Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, 1 Independence Ave., Quincy.

Donations in Marion's memory may be made to the American Diabetes Association, Congress Street, 5th Floor, Boston, MA 02210.

Virginia M. Pompeo

A funeral Mass for Virginia M. Pompeo, 93, of Quincy, was celebrated Tuesday in Saint John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Miss Pompeo died Sunday at the Hancock Park Nursing and Rehabilitation Center.

She was born in Quincy, raised and educated in Quincy schools and was a 1953 graduate of Quincy High School Class. She was a lifelong resident and parishioner at Saint John the Baptist Church in Quincy.

Miss Pompeo was a homemaker and managed the household caring for her late parents and her sisters.

Beloved daughter of the late Pasquale and Carmela (Montpoli) Pompeo; she is survived by her devoted sisters Rosina A. "Rose Pompeo, Antonietta T. "Anne" Pompeo, Dora B. Pompeo and her sister-in-law Lillion (Clancy) Pompeo, all of Quincy.

She was the sister of the late Caravita "Katy" Ricci and her late husband Riccardo, the late Felice Pompeo, the late Nicola Pompeo and his late wife Rose (Nardo) Pompeo and the late Raffaele Pompeo and his late wife Clara (Paullucio) Pompeo.

She is also survived by many nieces, nephews, grandnieces, grandnephews, great grandnieces and great grandnephews.

Interment was at Blue Hills Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, Quincy.

Memorial donations made be made to Saint John the Baptist Church, c/o 21 Gay St., Quincy, MA 02169.

Nicholas J. Boulakes

Ship Fitter; Veteran

A funeral Mass for Nicholas J. "Uncle Nick" Boulakes, of Quincy, will be celebrated Friday at 11 a.m. in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy.

Visiting hours will be held today (Thursday) from 4-8 p.m. at the Keohane Funeral Home, Quincy.

He was a World War II veteran having served in the United States Army. He worked as a ship fitter at the Charlestown Navy Yard for over 30 years and retired in 1982. Mr. Boulakes was also a songwriter in the country music circles, and was known as "Nick Cross."

He loved his role of being an uncle to his extended family, taking part in every celebration and always ready for the next adventure; photography and fishing were his hobbies.

Son of the late Nicholas Boulakes and Helen (Buckley) Boulakes; brother of the late Mary A. Lynch; uncle of Thomas Lynch and his wife Maureen of Arlington, Nicholas Lynch and his wife Barbara of Quincy, Lorne Lynch and his wife Patricia of Stoneham, Martin Lynch and his wife Catherine of Quincy, Helen Fraser and her husband Joseph of Middleboro and Mary Dever and her husband William of VA.

He is also survived by 19 grandnieces and grandnephews.

Interment will be in Mount Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury.

CITATION GIVING NOTICE OF PETITION FOR APPOINTMENT OF GUARDIAN FOR INCAPACITATED PERSON PURSUANT TO G.L. c. 190B, §5-304
Docket No. NO10P2510GD
Commonwealth of Massachusetts
The Trial Court
Probate and Family Court
Norfolk Probate and Family Court
35 Shawmut Road
Canton, MA 02021
In the Matter of:
Veronica A. Ellison
Of: Quincy, MA
RESPONDENT
Alleged Incapacitated Person

To the named Respondent and all other interested persons, a petition has been filed by Gloria F. Saddler of Quincy, MA in the above captioned matter alleging that Veronica A. Ellison is in need of a Guardian and requesting that Gloria F. Saddler of Quincy, MA (or some other suitable person) be appointed as Guardian to serve Without Surety on the bond.

The petition asks the court to determine that the Respondent is incapacitated, that the appointment of a Guardian is necessary, and that the proposed Guardian is appropriate. The petition is on file with this court and may contain a request for certain specific authority.

You have the right to object to this proceeding. If you wish to do so, you or your attorney must file a written appearance at this court on or before 10:00 A.M. on the return date of 12/30/2010. This day is NOT a hearing date, but a deadline date by which you have to file the written appearance if you object to the petition. If you fail to file the written appearance by the return date, action may be taken in this matter without further notice to you. In addition to filing the written appearance, you or your attorney must file a written affidavit stating the specific facts and grounds of your objection within 30 days after the return date.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The outcome of this proceeding may limit or completely take away the above-named person's right to make decisions about personal affairs or financial affairs or both. The above-named person has the right to ask for a lawyer. Anyone may make this request on behalf of the above-named person. If the above-named person cannot afford a lawyer, one may be appointed at State expense.

Former Playground Named For Quincy Marine Killed In Vietnam

Grasso Memorial Park Re-dedicated

By MIRIAM JOSEPH

Lance/Cpl Paul Vincent Grasso grew up in the Liberty Street area of South Quincy, amid friends and relatives. He attended the Lincoln School and South Jr. High, and in 1966 graduated Quincy High School, where he had been a member of the baseball, football and basketball varsity teams.

He enlisted in the Marine Corps in May 1967 and was sent to Vietnam in February, 1968. He died of gunshot wounds suffered during patrols in Quang Tri Province, South Vietnam on May 4, 1968.

Last Saturday, over 200 people gathered for ceremonies marking the rededication of a park in South Quincy, formerly a playground which had been named for Grasso in 1972. The Paul Vincent Grasso Memorial Park is located at Taber and Columbia Streets.

In his eulogy, Master of Ceremonies Lawrence (Larry) Norton of the Quincy Chapter of the Vietnam Combat Veterans Combined Armed Forces described Grasso as an excellent baseball player who was scouted by the New York Yankee farm team and was invited to New Hampshire to try out.

Mayor To Comply With $25,000 Funding Request

Council Review Of Downtown Project OK'd

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Mayor Thomas Koch will authorize funding for the City Council to hire independent experts to review the proposed $1.3 billion Quincy Center revitalization project, according to his spokesman Chris Walker.

"The mayor will be complying with the council's request for funding," Walker said Tuesday, referring to a council request for $25,000 approved after lengthy debate at Monday's meeting.

Submitted by Councillor Joseph Finn, the resolution asked Koch to allocate the funds allowing the council to engage independent legal advisors and consultants for the review of the $1.3 billion Quincy Center makeover.

Now that the $25,000 is available, the council may have a hard time agreeing on if or when to spend it as they spent nearly two hours Monday debating the timing and the need for hiring experts.

Finn's resolution asked the council to engage outside experts immediately and hold off on all review and actions on the proposal

Committee Approves Site, Prototype 'Absolutely Spectacular'

New Central School Moving Forward

By LAURA GRIFFIN

You may not have to wait two, three, or four years to envision the appearance of a new Central Middle School, just go to Lynnfield.

The new Central Middle School may be modeled after Lynnfield Middle School.

For School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro, the Lynnfield school offers a wonderful prototype for Quincy's future middle school. "It was absolutely spectacular."

DeCristofaro praised the building design which includes "wonderful spaces, a tremendous auditorium and gymnasium," and said the school offers ideal space for team teaching.

"We think it's a great model for our school," said DeCristofaro.

Following reports by DeCristofaro and Central's Principal Jennifer Fay-Beers on their visit to Lynnfield, the School Building Committee agreed and adopted the Lynnfield building as a prototype for a new Central Middle School.

That may prove to be a double bonus as the city's architect team, A13 Architects, also designed the Lynnfield school.

In addition, the Massachusetts School Building Authority (MSBA) is likely to designate the Lynnfield School as a 'Model School" at its November meeting. That could cut the city's share of construction costs by 27% and a green or environmentally sound building could cut it even further.

Once that occurs, it could save the city millions of dollars as the MSBA adds extra reimbursement for model school projects.

The School Building Committee voted to adopt the MSBA's 'Model School' concept at its last meeting. However, the committee will have to wait until mid-November to find out if the state's MSBA chooses Lynnfield as one of its model school.

A GROUP OF civic-minded individuals from Ward 4 recently joined together to paint a 500-foot guardrail on Quarry and Stedman Streets. The volunteers painted both sides (more than 1,000 feet). "It's small improvements like this that make our community a better place to live, work, and raise a family," said organizer and Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci.

VOLUNTEER TEAM that recently painted a rusting guardrail on Quarry and Stedman Streets: Brian and Alison Palmucci; Mark Linane, Mike Hartnett, Mille McDonald, Tom Duncanson, Dennis Salfity, John, Christine and Angela Hyslip; Nancy DeAngelo, Walter and Kathy and Nathan and Victoria Hubley; Judi, Dave and Jason Pekkinen; Tricia Button, Christine Grundy; Matt Lyons, Nicki, Daniel and Kaija Pakkala. McDonald Insurance Agency sponsored a cookout after and Curry Hardware donated paint. The neighborhood is grateful to everyone who helped out.

Timmins Clears Raymondi For Quincy Center Review But Awaits State Approval

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi is halfway back to gaining a voice in the review of the Quincy Center Redevelopment plan, according to City Solicitor James Timmins.

Timmins told City Council Monday that population trends in the redevelopment area should allow his office and the state's Ethics Commission to exempt him from a previous ban on participation.

Timmins gave Raymondi the green light to participate in the first review meeting Tuesday, noting that he has reversed his previous ruling.

However, Timmins was still waiting Tuesday as The Sun went to press for approval of the exemption from Deirdre Roney, General Council for the State Ethics Commission.

According to Timmins, Raymondi qualifies for the exemption if one tenth of the city's population or an estimated 9000 persons would be affected by the ruling.

"Even though Dan Raymondi is in the impact zone, a substantial segment of the Quincy community is going to be impacted by the redevelopment and so, for that reason, he gets (the exemption)," said Timmins.

JAMES TIMMINS

DAN RAYMONDI

Originally, Timmins said he used the five to ten minute walking distance described by Richard Heapes, StreetWorks developer. However, the radius for the walk was drawn too narrowly.

The engineering department provided Timmins with maps showing three impacted areas and the Secretary of State's office provided data on the city's census.

Timmins said the census material did not include such residential properties as 10 Faxon Lane and the Monroe Building and those would add even more residents to the area's total.

Despite Timmins' decision, Raymondi cannot participate in the Quincy Center discussions until the state weighs in.

Timmins did approve Raymondi's participation in Monday's council discussion at which Councillor Joseph Finn sought funding for outside advisors for the council.

Regardless of any approval by either Timmins or by the state, Raymondi cannot dip into any discussion of Town Brook.

Timmins said that Raymondi is a direct abutter to Town Brook and, therefore, is expressly prohibited from any such discussion. Raymondi has long supported the Town Brook and daylighting a section of the brook is part of the redevelopment plan.

Raymondi questioned Timmins' decision on Town Brook, noting that he has installed a granite wall and is in no way affected by the brook. In addition, Raymondi said any changes to the brook were distant from him and well beyond the 300-foot limit.

That does not matter, said Timmins.

Meal Tax Income Exceeds Expections

Diners are eating out and building city schools as the city's meals tax income for the city is exceeding expectations, according to Nick Puleo, Director of the City Municipal Finance Department.

Puleo told City Councillors Monday that the 2011 revenues of $885,000 estimated last Spring must now be adjusted for an increase.

"Instead of $885,0000, it's more along the lines of $1.1 million," said Puleo said of the projected income from the meals tax. The tax is applied to restaurant meals and take-out food.

All income from the meals tax will be deposited in city's Stabilization Fund as promised, according to Puleo who sought council approval Monday for the transfer of that income from the General Fund.

"This order allows a quarterly transfer to the city's Stabilization Fund," said Puleo who said the meals tax income is slated to help pay school building bonds.

The meals tax in Quincy was hiked from 6.25% to 7% in May. The change went into effect on July 1.

CHALCEDONY

Women who love the look of beach glass are sure to be charmed by chalcedony. This pale, milky blue form of quartz is once again showing up with regular frequency in the bead necklaces, earrings, rings, pendants, and bracelets created by jewelry designers. This blue gemstone with gray undertones was warmly embraced by the Duchess of Windsor, who made the gemstone quite popular during the 1920s and 1930s. Now, it is back in creations featuring round beads, links, and natural forms. Lovers of this type of quartz will argue that no other stone couples so perfectly with silver. Chalcedony jewelry of this type is the first to be selected from the jewelry box for both casual and evening wear.

If you are not familiar with chalcedony and other out-of-the-ordinary gemstones, it is of the utmost importance that you have confidence in your jeweler. Trust in our fine reputation and experience and you'll never go wrong in your jewelry choices. We travel extensively in search of unusual, quality jewelry in our continuing efforts to differentiate ourselves from other stores in the Quincy area. We're not satisfied with your decisions until you are, and we stand behind everything we carry here at 1402 Hancock Street, Quincy Center. PH: 617-773-3636.

City's Legal Team Begins Review For Councillors

The City's legal team hired to author the agreement at the heart of a $1.3 billion redevelopment of Quincy Center began the methodical process of reviewing key details of the agreement to the City Councilors with a first hearing on Tuesday night.

"I've made it abundantly clear to our team – we will answer every question and review every detail of the agreement," said Koch. "We have enlisted the best in the business to represent the City and the interests of our taxpayers, and I'm fully confident that we have the best deal possible to make this historic project a reality."

Lead attorneys Thomas Kiley of Quincy and Robert Fishman of the Boston firm Nutter, McClennen and Fish, led the meeting on Tuesday, walking through each section of the agreement, called a Land Disposition Agreement, and answering questions from Councilors as they discussed it.

THOMAS KILEY

The lawyers detailed the specific benchmarks and requirements that the City's development partner, Street-Works LLC, must meet in order to trigger the unique financing mechanism at the heart of the deal.

Under the agreement, the City will not pay for any of the public infrastructure improvements in Quincy Center until the private development is producing revenue. Only that new revenue generated from the development will be used, and no existing property taxes will be used.

The primary plan calls for $277 million in public infrastructure improvements as part of the project, including new underground utilities and public parking facilities with 3,500 spaces. The City and Street-Works are working to secure $50 million in state and federal grant funds for a portion of the improvements, with the remainder to be financed by new taxes and parking revenue from the downtown project.

Kiley and Fishman explained the details that sets the legal and financial terms for allowing Street-Works to redevelop Quincy Center, including two major parcels of City-owned land in the Hancock Parking Lot and the Ross Parking Garage.

The project calls for 1 million square feet of new office space, more than 700 housing units, two hotels, a cinema and entertainment complex, and 570,000 square feet of new retail and restaurant space in Quincy Center. The project is expected to create 4,100 construction jobs and more than 5,700 permanent jobs.

'Make A Difference' Food Drive Saturday

The 8th annual Quincy Holiday Food Drive will be held on "Make A Difference Day" Saturday, Oct. 23.

The drive is sponsored by the City of Quincy, The Quincy Hunger Network and the U.S. Postal Service.

"Make a Difference Day" is a celebration of neighbors helping neighbors.

"Make a Difference" by planing non-perishable food donations by your mailbox for pick-up by letter carriers Saturday, Oct. 23.

All donations are distributed to all the participating food pantries in Quincy, including church organizations and private programs. They include: DOVE, Friends of the Unborn, Germantown Neighborhood Center/YMCA, Holy Trinity Church, Interfaith Social Services, Quincy Crisis Center, Salvation Army, Southwest Community Center, Quincy Community Action Programs, St. John the Baptist Church and Saint Joseph's Church.

Suggested items include cranberry sauce, turkey gravy, canned vegetabled, pie filling and boxed stuffing.

Volunteers are needed to transport food from the Quincy Post Offices to the Kennedy Center and to sort and package food for the pantries. Sorting hours are 3:30 to 7:30 p.m. at 440 East Squantum St., North Quincy.

To date the holiday food drive has collected more than 45 tons of food.

For more information, contact the Quincy Health Department at 617-376-1275.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Oct. 24, 1775, a Br• On Oct. 25, 1861, the keel of the Union ironclad Monitor is laid at Greenpoint, N.Y. The ship had an unusually low profile, rising from the water only 18 inches, and had a draft of less than 11 feet so it could operate in the shallow harbors and rivers of the South.

• On Oct. 27, 1904, the New York City subway opens. The line traveled 9.1 miles through 28 stations. The subway opened to the general public that evening, and more than 100,000 people paid a nickel each to take their first ride under Manhattan.

• On Oct. 28, 1922, the first-ever cross-country broadcast of a college football game is heard. Telephone lines carried a play-by-play of the matchup – the Chicago Maroons versus the Princeton Tigers – from Chicago's Stagg Field to radio receivers up and down the East Coast.

• On Oct. 31, 1957, Toyota executives, hoping to saturate the American market, introduce their inexpensive Toyopet Crown sedans. The car was a flop. It could barely meet California's standards for roadworthiness, guzzled extraordinary amounts of gas and oil, and tended to shake violently, overheat and stall with little warning.

• On Oct. 29, 1971, guitarist Duane Allman, leader of the Allman Brothers Band, is killed when he loses control of his motorcycle and drives into the side of a flatbed truck in Macon, Ga. One year later, the band's bassist died in a very similar accident just a few blocks away.

On Oct. 26, 1984, at Loma Linda University Medical Center in Loma Linda, Calif., Dr. Leonard L. Bailey performs the first baboon-to-human heart transplant, replacing a 14-day-old infant girl's defective heart with the healthy heart of a young baboon. The infant, "Baby Fae," survived the operation, but died of heart failure after 20 days.

• On Oct. 30, 1991, the so-called perfect storm hits the North Atlantic. The fishing boat Andrea Gail and its six-member crew were lost in the storm. The disaster spawned the best-selling book "The Perfect Storm" by Sebastian Junger and a blockbuster Hollywood movie of the same name.

New Numbers, Same Trends

Not off the charts but still pretty brisk.

That's how City Clerk Joseph Shea sums up the latest voter registration period over the last six weeks. Some 1,299 new voters registered in Quincy between Aug. 26 and Oct. 13. That's the period of time that new voters needed to register to be eligible to vote in the state election Tuesday, Nov. 2. Some 420 of those newly registered did so on Oct. 13 – the last day to register for the Nov. 2 election. City Hall was open until 8 p.m. that night to accommodate the last-minute registrations.

What does it all mean?

For starters, the number of those registered to vote in Quincy has increased since Aug. 25 – that was the last day to be eligible for the state primary Sept. 14. The net gain was 749 voters since the names of 550 previously registered voters were dropped or moved to the inactive list because they died or relocated.

Quincy's new grand total of registered voters is now 55,268. Of that number, unenrolled ranks first with 25,745; Democrats second with 23,812 and Republicans third with 5,354. All other categories (including Libertarians for example) amount for 357 registered voters.

It also shows registration trend by party or unenrolled status over the last six weeks reflects the city's overall registration composition. No big shifts were detected.

Of the 1,299 new voters, 706 registered unenrolled; 449 chose Democrat and 115 selected Republican. There were also 26 Libertarians and three "third parties."

Geographically, the gains in voter registration were pretty much spread across the city's six wards. But the areas of the city with apartment buildings and condominiums – such as Ward 2, Ward 4 and Ward 6 – experienced the bigger gains.

The highest number of new voters came from Ward 4 with 246. (The breakdown by precinct in Ward 4 is: 58 in Precinct 1; 44 in Precinct 2; 56 in Precincts 3 and 4; and 32 in Precinct 5.) The area of Willard Street and Ricciuti Drive with condominiums and apartments is one area where the new voters registered from.

Ward 2 had the second highest number of new voters with 233. The breakdown: 41 (Precinct 1), 63 (Precinct 2 – the area including 1000 Southern Artery); 35 (Precinct 3), 46 (Precinct 4) and 48 (Precinct 5).

Ward 6 has the third highest number of new voters with 214. But this ward also boasts the precinct with the most new voters. Ward 6 Precinct 3 – which includes Marina Bay – has 79 new voters. The rest of Ward 6 by precinct: 38 in Precinct 1, 25 in Precinct 2; 40 in Precinct 4 and 32 in Precinct 5.

Wards 1 and 3 also had more than 200 new voters. In Ward 1, there are 209 new voters. The totals by precinct: 42, Precinct 1; 37, Precinct 2; 68, Precinct 3; 38, Precinct 4; and 24, Precinct 5.

In Ward 3, there are 203 new voters: (55, 30, 49, 35 and 34 in Precincts 1-5 respectively). Ward 3 Precinct 1, by the way, is the area of the HighPoint apartments.

Ward 5 was the only ward with less than 200 new voters – 194 registered. The breakdown by precinct: 43 each in Precincts 1, 2 and 3; 28 in Precinct 4 and 37 in Precinct 5.

Other footnotes for this registration period:

• The precinct with the most new Democrats: Ward 1, Precinct 3 – the area including Quincy Square – with 26 new voters.

• The precinct with the most new Republicans: Ward 6, Precinct 3 – area including Marina Bay – with 15.

• The precinct with the most new unenrolled voters: Ward 6 Precinct 3 again with 39.

WE'VE ALREADY RECEIVED some phone calls and a few inquiries from visitors to our office regarding the ballot for the Nov. 2 election. The Sun will publish a composite ballot as part of our pre-election coverage Oct. 28.

So this week we're doing some housekeeping regarding the Sept. 14 primary results. Results include contested and uncontested races on the Republican and Democratic ballots. We've included local legislative races, Norfolk County sheriff and district attorney, Congress and governor.

We'll start with the local legislative races.

STATE REPRESENTATIVE

1st Norfolk District

Democratic Primary: Incumbent Bruce Ayers, 45 Williams St., Quincy – 4,031 votes; 1,143 blanks. No Republican opponent. Ayers is unopposed on the Nov. 2 ballot.

2nd Norfolk District

Democratic Primary: Tackey Chan, 66 Meadowbrook Rd., Quincy – 2,684 votes. Joseph Keegan, 21 Moreland Rd., Quincy – 2,574 votes. There were 389 blanks.

Republican Primary: John Iredale, 200 Rock Island Rd., Quincy – 1,017 votes; 379 blanks.

Chan, Iredale and Independent Karl Roos, 8 Park St., Quincy, will square off Nov. 2.

3rd Norfolk District

Democratic Primary: Incumbent Ronald Mariano, 200 Falls Blvd., Quincy – 3,105 votes. There were 1,145 blanks. Mariano, whose district includes 5 precincts in Quincy (all of Ward 2 and Ward 4 Precinct 5) polled 1,443 votes in Quincy.

No Republican primary. Mariano will face Independent Gary Lowell from Weymouth Nov. 2.

STATE SENATE:

Democratic Primary: John F. Keenan, 37 Hobomack Rd., Quincy – 9,539 votes.

Arthur Stephen Tobin, 58 Huntley Rd., Quincy – 8,146 votes. There were 1,778 blanks district-wide.

In Quincy, Keenan polled 6,669 votes to Tobin's 4,539 votes.

Republican Primary: Daniel M. Dewey, 139 Sonoma Rd., Quincy, 4,577 votes (2,174 blanks district-wide). In Quincy, Dewey polled 2,175 votes.

Keenan, Dewey and Independent Laura Innis of Quincy will square off Nov. 2.

NORFOLK COUNTY DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Democratic Primary: Michael Chinman of Milton – 9,245 votes.; Joseph R. Driscoll, Jr. of Braintree – 21,342 votes; Michael W. Morrissey, 111 Lansdowne St., Quincy – 26,837 votes. There were 8,672 blanks county-wide.

In Quincy, Morrissey received 8,849 votes; Driscoll 1,697 and Chinman 819.

No Republican primary. Morrissey will face Independent Jack Coffey of Needham Nov. 2.

NORFOLK COUNTY SHERIFF

Democratic Primary: Michael G. Bellotti, 33 Bayberry Rd., Quincy – 45,372 votes. There were 20,402 blanks county-wide. In Quincy, Bellotti received 9,512 votes.

Republican Primary: William J. Farretta of Weymouth – 19,038 votes. Blanks totaled 8,679. In Quincy, Farretta received 2,108 votes.

CONGRESS – 10TH DISTRICT

Democratic Primary: William R. Keating, 10 Adeline Pl., Quincy – 29,953 votes; Robert A. O'Leary of Barnstable – 28,656. There were 3,152 blanks.

In Quincy, Keating received 8,795 votes; O'Leary 2,237 votes.

Republican Primary: Robert E. Hayden, III of Hanover – 2,364 votes; Raymond Kasperowicz of Cohasset – 2,237 votes; Joseph D. Malone, of Scituate – 16,060 votes; and Jeffrey D. Perry, 7 Burning Tree Ln., Sandwich – 31,851 votes.

There were 941 blanks.

In Quincy, the vote was 242 for Hayden; 282 Kasperowicz, 1,118 Malone and 1,464 Perry.

Keating, Perry and three Independents – former Mayor James Sheets, Maryanne Lewis and Joe Van Nes – meet Nov. 2.

GOVERNOR

Democratic Primary: Incumbent Deval Patrick of Milton – 345,764 votes; 129,671 blanks state-wide. In Quincy, Patrick polled 6,304 votes.

Republican Primary: Charles D. Baker of Swampscott received 215,008 votes; 22,413 blanks statewide. In Quincy, Baker polled 2,769 votes.

Quincy's Tim Cahill, who is running for governor as an Independent, was not on any primary ballot. But the former city councillor received 3,118 write-in votes state-wide. Cahill, who left the Democratic party last summer, received 2,670 write-in votes in the Democratic primary and another 448 write-ins in the Republican primary.

In Quincy, Cahill polled 838 write-ins (748 Democratic primary, 80 Republican primary.)

The state-wide turnout in the Sept. 14 primaries averaged out to 17.6 percent which was lower than the city's turnout of 28 percent. According to the Secretary of State Election Department, 728,885 voters went to the polls Sept. 14. Of that total, 487,816 chose Democratic ballots while 241,069 selected Republican ballots.

The number of voters includes those registered Democrat, Republican and unenrolled.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1965 real photo postcard showing the Eastern Mass Street Railway car barn on Hancock Street next to the Stadium. Built just after 1900 by the Old Colony Street Railway Co., this car barn was used for the storage and repair of electric trolleys. Since 1948 when trolleys were discontinued in Quincy it has been used for busses. The smaller building in the foreground served as an office. It has been replaced by the MBTA with a more modern building. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Muddle Over Fuel Oil Dates

By FRANK McCAULEY

The badly muddled fuel oil situation entered a new phase when the local rationing, had board received a bulletin announcing that registration of dealers had been changed from Oct. 20 and 21 to Oct. 27 and 28 and that domestic users would be registered on Oct. 28, 29 and 30.

This Week
68 Years Ago

Meantime, local rationing officials, with the state headquarters changing instructors almost daily, and lacking many of the necessary forms required for registration, awaited the result of meetings in Boston and Brockton.

Dealer registrations will be handled at the local rationing board in Saville Court.

14 PUBLIC AIR RAID SHELTERS OPENED

Public air shelters intended for persons on the street during an alert or blackout were established in Quincy over the weekend, giving the city the honor of being the first in the Commonwealth to actually place them in service.

The locations, 14 in all, were chosen by a special committee appointed by Mayor Thomas S. Burgin and included Gerhard Schafer, city engineer, Captain Timothy O'Connell, fire department, Rudolph Lofgren, civil engineer, Edward MacEwan, deputy chief air raid warden and Alnick Weidman, inspector of buildings.

As a result of committee action the 14 locations selected will accommodate over 3,000 people.

ZERO HOUR AT HAND IN FIGHT FOR SOLOMON ISLAND FOOTHOLD

The zero hour was at hand in the Solomon Islands.

American marines, soldiers and sailors were braced to meet "strong assault" by heavily reinforced Japanese troops on Guadalcanal.

American airmen were "dishing it out!" They and anti-aircraft gunners bagged 17 more Japanese planes with the loss of but one of their own; but the Navy made no attempt to hide the fact that the American position was critical and that in a battle of this nature losses must be expected.

The battleground was a 25-mile stretch between Cape Esperance and the Tenau River. (Editor's note: American Marines would successfully fight off the Japanese attacks during this period. Guadalcanal was secured on Feb. 9, 1943.)

QUINCYISMS

The ship will be named the USS Quincy. The new cruiser will replace the USS Quincy sunk off Guadalcanal on Aug. 9, 1942.

Readers Forum

Amazed, Concerned And Amused By Downtown Plans

As a former Quincy resident, I am amazed, concerned, and amused!

The lead story in the Oct. 7, 2010 issue of The Quincy Sun is about the $1.3 Billion Revitalization Plan. The description of the monies involved, the time frame for the project and the supposed gains for the city when completed in 29 years by Street Works LLC., is a rehash of the front page headline in the Sept. 30 issue of The Sun.

I held off writing this letter to see where the story was going to go and the responses that might appear on the Readers Forum page. Not one comment about this fantasy have I seen.

Thus the reason for the letter.

Does anyone believe the statement made by the Mayor that "existing taxpayers of Quincy will not be responsible for paying for this infrastructure: new taxes and parking revenues from the project itself will pay for these Public improvements?"

Is that double talk? Are the "existing" taxpayers our private citizens or the business that will be eliminated by the "improvements?" What new taxes? What companies or corporations are eagerly waiting for a chance to move into a "new" Quincy Center?

A lot of speculation is being used in the planing of this project. Especially when there is a money market that is tighter than a girdle/corset of the 1890s.

Also in the 10/7 issue is a story of the Mayor's Golf Cup Tourney that has raised $50,000 dollars for charity. Do you remember last year's Golf Tourney? Remember where that money went?

In association with "Street Works" that money and approximately $1,145,000 was committed to refurbish the Wollaston Theater and revitalize Wollaston Center. Have you seen any progress on that restoration? The few remaining enterprises in Wollaston are waiting for the crowds to show up for the performances and shows that the rehabbed theater would bring in. Do you have faith in Street Works to follow through?

Back in the Quincy Square area, think about recent changes that are about to happen. Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance is tearing down the Bradford Building to make a "green space" Were the taxes not being covered by the tenants who were forced to move out, or is a green space taxed at a different amount than an improved lot?

The cross city connector has removed many tax revenue sources to provide traffic the ability to speed through the city from Route 93 to our shore areas and Southern Artery. More tax money used over the past five or so years for eminent domain and construction to "alleviate traffic concerns."

Have you driven on the completed sections of the roadway? The portion from Washington St. eastward to the Southern Artery is so heavily marked with pedestrian cross-walks that it is almost impossible to travel on it as people attempt to cross all along it. The intersection of Burgin Parkway and the Connector has already become a congestion problem due to two sets of traffic lights that block each other. What is going to happen when the connector cuts across Hancock Street? Do you really believe that our city gurus are accurate in their ideas for a better future Quincy?

I am not an engineer, nor am I a traffic planner nor educated in demographic projections and finances. I am however a driver, sometimes a pedestrian, and sometimes a person who just shakes their head when hearing these "pie in the sky" plans. And beyond that, I can't believe the average Quincy resident thinks these moves and plans are a good idea.

'Welcome To Quincy'

I have been living in Quincy for over 33 years and never thought my city started at the Furnace Brook Rotary. According to my map, the city limits are over a mile and a half to the south, between the car-wash and the furniture store. There is still to this day a cement post standing without a "Welcome to Quincy" sign attached.

I understand from some city workers that "our" mayor instructed the sign be placed there at the rotary because "more traffic comes off the expressway at that area."

Perhaps our mayor missed geography 101 while at North Quincy High School.

I have had drivers ask "am I in Quincy yet?"

I live over a half-mile from the rotary and the start of Quincy is over a half-mile south of my house. Would someone "educate" the mayor as to where "our" city starts.

I gather he has no idea.

Spooky, Kooky, Halloween Party To Benefit Autism Speaks Sunday

The fourth annual Spooky, Kooky, Halloween Fundraiser for Autism will be held Sunday, Oct. 24 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Sons of Italy Social Center, 120 Quarry St., Quincy.

The benefit will feature entertainment, games, raffles as well as professionals available to answer questions regarding autism and educational concerns.

Organizers hope this event is a "community coming together" that will unmask this mysterious disorder that currently affects 1 and 150 children and 1 in 94 boys. Those attending are welcome to wear costumes and have fun while helping raising awareness and funding for research into the cause and prevention of this disorder.

Raffle prizes include $150 Toys R Us Shopping Spree, a Nintendo DSI XL, and other items.

The event is organized by the Burke family of Quincy.

Four NQHS Students Earn Academic Merit

Four North Quincy High School students – Gabriel I. Baya, Samuel C. Bill, Tenley T. McKee and Heidi Van – have been named Commended Students in the 2011 National Merit Scholarship Program.

About 34,000 commended students throughout the nation are being recognized for their exceptional academic promise. They placed among the top five percent of more than 1.5 million students who entered the 2011 competition by taking the 2009 Preliminary SAT.

"As demonstrated by their outstanding performance on the PSAT, these students are among the most talented students in the nation and represent the best in academic achievement at North Quincy High School," said Principal Earl Metzler.

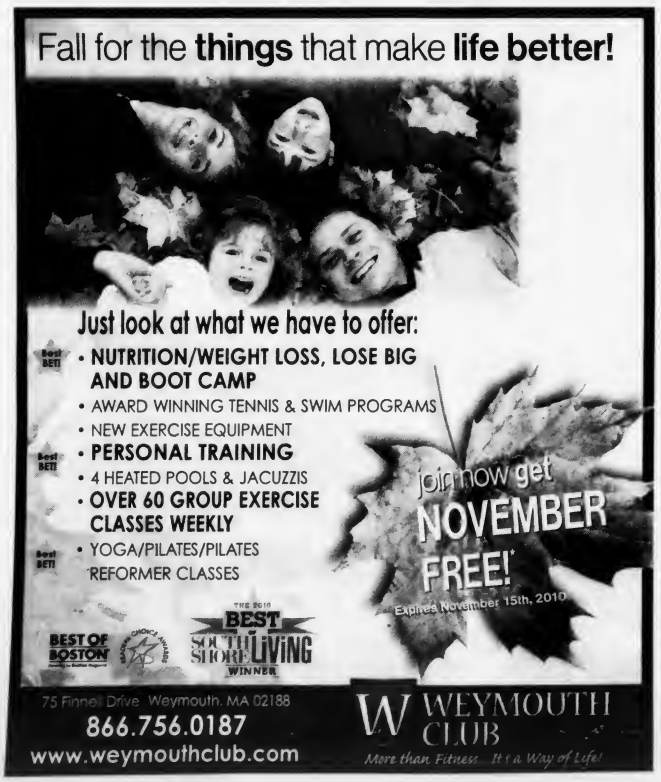
Easy Bake Banana Muffins

During this long hot summer, every time I bought bananas, they would ripen before I had a chance to eat them.

Instead of the usual banana bread that we usually make, I found this great and easy recipe for banana muffins. The recipe calls for Agave, a sweetener used instead of sugar made from the stevia plant, and more of a healthy way to sweeten things. But sugar would also be fine.



BANANA MUFFINS

3 ripe bananas
1/3-cup agave (or ½ cup sugar)
1 stick butter (melted)
1 egg
1-cup flour (with baking powder)
Liners for the muffin tins

Mash the bananas. Add the agave. Sauté the butter until it turns brown, and then add the butter, egg and flour.

Mix until well blended. Place filling in the tin, about ¾ of the way.

Bake in a 350-degree oven for 25-30 minutes.

Ceremony Nov. 4 At River Bay Club

Josephine Vidal, Peter Racicot To Receive Maria Droste Award

Josephine Vidal and Peter Racicot will receive the Maria Droste Award Thursday, Nov. 4.

The award ceremony will be hosted by the River Bay Club, 99 Brackett St., Quincy.

The award is given annually to persons who epitomize the "Family Principles" of the Good Shepherd, Maria Droste Agency: people devoted to family and who are committed to their community.

Josephine Vidal is a Quincy resident who has worked for several years as the chairperson of the Maria Droste's Development Committee. Vidal is a past president of the Hingham Lioness Club and has served as a driver for the Hingham Red Cross. More recently, she was a CCD teacher for St. Boniface Parish and currently serves as a director of the Kiwanis Club of Quincy.

Married for over 41 years, Vidal is the mother of three adult children and five grandchildren. She said she is "greatly honored" by the award distinction and shares that her work with the Maria Droste Agency has shown her first-hand how the agency provides services, based on need, to many families without the ability to pay.

JOSEPHINE VIDAL

PETER RACICOT

Peter Racicot, a Weymouth resident, is senior vice president of Fallon Ambulance. Racicot serves on several local boards, including the South Shore Chamber of Commerce and the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, South Shore YMCA and Rotary Club of Quincy. He has participated in the Pan-Mass Challenge, a two-day bicycle ride that raises money for the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

A graduate of Northeastern University, he and his wife Linda are the parents of two teen-age daughters. Peter said he is honored to be recognized by the agency, and he enjoys having an opportunity to give back to the community.

Racicot also said he strongly believes that all individuals should be involved in giving back to their communities through hands-on effort and support wherever and whenever they see a need.

Since the agency's opening in 1992, the staff and volunteer professionals have provided critical support to individuals, couples and family groups on an adjustable fee scale based on the client's ability to pay. The sliding scale is made possible by the generosity of community support from people in the community, including this year's award recipients: Josephine Vidal and Peter Racicot.

ENC History Department To Present Free Lecture By Historian Gordon Wood

The Eastern Nazarene College History Department will present a lecture by Pulitzer Prize-winning historian Gordon Wood Thursday, Nov. 4 at 7 p.m. in Shrader Hall on the college's main campus, 23 East Elm Ave., Quincy.

The lecture is free and the public is invited to attend.

Wood's lecture will be based on his recent book, Empire of Liberty: A History of the Early Republic: 1789-1815. One of leading historians on the period, Wood is also the author of The Americanization of Benjamin Franklin, The Creation of the American Republic, 1776-1787 and The Radicalism of the American Revolution, which won the Pulitzer Prize for History and the Ralph Waldo Emerson Prize in 1993.

A professor at Brown University, Wood writes reviews for the New Republic and the New York Review of Books. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences and the American Philosophical Society.

New Central School Project Moving Forward

Mayor Thomas Koch cited great benefits from the Model School program, "The Model School program would be a great benefit to the City. It would cut down on the construction schedule, save money on architectural services, and still provide for a well-designed, state of the art learning environment."

"Central would be the first model school built under the Model School program," according to School Committee member Jo-Ann Bragg.

As for the cost, City Solicitor Jim Timmins, Chairman of the School Building Committee, said, "The architect thinks it's going to be around $30 million but said there's a lot going on in pricing now."

That total would not be the city's costs as funds from the MSBA, and the state could cover 50 to 75% of the building costs. However, the city must pay the total $5 to $10 million for the site.

This is only one of several developments regarding the Central Middle School project as the School Committee voted unanimously last week to approve the purchase of the former St. Ann's School, the former St. Ann's Convent and Parish Center and three private properties for the new school.

The committee acted on the motion submitted by Bragg who offered three motions. The first motion rescinded committee approval of the previous site chosen on Hancock Street which included a car wash and President's City Inn. With Bragg's second motion, the committee approved the property on St. Ann's Road which City Solicitor James Timmins estimates is roughly 4½ acres.

Bragg's third motion asked Mayor Thomas Koch to purchase the Presidents City Inn property in order to protect students at the new school building. Koch, Chairman of the Committee, abstained from the vote.

Both Bragg and School Committee member Anne Mahoney have cited repeated incidents of crime at the motel and fear it could affect the student body.

According to police reports, there have been eight reported incidents at the motel since Sept. 1 and 40 in the past six months.

"The motel will be an ongoing conversation," said Bragg

Timmins said that while there are legitimate reasons for concern, there have been no reported incidents involving students at St. Ann's School, the nearby daycare center or Eastern Nazarene College.

In addition, he said that all the incidents occur at the motel site.

The motel's manager, Hina Sangani said all guests are identified through a picture identification and staff call police for every incident.

"We call the police," said Sangani, noting that the names of problem guests are listed in their computer. "We don't rent a room to them."

While Timmins didn't downplay the incidents, he said the school layout would offer considerable safety for students. "One of the things the architect said is he's very comfortable constructing the school in a manner that you're going to create a brick boundary between the school population and the motel.

"You put the gym, the auditorium and the cafeteria all bundled together. They'll be located in a manner that they abut along the property line to the motel so that classrooms and doorways won't be visible or accessible. They'll be a solid wall," Timmins said.

In addition, Timmins said, "The architect was selected because of his experience in urban environments."

Neighbors' Problems Flare At Lowe's Site

Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci Monday outlined a number of issues creating problems for his constituents due to the construction of a multi-million dollars Lowe's Home Improvement Center off Burgin Parkway.

"Promises were made. I want to make sure those promises are kept," Palmucci said Tuesday.

According to Palmucci, at least one major problem is due to errors in the planning by both city officials and Lowe's engineers and that problem could prove costly to both.

Under the plans, a gate under construction at the site will block off one resident's driveway.

"The gate would cut across Penn Street and restrict her (from exiting or entering her property,)" Palmucci said Monday, adding, "She told people there was an issue."

However, the plans for the project do not identify this private property, according to Palmucci who spoke during Monday's review of the project by councillors acting as the Special Permit Granting Authority (SPGA).

BRIAN PALMUCCI

Palmucci also described other issues, such as the few trees planted both along Burgin Parkway and in Grasso Park.

In addition, he said that neighbors were also, upset with a chain link fence installed by Lowe's as they were promised a better buffer between the massive store and their neighborhood through privacy fencing, such as a stockade fence.

Residents are, also, frustrated with the lack of a safe passage from their neighborhood to the Quincy Adams T station. According to Palmucci, the sidewalks are not completed, not safe, and there is no handicap accessibility.

Despite testimony by residents, councillors were unable to act on the issue at Monday's meeting.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi noted the SPGA appears to have little recourse to correcting errors in plans, "They (statute) are silent with regard to amending and modifications."

However, Palmucci described Lowe's organization as willing to work to settle such problems, "Lowe's has been helpful."

In addition, Lowe's attorney Edward Fleming told councillors Monday, "Many of these issues may be resolved outside of any formal hearing."

Fontbonne Academy Congratulates Olivia Kajencki '10

Olivia Kajencki of Medfield is attending Syracuse University this fall, planning to study Illustration and English. Highlights of her Fontbonne career include being a member of the National Honor Society, the Wellsping Club, the Equestrian Service Club, the Ski Team and the Lacrosse Team. She was an Admissions Ambassador, the Secretary of the Spanish National Honor Society and the Art Editor of Fontbonne's literary magazine, Stylus.

"Over my four years at Fontbonne, I formed an impressively diverse group of friends. These friends, along with the highly supportive teachers and faculty, challenged me to succeed on my own terms. At Fontbonne, I learned that the only person I have to prove anything to is myself, and today I do not feel the need to compare myself to others. I'm glad I chose Fontbonne because the diverse and accepting community helped to shape me into the confident and unique young woman I feel I have become."

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Changing Our Clocks

I want to think it can be just as beneficial to emphasize, restate, reiterate, reinforce and remind readers of a subject rather than focus on new fire prevention subjects in these articles every time. By doing so, I believe we can modify potential hazardous behaviors into fire safe habits when we acknowledge the reinforcement of sound fire prevention practices within our homes. Here's a reminder for today.

We will soon be changing our clocks, setting the time back an hour. Daylight Savings Time ends Sunday, Nov. 7. Historically, this has been used as an opportune time for residents to change their batteries within their household smoke detectors. It's a good sound suggestion while I'll take this opportunity to do so here again. Consider changing the batteries in your smoke detectors by Nov. 7 and every fall when you reset your clocks.

Smoke detectors are essential for early notification of fire within a home. Early notification is essential for safe evacuation. It has been suggested that in many cases, one can have just one minute to leave a home after detection is made. That's assuming there is notification. Without a working smoke detector, detection can be delayed, negating a chance at safe evacuation. It happens frequently, too frequently.

To awaken to a moderate or heavy smoke condition within your bedroom in the middle of the night, and to then make life saving decision under stress, heat conditions, visual obscuration while having difficulty breathing, is avoidable. It's better to respond than to react. Let working, properly located smoke detectors within your home give you the notification to avoid reacting, having to make life or death decisions within seconds.

I can recall an incident where working detectors weren't present and two occupants succumbed to the heat and smoke of a house fire. The fact that working detectors weren't present was a major contributing factor in their demise. When the fire was extinguished and overhaul operations were conducted, I can remember thinking how the outcome would have been different had smoke detectors been maintained.

Having a battery less smoke detector, hanging from a ceiling, suggests that a sound effort in life safety was made at some moment in the past when it was first installed, but that admirable effort is functionally negated when it is not properly maintained.

By pressing the button on the surface plate of the detector you can test the detector which we suggest you do monthly. The battery should be changed yearly and consider doing so when we change our clocks this fall. Consider doing so this Nov. 7. Thank you for doing so. Be safe!

Delahunt, Adams Descendant Among Speakers

White House Wreath-Laying Ceremony Oct. 29 To Mark John Adams' 275th Birthday

The White House wreath-laying ceremony commemorating the 275th birth anniversary of President John Adams will be held Friday, Oct. 29, at noon, at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy – where both John Adams and John Quincy Adams are interred alongside their wives.

The ceremony will feature remarks by Congressman William Delahunt, who will be retiring from the House of Representatives in January, and John Adams, a descendant of President John Adams.

A military honor guard under the direction of Commander Scott Graham, Commanding Officer, U.S. Navy Operational Support Center, Quincy, will present the White House wreath during the ceremony. Commander Cooper will offer remarks on behalf of President Barack Obama.

Quincy Mayor Thomas P. Koch and Carol Shannon, a senior at the Woodward School for Girls in Quincy will also speak. The Quincy Choral Society will sing anthems.

WILLIAM DELAHUNT

Rev. Sheldon Bennett, Minister, said, "As we honor John Adams as a founder of our nation, author of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and Second President of the United States, we also honor his inspired and devoted public service as a statesman, political thinker, and leader for independence. This church was important to the Adams Presidents and their families."

In the 1960's, President Lyndon Johnson began the tradition of sending a large red, white, and blue laurel wreath from the White House to be placed on the graves of deceased U.S. Presidents. President John Adams was born in Quincy (at that time the North Precinct of old Braintree) on Oct. 30, 1735, which this year falls on Saturday. The ceremony will be held Friday, Oct. 29th.

Following the ceremony - which is free and open to the public – the crypt with the tombs of the Presidents and First Ladies will be open for tours.

Parking is available in the Presidents Place parking garage located at 1250 Hancock St.

Asbestos Removal Daily; No Hazard Seen

Rubble From Quincy Fair Mall Demolition Expected To Be Cleared By Next Week

By JOE REARDON

The 500-600 tons of asbestos-laden rubble from the Quincy Market demolition should be cleared out of the area by the end of this week or the middle of next week at the latest if the project continues as planned.

The demolition of the Quincy Market is part of the concourse project to connect Burgin Parkway with Hancock and Washington Street The new concourse is part of the city's $1.3 billion worth of construction to help beautify Quincy Center.

At Monday night's City Council meeting, Mass DOT Resident Engineer Prasun K. Sen said the demolition was stopped and the Mass Department of Environmental Protection was notified immediately when asbestos was found on the second floor under the floor tiles back in April.

Sen said the concentration of the asbestos was very slight and didn't present a hazard to the workers or residents in the immediate area of the site. Public safety and health concerns are the most important issues surrounding the project according to Sen.

"A risk of any type of hazard is minimal," Sen said.

Asbestos removal has been conducted on a daily basis. The rubble is picked up and put in secure containers and disposed of at the end of every week.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi voiced his concerns after receiving a phone call from a resident who said the area wasn't being soaked with water during a particularly dry, windy weekend. Soaking the rubble helps prevent asbestos from becoming airborne.

"Friday, Saturday and Sunday there was no wetting down at all," said Raymondi.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro said he was in the area last Friday evening and the area where the demolition was being done appeared to have been wetted down.

Gutro said he has heard just one complaint since the start of the demolition, an unusually small number for the project the magnitude of the concourse construction.

"Generally speaking, as a ward councillor, no news is good news," Gutro said.

Raymondi, though, questioned what guarantees could be made that asbestos particles wouldn't become airborne and drift away from the site if they weren't constantly wetted.

Charles Albiani, the senior environmental consultant for the Yee Consulting Group, said the amount of asbestos at the site was very minute and the Mass DEP didn't feel the need to mandate weekend wetting of the area.

The rubble is being transferred from the site at the rate of 6-7 truckloads a day to a location in Ohio. Dana Zewinski of Patriot Hauling said the trucks are polyethylene lined and covered. The flaps are then sealed, glued and taped.

City Urging Residents To Report Improperly Flown U.S. Flags

By JOE REARDON

Quincy's veteran service director is looking to urge residents to let his office know where in the city the U.S. flag is being flown improperly.

Tom Stansbury told the city council at Monday night's meeting he has visited a number of public buildings and found the flag not being flown as adopted by the National Flag Conference in Washington D.C.

"It's difficult to go out and see them all, but if people call and tell us, we'll take care of it," said Stansbury. The phone number for Quincy Veterans Services is 617-376-1193.

Stansbury gave several examples of how the flag should be flown and the protocol pertaining to it.

The flag, Stansbury said, should be flown from sunrise to sunset and illuminated from below in the dark.

It should be raised briskly and lowered slowly and not be flown in inclement weather.

The American Flag should always be at the peak when flown on the same halvard with non-nation flags. When the flags are flown from adjacent staffs, the flag of the United States should be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant may be placed above the flag of the United States or to the right of the flag of the United States.

In a parade with other flags, it should be either on the marching right or, if there is a line of other flags, in front of the center of that line.

Stansbury said he is looking to do a show on Quincy Cable demonstrating the proper way to care for the country's flag. Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi asked Stansbury if he could put together a report that explains how to display the flag properly.

"Clearly we need to set a better example as a municipality," Raymondi said.

Stansbury said the U.S. flag in the new Quincy High School cafeteria was hanging in the wrong position with other flags. He said he wasn't sure if the flag had been moved to the right position.

The flag is always supposed to be at the further point to the left. When flown with a number of flags of states or municipalities, the U.S. flag should be at the cent and at the highest point of the group.

Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee said he would like to see the Prisoner of War/Missing In Action (P.O.W./M.I.A.) flag flown on one of the poles located at the corner of Quincy Shore Drive and East Squantum Street at the Wollaston Beach Reservation. The property is state-owned and managed by the Department of Conservation and Recreation. The three flag poles at the location fly the American Flag, Massachusetts flag and the DCR flag.

McNamee said it was more important to fly the P.O.W./M.I.A. flag than the DCR flag that is flying there now. "It seems to be crassly used by the state," said McNamee.

In other city council business, the council voted unanimously to reappoint Joe Shea to his seventh three-year term as city clerk. Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro made the motion to nominate Shea to the position.

"Joe Shea is a fixture and icon in the city of Quincy," Gutro said. "He's the most invaluable person in this chamber."

until after independent experts offered their opinions.

However, Councillor John Keenan disagreed, suggesting Finn's plan would bog down the redevelopment plan and disrupt the timetable. In addition, Keenan contended the city team may have sufficient answers on the billion-dollar proposal and councillors may not need to resort to outsiders.

Keenan filed an amendment which allows councillors to first review the agreements, and then hire the outside experts "if" needed.

Despite Finn's request, Keenan would not change the wording to eliminate the 'if,' and the uncertainty of the need for experts.

Finn, Council President Kevin Coughlin, Councillors Doug Gutro, Ward 5; Margaret Laforest, Ward 1; Brian Palmucci, Ward 4 and Dan Raymondi, Ward 2, all outlined the need for independent review of the proposal.

However, Councillors supported Keenan's by a 6-3 vote with Finn, City Council President Kevin Coughlin and Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi opposing the amendment.

Councillors then unanimously approved the amended resolution.

Raymondi immediately offered a motion asking the mayor to assist the City Council and expedite the matter swiftly. Keenan and McNamee opposed Raymondi's motion which passed 7-2.

Even after the meeting, the issue was far from settled as the controversy continued with Keenan questioning fellow council members as to the meaning of Raymondi's motion and challenging Coughlin as to the legitimacy of the motion.

Need For Experts

Finn introduced his resolution by citing the complexity of the Land Disposition Agreement (LDA), the proposed 62-page contract between the City of Quincy and the proposed developer which outlines the duties of each party.

Finn said, "As we begin to tackle this Land Disposition Agreement, this LDA, we have to recognize that we may be beyond our pay level in terms of the skill-set necessary to fully interpret the meaning behind some of the very sophisticated (language) and questions that are raised by this particular agreement,"

Finn then said, "It's critical that this body have some type of resource from someone who has those credentials.

"Our exam of this is clearly our exam. There is no way you can escape the fact that the attorneys and the counsel that the mayor will bring before us are the very people who have structured the deal.

"It is our role here as councillors to act as a check and a balance and to be able to look at this with a different set of eyes."

Like Finn, Gutro praised the city's team of experts but said hiring separate council aid was essential. "We actually are the check and balance, if not now, then when?" he asked.

Gutro said the redevelopment plan will "shape the city not just for the next decade, but for the next century.... It's a big deal."

The city's legal team budget currently exceeds $540,000, funds allocated from the $30 million bond approved for the city redevelopment project.

According to Gutro, the goal of the council experts would not be "to renegotiate, but it's essentially to review it, to make sure there are no cracks, no breaks, no risks. There are no unforeseen issues."

"I don't want to see legitimate questions going unanswered," said Palmucci.

Keenan Amendment

Keenan submitted his amendment and a plan to seek experts through a Request for Proposals (RFP), suggesting the process would take weeks.

Under Keenan's plan, a council committee would seek independent experts while the council reviews the LDA, "rather than put the brakes on. It's parallel to our review."

Once the council concludes its review, members may choose to request independent counsel through a majority vote if the majority believes such a review is needed, according to Keenan.

Raymondi then questioned City Solicitor James Timmins who said that RFP's were not issued prior to hiring the city's team of experts and that legal hires are exempt from the state's statute outlined in Chapter 30B.

"I don't view this as a review," said Raymondi, suggesting that it is possible that not all councillors will even approve the LDA. "It's more than a review. We're acting as judges."

Raymondi then outlined his concerns for the taxpayer if the developer fails to perform, questions regarding a performance bond, and questions regarding the transfer of public assets.

"Part of our job is to reduce the city's exposure to damages," said Raymondi.

While Raymondi and Keenan are attorneys, Coughlin is not as he illustrated in his remarks.

Coughlin outlined his own experience with some of the intricacies of the LDA. As an example, he said he asked his son, a third year law student at Suffolk University to review the LDA.

Coughlin cited several legal areas in the LDA that troubled his son and stated he had no answers for those issues.

"This is a third year law student" who raised significant questions, said Coughlin.

That incident only reinforced his support for the hiring of outside experts.

Meeting Schedule

City councillors will begin review of the Quincy Center Revitalization Plan Tuesday after The Quincy Sun deadline. The council will convene as the Downtown Committee headed by Gutro and the Finance Committee headed by Keenan. All meetings are in City Council Chamber and begin at 7 p.m.

Dates for planned meetings follow: Monday, Oct. 2; Tuesday, Nov. 9; Thursday, Nov. 18 and Monday, Nov. 22.

South Shore Religious Leaders Join Together In A Day Of Prayer

Prayer Breakfast Benefits Interfaith Social Services

Muslims, Jews, Christians, Buddhists and a host of other faiths stood with civic and business leaders to pray for their community at Quincy's first Prayer Breakfast.

The event, sponsored by Quincy's Mayor Koch, featured a medley of uplifting songs and prayers from over a dozen local houses of worship. All proceeds from the Prayer Breakfast benefited the programs of Interfaith Social Services.

More than 150 people attended the breakfast at the Tirrell Room, Quincy Lodge of Elks, Quincy.

"Today we saw the true fabric of Quincy – people from different faiths and ethnic backgrounds coming together to express their joint belief in God and a commitment to our community," said Mayor Tom Koch. "I am grateful to all those who participated to make the Inaugural Quincy Prayer Breakfast a tremendous success," added Koch.

"Praying together as a community, what a great way to start your day," said Interfaith Social Services' executive director Rick Doane. "A common theme amongst almost all faiths is prayer and assisting those in need. This morning we were able to gather as a community to do both. This was a wonderful event, the response from the community has been overwhelming. We are already starting to plan for next year."

QUINCY'S MAYOR KOCH, center, surrounded by Prayer Breakfast participants from the following houses of worship: United First Parish Church Unitarian Universalist, Union Congregational Church, Bethany Congregational Church, Islamic Center of New England, First Presbyterian Church, Temple Beth El, Glad Tidings Church, Massachusetts Budhi Siksa Society Thousand Buddhists Temple, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, Quincy Point Congregational Church, Bethel Church of the Nazarene, Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church

Interfaith Social Services is a private, non-profit, nonsectarian agency serving the residents of Massachusetts's South Shore. ISS' mission is to strengthen family life and offer assistance to anyone in need.

Programs include:

• Pantry Shelf, distributed over 430,000 lbs of food to impoverished families last year

• HomeSafe, serves families who find themselves at risk for homelessness due to financial hardship

• Harvest Helpers, organizes backyard gardeners and community groups who donate fresh local produce to food pantries

• New Directions Counseling Center, serves adults, children, couples and families who are

• Dealing with a myriad of life issues. Most major insurance carriers are accepted. In addition, a special program within the center reaches out to clients who cannot afford the help that they so desperately need.

• Quincy Medical Center Interfaith Chaplaincy, provides counseling to hospital patients and grieving families

• Bureau Drawer thrift shop, provides the community with an affordable option for clothing and household items. The shop is run entirely by volunteers

• Career Closet, provides free professional attire to low income job seekers.

IT'S TIME FOR A REAL CHANGE . . .

DEWEY

STATE SENATE

Real change –

"Beacon Hill needs to change its priorities from funding special interests to funding local aid so that we can protect vital services at the local level."

"We need to stop abuses of the pension system and make a new rule for government pensions, one person, one pension."

"The establishment politicians have given us 8 tax increases in 4 years. That has to stop."

Devotion to family and community –

"I worked my way through college, served in the Marine Corps, and spent my career in criminal justice. My wife and I raised our two children in Quincy where they attended the public schools. I was the primary care giver for my Mother who retired to Quincy and lived to be 101."

"Putting the needs of our community ahead of Beacon Hill politics is just common sense to me. I'd like to bring that common sense to Beacon Hill."

On November 2nd tell Beacon Hill that we can do better.

Here are the minutes from some of the agenda items:

• Hearing regarding the request of Zamforia Industries, 188 Sea St. for 2 One-day Wine & Malt Licenses, Saturday October 30, 12-7 PM & Sunday, October 31, 12-5 PM, 2010. Jonathan Mendez, present. The event is a 2nd Anniversary Celebration for Zamforia. Mr. Mendez will contact the Quincy Health Department regarding food permits. The Board discussed MGL 138 regarding "Special Licenses" and noted in the future a fee to be determined by the Board will be charged. Motion to grant the request made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request of SDR Management, d/b/a Over Easy, 1259B Hancock St. for a Common Victualer License. Ms. Sharon Richardson.

Mr. Kevin Alleyne present for the request. The only changes to the restaurant will be to add breakfast. Chief Barron reminded Mr. Allyene to keep the back door open; Commissioner Scheele added the dumpster area must be kept clean. The Board noted a Hold Harness Agreement must be signed for the use of the patio area and no changes are to be made to the area used. Motion to grant the request for the 18-seat restaurant made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request of Patrick J. Newcomb, d/b/a Fore River Fishing & Tackle, 708 Washington St., for a Jewelry/Old Gold & Silver License. Mr. Newcomb apologized for not knowing he needed a license. Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi spoke in favor of the request. Motion to grant the request made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request of Tedeschi Food Shops, Inc., 85 Quincy Ave. for a Common Victualer License, Daniel Gelahun, Manager. Attorney Robert Dolbec, present. Tedeschi's plans are to convert the 4180 sq. ft. area to a convenient store. Attorney Dolbec asked to change the hours from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. to 6 a.m.

The Board denied his request. Ms. Nancy Cramer, 10 Hyde St. spoke about her concerns with the dumpster and traffic. Ward 2 Councilor Dan Raymondi also spoke of traffic and asked the Board to incorporate the ZBA's conditions to the license. Director Duca asked that the proposed manager submit paperwork to the Board. The Board discussed the ZBA decision and agreed to grant the request with the 10 conditions outlined in the decision.

Trucks should not make deliveries during peak morning and afternoon hours 7-9 a.m. and 4-6 p.m.

All employees for the Teseschi's and the Hair Salon will park in the lot on the bank side of the building.

Motion to grant the request made by Commissioner Scheele, second Director Duca. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request of Auto-Matic, Inc. d/b/a Auto-Matic, 585 Washington St. for a Motor II License. (currently licensed at 671 Washington St.) Mr. Michael Foster & Thomas Nolan present with Attorney Christopher Harrington. The applicant's plans are to purchase the building at 585 Washington St and move the Motor II used car license.

Plans were given to the Board outlining the area for 35 cars and landscaping improvements. Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi noted he would have preferred to have a community meeting for his constituents but he was not aware of today's hearing in time.

Commissioner Scheele asked to continue the hearing until Oct. 26. Attorney Harrington noted his clients have a P&S with a deadline of Oct. 6th. Motion to grant the request for a Motor II Used Car license at 585 Washington St. for 35 cars made by Director Duca, second Chief Keenan. The motion passed 4-1 with Commissioner Scheele voting against.

• Review of the China Pearl International, 237 Quincy Ave. Mr. Brian Moy present. Chief Barron stated he, Captain Lyons and the Superintendent of Buildings met with Mr. Moy today.

The exits are up to code as well as the evacuation plan. Also a signed contract to enhance the fire alarm system has been submitted. The Chief added the Fire Department will keep a close eye on the China Pearl and all must be up to code when inspections are done this year.

Director Duca added the site can house more than the 380 but plans need to be submitted to the building department for approval. Chairman Shea asked Mr. Moy if he understands that plans need to be submitted and approved this year for 600 patrons. Director Duca noted Mr. Moy also needs to contact Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi, all needs to be done before Nov. 30, 2010.

Councillor Raymondi spoke of complaints received about trash. Odors from the dumpster and debris in the area need to be addressed. Mr. Moy agreed to dispose of a TV in the parking lot and try to lock the dumpster. Director Duca motioned to continue the hearing until Nov. 30, second Chief Barron. All in favor.

Chairman Shea gave the Board members copies of the ABCC advisory regarding the issuance of Special Licenses (one-day license). Further discussion will be on the Oct. 26 agenda.

DOVE Raises Over $100,000 At Harvesting Hope Gala

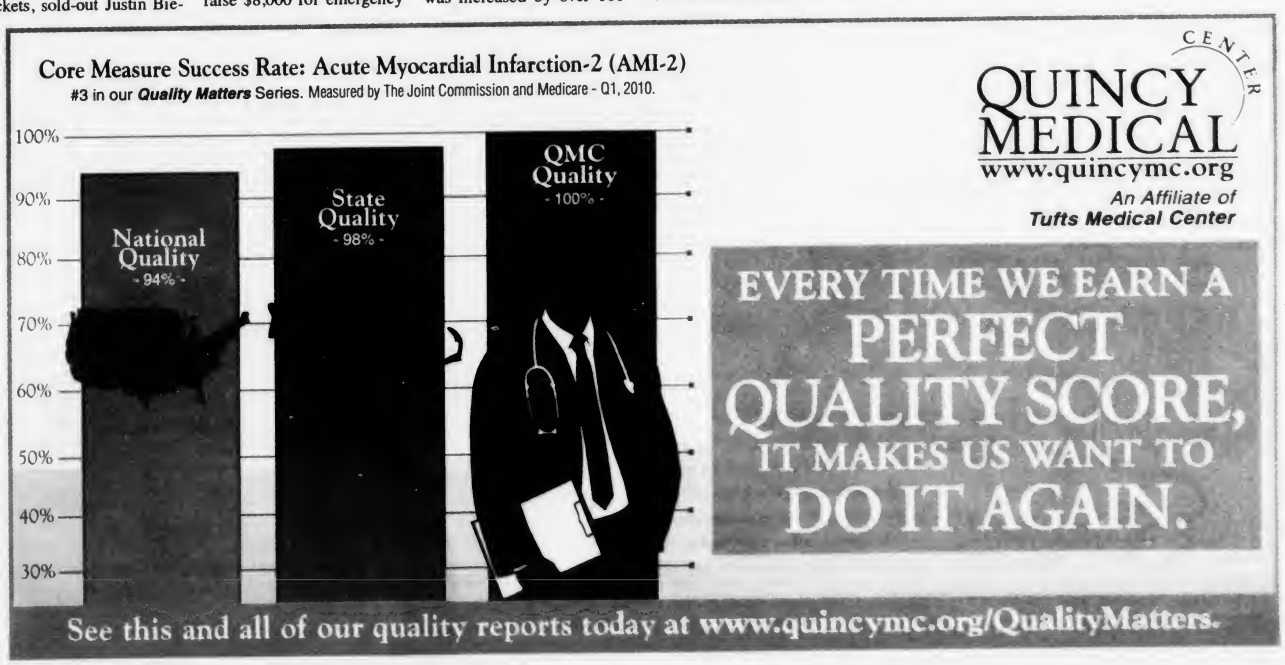
DOVE (DOmestic Violence Ended) raised over $100,000 at its annual Harvesting Hope Gala held recently at Granite Links Golf Club in Quincy. Massachusetts' First Lady Diane Patrick was the keynote speaker and addressed an audience of approximately 400 guests.

WCVB-TV's Midday newscast anchor Susan Wornick was the event's auctioneer for the second year and really got some hands raised with her special talent. Event sponsors this year included Jay Cashman, Inc., The Cooperative Bank, Phil Lussier and the Lussier Family Foundation, EMD Serono, and Eastern Bank Charitable Foundation.

For the fifth consecutive year, entertainment by Java Jive kept the night lively and the guests dancing. The evening also featured a light dinner and hors d'oeuvres.

Some live auction items included Celtics and Bruins tickets, sold-out Justin Bieber box seat tickets, 2 vacation packages to Florida with flights included, and a chef's four-course dinner for 8 in your own home. Also included in the auction were three DOVE fund-a-projects where Susan was able to raise $8,000 for emergency shelter food, $5,000 for a summer children's coordinator at the center and $7,650 in emergency shelter stay for families. A silent auction was also included.

SUSAN WORNICK (right), who served as auctioneer, with Judy Kiley, chairwoman of Harvesting Hope and DOVE Board member.



"It was such an incredible evening! Attendance was increased by over 100 guests more than last year's event. Harvesting Hope was a very successful night for DOVE, and we raised critically needed funds for both the emergency shelter and our community-based services," stated Sue Chandler, Executive Director.

GUESTS FROM State Street Bank were among the 400 people who recently attended DOVE's Harvesting Hope Gala at the Granite Links Golf Club in Quincy.

Over the last 32 years, DOVE has sheltered over 4,350 families and answered more than 39,000 hotline calls. Since the creation of the Outreach and Family Services Center, DOVE has been able to serve more than 1,300 families in the community and educated more than 13,000 teens and community members on the many complex issues surrounding domestic violence.

All proceeds from Harvesting Hope will go to supporting DOVE's domestic violence services provided throughout Norfolk County and the greater South Shore. For more information on DOVE, visit www.doveinc.info or contact the Development Office at 617-770-4065, ext. 16.

Paul Vincent Grasso Memorial Park Re-Dedicated

Norton said, "A letter arrived for Paul telling him he was accepted by the Yankee farm team; he was killed before his parents could tell him."

The new Lowe's Home Improvement Center built nearby on the Burgin Parkway necessitated a redesign of the surrounding land area, and the playground was removed.

An agreement was achieved between the city of Quincy, Lowe's and the Grasso family that the playground would be replaced at a later date. Because of the change in demographics in the area, it was subsequently decided that a park, instead of a playground, would be best suited to the needs of the community.

Both Grasso's parents have passed, but his sisters Brenda Lopilato of Florida, Angela Mattarazzo and Linda Kelley of Quincy, and brother Ray Grasso attended the ceremony, along with Grasso's aunt, Clara Sisti, who still lives on Liberty Street.

Ray Grasso spoke on behalf of the family and expressed his sincere gratitude to the many participants who had made the park and its dedication possible, including neighborhood residents and Lowe's.

"When we drive around the city, the state, or the country, for that matter, we see these memorial parks, we see bridges, we see tunnels named after many of our veterans-the men and women who gave their lives for our country.

"And they gave their lives for the rights and freedoms that we so cherish. I'd like to make this park a reminder that those rights and freedoms do not come easy."

Guards from Morrisette Post 294 of West Quincy, North Quincy High ROTC, Sons of the American Legion, and the Caddy Detachment of the Marine Corps League presented colors, as well as the Second Marine Division, New England Chapter, who also offered a volley at the unveiling of the monument.

In his comments, Mayor Koch spoke of the many plaques and monuments in squares around the city and said that "behind those names there is a face, there is a family and there is a story."

In speaking of the freedoms enjoyed by our children in this country, Koch said, "History is important to learn but it is events like today which make history relevant, make history real for our young people."

Among the friends and veterans who laid the wreath at Grasso's monument was former Quincy Fire Dept. Lt. Paul Daley, who grew up with Grasso and enlisted in the Marines along with him in September of 1967.

"This South Quincy neighborhood was mostly an Italian area, but they even let some Irish guys in! Paul and I were in boot camp together, and we came home at Christmastime—we were on leave together—then we went to jungle training at Camp Pendleton, then we went to Vietnam.

"We were in Vietnam together for about four days, then received our orders and Paul went right to Quang Tri Province, which was the worst area because it was near the demilitarized zone. I never saw him again."

Achieving The Dream Of Homeownership

(NAPSA) – Tax incentives, low interest rates and affordability may be making things easier for many prospective home buyers.

With so many options and resources available to consumers however, sometimes it's difficult to navigate the inventory available. Whether you are just starting your home search or ready to make a purchase, there are a number of factors to keep in mind as you look for a new home. Here are just a few:

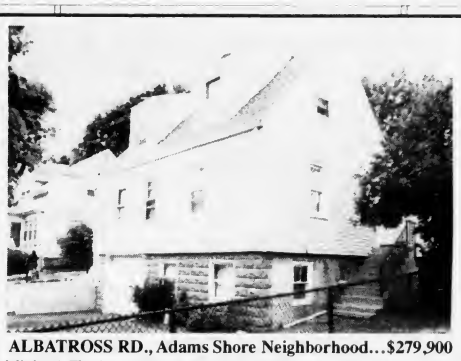
• Learn the market. More options are available to first-time buyers. According to the National Association of Realtors, 93 percent of first-time buyers started their home search online last year.

While online listings can provide an indication of the properties available in the area in which you want to buy a home, a buyer's agent has access to additional properties and information about alternative buying options such as short sales and foreclosures.

• Prepare financially. Getting your finances in order prior to looking for a new home can not only help you narrow your options, it can make the entire transaction run more smoothly when it's time to buy. Use online mortgage calculators to see how much house you can afford or get preapproved to avoid any delays in financing.

• Attend a home buyer seminar. Home buyer seminars let buyers learn the ins and outs of the home buying process. From financing issues to the benefits of working with a buyer's agent, home buyer seminars can be a useful way to gain confidence in the home buying process.

A HOME IS one of the largest purchases a consumer will make in his or her lifetime.



• Create a wish list. From basic home features to school districts and neighborhoods, choosing the right home can seem overwhelming. Prioritize the features and preferences that are most important to you as a buyer and narrow your options before you start looking at properties.

• Get help. Working with a real estate professional who knows the market and specializes in buyer representation-such as an agent who has earned the Accredited Buyer's Representative (ABR) designation can relieve some of the stress associated with the home-buying process.

Administered by the Real Estate Buyer's Agent Council (REBAC), the ABR designation is awarded to real estate agents who have undertaken special training to help them guide buyers through the intricate process of the home purchase. The expertise of realtors who have earned the designation is further demonstrated in the professional experiential requirement all candidates must meet.

• Learn more. To find an ABR-designated agent nearby and for a free copy of the REBAC-published "Home Buyer's Toolkit," visit www.REBAC.net or call (800) 648-6224.

A Job Well Done

On Wednesday, Oct. 6, at approximately 5:22 p.m., Officers Dan Parisi and Jimmy Whedbee were dispatched to a home on Willard Street on a report of a male/ female argument, where the male party had locked the female out of her apartment.

Upon arrival, the officers met with the female caller, who said that she lives with her father. She stated that he is currently off his prescribed medications and is becoming increasingly violent. She related an earlier incident in the day when her father entered the bathroom while she was on the toilet and assaulted her by shaking her.

She said that her father strikes her on a regular basis and earlier today turned her wrists to the point that it caused her injury. She stated that her father was trained in WWII and uses his cane as a weapon to strike her.

When questioned further, the female began to grow silent, so Officer Parisi went to speak to her father. After knocking on the father's bedroom door, he said he would not open the door until he was positive it was really the Police. After being able to see their uniforms, he took a long time to get to the door.

With a cell phone in his hand, the elderly, frail man said, "Oh, thank you for coming. I need help, she beats me." The Officers observed that the elderly male had severe mobility problems due to his age and health, requiring two canes in order to move. While escorting the officers into the apartment, it was apparent that her 88 year old father was not capable of moving quickly or powerfully. The father told the officers that earlier in the day, just after midnight, he went to use the toilet and found his daughter passed out. When he attempted to wake her up by shaking her shoulders, she began to assault him, striking him in the face above the left eye.

The father (victim) went back to his room, but was followed by his daughter, who jumped on him, straddled him and choked him by placing both hands around his neck. The father became emotional at this point and was unable to talk, other than to request transportation to the West Roxbury VA Hospital.

Fallon Ambulance responded, evaluated and transported him. Based upon the information available, Officer Parisi placed the female, a 53 year old Quincy resident, under arrest for "Assault and Battery on a Disabled Person over 60 Years Old." The Disabled Persons Protection Commission and the Elder Affairs Bureau were notified.

A Job Well Done

On Saturday, Oct. 9, at approximately 11:50 p.m., Officers Scott Doherty and James Parisi responded to the area of Yesterday's Bar for a report of a man with a gun. Several other Quincy Police units responded to the scene due to the danger of the call. Several 911 calls reported a man waving a gun around outside the bar.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer Tim Simmons was in the area when the call came in and was first to gather information. He notified officers that several witnesses reported that the suspect fled down a Shaw Street driveway, about 50 yards away from Yesterday's. Officer Simmons drew his weapon, walked down the driveway and saw the suspect standing next to a van in the rear of the house. Officer Simmons identified himself as the Quincy Police and told the suspect to stop where he was. The suspect looked at Officer Simmons, then walked briskly in the back door of the Shaw Street first floor apartment.

Officers Steve DesRoche, Parisi and Doherty covered the front door and then knocked. A female came to the door and Officer DesRoche asked her if there were any males in the apartment. Before she could respond, the suspect then appeared in the hallway. He was instructed to put his hands in the air and turn away. The male stayed in the hallway but did not follow the commands. He was ordered several times to put his hands in the air and turn around and walk backwards towards the officers. When he did not comply, the three officers entered the premises, placed the male in handcuffs and escorted him out of the apartment. Other officers conducted a protective sweep of the area to ensure there were no other suspects.

Inside the apartment, there was the female and a two-year old child. Officers then conducted a thorough search of the yard and path the suspect took in order to find the weapon. Officer Matt Tobin found the firearm lying on the seat of a child's toy truck, about 10 feet from where the suspect was initially seen by Officer Simmons. A magazine matching the weapon was found on a gas grill grate right outside the back door of the house. The weapon was a black matte finish, semi automatic pellet handgun. It was a replica of a Berretta, with the word, "Berretta USA CORP" on the slide. It is the same finish and a very similar weight as a real Berretta.

Once the suspect was in custody, Officer Doherty interviewed the victim, who stated that he was crossing the street to Yesterday's when a white van stopped short in the street right next to him. The male driver gazed at victim, so the victim asked him, "Are you ok? Do you need directions?"

The male suspect responded, "Why are you f@#$%^& with me?" The victim told him he wasn't. At that time, the suspect exited the van, ran down to Shaw Street, went inside a house and came out a moment later. He went back to Yesterday's and found the victim still standing outside. The suspect took the handgun from the waist band of his pants, grabbed the slide and pretended to pull the slide back as if to load a bullet into the chamber.

At a very close distance, he pointed the weapon at the face of the victim. The victim said that he slapped the weapon away from his face. The suspect then waved the gun around, pointing at several different people as he got back into his van and fled down the street into a Shaw Street driveway. That's when Officer Simmons arrived. Once the suspect was brought outside the house, numerous witnesses confirmed that he was the male threatening citizens with a gun.

The suspect, a 39-year-old Quincy resident, was charged with "Assault With a Dangerous Weapon, a gun. Nice Work!

• It should be noted that Yesterday's was a landmark for the location of the incident. The establishment itself played no part in the incident.

Dewey Says One Person, One Pension

Daniel M. Dewey, Republican candidate for State Senate, is proposing a pension reform package that he expects would save taxpayers millions.

"Currently, it's possible for politicians to take a pension from the city, the county, and the state all at once," Dewey said. "Most taxpayers don't have the luxury of multiple pensions; our politicians should be no different."

Dewey's proposed law would prevent public employees from taking several taxpayer-funded pensions at once. "We have to stop people who have decided to abuse the system and pile on pension after pension at taxpayer expense."

Dewey said that the law will apply only to state, county, and municipal pensions, so those in the military or other federal service would not have their federal pension affected.

"There are legitimate reasons to work at different levels of government," Dewey said. "For example, a high school teacher who uses his skills at a State University should be compensated for that work.

"There is nothing wrong with working after retirement, but you shouldn't be eligible for multiple, large taxpayer-funded pensions."

Dewey also took aim at public employees who jump into the public safety pension category at the end of a career in another field so they can boost their pension and retire earlier than they otherwise would.

"The pension system is costing our state a fortune and it needs real reform. It's time to set a new rule for Massachusetts, one person, one pension," Dewey added.

Why McCauley's Voting For Perry For Congress In The 10th District

By Former Mayor Francis X. McCauley

In late October 2008, as the presidential election was reaching a climax, Democratic nominee Barack Obama announced, "We are five days away from fundamentally transforming the United States of America."

In the hustle and bustle of the final days of the campaign few people took heed of candidate Obama's remarks.

Some two years later President Barack Obama's efforts to keep that promise are starkly evident!

The Democratic majorities in Congress first passed a health care legislation, a 2,500-page monstrosity that very few legislators read and despite the fact that poll after poll showed that the public was strongly opposed to the bill. Included in the law was a section, which took over the student loan program.

The Democratic majority in the House passed "Cap and Trade" legislation after which according to President Obama's own words, "electricity rates will skyrocket."

Somewhere down the road looms organized labor-sponsored legislation known as "Card Check." This legislation would take away employees' right to vote by secret ballot on whether to be represented by a labor union.

What can the voters of our country do and what can they NOT do in the upcoming November 2 election?

First, the voters cannot vote President Obama out of office. His name is not on the November 2 ballot. We are stuck with him until Sunday, January 20, 2013, at 12 Noon.

However, the voters of our country CAN vote to remove the Democratic majorities in Congress and replace them with Republicans.

The House of Representatives seat in the 10th District is considered an "Open Seat," since our present 10th District Congressman Bill Delahunt is retiring.

The Republican nominee in the 10th District, Jeff Perry, is an experienced legislator and is completing his fourth term in the State House of Representatives.

Jeff won the Republican primary on Sept. 14, defeating three opponents while polling 31,361 votes or 62% of the total vote cast.

On November 2-election day, I am voting for Rep. Perry. In January 2011, Congressman Perry will vote AGAINST continuing the reign of the present Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi.

When Democratic members of the House of Representatives complained to Speaker Pelosi about the size and complexity of the Health Care legislation, her reply was, "You have to pass the bill before you can know what is in the legislation."

Congressman Perry will vote for a House Speaker who KNOWS that the proper procedure is to KNOW what is in the bill BEFORE you pass it!

(Frank McCauley is a longtime elected official in Quincy, having served terms as mayor, councillor and school committee member.)

Keenan Promises To Be Hard-Working, Deliberative And Independent

Democratic Candidate for State Senate John F. Keenan says his consideration of the $1.3 billion Quincy Center redevelopment project is indicative of how he would serve as state senator.

Keenan, a city councillor at-large, and chairman of the council's Finance Committee, which has a direct oversight role of the proposal, is currently reviewing line-by line the project's land disposition agreement, which will serve as the main planning document and legal agreement between the city and Street Works, the private developer.

Keenan attended the meetings on the proposal that were held throughout the city over the last two years. On two occasions, first five years ago, and then last weekend, Keenan on his own visited West Hartford, where Street Works just completed a major downtown development.

"I think it's important to independently review all aspects of a proposal, including looking at projects that the developer has been involved in," said Keenan. "This is a major project, with the prospect of thousands of construction and permanent jobs, so we have to be thorough in our review."

"As a state senator, my approach to legislation will be the same," he said. "I'll do my homework, reach out to my constituents, and make a well-informed, reasoned decision.

"The voters and taxpayers of Abington, Braintree, Holbrook, Rockland and Quincy deserve a state senator who will work hard, be deliberative, and most of all, remain independent in the face of pressure from special interests," Keenan added.

The Oxycontin Epidemic

By Jack Coffey

There is a drug which has quietly and extensively permeated the 28 cities and towns of Norfolk County, causing what can be called a silent epidemic. It is Oxycontin, generically known as oxycodone. Perhaps its most dangerous property is that one can become addicted to Oxycontin in a relatively short time.

In 2009, the Massachusetts Oxycontin and Heroin Commission released a 71-page report that stated, "The Commonwealth is in the midst of a serious and dangerous epidemic" referring to the loss of life that occurs from addiction. Because it is the physician's choice for prescription pain medication, it has become readily available to those who illegally seek to abuse it.

One of its attractions is that in its pill form it can be easily bought and sold, and it provides the quick-acting and long-lasting high its abusers seek. The street cost of an Oxycontin pill is one dollar per milligram (mg) and there are three common dosages; 20 mg, 40 mg, and 80 mg. To illegally replace 10-20 pills, the amount doctors usually prescribe for pain treatment, would cost an addict $400-$800 (if it were 40 mg) This high cost drives some Oxycontin addicts to resort to less costly heroin.

Many desperate abusers commit crimes, such as larceny and robbery, to get their fix, making Oxycontin addiction not only a difficult problem for an addict's family, but a widespread public safety issue which needs to be addressed.

As a former Assistant District Attorney and Special Assistant U.S. Attorney specializing in drug prosecutions, and as an attorney who has worked on the front lines of the criminal justice system dealing with the drug problem for 24 years, I know what efforts need to be undertaken to stop this Oxycontin epidemic.

Prosecution leadership and resources must be earmarked to get dangerous addicts off the streets and into appropriate treatment where they are no longer a threat to public safety. Drug courts, which have been taxpayer friendly, and which have been especially successful in preventing relapse, need to be expanded in Norfolk County. Oxycontin dealers, who set up business solely to profit from the misery of these addicts, need to be targeted for swift prosecution and appropriate punishment by an experienced and qualified prosecutor.

Targeting Oxycontin abuse needs to be a priority for the next Norfolk County District Attorney.

(Jack Coffey is the Independent candidate for Norfolk County District Attorney.)

Innis: People Making A Difference

Independent State Senate candidate Laura Innis seeks pictures of community service and volunteer projects for a photo essay.

The photos will be set to her campaign song "Doing the Right Thing."

To share strategies to create healthy communities, Innis is asking the public to send photos theythink reflect community action. Eamples include community gardens, neighborhood cleanups, and people helping people.

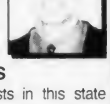
"We would especially like to feature activities in Abington, Braintree, Holbrook, Rockland and Quincy," Innis said.

The photos or sets of photos should:

- be between 500 KB and 5 MB in size
- be jpg or jpeg format, if possible
- come with identifying information about what organization or event they are from, and written permission to use the photos
- emailed to laurainnis4senate@gmail.com

Listen to Doing the Right Thing by visiting: http://laurainnis.wordpress.com/

"Saturday, Oct. 23rd is National Make a Difference Day. It's a national day of 'doing good' and public school children in Quincy will participate in organized school clean up efforts.



"Consider joining other Americans in 'doing good' Saturday or any day. We can all make a difference," Innis added.

FLAT FEET PROBLEMS

It's common to hear people say they have flat feet. What kind of problems might this cause? Overpronation is one of them. When a person overpronates, his or her foot rolls inward when taking steps. The arch then starts to flatten, which stresses other parts of the foot and can contribute to other foot problems, including heel spurs and tendonitis. Obesity, pregnancy, or a lot of pounding on the feet can contribute to flat feet. To see if you have flat feet, take a look at your shoes at eye level and see if the sole is worn evenly. People with flat feet will wear one side of the sole out, closer to the heel, sooner than the other.

If you would like information about flat feet and pronation, please feel free to give us a call. I am one of only two podiatrists in this state who has completed the advanced training necessary to offer patients relief from pronation through the use of the HyProCure™ procedure, a titanium implant that prevents the abnormal motion of the ankle caused by this condition. If you are pronator, or to discover if this problem is what is causing you pain and discomfort, find out if this minimally invasive, long-lasting stabilizing procedure is for you. Our office is located at QUINCY MEDICAL CENTER, with office hours also available at 999 North Main St., in the Randolph Medical Building, and Milton Medical Building in Suite 221. PH: 781-986-3668.

HINT: People with flat feet should wear shoes with a firm heel counter.

SUN SPORTS

Defeated Hanover, 19-0; Huge Game Against Duxbury High School Friday at Stadium

The Red-Hot N. Quincy Red Raiders On Three-Game Winning Streak

By SEAN BRENNAN

They have proven over the last month that they can beat teams with a power run game. After last Friday's tilt with Hanover High School, North Quincy now has proven that they can also beat teams with a stifling defense.

Add all this up, and the rest of the Patriot League's Keenan Division best beware of the suddenly red-hot Red Raiders.

North Quincy (4-2 overall, 2-0 in the Patriot League) held serve against the Indians of Hanover in a Patriot League crossover game, rolling to an impressive 19-0 victory, and in the process, set the course for a Patriot League Keenan Division title quest with a major conquest.

The Red Raiders open their Keenan Division slate this Friday with a huge divisional game at home against the equally red-hot Green Dragons of Duxbury High School (6-0 overall).

"We are playing some inspired football at the moment, but there are things that we do still need to work on and in some cases eliminate (turnovers)," NQHS head coach Jim Connor said on Monday. "You have to give the credit to the kids. They are really taking what the coaching staff is giving them in practice and applying it on the field.

"This was a nice win over Hanover, but, again, that is in the past; we are focusing solely on Duxbury High School. This game will be a challenge as that team is as good as it gets in the state."

Connor may not aspire to look toward the past, but North Quincy came out against Hanover and took control of that game from the opening kickoff.

On their first scoring drive, the Red Raiders ate up the game clock, controlled ball possession and, finally, capitalized as senior tailback Seyi Adesuyan scored his eighth touchdown of the fall on a four-yard blast. Adesuyan's TD rush capped off an impressive 70-yard drive; senior Kyle McKay converted the point after attempt (PAT), giving NQHS an early 7-0 advantage.

Following a faulty Hanover possession, a drive in which the Red Raiders' defense landed the first punch, North Quincy proceeded to devour even more of the game clock with another long drive (60 yards this time). That possession came up empty, but it wasn't without merit as it kept Hanover's defensive unit on the field and more importantly their offense off of it.

In the second quarter, the Red Raiders, playing with a short field, again, used their running game to increase the score to 13-0. McKay closed out that drive with a 14-yard TD run, but, the proceeding PAT was no good, and the score at halftime was 13-0.

"Our goal is always to establish the run game first and then work off of that success," Connor said. "We like to take what teams give us. If they want to take away the outside then we will run it inside. Controlling the game clock works because it slows the game down but also speeds the game up.

"When we hold the ball and control the clock and then score with our running game, it forces teams like Hanover to speed up their offense in order to try and catch up. And when teams are forced to pass the ball we can set our defense to be ready for that. That worked to our advantage against this team."

North Quincy capitalized on Hanover's mistakes forcing four turnovers. None was more important than senior Mike Morrison's second half interception, which he returned 45-yards to the house for the final six points. Morrison finished the game with three INTs.

"It was a rainy night and when Hanover was forced to pass in an attempt to catch up we made big plays," said Connor. "Mike Morrison played great and his third interception was a critical play in the game. It gave us additional breathing room."

Through six games, North Quincy has played one clunker, a 46-28 loss at East Bridgewater. Their other loss was a 14-12 letdown against Oliver Ames HS. Since defeating Pembroke HS on Oct. 1, the Red Raiders have executed the weekly game plans almost to perfection, and that is, as Connor said, a reflection on his players, but it is also a credit to the work put in by him and his coaching staff.

Legendary coach Ken McPhee leads the defense while Mark Nutley has been working with the offensive and defensive lines, along with special teams. Mike Hanson, Peter Chrisom and Tom Carter have been there as well, working both with the varsity and jayvee teams.

"I have a dedicated staff," Connor said about his trusty lieutenants. "With Ken McPhee coaching the defense, Mark coaching the O-Line and D-Line and Peter, Mike and Tom helping out as well we have the coaching, but like I said it always comes back to the kids doing their jobs.

"I feel like we have this program heading in the right direction."

If North Quincy can knock off powerful Duxbury on Friday, Connor and the Red Raiders will not just be moving in the right direction, they'll be the lead car in the race for the Keenan Division championship.

West Quincy Elks def. Storm, 28-0

Despite missing several key members, the West Quincy Elks kept their undefeated season going with a big 28-0 win over the Squantum Storm. Leading the way for the Elks was quarterback Scott Pollack who threw for two more touchdown passes this week. One was a 30-yard touchdown pass to Jimmy Dalton and the other was a 45-yard TD pass to Bobby Salvucci. Leading the Elks ground attack was seventh grader Joey Weinstein who ran for a 65-yard touchdown.

Sasha Cunningham also contributed to the Elks run game.

Weinstein also returned a punt 70 yards for a touchdown and defensively nose tackle Andy Johnson led the Elks with several tackles and a sack. Joey Weinstein also played well defensively with one interception. Devonte Bowden, Matt Knights and Jimmy Dalton all had big games for the Elks.

The Storm's varsity record dropped to 2-4. Despite an excellent defensive game plan put in by head coach Hugh McPhee and assistants Mike Killilea and Steve Striffler, the Storm defenders were not able to put it into play as the team gave up four long touchdown plays to the Elks, who are now 6-0 and face the Apaches next week in their last regular season game.

The Elks only had 11 plays from scrimmage (The Storm had 38 plays from scrimmage) but scored 4 touchdowns, one on the second half kickoff.

Weinstein was the star of the game, scoring on his first touch of the game on a 45-yard run as well as the kick-off return. Elks' quarterback Scott Paulock connected on two TD passes, the first to end Bob Salvucci for 45 yards on a slant pattern to the right.

Although the Storm's ground game again controlled the clock with Andrew Kiley leading the way with 55 yards on 13 carries, Solomon Umoren with eight carries for 35 yards, and Zack Dangora plowing for 21 yards on five carries, the visiting team could not score.

A 13-yard TD run by Kiley late in the first half was called back on an illegal block by two Storm linemen. The Storm did not threaten again until there were 55 seconds left in the game and they had the ball on the Elks two-yard line. The second down pass by quarterback Joey Gaglione

CELEBRATING OUR EIGHTH YEAR!

QUINCY'S REGGIE CESAR (seen here making a catch during last year's Thanksgiving Day game) finished with over a 100 yards rushing and a TD against Pembroke last Friday. The Presidents improved to 3-3 overall following their 22-12 victory over the Titans.

Quincy Presidents Defeat Pembroke HS, 22-12

By JOE REARDON

Quincy didn't make the most of its sustained drive, but the Presidents' control of the ball kept Pembroke out of the end zone for much of the fourth quarter.

Quincy did the job on the road, evening its record to 3-3 on the season with a 22-12 decision last Friday night over the Titans in a Patriot League contest.

Bill Reardon's club dominated control of the clock late in the game from 1:30 left in the third quarter to 3:40 remaining in the fourth. Quincy marched the ball down to the Titans' 5, but a pair of drive-killing penalties kept the Presidents out of the end zone.

"That's a good thing," said Reardon of Quincy chewing up time on the clock. "We're frustrated we didn't get any points out of it."

Pembroke's defense had no answers for Quincy's running game as the Presidents' Reggie Cesar and Jalen Green both rushed for over 100 yards and scored on huge runs.

Cesar took a handoff for a 59-yard touchdown in the first half and Green broke the Titans' defense for an 84-yard score. Derrick Stone pulled in a second-half touchdown pass from Green and Green finished out the scoring with a 30-yard field goal with a second left in the game.

The Presidents were far more aggressive on defense in the second half after Reardon spoke with the team at half. "I told them I wanted to be more physical in the second half," he said.

Safety Jordan Cardoso and defensive end Nike Lepore led the Presidents' defense in limiting Pembroke to just 12 points in the game.

Quincy faces a tough offense on Saturday as it takes on a tough Middleboro squad at home (1 p.m.). "We have to shore up our defense and put a little more pressure on the quarter back," said Reardon.

was intercepted at the goal line ending the drive and the game.

Earlier Gaglione had connected with end Joey Dwyer for a six-yard gain and to Umoren for 13 yards and a first down.

The Storm's solid ground game came behind the starting offensive line of Nick Manning at center, Ryan Higgins and Fred Barsamian at guards, Sam Grossfeld and Ryan Manning at tackles, and Connor Cramond and Joey Dwyer at ends. Filling in on the line at times were Dominic DiPalmo and Declan Mayo.

Leaders in tackles for the Storm were linebacker Cramond, tackle Barsamian and end Kiley.

The Storm will be playing the Milton Mustangs at 12 Noon next Sunday. The games are starting an hour earlier than usual due to dark approaching earlier each day.

NQ Apaches def. Houghs Neck Manets 24-0

In QYFL week 5 action, The North Quincy Apaches (5-1) defeated the Houghs Neck Manets, 24-0. The Apaches defense held the Manets' offense to a punt on the opening series. The Apache offense took over and compiled a ten play, 66-yard drive that featured some nice running by Erick Cohane-Jones and Mike McNelly. Cohane-Jones Capped of the drive with a three-yard touchdown run, the extra point kick failed to make the score 6-0.

The Manets came back on the next series with some nice passing by Joe Early connecting with Conor Pound. The Apaches defense held the Manets and on the ensuing drive Bryan Lenane scored on a 17-yard run to make the score, 12-0. The Manets took over on the next drive and Manets' QB Joe Early hit a receiver on a 40-yard pass to put the ball on the Apache ten-yard line. The Apaches defense held strong as the Manets turned the ball over on downs and the two teams entered the locker room with the score at12-0.

The Apaches offense took the ball to start the second half and mounted a seven play, 63-yard drive that was capped of by a 20-yard TD pass by QB Pat Frasso to tight end Jake Bergonzi. The conversion attempt failed to make the score, 18-0. The Apaches offense ended the afternoon with a Frasso TD pass to Lenane.

The Apaches got some outstanding two-way efforts from Mike Connelly (four tackles, sack), Pat Frasso (4-for-8, 2 TD Passes), Alex Chen (five tackles, sack), Jackie Chen, Erick Cohane-Jones (five carries, 30 yards), Mike McNelly (five carries, 35 yards) and Bryan Lennane (INT, two TDs).

The North Quincy Apaches (5-1) have a rematch with Desmond Division foe the West Quincy Elks (6-0) Sunday afternoon at 1:30.

Milton Mustangs def. Quincy Pt. Panthers, 26-12

No recap available.

This Sunday, the Milton Mustangs, who have won 3 straight will try for their 5th win of the season when they square off against the Storm at Noon.

At 1:30 the Apaches and Elks will battle for Desmond Division supremacy, while the young and improving Panthers will look to notch their first win when they meet the Manets at 3pm

N. Quincy Earns 1-0, Victory Over Quincy

NORTH QUINCY'S IANY MARTINS (#7) and Quincy's Martin Conroy (#5) fight for possession of the ball during an early October boys' soccer game at Veterans Memorial Stadium Last Saturday evening, the Red Raiders defeated the Presidents, 1-0, on a goal from Connor Clifford.

Though not mathematically eliminated from postseason eligibility, yet. The North Quincy Red Raiders (4-7-3 overall) have some work to do if they want a chance to extend their season beyond the regular season.

North Quincy took a positive step in the right (postseason) direction, last Saturday evening, following a hard-fought, 1-0, victory over Quincy High School at Veterans Memorial Stadium. With games this week against Whitman-Hanson HS (Monday), Silver Lake HS (Wed.) and Duxbury HS (Friday), and a non-league contest Oct. 30 with Milton HS, the Red Raiders are going to need to finish these games with a 3-0-1 record.

A tall order considering just how strong all four of these teams are.

"We are going to have to play our best over the final four games to give ourselves the chance," said NQHS head coach Rich Hanlon about his team's chances of advancing into the postseason bracket. "We are not mathematically eliminated, but we still have to play Whitman-Hanson, Silver Lake, and Duxbury and those three teams are the top-3 teams in the entire Patriot League.

"We are not getting the scoring output we would like this season. It is going to be a challenge."

The team's final regular season leg started with a classic, 1-0, victory over Quincy. This competitive city rivalry always brings out the best soccer on each side of the pitch (the teams played to a 0-0 tie earlier in October). And this edition was no different.

The Red Raiders would score the only goal of the contest in the first half off a set play. North Quincy drove a corner kick into the box. Junior midfielder Tim McAuliffe found fellow junior Connor Clifford with a beautiful pass and Clifford redirected the feed into the back of the Quincy net for the 1-0 advantage.

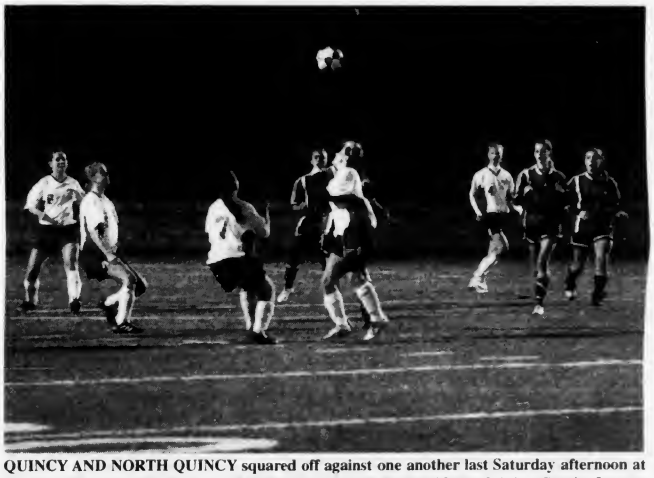
"Tim made a nice play and found Connor who buried the shot," added Hanlon. "After that we settled in and played a strong defensive game the rest of the first half and the entire second half."

Quincy (1-9-2 overall) tried and tried to create some type of scoring opportunity, but, each time, the Presidents' attack was swatted away by a wall of North Quincy defenders. Anytime Quincy did get a shot on goal, senior keeper Anthony Andronico (four saves) made sure to close the door; the 1-0 victory gave Andronico his sixth shutout of the fall.

"We played a really good game defensively and Anthony made the saves when he needed to," Hanlon added.

Senior captain Ricky Long, juniors Chris Lamont, Ryan Ketner and Ian Hunter and sophomore Robbie Routhier made up the foundation of North Quincy's defensive effort.

"We really didn't give Quincy many chances to score, and that is a credit to Ricky, Chris, Ryan, Ian and Robbie," said Hanlon. "Chris Lamont was playing only his second game on defense. I moved him from forward to defense because of his speed and he was solid."



The Raiders may have won the game, but the team may have also suffered a difficult loss in victory. Senior captain Nick Carbone, North Quincy's field general at midfield, could miss significant time with a lower body injury, which would put even more pressure on the Red Raiders to finish the season with enough victories to qualify for the postseason.

"Nick could be out for awhile, which would hurt us," Hanlon lamented. "He is one of our best players. But this team is not going to give up."

After this week three-game Patriot League set, North Quincy has a week off before playing at Veterans Memorial Stadium against Milton High School (2 p.m.).

Note: QHS ends the season with games against Hanover HS (Oct. 18), Randolph HS (Oct. 20), Scituate HS (Oct. 22), Middleboro HS (Oct. 26), and West Roxbury HS (Oct. 29).

Red Raiders Hold Off Presidents, 2-1

QUINCY AND NORTH QUINCY squared off against one another last Saturday afternoon at Veterans Memorial Stadium. The Red Raiders held off the Presidents, 2-1, in a Patriot League game.

By SEAN BRENNAN

Last Saturday, on Senior Night, the North Quincy Red Raiders got two first half goals from sophomore forward Shannon McCleary and hung on to defeat Quincy High School, 2-1, in a crossover Patriot League contest.

McCleary scored her first goal 23 minutes into the game after corralling a throw-in from freshman Lauren Campo. The feisty forward made a quick move, losing her marking defender in the process, and buried a beautiful shot into the top right corner from about 25 yards out.

The assist was Lauren Campo's first varsity point.

"At the beginning of the game both teams started their seniors because it was Senior Night, so it took us about 18-20 minutes to get our usual rotation set," said NQHS head coach Paul Bregoli. "Once we got into the flow, Shannon got us on the board first with that goal. It was good to see her fire away from the outside on a great inbounds pass from Lauren."

McCleary doubled the North Quincy advantage nine minutes later. This time the offensive attack started on a strong pass from freshman outside midfielder Abby Smith. Her feed found a streaking McCleary inside the Quincy penalty box and the super sophomore didn't hesitate, burying her second tally with relative ease.

"Abby made a great play to set up Shannon and she delivered," added Bregoli. "Even playing into strong wind, we took it to them and got that early lead heading into halftime."

In the final 40 minutes, the Presidents stepped up their game and applied pressure on the Red Raiders' side of the pitch. With 20 minutes left in regulation, junior midfielder Olivia Goldson made her presence felt. The Presidents put a corner kick into the NQHS box where the ball was deflected towards NQHS keeper Sara Sullivan. Sullivan went to the turf to make the save, but the ball squirted out of her grasp and onto the rushing foot of Goldson who collected the rebound and scored.

"Sara misplayed the deflection, but you have to give Goldson credit," Bregoli continued. "She was in the right spot and didn't miss. Quincy really played a strong second half. We kind of backed off and they took advantage."

The Presidents had one last golden opportunity to even the score late in the game, but their direct kick was cleared out by the strong defensive play of senior midfielder Courtney Byrne.

"We needed those two points," said Bregoli. "It was a good game. Give Quincy credit, they never let up."

Seniors Sarah Gardiner (midfielder), Jillian Carchedi (midfielder), and Jillian Keezer (forward) along with junior Taylor McKay (midfielder), and sophomore Liz Kelly (forward) put in solid performances for North Quincy against Quincy.

North Quincy (5-7-2), whose quest for a spot in the MIAA postseason now rests on the results of the final six games, desperately needed this victory over Quincy. The Red Raiders started last week with a 3-1 loss against Scituate HS; the team then dropped a 2-0 decision to Hingham HS on Oct. 14.

Against Scituate, freshman midfielder Stephanie DiPietro scored off an assist from fellow freshman Haley McKay, but it would not be enough, as the team missed on several other scoring opportunities while allowing their opponent to capitalize on mental mistakes.

"We played with a lack of poise and we had a little bit of lack of luck," said Bregoli, adding. "It was a game of 'could have, should have, would have,' but this is what happens when you have such a young and inexperienced team."

Freshman Delia Devane played her best game of the fall for the Red Raiders.

In the Hingham game, the Raiders allowed two sloppy goals, early, and lost 2-0.

"We have had issues giving up goals early all season long and it happened against Hingham and it cost us," Bregoli said.

NQHS played against Whitman-Hanson HS on Monday and at Silver Lake HS on Wednesday; a home game versus Duxbury on Friday closes out the week.

Note: QHS played at Hanover HS on Monday, at home versus Randolph HS on Wednesday, and host Scituate HS this Friday.

SPOTLIGHT on HEALTH and FITNESS

A TEAM FROM Jack Conway, Realtor's Quincy office recently participated in the 13th annual Quincy Medical Center Cancer Walk, helping to raise more than $150,000 for the Marie A. Curry Fund. The fund helps pay for free cancer screenings, medical equipment and information programs for local residents. With donations still being counted this week, the 2010 goal of $175,000 is still within reach. As in past years, several agents and family of the Conway-Quincy office completed the 4-mile seaside walk on a beautifully sunny day in an effort to raise money and awareness for the charity.

Top Five Trick-Or-Treat Tips For Teeth

(NAPSA) – Tooth decay is a primary concern when it comes to candy consumption, as the high sugar content provides a welcome environment in the mouth where bacteria may feed. When bacteria metabolize sugars, they produce acid that promotes tooth decay, which can ultimately lead to tooth mineral loss and cavities.

Plackers, a leading brand of consumer oral care products, offers some helpful tips for kids to lower the risk of tooth decay and maintain healthy teeth and gums while enjoying Halloween treats.

YOU DON'T have to let the risk of tooth decay haunt the Halloween holiday.

1. Throw away hard candies. Hard candies promote tooth decay because they remain in the mouth for an extended period of time. Additionally, hard candies can cause a chipped tooth or may pose a choking risk for younger children.

2. Limit sticky candies. Candy that sticks to teeth, such as gummy candies, taffy and fruit chews, makes it hard for saliva to wash away the sugar.

3. Eat candy with meals. Eating candy with meals may help minimize lingering acid level exposure that is associated with snacking between meals.

4. Brush and floss teeth after eating candy. This helps reduce the amount of sugars that feed bacteria. Disposable dental flossers, such as those offered by Plackers, can help make flossing easy and fun for kids. If unable to brush or floss, rinsing with water also helps.

5. Encourage neighbors to hand out Halloween treats other than candy. Fun treats like Halloween stickers, glow sticks, vampire teeth and pencils keep kids in the trick-or-treat spirit without damaging teeth.

Always practice good oral hygiene and be sure to have your children visit the dentist for a cleaning and checkup once every six months or as scheduled by their dental professional.

VOICE FOR HEALTH

RAISING YOUTH SPORT CONCUSSION AWARENESS

Because chiropractic places particular emphasis on the nervous system's role in maintaining health and eliminating disease, chiropractors are acutely aware of the important roles played by the brain and spinal cord. With this in mind, it is important to raise the awareness of young players, coaches, and parents about the potential dangers of concussion. During each season, an estimated half of all high school football players suffer a concussion. About one-third of players report suffering more than one seasonal concussion, which some call "mild traumatic brain injuries." As a result, they are at higher risk of long-lasting brain damage. As everyone should be aware, a concussion is far more serious than simply having one's "bell rung."

Athletic events have long been identified as a source of catastrophic spinal injuries. At the FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC, we provide safe, gentle and effective chiropractic care for those suffering from work, auto, sports and other pain injuries and disorders. We're located at 112 McGrath Hwy., Quincy, where we strive for excellence through superior patient management and education. Please call us at 617.472.4220 to schedule an appointment. Your case will be evaluated, the procedure will be explained and demonstrated, and your questions will be answered. We will only accept you or your young player as a patient if we feel we can help. We offer computerized spinal scans. We are able to adjust patients sitting, standing, or lying down to accommodate any level of discomfort. If your problem is a chiropractic condition we offer you exceptional service.

P.S. Even a mild concussion warrants immediate cessation of activity and rest until a player receives medical clearance to return to the field.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

COSMETIC CONCERNS

It hardly comes as a surprise that cosmetic, or aesthetic, dentistry has grown to be so popular among patients. After all, straight, white teeth are as essential to appearance as nice skin and coiffed hair. The most sought-after procedure is tooth-whitening, which can be performed in-office, at home, or a combination. The most aggressive yet painless tooth-whitening techniques result in smiles several shades whiter in one office sitting. Next on the list of patient popularity are veneers used to correct cracked, chipped, discolored, and worn teeth. These ultra-thin tooth coverings made of porcelain or composite materials look like natural teeth, only they are perfect. If a less-expensive option is desired, resin bonding provides a simple, effective method of tooth supplementation.

The development of advanced techniques has enabled us to change your smile overnight. Nothing conveys good health and enhances your smile more than clean, white teeth! If you have questions about cosmetic dentistry, please call our office. We provide the best care possible by evaluating your needs individually. We'll explain our findings and recommendations, and together we'll choose the best treatment plan. We invite you to make an appointment with us by calling 617-479-6220. Your positive attitude towards your dental health is the key to successful dental care. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. So far, research suggests that periodontal disease triggers increased levels of biological fluids that induce labor.

RELIGION

Quincy Community United Methodist

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston will hold a special worship service on All Saints' Sunday, Nov. 7, at 10:30 a.m.

People will be invited to write their loved ones' names on paper tags and a sheet of paper. The tags will then be attached to little bells, the bells pinned on a banner, and the banner carried in to the worship service during the opening procession.

During the service, all names listed on the sheets of paper will be read; after each name, the bells will be rung.

Everyone is invited to take their loved one's memorial bell home with them after the service.

Rev. Dr. Susan F. Jarek-Glidden, pastor of the church, said, "This worship service is an opportunity for all of us to thank those people whose lives touched our lives for the better; who made a difference for us, whose love and care helped us on our life's journey."

For more information about the All Saints' Sunday service for about Quincy Community United Methodist Church, call the church office at 617-773-3319.

The Candy Cane Fair will be held Nov. 6 Some featured tables are Fair trade items from SERVV, Vermont Cabot Cheese, gift baskets (some with autographed Paula Deen cookbooks) knitwear and homemade fudge.

The Youth Group is also busy collecting used books for different local charities or places in need, like the Prison Book program of Quincy. Drop books in collection boxes located outside the church office on Sunday or any weekday between 9 a.m. and 2pm.

Gaza Flotilla Raid Breakfast Topic Sunday

"How and Why the Israeli Navy was Set Up by the Mavi Marmara" will be the topic of U.S. Navy Seal Andrew K. Ledford as the guest speaker at Temple Shalom of Milton's monthly Breakfast Lecture Series Sunday, Oct. 24.

Lt. Commander Ledford will be graduating from the College of Naval Warfare in November. This talk is based solely on his own understanding of the Gaza flotilla raid and does not in any way reflect the official thoughts or opinions of the U.S. Navy. Excerpts from publicly available video will be shown and analyzed.

The public is invited to the breakfast, which begins at 9:30 a.m. followed by the speaker at 10:15 a.m.

A $5 donation for the breakfast is requested to defray costs, and a call to the temple office would help in planning.

Temple Shalom is located at 180 Blue Hill Ave. (Rte. 138) in Milton. Call 617-698-3394.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The Golden Rule is only meaningful if we apply it in all our interactions with other people.

In our busy and hectic way of living there are times in everyone's life that we may not understand why people do what they do.

There are times in our lives when we become upset about family, work or health challenges. We become impatient with others at these times. Couldn't it be said that these are the times when we should especially try to use the Golden Rule so that we do not take out our frustration on others? . . .

In applying the Golden Rule as a guide to living and working in harmony with another, we are giving others the understanding and kindness that each of us with to receive.

"Whatever you wish that men would do to you, do so to them." – Matthew 7:12.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might be growing impatient with a situation that seems to resist efforts to resolve it. But staying with it raises the odds that you'll find a way to a successful resolution.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Travel and kinship are strong in the Bovine's aspect this week. This would be a good time to combine the two and take a trip to see family members for a pre-holiday get-together.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) A colleague could make a request you're not comfortable with. If so, say so. Better to disappoint someone by sticking with your principles than disappoint yourself if you don't.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) The Moon Child's ability to adapt to life's ebbs and flows helps you deal with the changes that you might confront at work or at home, or both. Things settle down by the week's end.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a good week for Leos and Leonas to get some long-outstanding business matters resolved. Then go ahead and plan a fun-filled family getaway weekend with the mate and the cubs.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A possible workplace change seems promising. If you decide to look into it, try not to form an opinion on just a small part of the picture: Wait for the full image to develop.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) A newcomer helps keep things moving. There might be some bumpy moments along the way, but at least you're heading in the right direction. You win praise for your choices.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You could be pleasantly surprised by how a decision about one thing opens up an unexpected new option. Also, assistance on a project could come from a surprising source.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) With more information to work with, you might now be able to start the process that could lead to a major change. Reserve the weekend for family and friends.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) This could be a good time to begin gathering information that will help you turn that long-held idea into something substantive. A personal matter might need extra attention.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) That new challenge might carry some surprises. But you should be able to handle them using what you already know. That new supporter should be there to lend assistance.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Someone might be trying to disguise his or her true motives. But the perceptive and perspicacious Pisces should have little or no problem finding the truth in all that foggy rhetoric.

BORN THIS WEEK: You can always rely on your people skills to help you find solutions to problems others often give up on.

Doris E. Dooner

Quincy Public School Teacher

A funeral Mass for Doris E. (McNally) Dooner, of Weymouth, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Oct. 12 in St. Francis Xavier Church, South Weymouth.

Mrs. Dooner died Oct. 7.

Born and raised in Quincy, she had resided in Weymouth for the last 30 years. She attended Archbishop Williams High School and Boston State College receiving her degree in teaching.

She taught first grade at the Quincy Public Schools for more than 30 years; she began her career at the Adams School and retired from teaching at the Parker School, touching young lives and making a difference in many.

Mrs. Dooner was also an active member of ADK, The Retired Teachers Organization and was the founding member of the Retired Teachers Movie Group. She also loved to travel and spending time with her family.

Wife of Michael Dooner of Weymouth; mother of Kimberly Chagnon and her husband Mark of Quincy; sister of Donald McNally of Quincy, Elizabeth Kelley of Weymouth and the late John E. McNally and Thomas McNally.

She is also survived by many nieces, nephews and will be fondly remembered by Jaclyn as Nana II.

Funeral arrangements were made by the McDonald Funeral Home, Weymouth.

Memorial donations may be made to either the MSPCA or firstbook.org, a nonprofit group promoting literacy in children by providing new books to children in need.

524 Televisions, 100 Air Conditioners Collected; $800 Raised For Quincy Veterans Council

TVs To Vets Gets Great Reception

The Quincy Veterans Council recently teamed-up with the Department of Public Works and members of the North Quincy Junior ROTC cadets to collect 524 televisions and over 100 air conditioners at the Cyril P. Morrisette American Post.

More than 300 cars brought 19-plus tons of electronic waste in a patriotic show of support for the Quincy Veterans Council. The collection event earned over $800 for the Veterans Council and saved the City over $4,000 in disposal fees.

"These numbers represent an entire month's worth of television and air conditioner disposal," DPW Manager John Sullivan said.

In the past six months the City collected curbside and disposed of 4,053 TVs and 588 air conditioners and refrigerators. The cost for disposal was $32,085.

In the past, electronics disposal costs were covered by revenue from appliance/scrap metal which is in decline. Since there is no budget for the disposal of TVs/monitors and air conditioners the money for disposal comes from recycling revenue. Unfortunately, revenue from recycling is not enough to cover this expense and still pay for recycling equipment and material.

The excess of TVs and monitors nationwide began as early as 2001 with the Basel Action Network (BAN)—an environmental watchdog organization. In 2008, BAN assisted CBS's 60 Minutes to track containers from a Colorado recycler to China. This blockbuster international television exposé raised America's consciousness about the dangers of e-waste and contributed to the mounting back log of televisions and monitors crowding America's recyclers today.

Locally, the conversion from analogue to digital television, coupled with the sudden affordability of high-definition, flat screen TVs and monitors fuels the curbside preponderance into crisis proportion.

In Quincy, TVs and monitors are picked-up curbside and disposed at no additional cost to the taxpayer. However, new disposal regulations have pushed disposal costs over $5,000 per month.

"We need to find ways to lower the ever-increasing cost of disposal. Collection events are one way to do this," Sullivan said. "The City saves thousands because these events take in large amounts of precious metals and are staffed by volunteers. We hope this becomes a regular event."

Donating their time and labor to the collection event were Quincy veterans Heikki Pakkala, Marc Connolly, Dan Dewey, Bob LaFleur, Guy Ferris, George Nickolson, George Bouchard, and Director of Veterans Services for the City of Quincy Tom Stansbury.

Special thanks to members of North Quincy High School's Air Force Junior ROTC cadets Andy Lin, Wilson Chen, Tommy Do, Simon Quach, Perry Hvang, Tommy Chung and Annie Wong.

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The bruising gubernatorial campaign, spirited Congressional race and competitive contests for county and local legislative seats are expected to draw 56 to 58 percent of the city's 55,268 registered voters to the polls for next Tuesday's state election.

City Clerk Joseph Shea predicts turnout will be twice as high as the Sept. 14th primary when 28.43 percent of the city's registered voters went to the polls. Shea said interest in the governor's race, 10th Congressional seat, Norfolk County district attorney and sheriff as well as two open legislative seats should bring approximately 32,000 voters to the city's 30 polling precincts.

Shea expects turnout to be considerably higher in some of the city's traditionally higher voting areas. He said Ward 6 Precinct 5 in Squantum could be 70 percent or higher. Precincts 4 and 5 in Ward 1 – Houghs Neck and Adams Shore – could climb to 60 percent or more, he said.

"We have more active local races than usual this year," Shea said. "State elections are obviously important but the extra turnout will be because there are more active local races than usual."

After 32 Years, Including 16 In Fire Prevention

Fire Captain Tom Lyons Calls It A Career

By SEAN BRENNAN

After 32 plus years of service in the Quincy Fire Department, including the past 16 years in Fire Prevention, Captain Tom Lyons will officially retire from department duties on October 31.

Lyons, 61, grew up on Williams Street, the son of the late QFD Captain Frank Lyons and Anne Lyons; he was youngest of four children and the only boy. He was brought up in a firefighting household, being schooled most days on the importance of respecting the power and unpredictability of fire, and after graduating from Archbishop Williams High School, earned his Bachelor's Degree in Biology from Northeastern University, Class of 1973.

Like many college graduates, Capt. Lyons was not quite sure what he wanted to do with his education; what he did know, and had since he was young man, was that he enjoyed, and, was good at, communicating with and helping people. So, he entered the workforce, initially, in management, starting as a unit manager at Quincy City Hospital.

But, intrigued by the life of a firefighter, he took the firefighter's exam after which he decided to travel to the European continent and bike. Lyons loves the outdoors, be it walking, kayaking, swimming, photography or bicycling, so this trip was his chance to do something for himself, and try and discover where his life journey would take him.

The answer came in a phone call from his father. The Quincy Fire Department was conducting interviews, he was told; it was time to come home. Lyons did. And on July 10, 1978 he joined the ranks of the department, serving his first year on Engine 8 before moving on to Engine 2, Ladder 5.

It was start of a long and rewarding career doing what he, in some respect, was born to do.

"I can recall wondering what I really wanted to do, so I decided to take the exam," said Lyons last week. "I was bicycling in Europe and my father called and said, 'Tom come home they are doing interviews.' Next thing I know I am on the Quincy Fire Department."

During his early years working in suppression, Lyons constantly strived to learn from what he would encounter at each alarm, educating himself by using what he had learned studying the intricacies of biology, physics and chemistry and applying this information to lay the groundwork for his motivation to prevent the impact of fire on the citizens of Quincy later in his career.

For Lyons, fire prevention was the next logical step.

"From Day 1 as a firefighter I would make my notations when we came back from a run and I would try and learn from every incident," he said. "It wasn't to criticize an officer, it was for my own edification to consistently learn.

"I just knew I wanted to do something more than train and be ready and respond," he continued. "I wanted to take a more proactive role; so it naturally evolved into fire prevention."

PHOTOGRAPHY is one of Capt. Tom Lyons' hobbies. This photo of South Beach on Cape Cod was recently on the cover of Cape Cod Life Magazine. Lyons is retiring from the Quincy Fire Department Sunday after 32 years of dedicated service.

Lyons, after 11 years, rose to the rank of lieutenant, and in 1994 became captain, but after that, never took another exam. His reason being, he had found his calling. Fire prevention gave him the outlet to connect with the people of the city, but, more importantly, he saw it as an opportunity to make a difference.

He remained as the QFD Fire Prevention officer for 16 years. Never once regretting that decision.

"In Fire Prevention I got to help a great deal more, I got to connect with people and impact more lives, hopefully, positively," Lyons said with a sense of accomplishment. "That was one of the reason I stayed in Fire Prevention. I knew there was a need in prevention, code enforcement and education and I knew I had the ability to communicate and organize, so I decided I would use that to help prevent fire."

The Fire Prevention office, according to Capt. Lyons, presented him with a blank canvas to educate business owners, landlords and citizens on the dangers of fire. It didn't hurt his chances of succeeding that he grew up with some sense of fire prevention and the code that comes along with it.

This knowledge helped him build fire prevention in Quincy from the ground floor up.

"When I first started, fire prevention had nowhere to go but up," he said. "It had to start somewhere. I had grown up with a sense of fire prevention and one day I had this epiphany that no one knows this code like I do or the background; I felt this obligation to educate people."

Over the years, his fire prevention duties have varied. He has worked, with others, in determining locations where compliance is needed, including lodging homes, gas stations, restaurants, schools, nightclubs and places of assembly; and more recently through licensing.

Of the thousands of inspections he has done, the real accomplishment has always come from those incidents in which compliance was finally achieved.

"There were times when I had to drag or chase compliance," Lyons added. "These are the real successes. All of that success is built on each success. When you finally get compliance you feel like you have done your job, that you have educated people and hopefully made it safer for everyone involved."

Captain Tom Lyons is at peace with his decision to move on to the next phase of his life. He and Patty, his wife of 28 years, have plans to do some of the things they may not have had the time to do the last 32 years.

He walks away from the job he loved and the coworkers and citizens he worked to educate with a sense of pride and with no regrets.

"Yes, I am proud of the work I have done. I know that I have changed this city," a reflective Lyons said. "I truly believe that for 32 years I have given it my all, whether it was an suppression or in Fire Prevention; I believe I have changed the city for the better and I go out confident that there were very few minutes or days that I ever wasted and didn't give it my all.

"I feel like I have done the right thing in leaving at this time," said Lyons. "I have to spend some time within the private sector. At this moment, I don't know what the future will (hold)."

But whatever the next 32 years throws his way, Captain Tom Lyons has no intention of relinquishing his duty to serve, to educate and to be there for others. That wouldn't be his style.

"Life is short," he concluded. "If you feel that you have made the best of it and in service to others, it doesn't get any better than that."

BROACHING THE SUBJECT OF BROOCHES

Brooches are back, not that they were ever really gone. In fact, these pieces of functional jewelry date back to the time when ancient Romans, Greeks, and Celts wore the ornamental clasps known as "fibulae" that were used to fasten clothes, especially cloaks. These more ornamental pieces replaced the simple straight pins that were worn prior to that time. Today, while buttons have largely replaced brooches for the purpose of holding clothing together, brooches have become more ornamental than ever. Whether a woman wants to display a piece of heirloom jewelry that she has had converted into a brooch or show her love of (enameled) butterflies or flowers, there is a brooch to represent just about every object of passion.

The next time you visit we hope you'll notice that we try to make your shopping a pleasant and rewarding experience. We take pride in not trying to sell you anything—we are here to advise you, offer suggestions, and help with your final decisions. Of course, we also take pride in showing you breathtaking examples of gemstone jewelry at its finest. Raymondi Plans New Appeal Of Ban On Town Brook Project

City and state officials last week reversed their ban on Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi's participation in the review and votes on the Quincy Center Revitalization project.

The reversal doesn't go far enough, according to Raymondi.

Raymondi plans to appeal the remaining ban prohibiting him from reviewing and voting on renewal plans for Town Brook.

Raymondi said Monday that he was pleased that the new legal opinions allow him to participate and vote on Quincy Center projects.

Regardless of the change, Raymondi still may not participate, comment or vote on any issue involving the Town Brook.

Raymondi believes he has the right and duty to weigh in on Town Brook so he will appeal the prohibition, again with the encouragement of City Solicitor James Timmins.

"I will try to eliminate the ban on Town Brook (issues)," Raymondi said Monday at City Hall.

Raymondi cited encouragement by Timmins. The ban is also supported by Deirdre Roney, General Counsel for the State Ethics Commission.

The first step in his appeal will be the hiring of an appraiser, said Raymondi.

The Town Brook project is a major component of improvements to the city's aesthetics as the project includes the daylighting of the brook near Quincy Center and construction of a park.

Raymondi's property, which abuts Town Brook, appears to be at least a quarter of a mile or more from any change to the brook in the project and Raymondi has a granite wall separating his property from the banks of Town Brook.

That's not enough, according to Timmins who maintains that Raymondi or any direct abutter to Town Brook, no matter how distant, may not participate in such discussions.

Timmins and Roney did revise their original ban on Raymondi's participation in Quincy Center revitalization plans.

In a letter dated Oct. 20, Roney wrote that she concurred with Timmins' new decision submitted to the commission on Oct. 18.

Holiday Food Drive Makes A Big Difference, Collects 2 1/2 Tons

Quincy's annual Holiday Food Drive continues to grow as more than 2-1/2 tons of food was collected on "Make A Difference Day" last Saturday.

The food donations collected in the 8th annual drive were distributed to the various food pantries in Quincy, including both the church organizations and private programs. The enormously successful drive has collected more than 45 tons of food to date and is steadily rising every year.

"It was better than last year by about a half ton," said Quincy Public Health Commissioner Andrew Scheele. "The postal workers did an unbelievable job collecting them for us."

More than 30 volunteers packed the various food items and shipped them to the local food pantries that include DOVE, Friends of the Unborn, Germantown Neighborhood Center/YMCA, Holy Trinity Church, Interfaith Social Services, Quincy Crisis Center, Salvation Army, Southwest Community Center, Quincy Community Action Programs, St. John the Baptist Church and Saint Joseph's Church.

Among the items collected were canned vegetables, cranberry sauce, turkey gravy, boxed stuffing and pie filling.

The drive is sponsored by the City of Quincy, The Quincy Hunger Network and the U.S. Postal Service. The drive that is put on by the U.S. Postal Service in May is three times the size as the city's and collects more than 5-1/2 tons.

Scheele wanted to remind people that they can drop off food at pantries any time. He believes the best time to get the word out about the food drive is the week before, utilizing the city's web page and Quincy Cable.

"We try to get the word out the best we can," Scheele said.

Community Preservation Committee Pubic Hearing At City Hall Nov. 4

By STEVE PERDIOS
Chairman
Quincy Community Preservation Committee

In November of 2006 Quincy adopted the Community Preservation Act (CPA) with 57% of the voters supporting it. This will be its fifth year in Quincy. Fourty-one projects have been funded with money raised through this program.

Five open space sites have been protected, three affordable housing projects were assisted, improvements to parks were funded, and many historic sites were granted money for restoration.

Each year the City of Quincy's Community Preservation Committee (CPC) must hold a public hearing. This meeting is designed to allow the public the opportunity to suggest ways that this money should be spent.

As the CPC looks forward to Quincy's fifth year as a CPA Community, the public hearing meeting has been scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 4 in the City Council Chamber of City Hall.

The CPC will hear suggestions from the public as to how this year's money should be spent. All are welcome to attend.

The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. with an overview of what the CPA is and an explanation of how money from the first four years of the program has been spent.

This meeting will also mark the opening of year-five applications. The public will be able to get an application at this meeting.

All applications are due to be received in the City Solicitors Office no later than 4 p.m. on Jan. 7th for consideration for funding this fiscal year.

Application will also be available at the Solicitors office and on-line at the City of Quincy's web site until Jan. 7. Some advice and instructions regarding the completion of the applications will also be provided at the Nov. 4 meeting.

A Voter's Treat

Tired of "vanilla" elections with few contested races?

If so, you're in for a real treat this year.

Next Tuesday's state election is more like the "Baskin Robbins" ballot.

Plenty of candidates to choose from. Some 35 to be exact – and that doesn't include the lieutenant governor running mates (who run as a ticket with candidates for governor.) That's even more than the traditional 31 flavors at Baskin Robbins.

In Quincy, there are as many as 12 contested state, county and local legislative races. That's not a misprint. Out of the 14 races on the local ballot, only two candidates have no opposition: incumbent State Rep. Bruce Ayers in the 1st Norfolk District and incumbent Norfolk County Commissioner Peter Collins.

At the state level, there are at least two challengers for all five Constitutional offices: governor, attorney general, treasurer, auditor and secretary of state. Two of those seats are open: state treasurer and state auditor. The contenders include Democrats, Republicans and Independents who are making strong bids unlike some previous years when there was only token opposition for the incumbents from fringe candidates.

Anyone want to venture a guess the last time that's happened?

The rest of the ballot is just as competitive.

Five candidates running for Congress in the 10th District; three for state senator in the Plymouth-Norfolk District; three eyeing state representative in the 2nd Norfolk District; and two-candidate fields for Norfolk County district attorney, sheriff, governor's councillor and state representative in the 3rd Norfolk District.

Voters should embrace this scenario because unfortunately, numerous contested races have been the exception, not the rule.

The 2006 election did feature a four-way race for governor as does this year; but most of the other state races featured Democrat incumbents running against lower-profiled challengers representing less known political affiliations (remember the "Working Families" designation?")

Furthermore, four years ago, every local legislator was unopposed in the state final election. I'm not knocking incumbency but ballot choices are the lifeline of democracy.

Generally speaking, open seats generate candidates. But as history shows, even an open seat is no guarantee that voters will have a choice in November.

Consider two races from the 1990s. In both cases, an open legislative seat spawned a contested race for the Democratic nomination.

And that's it.

The Democratic winner in the primary had a clear path without a Republican (and/or unenrolled-Independent) opponent in the final election.

The last open seat for a Quincy legislator was in 1998 in the 1st Norfolk District. Bruce Ayers, then the Ward 6 councillor, defeated Larry Chretien, a former Ward 3 councillor, in the Democratic primary. Ayers did not have a challenger in the final. (The seat was vacated by Michael Bellotti who defeated Jack Flood for Norfolk County sheriff that same year.)

The last time the Senate seat was open was 1992. That's the year Paul Harold ran for Congress against incumbent Gerry Studds. Harold's decision to run for Congress triggered a three-way race for the Democratic nomination for his Senate seat. Mike Morrissey, who at the time was a state representative, defeated former councillor and mayoral candidate Stephen McGrath and Joanne Koval, a Holbrook selectwoman. Morrissey was unopposed in the November final.

This year, Quincy has two legislative open seats: Plymouth-Norfolk Senate seat which is being vacated by Morrissey (who's running for Norfolk County district attorney) and the 2nd Norfolk District House seat which was vacated by Rep. Stephen Tobin who made an unsuccessful bid for Morrissey's Senate seat in the Sept. 14 primary.

Three Quincy candidates are vying for the Senate seat: Democrat John Keenan, Republican Dan Dewey and Independent Laura Innis.

And three Quincy candidates are seeking Tobin's House seat: Democrat Tackey Chan, Republican John Iredale and Independent Karl Roos.

Of course, it's one thing to have competitive races.

It's another to have an electorate that cares.

That's where you the voter come in.

Next Tuesday, City Clerk Joseph Shea has predicted about 58 percent of the city's 55,268 registered voters – some 32,000 – will cast ballots.

Frankly, I hope the clerk is wrong. And I bet he hopes he's on the low-side with his prediction as well.

But much of his crystal ball forecasts for turnout are based on prior elections.

Of the last seven state elections (not Presidential election years), turnout in Quincy has reached more than 60 percent three times: 68.67 percent in 1994, 75.7 percent in 1990 and 70.9 percent in 1982. The other four state elections were below 60 percent: 59.6 percent in 1986; 56 percent in 1998; 58.73 percent in 2002 and 53.71 percent in 2006.

This year's election will reshape state and county government for potentially years to come. Those who win Nov. 2 will be required to fulfill many responsibilities when they are sworn into office in January. They will be expected to govern, lead and legislate through one of the most trying times in this state's history. Anyone who's been out of work or knows someone out of work can attest to that.

But the first step in getting this state back on solid footing is moving ourselves to the ballot box next Tuesday.

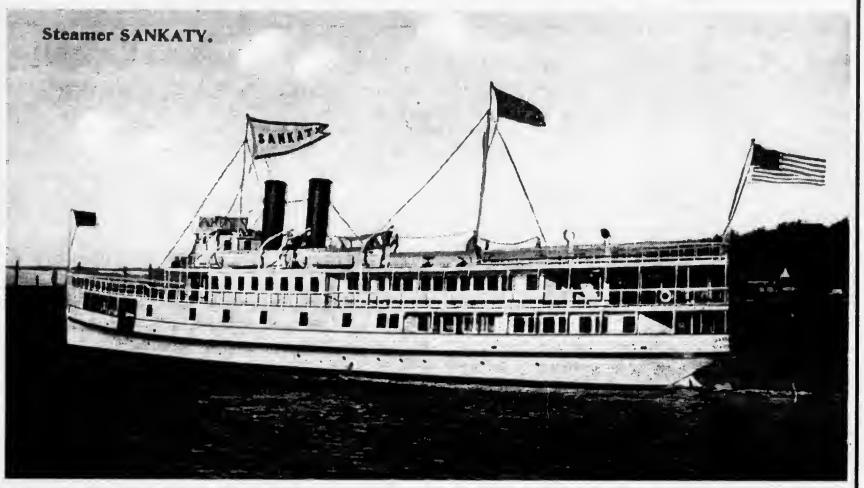
Vote.

Fortunately, Quincy has traditionally been a politically vibrant city. Election Day voter turnout is usually higher here than other municipalities. The "City of Presidents" is also home to many dedicated public servants as well as active neighborhood and community organizations that strive to make a difference and improve the quality of life throughout the city.

Quincy should also be a leader at the ballot box. If you are registered to vote here, please make every effort to get to the polls next Tuesday and let your voice be heard.

Don't be dissuaded by poll numbers. Vote for the candidates that you believe best represent your values and share your positions on important issues like the economy, healthcare and so many others.

And never, ever think you're throwing a vote away if you vote for a candidate considered out of the running by the so-called "experts."



The only thing you're throwing away is your voice . . . if you stay home next Tuesday.

ABSENTEE BALLOTS are available at City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy Center. Those who are registered to vote may vote by absentee if absent from Quincy on election day; or have a disability that prevents voting at the polling place; or cannot vote at the polls due to religious beliefs.

All applications for absentee ballots must be made in writing. The last day to apply for an absentee ballot is noontime on Monday, Nov. 1 - the day before the Nov. 2 election. As of Monday afternoon, more than 1,300 absentee ballots had been cast, according to the Quincy Election Department.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A postcard view of the coastal steamer Sankaty that was built at Fore River Shipyard in 1911. In this view, it is leaving the yard after it was turned over to the New Bedford Steamship Company flying the Fore River banner on its center mast. One of only two coastal steamers built in Quincy, this was one of the first steam turbine propeller-driven vessels of the time. Previous coastal steamers were mostly side-wheelers. This boat was named for the cliffs on Nantucket near the town of Sciasconset where there is a famous lighthouse. It was first operated as a ferry serving Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket for a dozen years. It later served many other ferry routes in the northeast including Staten Island in New York Harbor. In World War II, the Royal Canadian Navy used it as a minelayer. It met its demise after 53 years of service when it sank off the coast of Nova Scotia in 1964. 34 Speeders Rounded Up By '2-Gun Baker'

By FRANK McCAULEY

This Week
81 Years Ago

Thirty-four speeders were assessed $200 in District Court at Quincy on the complaint of Officer James H. "Two-Gun" Baker that they had violated the motor vehicle law in Quincy.

Judge Albert E. Avery who presided at the session, directed James MacDonald, assistant clerk of courts, to communicate with State Registrar George H. Parker, advising operating licenses of two men be revoked. Testimony was to the effect that both were exceeding 50 miles per hour when "clocked."

Charges against a Lynn man were placed on file after he was found guilty of refusing to stop on the signal of an officer and speeding. He was operating a bus that carried passengers when the alleged violation occurred.

TEACHERS OF QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL SUBMIT APPEAL FOR MORE PAY

The appeal of Quincy High School teachers for an increase in salary, which was denied last year owning to the fact that the school budget had been drafted, was once again submitted to the school committee and following hearty support by committee members Robert E. Foy, Sturgis Hunt and Col. Warren E. Sweetser, it was voted to conduct a meeting the following Tuesday for the purpose of hearing a committee of teachers explain their request.

The Quincy High School teachers sought an increase in salary last year, a sliding scale arrangement that represented about a $200 maximum, but owning to the fact that the petition came after the school committee budget had already been drafted, no action was taken.

Supt. Muir obtained data on salary schedules in operation in other cities similar in size to Quincy and the local salary has remained the same.

Acting Chairman Robert E. Foy suggested that the matter be studied at once as the teachers were entitled to an answer to their request.

Saluting The Sacrifice Of Lance Cpl. Paul Grasso

Recently, Larry Norton invited me to the rededication of a playground in West Quincy named after Lance Cpl. Paul Grasso and I was glad that he had. The original site of the playground is now the site of the new Lowe's. The playground had been dedicated in Grasso's honor back in 1971.

I wish to commend Mayor Tom Koch, the city's Veterans Services Department and the Quincy Chapter Vietnam Combat Veterans Combined Forces for co-sponsoring this event.

I did not know Grasso but noticed he was born 20 days after me in 1948 and was killed in action on May 4, 1968 at Quang Tree Province, South Vietnam. May 4th that year was my 20th birthday. While I was blowing out the candles on my birthday cake, Grasso was dying for his country halfway around the world in the sand-paddies of 'Nam. His life snuffed out 20 days before his own 20th birthday.

He has been buried at Mount Wollaston Cemetery for over 42 years and is still remembered as a courageous United States Marine who died in the defense of his country.

I salute his memory and his sacrifice, as does all Quincy.

Medicare Open Enrollment Nov. 15 - Dec. 31

Every year, there are new prescription drug and health plan coverage choices available to people with Medicare. Open Enrollment is the time of year when current or newly-eligible Medicare beneficiaries, including people with original Medicare, can review their current health or prescription drug plans, compare the plans to other options, and choose the plans that best meet their current needs.

There's never been a better time to check out Medicare coverage. With the new health care law, there are new benefits available to people with Medicare, including lower prescription costs, wellness checkups and preventive care. The new law also provides better ways to protect beneficiaries from fraud, making Medicare stronger for all of us and for future generations.

Take advantage of Open Enrollment—November 15th through December 31st—and be sure to compare current plans with new plan offerings, as well as learn about the new benefits that are available. People with Medicare may find a way to save money, get better coverage, or both.

Medicare has several ways to ensure people get the information to help in deciding what kind of coverage works best, including:

Visit www.medicare.gov, where you can get a personalized comparison of the costs and coverage of the plans available in your area.

Call 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227) 24-hours a day/7 days a week to find out more about your coverage options. TTY users should call 1-877-486-2048.

Review the 2011 Medicare & You handbook. It is mailed to beneficiaries in October.

Get one-on-one help from your State Health Insurance Assistance Program (SHIP). Local SHIP contact information can be found online at:

www.medicare.gov/contacts/staticpages/ships.aspx

Look on the back of your Medicare & You 2011 handbook or;

Call Medicare at 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227; TTY, 1-877-486-2048)

Medicare has a program to help pay for prescription drugs for those with a limited income. To find out if you qualify, visit www.socialsecurity.gov or call 1-800-772-1213 and ask about "Extra Help" program. More information is available at www.healthcare.gov, a new online portal made available from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Tips For A Frighteningly Good Halloween

(NAPSA)-Halloween's popularity has become almost scary. Over the last few decades, it has morphed into a monthlong celebration of all things spooky. This is evidenced by the estimated $5 billion that consumers spend annually on costumes, decorations and festivities.

Luckily, you don't have to break the bank to have a frighteningly good time this Halloween. With a little bit of planning, you can scare up entertainment options that are convenient, safe and economical.

For instance, during the month of October, one of the best bangs for your buck is the ghoulishly great variety of seasonal On Demand programming available from your cable operator.

Everything you need for your frightfest-from the hottest trends in decorating to quick tips on unique pumpkin carving-is available from the safety of your own home, when and where you want it, with a few clicks of your remote control.

Here are seven "spooktacular" suggestions:

WITH A LITTLE BIT of planning-and the help of your cable provider-you can scare up Halloween entertainment that's convenient, safe and economical.

1. Designer Digs-If you're dying to turn your crypt into the coolest haunt on the street, heist tips from design experts who compete to create the best Halloween block party with themes such as the Haunted Mansion, kid-friendly Hansel and Gretel and elegant Sleepy Hollow.

2. Tempting Treats-Keep festivities on the sweet side with "how-to" lessons from the evil geniuses of the kitchen who whip up such delicacies as eyeball minicakes and gross-out tactile treats.

3. Smashing Pumpkins-Get video quick tips on edgy pumpkin carving and pumpkin art.

4. Terrifying Travel-Shackled to home? Hitch a ride and visit some of America's most terrifying destinations.

5. Haunted Hunts-Need to do a little soul searching? Travel with the experts as they track down ghosts-before they spook the daylight out of you.

6. Macabre Marathons-Can't resist dark basements? Vampires, monsters and werewolves (oh, my!) are easy to find (no flashlight required) in horrifying programming categories, including classic creepy movies, modern horror and campy cult favorites. Or satisfy your appetite for zombies and beasts with new original shows.

7. Hair-Raising Whodunits-Invite some of your favorite fiends over and put your grey matter to work solving favorite new and classic capers.

'Center For Responsibility And Justice' At ENC

Eastern Nazarene College has a long tradition of sending its students out into the community as volunteers, interns, tutors and mentors.

Now, the Christian liberal arts college is taking steps to formalize its campus commitment to community involvement and social change through the creation of the Center for Responsibility and Justice (CRJ).

Scheduled to launch Oct. 27 with a three-day series of workshops, discussions, film screenings and receptions, the CRJ will enable ENC students to take new courses that explore justice issues while also offering them a chance to put their coursework into practice through a variety of community partnerships.

"As a Christian college, Eastern Nazarene is deeply committed to preparing students who are not only productive and successful, but also responsible," said Karen Marshall, a faculty member in ENC's Department of Social Work who will co-direct the center with fellow faculty members Stacey Barker (Department of Social Work) and Eric Severson (Division of Religion and Philosophy). "We seek to build on ENC's tradition of charity and community involvement by creating a space for members of the ENC community to think critically about the ways in which they can act in solidarity with those who live life on the margins.

"We have a student body that is very interested in understanding the ways in which their faith informs how they engage in the world," Marshall continued, "and the CRJ will offer them opportunities for both awareness and action."

Working with ENC faculty and administration, the CRJ staff is currently developing a new minor in social justice that will infuse the college's General Education requirements with topics related to justice and responsibility. CRJ courses will cut across existing academic disciplines, addressing such topics as economics, justice and reconciliation, social policy, race and culture, and more.

"We are interested in 'bookending' the typical academic experiences with courses specifically designed to facilitate critical thinking about issues of justice," Barker said. "Using the tools of formal education, we'll encourage students to consider new ways of understanding how to engage in the world around them."

The center has also established partnerships with schools and community organizations that will allow ENC students to put their commitment to social justice into action. Through these initial partnerships, ENC students will:

- mentor middle school-aged children from Germantown through a partnership with the Germantown Neighborhood Center
- assist and support CRJ in the development of H.O.P.E. Project, a community organizing initiative established in collaboration with Germantown neighborhood leaders
- work with third- and fourth-grade students at Dorchester's Russell Elementary School as part of the Ten Boys Project, which seeks to address the educational achievement gap among black and Latino boys
- tutor and mentor high school students attending Action for Boston Community Development's University High School
- serve as interns with Bronx Bethany Summer Camp, a Christian community corporation that seeks to live out its call to justice.

CRJ will develop and teach a six-week social justice course held in conjunction with the camp.

CRJ also has launched a series of "knowledge cafés" – informal discussions surrounding topical issues such as recent relief efforts in Haiti – and plans are underway to create a themed living community for students interested in starting and expanding community gardens.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Lasagna Burgers

Recently while going through some of my cookbooks, always looking for something different to make, I found a great alternative to a conventional hamburger.

And because I love pasta of any kind, this recipe calls for lasagna noodles, and that got my attention immediately. It takes a little more time, but well worth the effort.

LASAGNA BURGERS

1-pound beef or turkey
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons oil or butter (I use both)
4 lasagna noodles
4 slices mozzarella cheese
1-cup tomato sauce
Grated Parmesan cheese

Heat the sauce and set it aside. Cook the lasagna until done. In the hot oil or butter or both sauté the burgers. Top each one with the mozzarella cheese.

On a surface or foil, place the noodle down. Put the burger in the center, and roll the lasagna over the burger. In the same pan that the burgers were cooked, drain out the excess oil, and place each covered burger in the pan seam side down. Cook on low heat and add two tablespoons of the sauce over each one.

Serve hot sprinkled with Parmesan cheese.

Wollaston Congregational Church Fair Nov. 6

A Harvest Fair will be held Saturday, Nov. 6 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Social Hall of the Wollaston Congregational Church, 48 Winthrop Ave.

The fair will feature books, attic treasures, country store, and knitting and sewing, baked goods, and the cookie table.

The café will serve coffee and muffins, burgers and hot dogs, chips and beverages.

The children's room will be open from 10 a.m. to noon, with crafts and games.

Quincy Community United Methodist Church Fair Nov. 13

A Holiday Fair will be held Saturday, Nov. 13 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

Featured will be a white elephant table, plants, a silent auction, and a great lunch.

Koch To Receive Manet Medallion At Dinner, Auction Friday

The Manet Community Health Center Board of Directors will honor Quincy Mayor Thomas P. Koch with the Manet Medallion at its sixth annual dinner and auction to be emceed by Norfolk County Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti Friday, Oct. 29, from 6-10 p.m. at the Granite Links Golf Club.

The evening will include a sit-down dinner, raffles and a silent auction.

The Manet Medallion is presented annually to an individual or group, living or working in a community served by Manet Community Health. This group or individual must have significantly lifted, supported, championed or advanced the health center's mission to provide accessible, quality health care for all.

Moreover, the recipient must have demonstrated consistent community god will and fellowship. The recipient shall not be a present Manet director or employee but rather shall be a patient, community leader, legislator, vendor or financial contributor who has made significant contribution with the capacity of a lasting impact to better Manet, its circumstances and its patients. The final decision is at the discretion of the Manet Community Health Board of Directors.

"The decision by the board to award Mayor Koch the Manet Medallion this year was unanimous largely because earlier this summer, the city of Quincy, through its Planning Department and its Community Development Program, awarded Manet a Community Development Block Grant in the amount of $194,060 to install a sprinkler and fire alarm system at Manet's practice site on 110 West Squantum Street in North Quincy," said Alicia Gardner, president of Manet Community Health's Board of Directors.

TOM KOCH

"With these necessary infrastructural improvements to our North Quincy facility, plus additional renovations totaling $719,140 funded through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act, Manet will add seven to eleven new patient examination rooms, patient education rooms, a nursing station and patient rest rooms on the first floor of the North Quincy practice site.

In doing so we will be able to expand access to 1,233 new patients for over 4,914 patients visits annually," Gardner added.

In preparation for full implementation of federal health reform by 2014, all federally qualified health centers across the country including Manet Community Health are preparing to double in size, as the number of insured Americans served by their local community health centers will double – from 20 to 40 million – within the next five years.

"Manet is on the move to accommodate the growth in patients spurred on by state and federal health reform," said Manet CEO Henry N. Tuttle, "and Mayor Koch's support of our renovation and expansion plans helps bring to life the Manet Mission and makes health care for all a priority for this city."

Last year, over 400 guests attended Manet's signature event and helped to raise over$100,000 to support its Annual Found on its thirtieth anniversary year.

"Manet Community Health is an essential part of the Quincy landscape. It provides accessible, affordable, high quality primary health care and supportive social services to South Shore residents from Quincy to the Cape Cod Canal," Koch said. "I am both humbled and honored to accept the Manet Medallion for the city's support of Manet Community Health's vital programs, services and facilities."

This year's events will be emceed by Norfolk County Sheriff Bellotti. Key community leaders, official and friends are expected to attend in support of Mayor Koch and the Manet Mission.

Sponsors include: Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts, Boston Medical Center Health Net Plan, CitiBank, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Custom Construction, eastern Bank Foundation, HDR Architecture Inc., Liberty Bay Credit Union, Massachusetts League of Community Health Centers, The Mayor's Cup Charity Golf tournament, Neighborhood Health Plan, new England Quality Care Alliance (NEQCA), Quincy College, Quincy Medical Center, South Shore Hospital, Tufts Medical Center, Tuttle-Sterricker Family, Walgreens, WB Mason, Dr. Peter Ambrus, and Dr. Joseph Peppe, the recently appointed Chief Medical Officer for Manet Community Health.

133 New Computers, 30 'Interwrite' Boards, New Labs For Science, Social Studies Departments

Major Technology Upgrade Complete At North Quincy H.S.

Mayor Thomas Koch announced today that more than $250,000 in computer and technology upgrades at North Quincy High School are now up and running, including 133 new computers, 30 interactive "Interwrite" boards for teachers and new computer labs for science and social studies departments.

Mayor Koch allocated money for the project from the City's cable franchise fees paid by Comcast as part of broader technology initiative that will continue throughout the school system in coming years, he said.

"Providing the right tools for our students is absolutely vital in a world that is so defined by technology, and we are committed to taking the steps necessary ensure our schools are equipped for 21st century learning," Koch said. "We are already looking at future projects."

Superintendent Richard DeCristofaro and North Quincy Principal Earl Metzler joined Mayor Koch on a tour of the new computer labs this week, where they spent time in the social studies lab watching students research a debate project on the Internet.

"This initiative guarantees that both of our two high schools will have access to state of the art instructional technology, and it demonstrates a major commitment to the children of Quincy," Metzler said.

The upgrades included the classroom redesigns and new wiring to create a full computer lab for the Science Department and one for the Social Studies Department, as well upgrades to existing computer spaces in a number of other departments. Math and Science classrooms were also equipped with state-of-the-art InterWrite boards, which are essentially digital chalkboards that allow a wide range of interaction in the classroom, school officials said.

On-Line Votes Sought For Fire $10,000 Safety Grant

By JOE REARDON

Quincy residents still have a few days to help secure a $10,000 Fire Safety Pledge Award for the city's fire department.

Through the nationwide Fire Safety Pledge Program, Quincy residents can take the quiz on general fire safety knowledge using their email addresses

The 10 fire departments around the country with its citizens taking the test the most times are awarded $10,000 by Liberty Mutual, which founded the event. The grants are available to departments in all 50 states.

Captain Richard Bryan of the Quincy Fire Department said that Quincy was in 11th place, nationwide, as of Monday with the quiz taken 826 times. Bryan said at a least 500 more would need to be garnered by the time the contest ends on Oct. 31. He went on to say residents could take the quiz using all of their email accounts. The 10 departments receiving the $10,000 grant will be announced in November.

"It's definitely a quiz that later-aged elementary school kids can handle," said Bryan, who has taken the quiz using his four different email addresses. "It's a good way to bring up some points and get a dialogue going on fire safety.

"We need a good 500 more to be in the running. It's the final push we're making. It can be done for all the email addresses you have."

Quincy finished with the second most number of hits last year and used the money to buy a radio frequency that is used for fire department business, separate from other city frequencies.

Bryan said the money this year would go towards fire safety equipment, although the department hasn't yet pinpointed a specific piece of equipment.

Bryan said the contest is a "win-win" for the department and citizens because the department is able to purchase vital equipment and residents learn about fire safety by taking the quiz.

The Quincy Fire Department plans to enter the contest annually. "As long as it's available, we'll be participating," Bryan said.

To take the quiz, go to www.befiresmart.com and click on the Fire Safety Pledge link.

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Will You Take A Quiz Again?

Do you remember the Liberty Mutual Insurance quiz we promoted last year? It was the one offering a $10,000 grant for a fire department within a community with the highest quiz participation. It's a nationwide contest and through your involvement, Quincy won it last year. We hope to do it again. Education is such a large part of our effort; we'll use whatever angle as a means to a safer community, while receiving a grant during these fiscal times helps as well.

Liberty Mutual has a web site: BeFireSmart.com. Adults and children can sign on and respond to a 10-question quiz. The questions are simple, yet thought provoking. Each has to do with household fire safety. I've taken it and the simple questions made me stop and think on the subject matter. They couldn't have been simpler, yet they provoked thought.

Here's an example: As you leave a burning building, leave all doors open; true or false?

Here's another: What is the leading cause of home fires in the winter months; heating equipment, holiday lights or cooking? Sorry, no answers given here! Answers are given after completion of each question.

There are two reasons why we are on board with this effort. The first and most important being, it will draw attention to our own fire safety educational efforts if only for 2 minutes. Any time directed toward prevention can make a difference for individuals. Modifying the simplest of habits can make for a safer household. Inciting and promoting fire safety thought can make a difference, I wouldn't be here writing if I didn't agree. This simple quiz can do that as well.

Secondly, there is a $10,000 grant given to the community fire department with the most involvement. That involvement is determined by individuals such as yourself or your children signing on the site, taking the quiz and identifying their community. The Liberty Mutual representative ASSURES us that there will be no phone call soliciting their products in return. You can enter once for each e-mail address you currently have.

Enter the web site, click on "Get Started", enter Quincy, Mass as your designated fire department and take the 10 question quiz. Completion depends upon you entering your name and e-mail address at the end.

Considering the budget constraints seen throughout this country and state, $10,000 allotted to the Quincy Fire Department for equipment or to further promote our educational efforts is attractive. We hope you agree.

So please help us help you and consider taking this simple quiz. It is not our intent to promote Liberty Mutual's products, but rather it's another attempt promoting fire safety education, while it's a means of maintaining our highest standards for you as well. Thank you for doing so.

Star Of Sea Friends File Two New Appeals

At the conclusion of last Sunday's Mass, the parish of Mary, Star of the Sea in Quincy ceased to exist in the eyes of the Chancery of the Archdiocese of Boston.

However, the Archdiocese could not "suppress" the faith community that flourished on the peninsula since 1916 with the mere stroke of a pen. Almost immediately, the Friends of Star of the Sea was formed to advocate for the reopening of the church and the reversal of the suppression decree.

Long before the Archdiocese envisioned Star of the Sea as a mission, a parish or a chapel, a group of laypeople who became known as the Squantum Catholic Club, arranged to have the first public mass said in Squantum. They subsequently purchased the land on which the church currently sits, raised the funds to build the original wooden church, and laid the groundwork for fundraising to build the current brick building in 1956, when the congregation outgrew the little wooden church. The vibrant parish community that existed in 2004 was the legacy of the Squantum Catholic Club to succeeding generations of Squantum Catholics.

Emboldened by that example, Friends of Star of the Sea co-chairs Sean Glennon and Maureen Mazrimas filed two new appeals at the Vatican over the past two weeks. Last week's appeal – a Papal appeal directly to His Holiness, Pope Benedict XVI – seeks recourse against (then) Archbishop Sean O'Malley's October 2004 Decree of Suppression against Star of the Sea. The Papal appeal was hand-delivered at the Vatican by Peter Borre of the Council of Parishes, a national advocacy and support group for organizations like the Friends of Star of the Sea.

"This is the final recourse available to us against the Decree of Suppression," said Glennon. "This Papal appeal begins the final chapter of our first volume."

The second appeal, faxed to the Vatican this morning, is totally different from the Papal appeal. It challenges any Decree of Reduction to Profane Use that Cardinal O'Malley may have, or may be planning to issue. Glennon says a Decree of Reduction to Profane Use must be issued before a church can be sold. "Unlike a Decree of Suppression, which is relatively easy to issue, a Decree of Relegation to Profane Use may only be issued for a 'grave reason,' according to Canon Law," said Glennon.

"None of the reasons given to us for the suppression of Star of the Sea are considered 'grave' under Canon Law," said Glennon. "I'm much more optimistic about this new round of appeals."

Mazrimas said that the Friends had no choice but to go forward with these appeals. "The church and the land it sits on were funded by the laity. Justice dictates that those who bought and paid for parish buildings and supported them for nearly one hundred years should not be 'locked out' particularly in light of the 'Catholics Come Home' initiative," she said. "Models currently exist, such as clergy sharing and parish 'twinning.' There needs to be a will on the part of the Chancery to 'think outside the box' if they truly want Catholics to come home."

Both sets of appeals were crafted by the Friends' Canonical Advocate, who is one of only seven Canon lawyers world-wide who have the faculties to practice law at this level of the Vatican legal system.

Glennon says this new set of appeals could delay any sale of the parish property for perhaps another six years while things are tied up in Rome. "It's a lot more cost-effective for the Cardinal to keep vibrant parishes open than it is to pay for the maintenance of closed parishes," said Glennon. "We hope he will reconsider our request to 're-re-open' the church as a worship space once again."

In addition to the appeals and their newly reformed prayer group, the Friends are also planning to reinstate the "Giving Tree" project at Christmas, in which parishioners donate toys and turkey dinners to less fortunate families in the Greater Boston area.

For information on becoming involved in one of the Friends' committees, or if you are interested in creating programs, call Maureen Mazrimas at 617-257-8295 or Sean Glennon at 617-909-6426.

THE GRANITE PUMPKIN – Ed Monti and Mayor Thomas Koch stand with the solid granite jack-o-lantern donated by Monti Granite for display outside of City Hall. Monti carved the pumpkin from a 6,000-pound block of granite that he says makes it the world's heaviest pumpkin. Monti Granite also donated a 1,100-pound granite pumpkin basket that will also remain on display for the season on the McIntyre Mall outside of City Hall. "Ed Monti and the Monti family are a Quincy treasure, and are always looking for ways to give back to the community. The pumpkin is really remarkable – people have been turning their heads, taking pictures with it, and touching it to make sure it's real since it's been out there," Mayor Koch said.

White House Wreath To Mark 275th Birth Of John Adams Friday

The White House wreath-laying ceremony commemorating the 275th birth anniversary of President John Adams will be held Friday, 29 at noon, at United First Parish Church (Unitarian) in Quincy – where both John Adams and John Quincy Adams are interred alongside their wives.

The ceremony will feature remarks by Congressman William Delahunt, who will be retiring from the House of Representatives in January, and John Adams, a descendant of President John Adams.

A military honor guard under the direction of Commander Scott Graham, Commanding Officer of the U.S. Navy Operational Support Center Quincy, will present the White House wreath during the ceremony. Commander Graham will offer remarks on behalf of President Barack Obama.

Quincy Mayor Thomas P. Koch and Carol Shannon, a senior at the Woodward School for Girls in Quincy will also speak.

The Quincy Choral Society and the U.S. Navy Brass Ensemble from Newport, Rhode Island will provide music.

Rev. Sheldon Bennett, Minister, said, "As we honor John Adams as a founder of our nation, author of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and Second President of the United States, we also honor his inspired and devoted public service as a statesman, political thinker, and leader for independence. This church was important to the Adams Presidents and their families."

In the 1960's, President Lyndon Johnson began the tradition of sending a large red, white, and blue laurel wreath from the White House to be placed on the graves of deceased U.S. Presidents.

President John Adams was born in Quincy (at that time the North Precinct of old Braintree) Oct. 30, 1735, which this year falls on Saturday. The ceremony will be held tomorrow (Friday).

Following the ceremony - which is free and open to the public – the crypt with the tombs of the Presidents and First Ladies will be open for tours.

United First Parish Church (Unitarian) is located at 1306 Hancock Street in Quincy Center, directly across the street from the Quincy Center MBTA station.

Parking is available in the Presidents Place parking garage located at 1250 Hancock St.

Quincy Symphony Orchestra Opens Concert Season Nov. 7

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will open its 57 season of classic and contemporary orchestral works Sunday, Nov. 7 at 2:30 p.m. at the Lloyd Hill Performing Arts Center at Quincy High School.

The performing arts center is inside the main entrance on 100 Coddington St. Parking is also available in the Russell Street parking lot.

Highlighting the QSO's Fall Concert will be a performance by pianist Miyuki Otani of the Beethoven 4th Piano Concerto under the baton of Yoichi Udagawa.

The opening selection will be "An American Hymn," a recent composition by local composer Tom Vignieri. The concert will conclude with Dvorak's Symphony #9, "From the New World."

Quincy Symphony classical recitals offer concert-goers an intimate and enjoyable symphonic experience with the convenience of free parking and less the burden of ticket expense.

To fulfill its new vision of "Bringing World-class Music to Everyone," the QSO is providing the public with a limited number of complimentary (free) seating tickets. Tickets will be available through area outlets, listed on the QSO's website, and at the door up to 30 minutes before the concert.

Donations of any amount will also be accepted. Donors of $50 or more ($40 for seniors) will receive two Priority-seating tickets to each of the QSO's three classical concerts as well as reserved, preferred seating at those concerts.

For the listing of area outlets with QSO tickets, available donation subscription packages, or any other questions, call 800-579-1618.

John Adams Birthday Celebration At Adams National Historical Park Saturday

The Adams National Historical Park announces several events Saturday in celebration of the 275th birthday anniversary of John Adams.

From noon to 2 p.m., there will be book signing with Marian R. Carlson, author of John Adams: The Voice Heard Round the World. This a companion book to the Boston Landmarks Orchestra's History Through Music Series, a fully-integrated story set to music about one of the central figures of the American Revolution.

The book, designed for children and adults, may be "heard and seen" Saturday between noon and 2 p.m. at the Carriage House which is part of the Adams National Historical Park, 135 Adams St., Quincy.

From to 2 to 3 p.m., there will be a birthday celebration with Edwin Page, historic re-enactor of John Adams. Page will bring the "Atlas of Independence" on his 275th birthday.

The celebration, including a birthday cake, will be held in the Carriage House.

The program is free and open to the public.

For more information, call the Visitor Center at 617-770-1175.

Thanksgiving Food Drive At Quincy Community United Methodist Church

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston, is collecting food items for its annual Thanksgiving In-Gathering of Food.

The food drive will be held Nov. 1-21. All food collected will be donated to the Interfaith Social Services Food Pantry.

"The goal this year is to stuff one of the parishioner's vans full of food," said Rev. Dr. Susan F. Jarek-Glidden, church pastor. "So far, we've succeeded every year."

The In-Gathering is in addition to the church's monthly food drives for ISS. The church also collects "Change for Change," an on-going ministry of collecting pocket change and converting it to food cards for ISS.

The public is welcome to donate to these food drives. Donations of non-perishable food items may be left in the upstairs church hallway on Sundays.

To arrange a pick-up of items, call the church office at 617-773-3319

Souther Tide Mill Sports New Look

tect the interior.

No one is happier that the building exterior has been restored and protected than Carolyn Marks, president of the Friends of Souther Tide Mill. For the past 15 years, Marks has been leading efforts, sometimes the lone voice, to rescue the mill which deteriorated swiftly in the last decades.

She praised Mayor Thomas Koch and Friends of Souther Tide Mill, Inc. for their efforts and support.

Koch ordered the work after March storms threatened to destroy the then rickety tide mill. Koch declared the situation an emergency and hired Jay Cashman Co. which oversaw the building rescue.

More recently, Koch issued a Request for Proposals in early September seeking interested parties who would protect the historic property while possibly operating a museum on part of the property.

Whatever, the future, the structure is safe for now, according to Marks and it looks good.

SAVORING SUCCESS. Carolyn Marks led the 15-year effort to restore Souther Tidal Mill and paused for a few moments this week to discuss the major progress at this mill this fall. The mill has new cedar shingles and its underpinnings have been reinforced against inclement weather. Marks' two-year-old Sheltie Noah insisted on sharing the moment.

"It looks fantastic," Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest said Monday, noting she is grateful to the administration and Koch for making it "secure and sound."

However, Laforest also said, "There's still a lot of work to be done."

Like Marks, Laforest envisions a public place that will "tell its story," along signage explaining the different device and events in the city and country's history.

Marks, also, foresees a small museum with public access to the mill, but additional work needs to be done.

SOUTHER TIDAL MILL sports a new exterior, thanks to Community Preservation funds, a state grant and a $50,000 gift from Jay Cashman. The work completed this fall maintains historic integrity with cedar shingles and roofing installed through Colonial Restoration.

Quincy Sun Photos/Laura Griffin

"The outside looks good," Marks said, noting that Colonial Restoration did the work which ensures the building extended life and its historic integrity.

"Massachusetts Historical Commission has been watching," Marks said, referring to the state agency which protects historical structures and requires that contractors comply with historic norms. The project was funded through a $130,000 grant from Community Preservation Funds and a $50,000 donation from Jay Cashman who subcontracted the project to Colonial Restoration.

While the tidal mill image is improved considerably, there is still plenty of work ahead, according to Marks who foresees the building's future as a restored gristmill with a museum by its side.

"What we envision is to restore the mill so that it is a working grist mill," said Marks, noting that the original equipment is still on site and operable. However, the equipment will now have to run on electricity, as the original dam that powered the machines is long gone.

In addition, an architect is now looking into some foundation improvements and the interior must be restored.

"The majority of the foundation is granite. It isn't in dire straits." Marks said, recalling the last major work on the project during the administration of Mayor James Sheets.

"Way back during Jim Sheets' time we had a matching grant, $350,000. That secured the foundation," said Marks. An architect is now looking into the some foundation updates as well as interior improvements. Marks, some Friends, and contractors can access the interior but it is not safe for public yet.

"We'll keep applying for grants," said Marks who praised the 15 to 25 supporters of the tidal mill who have worked with her through the Friends of Souther Tide Mill, Inc.

While there are many tidal mills still functioning in Europe, the Souther Tide Mill is only one of five to six in this country and has long attracted the interest of Dorchester's Tide Mill Institute which displays Joe Chetwynde's drawing of Souther Tide Mill as it was in 1800.

Marks' enthusiasm for the tide mill restoration is in itself a unique story as she describes the time 15 years ago when she offered her friend's son a home while he got settled in the Boston.

Her friend Jean Souther lived on the Cape. After her son graduated from college, he stated at Marks' Quincy home while working in Boston.

As it turned out, Richard Souther was a direct descendant of John and John L Souther who established the shipbuilding yard along with the saw and gristmill on town River Bay in 1815.

Souther's youngest son Edward built the present structure in 1854 after fire destroyed the original mill.

After the Southers sold the property, there were four successive owners who dealt mainly in lumber.

Marks' young visitor inspired her first interest, as did Chetwynde and the work of H. Holly Hobart.

However, Richard Souther headed to Hawaii and Marks developed the Friends group which is now thriving.

Harrington Seeks Approval Of Green Guidelines For Quincy Center Project

By LAURA GRIFFIN

City Planner Dennis Harrington Monday asked city councillors Monday to approve new design guidelines for Quincy Center's future development that could transform 'blacktop' city into an attractive welcoming destination for city business, visitors and commerce.

Harrington spoke as city councillors began their second session studying and examining the proposed Land Disposition Agreement between the city and Street Works developers, officially registered as Hancock Adams Associates, LLC, a New York limited liability company.

Monday's review was one of five posted sessions scheduled for joint meetings of the Downtown Committee headed by Chairman Doug Gutro, Ward 5, and the Finance Committee headed Chairman John Keenan. The next meeting is Nov. 7.

While the city's attorney Thomas Kiley offered a timeline with City Council approval in early December, several councillors stressed that their vote will only follow intensive study and review.

"There is a very real time crunch here," Kiley said, referring to the financial commitments by the developer and the city and noting that the timing will have significant financial ramifications.

However, City Council President Kevin Coughlin said he has begun the process of seeking outside legal advocates to aid councillors in their review and that itself could take several weeks.

Coughlin announced that he has appointed a committee of three, Councillors Joseph Finn, Daniel Raymondi, Ward 2 and Brian Palmucci, Ward 4, to prepare a Request for Qualifications for legal aid and review potential advisors.

In addition, Coughlin said that Mayor Thomas Koch assured him that he would approve all the necessary funding for outside review.

The meeting opened with Harrington's presentation in which he noted that "400 parcels in downtown are touched by this (renewal plans)."

However, he stressed that now that the Concourse is near completion, there are no eminent domain land takings or relocations as part of the Quincy Center plan.

Harrington then described the need for councillors' approval of Amendment 2 which provides "Sustainability" guidelines. He asked for a vote, but councillors chose to postpone action.

"These did not exist prior to this amendment," said Harrington of the sustainability mandates in the amendment. Harrington credited a committee of young planners headed by Principal Planner Rob Stevens and predicted Quincy would be recognized nationally after adopting the green guidelines.

"We are the only city with an arts ordinance," Harrington said, noting that developers must provide art in their public space.

The guidelines focus on six environmental issues Site, Water Management, Energy, Materials, Indoor Environmental Quality and Transportation.

Harrington also touched on plans for the Adams Green in front of City Hall but met some opposition from Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee who cited the needs of handicapped and elderly who would have to walk through the green to get to City Hall.

"I don't think everybody's programmed to get on a bike," said McNamee.

Harrington stated, "70% of the downtown is blacktop. Blacktop is not what we need."

Harrington said the plan would eliminate the dangers of crossing streets in Quincy Center, eliminate some of the blacktop which covers the city and he suggested there could be "some sort of kiosks to get a dog tag or pay bills."

In addition, he said the plan guarantees, "There will be ways to get vehicles in and out of the city."

Delahunt Receives Dennis Ryan Democrat Of Year Award

The Quincy Democratic City Committee presented the Dennis Ryan Democrat of the Year Award to Cong. William D. Delahunt at its annual breakfast Sunday at the Quincy Elks Tirrell Room.

"Congressman Delahunt has been a fearless advocate not just for his hometown of Quincy but for all the communities in his district," said Alicia Gardner, chairperson of the Quincy Democratic City Committee. "The Congressman has been an advocate for working families, veterans, senior citizens and has made it his priority to improve the quality of life for those in his district and across Massachusetts and his advocacy is going to be something which is hard to replace."

Delahunt, who is currently serving out his seventh term as the 10th Congressional U.S representative, announced in March he would not seek reelection. His district, which includes his hometown of Quincy covers all of the South Shore as well as the Cape and Islands.

The breakfast, which is an annual gathering, is considered by many as one of the "must stops" for any candidate seeking election in the city and South Shore.

Some 300 people attended Sunday's breakfast including Governor Deval Patrick, Democratic Treasurer nominee Steve Grossman, Attorney General Martha Coakley, 10th Congressional Democratic nominee and current Norfolk County DA Bill Keating and other elected officials and candidates on the ballot next Tuesday.

Supports Jeff Perry And Health Care Reform

Health care availability is no longer based "on the worth of the human person," but "on each human person's worth to the "state" totalitarianism.

Persons in the prime-of-the-life qualify for health care, those younger and those older face rationed care - $500 billion cut from Medicare, 25 million people affected, $100 billion out from Medicare advantage plans. Obama Administration forced a Mass Insurer to modify 20,000 customers their plan was cancelled; this action despite president's assurances nobody would love his/her plan.

Other health care laws' negative effects:

Employees jeopardized – Businesses may be forced to drop low-cost plans alto lose their plans "grandfathered standing."

Hospitals jeopardized – Record breaking payment reductions.

Doctors jeopardized – 23% pay cut.

States jeopardized – 44 states exceeded Medicaid spending; yet government orders states to spend more.

Taxpayers jeopardized – Most of the new taxes - $500 billion in next decade – to be on middle class contrary to president's assurances.

Federal deficit further plundered (Effect of people losing employers' health plans, federal spending to ultimately raise the deficit by $1.4 trillion.

Constitution trashed – 20 states filed a constitutional challenged against the health care law.

Solons of only one political party voted for this bill, but none of them ever read it. House speaker Pelosi said, "After we pass it, then we can find out what's in it."

Our 10th Congressional District Representative voted for this bill, and then decided not to run for re-election.

Why send to Washington another congressperson of the same political party that rammed this bill into law?

People are feeling intimidated and looking for direction.

A suggestion, please consider electing a congressperson from another political party to reinforce opposition to the law.

Please consider voting for Jeff Perry as our congressperson to oppose this law.

Jeff Perry believes in "the intrinsic worth of the human person" and the exercise of personal freedom to manage one's own health care with one's chosen doctor.

Jeff Perry is for real health care reform to address the cost of health care without government mandates and socialized care.

Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully,
Bill Kerrigan
Resident of the 10th Congressional District

The Voters' Choice: Positive Solutions Or The politics Of Personal Destruction

Last spring, I had the privilege of being nominated by Sen. Scott Brown to represent Massachusetts at the national Republican Women's Summit in Washington, DC.

The mood at the conference was upbeat and enthusiastic. Participants heard from congressmen and political activists who described a renewed energy and commitment across the nation to elect leaders who would reverse the damage inflicted by two years of trillion-dollar "stimulus" debacles, tax increases and corporate bailouts. They supported their statements with hard numbers showing that the vast majority of Americans opposed not only the disastrous health care legislation, but also the big-government, tax-and-spend stimulus policies of the current administration.

They also offered a caveat: Be prepared, they told us, for the most negative, personally destructive political campaigns you have ever seen. Today's far-left Democratic Party had access to the same polling results and statistics, conference leaders explained. They knew they couldn't win on the issues, because on every issue, the people were against them. So the only option left was to demonize their opponents in an attempt to make their tax-and-spend liberal candidates seem palatable by default.

Sadly, this prediction has come to pass. We've seen it across the nation, as conservative candidates have been vilified, lampooned and harangued by opponents who have nothing positive to say about their own campaigns. And we're seeing it here in the 10th congressional district race as well.

State Rep. Jeff Perry is a National Guard veteran, former police officer and a four-term state legislator. He has served honorably, fighting against the overwhelming Democratic majority on Beacon Hill to cut taxes, reduce government spending and prevent illegal immigrants from collecting welfare and other state benefits. He has run a positive, courteous and dignified campaign based on the issues, explaining in great detail his positions on health care, social security, taxes, national security and immigration reform.

His opponent, William Keating, has addressed none of these issues. Instead of telling the voters where he stands on the critical problems facing our nation, Mr. Keating has chosen to follow the Democratic Party political playbook, stooping to the worst kind of gutter politics and political mudslinging.

On Nov. 2, voters have a choice. They can vote for Jeff Perry, and send a message to Washington that the days of trillion-dollar deficits, billion-dollar bailouts and welfare for illegal immigrants are over. Or they can vote for Bill Keating and ensure that Speaker of the House Nancy Pelosi has yet another rubber stamp to support her far-left, big-government agenda.

But voters have another choice to make as well. A vote for Jeff Perry is a vote for positive, courteous political campaigns that show voters the respect they deserve by focusing on the critical issues facing our state and the nation.

On Tuesday, Nov. 2 1 will be voting for the candidate who showed voters the courtesy of telling us where he stands on the issues and what he will do if elected. That candidate is Jeff Perry.

Hopes City's Future Is Better Than Expected

Your publication on 10-21-10 was one of my favorites!

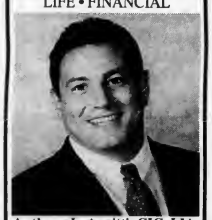
You touched on several issues that have been an ongoing source of irritation to me.

The New Central School: I live in my grandmother's house. Never in my lifetime have I had free access to my tax-paid driveway until St. Ann's School closed. Now looking forward to an asbestos filled school (I'm guessing), being torn down and rebuilt. I can only hope someone has enough brain cells left not to put his or her front door across from my driveway.

If the Tide Mill can be saved, where is all the money coming from to demolish and rebuild this city? $1.3 billion for Quincy Center and $30 million (or more) for a new school.

Quincy...The Next Big Dig.

David Campbell – Brooksville, FL: I loved his "Readers Forum" article. Everyday I find myself wondering if everyone in this city is deaf, dumb and blind to what is going on under his or her noses or do they just not care? Maybe the next gut-wrenching tax increase will wake them up.



500-600 tons of asbestos laden rubble from Quincy Market demolition not being soaked with water on a particular dry, windy weekend. What a surprise, not!

DOVE: No one should be abused but at what point do you start taking responsibility for your own actions? If women don't report their abusers, and the courts don't severely punish the perpetrators after certain validation of the complaint, will it ever end? Educate, educate, and educate starting in kindergarten. But how can we do that in beautiful new schools that can't afford to pay/keep their teachers?

To the future of Quincy...May it be better than expected.

Economy, Budget Woes On Voters' Minds

Residents Agree On One Thing: Next Governor Has Work Ahead

By JOE REARDON

Locals residents aren't sure who the next governor will be but they do know he's going to have his work cut out for him in combating the state's economic and budget woes.

With the race between Gubernatorial candidates Democrat Deval Patrick, Republican Charles Baker, Independent Tim Cahill and Green Rainbow Party Jill Stein heading towards the Nov. 2 homestretch, there is no shortage of issues facing the four candidates.

Residents gave their opinion about the current state of Massachusetts' last week in city hall plaza and at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

"The budget's number one," said Regina Whalen, who worked in the city's tax office for 29 years. "I have a budget at my house. I expect them to have one too."

David Hollingsworth, a veteran of the war against Iraq, believes the problems at the state house run far deeper than the obvious issues centered on the economy. "Whoever takes office has to clean it up," said Hollingsworth.

Stan Johnson, the pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, believes the economy woes are resonating with the overwhelming majority of the people. "I think it's going to be the economy and health care," said Johnson. "I'm sure that's what everyone's saying."

Kim Cavanaugh was on board with Johnson. "Probably the tax thing," she said. "That's number one."

Alan Blackwell said added jobs would give the local economy a boost it definitely needs.

"The biggest challenge is to bring jobs back. There are too many resources for things not to work," said Blackwell.

Malcolm Banks added: "There are a lot of problems he's going to have to fix. The high taxes are a problem."

John Bowen is currently unemployed but is confident the next leader at the state house will have the ability to solve many of the woes of the workingman.

DEVAL PATRICK
Democrat

CHARLES BAKER
Republican

TIM CAHILL
Independent

JILL STEIN
Green-Rainbow

"I've been looking for six months now and the jobs just aren't out there," said Bowen. "Things will change though. You just get up in the morning and keep moving. I respect them (candidates) all. I think they're all decent human beings."

Angela Degrazia, though, is a little less optimistic than Bowen. "Pretty much everything," she said when asked what needed to be fixed. "Something has got to change. I think a lot of people are fed up with Deval (Patrick)."

Like Degrazia, David Harney isn't optimistic that the economy is going to improve anywhere in the near future. "The economy and people's finances are problems," Harney said. "The middle class is in tough shape. I haven't heard any solutions from any of the candidates. There are too many negative ads."

Leo McAuliffe has little faith in any of the candidates.

"I don't trust them to do the right thing," he said. "The money, as it relates to spending and jobs, is a problem. I don't trust where the cuts will be made. Certain groups and people are more vulnerable than others."

Rachel Blanchard, whose husband had a hard time finding a job while working towards his MBA, only just recently was able to find work.

"I just want people to have jobs," said Blanchard. "I think that's the biggest stress, people providing for their families.

"My husband was working on getting his MBA and wasn't able to find a job until October. For us, that seems lucky. It feels short compared to a lot of people."

Crime, too, is a hot topic for people. Tao Yin has become wary of going outside once the sun goes down. "I'm nervous to go out at night," said Yin. "I've heard a lot of people tell me not to go out in the evening."

Damian Johnson believes a full-court press by the police must be done to decrease crime, particularly in Boston.

"In Boston, right now, the violence needs to cease," Johnson said. "I read they're going to create tougher gun laws. You get kids getting shot and women getting shot."

Holly Matheson expressed concern about the school system and what it holds down the line for her 2-year-old son Eli.

"I'm looking at the rating of Quincy Public Schools and they're not rated that bad, but by the time he's in school I'd like to see them higher," said Matheson.

School cuts were a concern for Michelle Labodie. "The economy's not good and I'm worried about the school systems as far as what programs are going to be cut."

Patrick Walsh has had trouble finding affordable housing, another issue that needs to be addressed on Beacon Hill.

"I don't think they're doing much lately job-wise." Walsh said.

The state election is Tuesday, Nov. 2. Polls in Quincy will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

City turnout for the last state election in 2006 highlighted by an open seat for governor was 53.71 percent. Quincy's legislative delegation (state senator and three representatives) was unopposed four years ago.

Another factor in triggering a potentially higher than expected turnout: the Independent candidacies of two former longtime Quincy municipal office holders. Former City Councillor Tim Cahill is engaged in a hard-hitting battle for the state's highest office – governor. Former Mayor James Sheets is among five candidates seeking to replace retiring U.S. Rep. William Delahunt as the congressman in the 10th District which spans from Quincy to Cape Cod and the Islands.

Cahill, the former Norfolk County treasurer who has served as state treasurer since 2002, is seeking to become the first governor from Quincy since John Hancock. The other candidates are incumbent Deval Patrick, who is vying for a second four-year term; Republican Charlie Baker, a former health insurance executive; and Jill Stein, a member of the Green-Rainbow Party.

The governor's race has been epic with all three of the major candidates trading barbs on such issues as health care, the state's budget deficit, unemployment and the economy.

It has also been marked by the unprecedented departure of Cahill's erstwhile running mate, Paul Loscocco. A former Republican who changed his affiliation to unenrolled to join the Cahill ticket as lieutenant governor, Loscocco defected Oct. 1 and endorsed Baker. Cahill, who has honed a reputation as a political maverick, resolved to stay in the race. "I will keep fighting because I believe I can win," he told the Sun 24 hours after Loscocco's defection.

The race in the 10th Congressional District fields a five-candidate field. Besides Sheets, there are Democrat William Keating, the current Norfolk County district attorney who moved to Quincy earlier this year; Republican Jeff Perry, a state representative from Sandwich; Independent Maryanne Lewis of Scituate; and Joe Van Nes from West Tisbury who is running under the "Bring Home Troops" designation.

In the Norfolk County match-ups, Sheriff Michael Bellotti, a Quincy Democrat, is seeking a third six-year term. Bellotti, who also served as a state representative before being elected sheriff in 1998, is being challenged by Republican William J. Ferratta of Weymouth. Ferratta is a corrections officer at the Norfolk County House of Corrections which is supervised by Sheriff Bellotti.

There's also a two-candidate race to replace Keating as district attorney. Quincy Democrat Michael Morrissey, who defeated two other Democrats to win his party's nomination in the Sept. 14 primary, is squaring off against Independent John Coffey, a Needham attorney.

Morrissey, an attorney, is a long-time local legislator who was first elected to the House of Representatives at the age of 22. He has served as a state senator since 1992.

Morrissey's decision to vacate his Senate seat triggered a Democratic primary contest. City Councillor John Keenan defeated State Rep. Arthur Stephen Tobin Sept. 14 for his party's nomination in the Norfolk-Plymouth District which comprises Quincy, the towns of Holbrook, Abington and Rockland; and eight precincts in Braintree.

The final election Nov. 2 features Keenan, Republican Dan Dewey and Independent Laura Innis. All three are Quincy residents.

Dewey is retired from the Massachusetts Parole Board and Governor's Advisory Board of Pardons.

Innis works as a Health Education and Outreach Coordinator for the State Department of Public Health.

Tobin's decision to vacate his state representative seat to run for Senate also created a vacancy and a Democratic primary. Tackey Chan, an attorney, defeated fellow Democrat Joseph Keegan, also an attorney and former police officer, for his party's nomination. The final election is a three-candidate race with Chan; Republican John Iredale and Independent Karl Roos.

All three candidates are from Quincy. Iredale is the president of a construction-development company; Roos works in medical sales.

Geographically, the 2nd Norfolk District comprises 13 precincts all located in Quincy. They are: all five precincts in Ward 1; Ward 3, Precincts 1, 2 and 5; Ward 4, Precincts 2 and 4; and Ward 5; Precincts 1, 3 and 4.

In Quincy's other legislative races, one incumbent is challenged by an Independent and the other is unopposed.

Democrat Ron Mariano of Quincy, who has represented the 3rd Norfolk District since 1992, faces a challenge by Independent Gary Lowell of Weymouth. Mariano, who also served as a Quincy School Committeeman, is the assistant House Majority leader.

The 3rd Norfolk District comprises precincts in Quincy, Holbrook and Weymouth. They are: all five precincts in Ward 2 and Ward 4 Precinct 5; three precincts in Holbrook and five precincts in Weymouth.

In the 1st Norfolk District, incumbent Democrat Bruce Ayers of Quincy does not have an opponent on the ballot. Ayers, a former Ward 6 city councillor, seeks a seventh two-year term. He was first elected in 1998.

The 1st Norfolk District consists of 11 precincts in Quincy and two in Randolph. The Quincy precincts are: all five precincts in Ward 6; Ward 3, Precinct 3 and 4; Ward 4, Precincts 1 and 3; and Ward 5, Precincts 2 and 5.

The state's other constitutional offices are also all contested. Two of the seats – for treasurer and auditor – are open and those races appear to be tightening according to recent polls.

Running for treasurer are Democrat Steven Grossman of Newton and Republican Karyn Polito of Shrewsbury. The seat is open because Cahill – who was elected to two terms as state treasurer – is running for governor.

Grossman is chairman of Grossman Marketing Group in Somerville. He has also served as chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic Party.

Polito, a former member of the Shrewsbury Board of Selectman, has represented the 11th Worcester District as a state representative since 2000.

The other open seat is for state auditor. Democrat Joseph DeNucci, who has served as state auditor since 1986, announced earlier this year he is retiring after serving six four-year terms.

Seeking to replace DeNucci are Democrat Suzanne Bump of Great Barrington; Republican Mary Z. Connaughton of Framingham and Green-Rainbow candidate Nathanael Alexander Fortune of Whately.

Bump, a former state representative from Braintree, is the former secretary of the Office of Labor and Workforce Development under Gov. Deval Patrick.

Connaughton was appointed to the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority in 2005 by then Gov. Mitt Romney. Her experience also includes serving as chief financial officer of the Massachusetts Lottery.

Fortune is an associate professor in the physics department at Smith College. He ran unsuccessfully for state representative (Franklin District) in 2004.

In the race for attorney general, incumbent Martha Coakley, a Democrat from Medford, is challenged by Republican James McKenna of Milbury. Coakley is seeking a second four-year term as the state's chief lawyer and law enforcement officer. She is the first woman to serve as attorney general in Massachusetts.

McKenna is a former assistant district attorney in Suffolk County and Worcester County. He waged a successful write-in campaign to win his party's nomination for attorney general in the Sept. 14 primary.

In the Secretary of State contest, incumbent Democrat William Galvin is seeking a fifth four-year term. Galvin, a former state representative, was first elected Secretary of State in 1994. His opponents are Republican William Campbell of Woburn and James Henderson, an unenrolled candidate from Stow.

Campbell was appointed city clerk in Woburn in 1997. He also served terms as a city councillor and alderman in Woburn.

Henderson is a business and estate planning attorney who is making his first run for political office.

There is also a contested race for governor's councillor in the Fourth District that includes Quincy. Incumbent Christopher Ianella, Jr. of Boston, a Democrat, is seeking re-election. His opponent is Independent Jacquolyn Payne-Thompson, also of Boston.

The final race appearing on Tuesday's ballot locally: incumbent Peter Collins, a Democrat, is seeking re-election as a Norfolk County commissioner. He is unopposed.

There will be three other decisions awaiting voters: a yes or no vote on three ballot questions.

Question 1 would remove the state sales tax on alcoholic beverages and alcohol.

Question 2 would repeal the state law allowing the issuance of a single comprehensive permit to build housing that includes low-or moderate-income units.

Question 3 would reduce the state sales and use tax rates from 6.25 percent to 3 percent as of Jan. 1.

The text of all three questions or laws proposed by initiative petition – and what a yes vote and a no vote would do – appears on Page 22.

Shea is encouraging voters to read the state's voting guide – mailed to every residence with a registered voter – which explains the three questions or laws proposed by initiative petition before heading to the polls.

"The ballot questions may slow the voting lines down," Shea said. "Please read the questions ahead of time and try to make your decision before you go to the polls," he added.

The city election will cost an estimated $80,000; the state will pick up about $30,000, Shea said.

There are no changes at any of the polling precincts since the Sept. 14 primary.

Polls at Quincy's voting precincts will be open next Tuesday, Nov. 2 from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Shea said he expects Quincy's vote to be tabulated by 10 p.m. Election Night.

★ THE BALLOT QUESTIONS - Laws Proposed By Initiative Petition ★

QUESTION 1

Question 1: Sales Tax on Alcoholic Beverages

Do you approve of a law summarized below, on which no vote was taken by the Senate or the House of Representatives before May 4, 2010?

This proposed law would remove the Massachusetts sales tax on alcoholic beverages and alcohol, where the sale of such beverages and alcohol on their importation into the state is already subject to a separate excise tax under state law. The proposed law would take effect on January 1, 2011.

What Your Vote Will Do:

A YES vote would remove the state sales tax on alcoholic beverages and alcohol where their sale or importation into the state is subject to an excise tax under state law.

A NO vote would make no change in the state sales tax on alcoholic beverages and alcohol.

QUESTION 2

Question 2: Comprehensive Permits for Low- or Moderate- Income Housing

Do you approve of a law summarized below, on which no vote was taken by the Senate or the House of Representatives before May 4, 2010?

This proposed law would repeal an existing state law that allows a qualified organization wishing to build government-subsidized housing that includes low- or moderate-income units to apply for a single comprehensive permit from a city or town's zoning board of appeals (ZBA), instead of separate permit from each local agency or official having jurisdiction over any aspect of the proposed housing. The repeal would take effect on January 1, 2011, but would not stop or otherwise affect any proposed housing that had already received both a comprehensive permit and a building permit for at least one unit.

Under the existing law, the ZBA holds a public hearing on the application and considers the recommendations of local agencies and officials. The ZBA may grant a comprehensive permit that may include conditions or requirements concerning the height, site plan, size, shape, or building materials of the housing. Persons aggrieved by the ZBA's decision to grant a permit may appeal it to a court. If the ZBA denies the permit or grants it with conditions or requirements that make the housing uneconomic to build or to operate, the applicant may appeal to the state Housing Appeals Committee (HAC).

After a hearing, if the HAC rules that the ZBA's denial of a comprehensive permit was unreasonable and not consistent with local needs, the HAC orders the ZBA to issue the permit. If the HAC rules that the ZBA's decision issuing a comprehensive permit with conditions or requirements made the housing uneconomic to build or operate and was not consistent with local needs, the HAC orders the ZBA to modify or remove any such condition r requirement so as to make the proposal no longer uneconomic. The HAC cannot order the ZBA to issue any permit that would allow the housing to fall below minimum safety standards or site plan requirements. If the HAC rules that the ZBA's action was consistent with local needs, the HAC must uphold it even if it made the housing uneconomic. The HAC's decision is subject to review in the courts.

A condition or requirement makes housing "uneconomic" if it would prevent a public agency or non-profit organization from building or operating the housing except at a financial loss, or it would prevent a limited dividend organization from building or operating the housing without a reasonable return on its investment.

A ZBA's decision is "consistent with local needs" if it applies requirements that are reasonable in view of the regional need for low- and moderate- income housing and the number of low-income persons in the city or town, as well as the need to protect health and safety, promote better site and building design, and preserve open space, if those requirements are applied as equally as possible to both subsidized and unsubsidized housing. Requirements are considered "consistent with local needs" if more than 10% of the city or town's housing units are low- or moderate-income units or if such units are on sites making up at least 1.5% of the total private land zoned for residential, commercial, or industrial use in the city or own. Requirements are also considered "consistent with local needs" if the application would result, in any one calendar year, in beginning construction of low- or moderate-income housing on sites making up more than 0.3% of the total private land zoned for residential, commercial, or industrial use in the city or town, or on ten acres, whichever is larger.

The proposed law states that if any of its parts were declared invalid, the other parts would stay in effect.

What Will Your Vote Do:

A YES vote would repeal the state law allowing the issuance of a single comprehensive permit to build housing that includes low- or moderate-income units.

A NO vote would make no change in the state law allowing issuances of such a comprehensive permit.

QUESTION 3

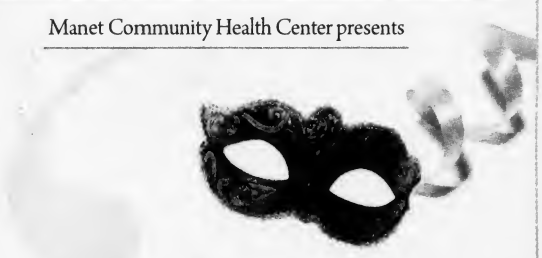
Question 3: Sales and Use Tax Rates

Do you approve of a law summarized below, on which no vote was taken by the Senate or the House of Representatives before May 4, 2010?

The proposed law would reduce the state sales and use tax rates (which were 6.25% as of September 2009) to 3% as of January 1, 2011. It would make the same reduction in the rate used to determine the amount to be deposited with the state Commissioner of Revenue by non-resident building contractors as security for the payment of sales and use tax on tangible personal property used in carrying out their contracts.

The proposed law provides that if the 3% rates would not produce enough revenues to satisfy any lawful pledge of sales and use tax revenues in connection with any bond, note, or other contractual obligation, then the rates would instead be reduces to the lowest level allowed by law.

The proposed law would not affect the collection of moneys due the Commonwealth for sales, storage, use or other consumption of tangible personal property or services occurring before January 1, 2011.



The proposed law states that if any of its parts were declared invalid, the other parts would stay in effect.

What Your Vote Will Do:

A YES vote would reduce the state sales and use tax rates to 3%.

A NO vote would make no change in the state sales and use tax rates.

South Shore Model Railway Club Receives Citation

William Garvey, a Board member of South Shore Model Railway Club, receives a mayoral citation from Kumu Gupta. Also visible is a model railroad set up with live trains running on the rails.

The South Shore Model Railway Club received a citation from Mayor Tom Koch at its 72nd anniversary Fall Open House held recently in Hingham.

The South Shore Model Railway Club first got started in 1938 in the basement of a store in Quincy, belonging to one of the first club members and has been in continuous operation since 1938. It is one of the oldest model railroad clubs in America.

The mayor's citation was presented to William Garvey, a member of the Board of Directors of the South Shore Model Railway Club by Kumu Gupta of Quincy, a model railway car enthusiast.

The club today is in Hingham, when in the spring of 1998 it moved to a 10,000 square-foot facility in Bare Cove Park. The building was used by the U.S. Navy as a warehouse for ammunition storage during World War II.

The facility was serviced by an extensive rail network providing support for Naval operations in the Northeast. Twenty five percent of the building is committed to member meeting rooms, offices, library and museum space, including 7,500 square feet for the club layout. With the members area completed in spring of 1998, the development of the new club layout is well underway. When completed, the club will have one of the finest facilities in the country for model railroading.

The club's extensive rail network is the result of many individuals, with many talents, working together for many years.

The club is now in its eighth decade of operation.

Address: 139 Sonoma Rd., Quincy.
Occupation: Retired from the Massachusetts Parole Board and Governor's Advisory Board of Pardons
Education: Marian High School, Framingham
University of Texas A&M (Kingsville)
Masters in Business Administration, Masters in Criminal Justice, Anna Maria College, Paxton MA
Family: Married with two children
Veteran: United States Marine Corps, 1968-1970

Past Commander of the Quincy Veterans Council
Past Commandant of the Marine Corps League, William R. Caddy Detachment
Member of the Disabled American Veterans Chapter 29
Member of the American Legion, Nickerson Post 382
City of Quincy Registrar of Voters
Past Chairperson of the Quincy City Republican Committee

DANIEL M. DEWEY

QUESTIONS (150 words per question):

"I am qualified to service as state representative because:

"I have a wide range of life experience, and I will bring a different perspective to the State Senate. My first public service was in the Military where I served as a Marine in Vietnam. I worked in the private sector for many years before embarking on a Criminal Justice career. Most importantly I raised my family in Quincy, my two children went to the Quincy Public Schools, and I was the primary care giver for my Mother who lived to be 101. I understand the issues facing our community, and I know what needs to be changed on Beacon Hill.

"The most important issue that I will address on Beacon Hill after being sworn in is (and why):

"The local aid budget. Our cities and towns have faced cuts from the State that have had a negative ripple effect on our local budgets. They have funded special interest priorities while putting our communities at risk. While the State funded a $4.6 million bridge for horse traffic, Abington saw a fire station closed and Quincy pink slipped teachers. Beacon Hill has its priorities backwards. It's time for the career politicians to put our communities ahead of their special interests."

"My goals during the first two years in office are:

"I am committed to restoring local aid funding to the level it was when Deval Patrick took over the State House four years ago. Since Deval Patrick was elected, we have seen 8 tax increases, while local aid was cut by $800 million. With cuts at the State level we can restore our local services and cut taxes to stimulate job growth.

"I will vote for jobs. Reducing the corporate tax rate will incentivize businesses large and small to build and expand. My focus is on two things that the career politicians have lost sight of, protecting our communities, and creating jobs."

JOHN F. KEENAN

QUESTIONS (150 words per question):

"I am qualified to service as state representative because:

"I have a unique background of civic involvement, private sector employment, and local government experience. In 1985, while still in college, I was involved in Citizens Advocating Proper Planning, to preserve Quincy's neighborhoods through zoning changes. While in law school, I was appointed Chairperson of the Mayor's Commission on Handicapped Affairs by Mayor McCauley, and was then appointed to the Zoning Board of Appeals, on which I served for about 7 ½ years. In 1997 I left the practice of law to serve as Executive Secretary to Mayor Sheets for nearly four years, and have served the last eight years as a City Councilor at Large, asked by the last four council presidents to serve as Finance Committee Chairman. For the past nine years I have also served as Executive Director of a 10,000 member, $525 million pension system, a position which is a blend of law and finance.

"The most important issue that I will address on Beacon Hill after being sworn in is (and why):

"In a fiscally responsible manner, I will address the matter of the state's budget, which is facing an anticipated $2.5 billion deficit. How the Commonwealth manages its budget will determine its ability to meet the many human services, infrastructure, education and public safety needs.

"Also, I will work to ensure that the local aid account, i.e. state money sent to the towns, is adequately and fairly funded; this will help with the delivery of essential local services and will help keep local property taxes down. Within the context of the budget, I will also work to provide appropriate and responsible incentives for the creation of new industries and economies, all in an effort to create jobs for both the short and long term, to put the state on the path to economic recovery, and to insulate the state from future economic downturns.

"My goals during the first two years in office are:

"To deliver outstanding constituent service, to provide adequate local aid, to work to balance the state budget in a fiscally responsible manner, and to responsibly reform the state pension system.

"Most importantly, I will work to restore the public's trust in state government. I promise that I will show up every day at the State House, and will be energized, engaged and committed. I won't go along to get along, but I will work with people, and the voters and taxpayers of Quincy will know they have somebody working hard for them.

"I promise this as well – I will climb the steps to the State House each day, humbled by the privilege of serving, and driven to make a difference."

Civic-Community Involvement: Quincy Beaches and Coastal Commission
QUESTIONS (150 words per question):

"I am qualified to service as state representative because:

"During my 25 year career I've developed expertise on a range of important issues. At the Massachusetts State House I coordinated legislative efforts to protect our coast and evaluate transportation needs. I worked on Education Reform and secured significant funding for schools in a state of emergency.

"I'm able to bring people together, to work collaboratively despite different agendas. I've directed commissions comprised of medical professionals, business leaders, grassroots activists, government officials and the insurance industry.

"I believe what's harming our communities the most is not the budget crisis ~it's the allocation crisis. I'll ensure tax dollars are spent responsibly and that government becomes more efficient. I'm truly an Independent who will work hard for everyone. I have the skills and leadership ability to be a great Senator. As the mother of children in the Quincy Public Schools, I'm committed to making things better for the next generation.

"The most important issue that I will address on Beacon Hill after being sworn in is (and why):

"The need to put people back to work. Creating new and lasting jobs requires short and long term planning. We need a well educated and trained work force to compete in the global market. We need to fix our broken education system and reduce the exorbitant fees that keep many from attending state colleges.

LAURA INNIS

"An investment in education is essential to a strong economy.

"We need to reduce the skyrocketing cost of health care and the administrative expenses associated with providing coverage. This will help small businesses and families who are often faced with rationing health care despite being insured. Government needs to work for us not for corporations whose interest in their bottom line takes precedence over what's best for America.

"I will propose tax benefits for a new GREEN infrastructure. These new energy industries will create jobs improving our physical and economic health."

"My goals during the first two years in office are:

"To force Government to be more accountable and resourceful. One of the most immediate needs I will address as your senator is putting people back to work. I will ensure funding matches our priorities: education, public health, and environmental protection. The legislature has failed to protect us from hundreds of toxic substances in our food, toys and buildings. They have failed to protect us from dangerous criminals and corporate pariahs. We need to bring down the cost of health care and energy and establish healthy food policies.

"These are the priorities I will address. I will ensure our communities get more funding for local aid.

"For nearly 20 years I have advocated for legislation to protect crime victims. Defense attorneys run the legislature and that's why criminals have more rights than victims. I think the legislature needs fewer financial guys and lawyers and a lot more common sense."

QUESTIONS (150 words per question):

"I am qualified to service as state representative because:

"Throughout my life I have been motivated to help people. I have been dedicated to service and advocacy for my fellow citizens of Quincy for my entire adult life.

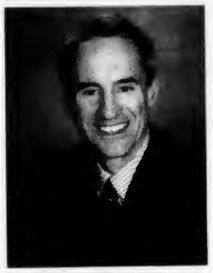
"As an aide for then State Representative Michael Bellotti, and as the Legislative Director for Senator Michael Morrissey, I helped develop policies that have benefitted working families all across the State.

"As an Assistant Attorney General in the consumer advocacy division, I fought successfully for the citizens of the Commonwealth against unfair practices by utility companies.

"And as an active participant in the Quincy community, most notably on the boards of many area non-profits, I work hard on behalf of our neediest neighbors. The common thread in all of this is that I have learned how to listen and respond effectively to people's concerns.

"The most important issue that I will address on Beacon Hill after being sworn in is (and why):

"Jobs and economic development are clearly the most pressing needs of our citizens today. I would focus on supports we can offer small businesses to help create and grow and jobs. Another big strain on both businesses and families is raising health care costs. I would use my experience as a consumer advocate and regulatory attorney to investigate and control health care industry price increases."



"My goals during the first two years in office are:

"In that I've spent a good deal of my professional life developing policies to benefit working families and fighting on behalf of citizens and consumers, I am well-prepared to start work right away pursuing solutions to the problems facing our citizens.

"During my first two years I would like to move forward on stimulating the economy and create jobs and to bring better healthcare cost controls. But my top goal is really to listen closely to the needs of my constituents and provide the type of responsive government that our voters want and deserve."

QUESTIONS (150 words per question):

"I am qualified to service as state representative because:

"I am not a Beacon Hill insider or a career politician. I am a Quincy homeowner, small business owner, and active in our community, serving for many years as a youth soccer and baseball coach and on the board of my church.

"Twenty three years ago, I started my business from the basement of my house in Houghs Neck and have built it into a $5 million a year construction company. I have managed large construction projects in just about every segment of the economy. I work with executives, project managers and tradesmen, all with their own project issues and concerns.

"I know how to manage budgets and work with people to accomplish goals. I have led my company through difficult times and believe my management and leadership experience would be an asset at at the State House as we work to get the Massachusetts economy moving again."

"The most important issue that I will address on Beacon Hill after being sworn in is (and why):

"The state's struggling economy. It has affected nearly every household I have called upon. People have lost their jobs and many are worried about keeping their homes. We must focus on jump-starting our state's economy, which will provide jobs now and in the future.

"Even before the recession, job growth in Massachusetts was stagnant from 1990-2007, while the rest of the country increased over 25 percent. The 2010 Chief Executive Magazine ranked Massachusetts as the 47th best state in which to do business.

"Clearly, we need to do a much better job of attracting and retaining businesses. As a small business owner, I know what works and what doesn't. Drawing on my 23 years of business experience, I will advocate for small-business friendly policies that will help companies grow, creating jobs and reviving our economy. Change will not happen overnight, but for our future we must start now."

"My goals during the first two years in office are:

"I want to play a significant role in the state budget process. Just as families and small businesses do, Beacon Hill has to learn to live within its means. As a business owner, I know how to prioritize spending and balance budgets without sacrificing quality or service.

"My other top priorities are education and public safety. My wife is a teacher in the Quincy Public Schools, and I know how hard teachers work to provide our children with a high-quality education. We also need to ensure that our city has the resources to provide the public safety services that make Quincy a safe and healthy place to live.

"As state representative, I'll fight to rein in wasteful government spending, thereby allowing more money to be sent back to our cities and towns where it can be allocated to our schools, police and fire services."

QUESTIONS (150 words per question):

"I am qualified to service as state representative because:

"I have the perspective and independence that is needed on Beacon Hill. We can't afford business as usual any more. The economy is not going to turn around any time soon and we will be faced with some tough decisions.

"Being independent, I will make the decisions fairly. I am not obligated to party politics or party leaders. I have not accepted money from Lobbyist or Special Interest groups so I am not beholding to them. My loyalty will solely be for the people of district.

"I have 20 year business experience and a MBA in finance. I know what it is like to worry about a job, to lose a job, to raise a family, to worry about the bills, to pay the tax bills. I know the importance of serving the community. This is perspective that we need in a Representative working for us."

"The most important issue that I will address on Beacon Hill after being sworn in is (and why):

"Our economy lacks confidence. People aren't willing to spend, businesses aren't willing to invest and hire, and there is uncertainty about the state's revenue situation. A cure for lack of confidence is job creation. A priority would be the passage of The Casino Bill. The bill should have passed this summer but the Speaker of the House and Governor could not agree.

"The passage would generate three privately funded large construction projects across the state providing thousands of needed jobs for the trades and services while simultaneously the sale of the licenses would create needed revenue for the state. We need businesses to create jobs and to invest; here is a good opportunity for that. We need to build confidence and stability in our economy."

"My goals during the first two years in office are:

"The job of a state rep is public service. My goals would be to help people and solve problems, to listen and learn what I can do for them, to make myself approachable and accessible, to actively seek out and learn the concerns of the people, to become a better state rep.

"For example down near Perry Beach, there is a broken drain, don't know if that is a city or a state issue but I would like to be able to direct the necessary resources to resolve that.

"On the legislative front the priorities would be fiscal reform - changing how the state spends our money rather than cutting local aid and raising taxes.

"Health Insurance - we have some of the highest rates in the country. We need to control those cost so businesses will be able to hire, and we all can afford health insurance."

'What Will Be My First Priority If I Am Elected'

DEMOCRAT

WILLIAM KEATING

Jobs Must Be A Priority

By BILL KEATING

As someone who's represented Quincy for twelve years working to improve our schools, protect seniors' retirement savings, and bolster public safety, I can't remember a time in my life when our biggest institutions, and that includes Congress and Wall Street, have failed us as much as they have during these years.

People took their life savings and put them in 401(k)'s for investments, people put money away for their children's tuition, and then saw their savings disappear because of the greed on Wall Street.

I've met hundreds of people who are struggling to pay their bills and make ends meet because of the lack of jobs. There are millions of people out of work who are desperately looking for jobs and many more who are underemployed.

In Congress, I will make job creation my top priority. As Norfolk County District Attorney I have seen the impact that this recession has had on this district. I've seen people lose their jobs and I've seen families lose their homes.

The way to create jobs is through small businesses. Small business drives our state and represents 85 percent of our economy. As a state representative, I fought to get small businesses greater access to capital, and I will continue to do so in Congress. I support directing $30 billion to community banks for small business loans to stimulate job growth.

The SouthField redevelopment at the former South Weymouth Naval Air Station is a $1.3 billion dollar project, and it will be one of my top priorities as a congressman. SouthField is the largest development project in the state and will create 10,000 new jobs. I understand how vital the Southfield economic development project is as a source of new jobs and revenue for the town of Weymouth and the entire South Shore, and I'll fight to ensure its success.

I am also the only candidate in this race who supports Cape Wind. The offshore wind farm will create hundreds of green jobs throughout Massachusetts and permanent jobs on the Cape, and it will make Massachusetts a leader in the green energy technology sector.

Creating jobs is about more than making votes in Washington – it's about rolling up your sleeves and working with local leaders in government to drive investment in jobs. I'm Bill Keating, and a vote for me is a vote for jobs.

REPUBLICAN

JEFFREY PERRY

Fixing America's Economy

By JEFF PERRY

If I am fortunate enough to be elected to Congress, my first priority will be to do whatever I can to help fix America's economy. People all over the country, including across the 10th Congressional district, need to get back to work.

I have deep-rooted confidence in Americans' entrepreneurial spirit. It is the key to our economic recovery. But in order to flourish, government needs not stand in the way of that spirit as entrepreneurs try to create jobs again.

We need to keep taxes low so American families and businesses have more money to spend on things that are important. I have called for an immediate end to the national "death tax," which threatens the livelihood of small businesses (many of which are family-owned) and stands in the way of job creation.

We can accomplish this by keeping federal spending responsible and taming our $13 trillion national debt. We cannot continue with business as usual in Washington. I refuse, as the next congressman from the 10th Congressional District, to sponsor earmarks. I will fight for my district, and I will support worthwhile and necessary spending. But, I will also insist that spending go through the normal authorization process.

I have also called for repeal of the national health care bill, which I believe is unconstitutional, and for immediate action on ways to reform the cost side of health care. I believe we could save working families a lot of money by allowing people to purchase health insurance across state lines. We could also reduce health care costs by reforming our medical and tort liability systems.

I would also take a leadership role in opposing the Cape Wind project. This project would hurt ratepayers all across the 10th Congressional district by increasing utility costs for families and businesses. It would also threaten the tourism and fishing industries, which are important to the livelihood of our congressional district.

Getting America back to work through more responsible spending at the federal level and lower taxes is definitely the top priority for the next Congress, and if I am fortunate enough to get elected, it will be my first goal as well.

MARYANNE LEWIS

My First Priority As Congresswoman

By MARYANNE LEWIS

We hear all the time from politicians in Washington, economists, and so-called Wall Street "experts" how things are recovering, but these are some of the same people who got us into this mess to begin with. They may be getting reelected, or their financial lot might be improving, but I still have family and friends battling through a second or third lay-off, struggling everyday to make ends meet, and faced with the threat of losing their homes.

The economy is still in decline, and if we continue to head in this direction at risk of heading off a cliff.

In Congress, I would reach across the aisle and work with both parties to support legislation encouraging the growth of small businesses, especially for the 14,000 small businesses located here in the 10th Congressional District. Small business does the heavy lifting in tough economic times. It is the true stimulus for our economy, and I believe that a good idea is a good idea regardless of whether it is "red" or "blue."

As a Congresswoman, I would support extending the "Bush" tax cuts, create incentives for businesses to hire and make capital investments, and encourage cooperation and partnership between the Federal government and our region's private sector – particularly in the areas of alternative energy research and development.

Here in the 10th District we are blessed with a unique feature, our coastline. We need to protect our precious coastline, while we continue to develop potential maritime, environmental and renewable energy job opportunities. We must also guard against the overburdensome and out of touch regulation of our local businesses – especially in the fishing industry.

Unfortunately, what we see in Washington today is far from a bipartisan desire to help the country get back on track. The Democratic and Republican leaders bicker and talk big about how they have a plan, and how they know what's best for America, but when it comes right down to it, neither side has shown that they understand the will of the people and that they can guide us through these tough economic times. Neither side has shown that they are willing to reach across the aisle and work towards common sense solutions to our nation's toughest problems.

Congress needs real leaders who are more worried about the people they represent than they are about getting elected or about promoting their party and its leaders.

JOE VAN NES

Let's Get Tough On Politicians

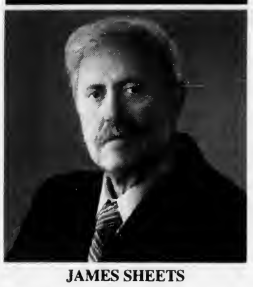
By JOE VAN NES

I am sick of hearing about politicians who are tough on terror, tough on drugs, tough on crime, tough on anything but themselves.... Its time that we got tough on politicians. If we can't trust the people who lead us then everything else becomes a secondary priority. We have a two party system that caters to itself and rewards politicians who do the wrong thing, while making it harder for honest people to get elected. The big question is how do we get rid of a two party system that everyone, including the people who work for it, acknowledges to be corrupt?

Lets try these four steps for starters. (This issue must be addressed right away, I am open to suggestions.)

1) Make a constitutional amendment that bans any for profit organization from endorsing candidates.

2) Buying of time/space in the media for candidates on the ballot is a felony punishable by 1 year in prison and barring from any elected official position for 25 years. Just like schools are not allowed to spend more money on female sports than male sports, the media should be legally subject to an equality law (when it comes to voter education) that does not violate the first amendment.



3) No form of monetary contribution can be made that exceeds $10 per person (right now the limit is $2400). Violations shall be punished by recipients ineligibility to hold office for life and a minimum of 1 year in prison for donors. This will have the effect of lowering the levels of allegiance politicians feel toward corporate and special interest ownership.

4) National elections are to be publicly funded (government grants for everyone on the ballot, $5000 for congress, $15,000 for senator $200,000 for president) and media organizations are to provide free and equal access to all candidates on the ballot during 3 months before the election. (this last one is only a good idea if steps 2 and 3 are also taken).

(All this would be predicated on our ability to more closely monitor all financial transactions involving public servants.)

5) Constitutional amendment that stops our representatives from giving themselves better health care then the people they represent. If Congress knows they are creating a health care bill which will affect them as well as everybody else they will be forced to come together and think twice before passing it.

JAMES SHEETS

Best Healthcare For All Americans

By JAMES SHEETS

The Administration's Healthcare Bill is broken. It was rushed through Congress with virtually no bipartisan support and no input from the American people.

My first priority in Congress would be to rewrite the bill. This new bill would be written in the sunshine so all those impacted by it would have an opportunity to see what is in it and provide their input. It would be well reasoned with both political parties involved in its drafting.

Unlike the current legislation the bill I would support would not cut one-half trillion dollars from Medicare. Seniors who have worked hard, raised their families paid their taxes, fought to defend their country and helped to build this great nation, deserve the very best in healthcare.

Congressmen continue to tell seniors that the amount and quality of care will not be impacted by their newly passed bill. Many seniors will in fact not be allowed to keep their Medicare Advantage Programs, according to the United States Department of Health and Human Services.

Seniors were told that little in the way of coverage would change In fact, up to fifty percent of Americans may have to change their insurance providers and doctors We were told that insurance premiums would go down $2500 per year. A recent Hewitt report projects that this year alone premiums will actually go up on the average of 12.5%.

The new law increases the Medicare tax on wages by .9 % It also places a 3.8% Medicare tax on investment income, including 401k's. So much for no new taxes on middle income senior Americans.

The new healthcare bill would be written in a reasonable environment and reflect the will of the people. It would not be a Democrat nor Republican bill, but the people's bill. It should not be forged by the ideology of the left or the ideology of the right, but by the American experience that has already provided us with the best healthcare in the world. The new healthcare bill can be drafted in such a way to protect and provide for the healthcare needs of our seniors, children and middle class.

That which is good in our recently passed Obama healthcare law would remain and become part of the new bill. Tort reform and the ability to buy health insurance across state lines would be added to control healthcare costs. It is time both political parties work together and create the best healthcare program for all Americans.

A Job Well Done

On Tuesday, Oct. 12, an anonymous citizen called the Quincy Police Drug Control Hot-Line and stated that a named male residing on Taylor Street was selling crack cocaine and heroin from his residence and out of a vehicle.

LT. DAN MINTON

The caller stated that he/she was concerned because the neighborhood has a large amount of children living there and it is also in close proximity to an elementary school.

On Wednesday, Oct. 13, members of the Quincy Police Drug Control Unit (DCU) were able to confirm the suspect's Taylor Street address. At approximately 6:30 p.m., members of the DCU, Detectives Coen and O'Brien established surveillance on the residence. One hour later, a vehicle arrived at the residence and a male walked into the home.

Within minutes, another vehicle bearing pulled up in front of the same address and the male who just entered the home came out and got into the passenger side of the vehicle. Detectives O'Brien and Coen were able to observe the male that had exited the residence was wearing tan pants with a gray shirt with a darker colored shirt underneath. The vehicle then pulled away from the residence and made a right turn but within two minutes the vehicle then turned back onto Taylor Street, essentially driving in a circle around the block. The male who entered the passenger side of the vehicle then exited and returned back into the residence.

Members of the DCU believed that a drug transaction had just occurred based upon their observations as well as corroborated information from the citizen's call. As a result, members of the DCU decided that they would stop the suspect vehicle and further investigate the incident. The vehicle was stopped on Beale Street and the driver was questioned. He initially said he just visited a friend about getting a job because he hadn't worked in two years.

When told that he was under surveillance, the suspect (#1) admitted that he had a bag of heroin in his front pocket. Detective O'Brien then removed the plastic bag and conducted a search of the suspect, finding a folded $10.00 bill in his rear right pocket with heroin on it. Several syringes were also located on the suspect.

Suspect #1 admitted to buying the heroin from the Taylor Street address, stating that he purchased heroin from suspect #2 at least six times prior to this date. Suspect #1 admitted to having a serious drug problem and has been using heroin for at least 18 months. As a result, suspect #1, a 44 year old Rockland resident, was summoned into court for illegal possession of a class A substance. Based on this information, the Detectives went to Taylor Street to place the seller, suspect #2, under arrest for distribution of Class A substance (heroin). At the residence, Detective Coen knocked at the door and as suspect #2 opened the door, he began to walk outside onto the porch. Detective Coen identified himself as a Police Officer and immediately confirmed the identity of suspect #2. Detective Coen advised him that he was under arrest. At this point, suspect #2 attempted to retreat back inside the residence but after a brief struggle, he was handcuffed.

Detective O'Brien recovered a plastic bag of brown powder consistent with heroin that weighed between 2-3 grams, a container with a plastic bag containing white powder consistent with cocaine, approximately 12 1/2 Adderall tablets, 3 Suboxone, 1 white pill, 1 Viagra, 1 pink Extenze pill, and 1 green and yellow pill, along with $4,868 (one bundle of $4,300 with

Let The Latest Colors Give Your House A More Stylish Look For Less

(NAPSA)-Here's a fashion-forward look at the designs, colors and styles that are in season for your home. Updating the look of your nook can be easier and less expensive when you turn to the newest decorating trends and tones.

For example, Erika Woelfel, design trend forecaster and color expert for Behr Paints, suggests these four popular styles:

• Rock N' Roll-conservative neutrals provide masculine styling and rock eclecticism. Think of a contemporary living room with a retro vibe. Deco motifs include guitars, sheet music, album covers, vintage flags and sports memorabilia. Fabrics combine rugged plaids with sleek metal and leather upholstery. Comfortable furniture tempts you into playing another hand of cards or kicking back and watching the big game.

• Danish Twist-whites, neutrals and eco-aware accent colors adorn these rooms. A white kitchen feels light and uncluttered, in stark contrast to the energy and intensity of other palettes. Natural materials such as cotton, leather and wood add to the natural sensibilities of a Danish-inspired kitchen. Wood has a low-luster finish with simple, functional hardware. Neutral color schemes can be simple, yet extremely elegant.

NEUTRALS CAN give a contemporary room a retro vibe.

MODERN ROOMS feel relaxed with the clean, fresh appeal of white.

Most people are partial to a particular color family. You can use this as the starting point for selecting your color scheme-perhaps pink for a little girl. Find coordinating colors to go with that favorite color and you will design a palette that is unique to her tastes and personality.

• Boudoir Goth-glamorous colors can enhance at-home entertainment. A modern rendition of Victorian romance with an edge of dark mystery can bring over-the-top romance and drama to life in any room. The style reaches back to the days of exotic ornamentation, twilight colors and candlelit ambience. Furniture styling flirts with bold color and curvy shapes, while surfaces are reflective and shimmer with polish.

To enrich the color scheme, make use of throw pillows, accent rugs and window treatments to add a splash of color in a different hue.

Cleaning Up After Halloween Pranksters

Q: I live in a neighborhood that's known for more tricks than treats. What I mean is, the teenagers around here like to egg houses on Halloween night, throw rolls of toilet paper into the trees – that kind of thing. Last year I had to have my car towed to the mechanic and the gas tank emptied because I thought they'd put an egg into it. Anyway, how do I clean off stains made by eggs, fruit and other stuff the kids throw at my house? – Herb D., DeLand, Fla.

A: Eggs thrown against the side of a house are pretty annoying, both when the prank first happens and then later, cleaning them off. The protein in the egg adheres to exterior paint and can be difficult to clean off. So the faster you tackle an egg stain, the better.

Here's a few tips on how to clean up a few different prankster messes.

• Egg: Rinse off the egged area as soon as possible with cold water and wipe with a damp cloth. If you can't get all the egg off, apply an enzyme-containing laundry detergent, soak for a few minutes, then rinse with cold water.

• Toilet paper: Just lift it off of the "papered" object and throw away. If pranksters papered a tree, use a long stick to bring paper strands down. If the tree is near power lines, don't use the stick -- spray water to bring the paper down.

• Silly String: This is non-toxic and nonadherent to most surfaces. If it's dry, simply brush it off. Avoid rinsing with water because the colored foam will streak down the surface.

• Shaving cream: Remove from non-glass surfaces as quickly as possible. Wipe away the foam first and then rinse with warm water.

• Mud and grass -- Rinse away as fast as possible from your home's siding. If a grass stain is still visible, dab with a mixture of white vinegar and alcohol, then rinse.

• Fruit: If rinsed off immediately, fruit acids shouldn't be a problem, but you can clean the area with an enzyme-containing detergent to be sure.

• Ketchup or mustard: Scrape away as much as possible without rubbing it deeper into the siding or masonry. Scrub with dry-cleaning solvent or an enzyme-containing detergent, and rinse. Or, make a paste with baking soda and water and spread over a tough stain, let soak and rinse away.

HOME TIP: While no house is completely safe from Halloween pranksters, deterrence measures including motion-sensor outdoor lights, and indoor lights and sound (such as a radio left on) offer some protection.

Joyce Carroll Wins $100 Cash From Jack Conway, Realtor

Quincy Medical Center employee Joyce Carroll was the winner of $100 cash from Jack Conway, Realtor.

Carroll, an 20-year employee in QMC's finance division, entered to win the raffle prize during a recent benefits fair at which Conway had a table. She approached the Conway table at the fair to seek out real estate opportunities.

Conway has a unique relationship with QMC. Under the partnership program, each time a Quincy Medical Center employee uses the services of Jack Conway & Co. to buy or sell a home, he or she receives discounted real estate services, and Conway makes a donation to the hospital. Several medical center workers have already benefited from the new partnership.

"The program has really been a success for the hospital and Conway," said Conway Corporate Services President Maureen McCaffrey. "It's a great opportunity for the folks here to get the real estate help they need, and get something for the hospital and themselves."

Jack Conway Co. is celebrating its 54th Anniversary with 42 sales offices from the North Shore to Boston, Cape Cod and the South Coast.

New Law Clarifies Recording Requirements

Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell announces Chapter 298 of the Acts of 2010, An Act to Clarify Recording Requirements at Registries of Deeds, is now the law in Massachusetts.

"I am very pleased that the Legislature and the Governor have approved this bill," O'Donnell said. "It validates over 300 years of document recording practice in various Massachusetts Registries of Deeds and provides our residents and businesses with the security of knowing exactly when a document is recorded under the law.

"The passage of this bill was the result of a combined effort by all 21 Registers of Deeds who endorsed it, the Massachusetts Registers of Deeds and Assistant Registers of Deeds Association, and the Massachusetts Real Estate Bar Association.

"This is an important bill that addresses the need for the consumer and business owner to be able to rely on the integrity of the real estate records consistent with the recording history here in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts," O'Donnell added."

The Norfolk County Registry of Deeds, located at 649 High St., Dedham, is the principal office for real property in Norfolk County. The Registry is the basic resource for homeowners, title examiners, mortgage lenders, municipalities and others with a need for secure, accurate, accessible land record information. The Registry land records back to the founding of Norfolk County in 1793 are available for online viewing.

The Registry's online index is available from 1920 forward and continues to expand to include earlier records.

The Registry of Deeds can be contacted via telephone at 781-461-6101, or on the internet at www.norfolkdeeds.org.

The Common Market Restaurants announce the opening of Healthy Kitchen, located inside their Village Common Food Court in West Quincy.

In the new concept all menu items are under 500 calories. They also provide nutritional information for the menu such as calories, fat, cholesterol, protein and designate items that are low in sodium and gluten free. The menu features salads, wraps, burgers, entrees and all-natural, tart, non-fat yogurt with fresh fruit toppings.

"We are excited about this new idea because it's difficult for people to eat healthfully since they are so busy," said Greg McDonald, owner and part of the McDonald family who has run the Common Market Restaurants for over 30 years. "The customer feedback has been amazing. People seem to really love that everything is healthy and less than 500 calories. Today's consumer realizes how important it is to be aware of what they are eating," he said.

Healthy Kitchen is located in The Common Market's fast casual food court, located across the street from the restaurant company on Willard Street. In the food court they operate The Fish'n Chicken, The Pasta & Pizza Caffe and their catering company.

The Healthy Kitchen slogan is "to eat well is to live well."

The Healthy Kitchen menu can be found at www.commonmarketrestaurants.com.

VOICE FOR HEALTH

by Dr. Gabrielle Freedman
Chiropractor

FEELING TIRED?

If you are chronically and unsuccessfully battling fatigue and have ruled out thyroid disease, hypoglycemia, anemia, hormonal imbalances, and various blood disorders as the cause, you owe it to yourself to give chiropractic treatment a try. It is possible that any number of structural imbalances in your body are disrupting the flow of nerve energy that is so necessary to normal functioning. A chiropractor can evaluate your body's structural framework and identify potential restriction points where altered joint formation could impinge on nerves supplying energy to various organs and systems in the body. Without treatment to alleviate restriction points in nerve pathways, your body may continue to be susceptible to energy shortages. Allow a chiropractor to restore your power.

Our diagnostics focus on the root cause of your illness, such as always feeling tired, not the symptoms. We recognize and honor the powerful role that the mind plays in health and healing. The goal at the FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC is to help you attain optimal health quickly, safely, and competently. We provide you with a variety of tests and services aimed at achieving that goal. We're located at 112 McGrath Hwy., Quincy, where we are on the cutting edge of today's chiropractic technology. We care for you efficiently and effectively. Call 617.472.4220 to schedule an appointment and start feeling better. Enjoy life! We offer computerized spinal scans. We are able to adjust patients sitting, standing, or lying down to accommodate any level of discomfort. If your problem is a chiropractic condition we offer you exceptional service.

P.S. If bodily organs do not get the signals from the brain and elsewhere that prompt and guide their function, they will not be able to perform as expected.

Cholesterol And You: Some Good News

(NAPSA)-Did you know that one in every six adults in the U.S. has high cholesterol? Or that 80 percent of people who have had a heart attack have high cholesterol?

Having high cholesterol could double your risk for serious cardiovascular events such as heart attacks and strokes.

What is cholesterol? Cholesterol is a soft, waxy fat, or lipid. There are two main sources of cholesterol. Cholesterol is made naturally in the body or it can be ingested if it is present in the food you eat. Cholesterol is found in the bloodstream and in cells throughout the body. Although cholesterol is necessary for the body to function properly, too much of it can lead to serious health problems. In fact, people with high total cholesterol have double the risk of heart disease.

"Bad" cholesterol is called LDL cholesterol, and it can build up in the arteries and prevent the blood from getting to the heart or brain. HDL cholesterol, on the other hand, is the "good" cholesterol. It helps carry LDL cholesterol away from artery walls.

The good news is that you can reduce your risk of heart disease and stroke by lowering your LDL cholesterol. Although some risk factors such as family history, age and gender may impact your chance of having a heart attack or stroke, they cannot be changed. Luckily, however, risk factors such as diet, weight and exercise levels can be adapted to lower your cholesterol-and potentially your risk for heart disease and stroke.

In some cases, exercise and healthy eating are enough to control cholesterol levels. But sometimes these efforts are not enough, and cholesterol-lowering medications may be needed. Controlling cholesterol is especially important for people who are at a higher risk for heart problems, including patients with coronary heart disease or other cardiovascular disease or patients with diabetes plus other risk factors.

Managing cholesterol with certain medicines has been shown to provide several health benefits, including reducing the risk of a first stroke. It is important to talk to your doctor about any treatment option.

Don't put yourself at risk. Talk to your doctor and take control of your cholesterol starting today.

School Lunches That Kids Won't Want To Trade

(NAPSA)-Making easy yet healthful lunches that your child won't want to trade with friends in the lunchroom doesn't have to be difficult.

To help you help your kids refuel at school, here are several ideas for packing a healthful lunch:

Keep it interesting. Pack a small quantity of several foods in a bento-type lunch box to keep things interesting. Bento boxes are a great way to offer healthy foods in a fun and attractive way. Have your child help cut sandwiches with cookie cutters into different shapes. Add colorful fruits and vegetables in different sizes and pack yummy dips such as fat-free or low-fat yogurt or hummus.

Pick a theme. Trigger your children's creative juices by suggesting themes, such as:

• The Dip: Cut a baked chicken breast into strips and pack them with honey mustard for dipping. Include carrots and broccoli to dip in fat-free or reduced-fat ranch dressing.

• Backwards: Make an inside-out sandwich using lettuce to wrap turkey, fat-free or low-fat cheese and tomato.

• Mexican Food Mondays: Set out whole-wheat tortillas, lettuce, fat-free or low-fat sour cream, salsa, brown rice and beans that aren't refried and have your kids build healthy burritos or tacos.

Forget the white bread. Banish boredom by using whole-grain pitas, tortillas or rolls for sandwiches. Switch out the fillers, too. For example:

• If your child loves PB&J, make a peanut butter and banana roll-up. Spread peanut butter on a whole-grain tortilla, add a sliced banana and roll.

• Fill a pita with your child's favorite vegetables, adding hummus for extra flavor.

• Spread some pizza sauce on a whole-wheat tortilla, add some low-fat or fat-free mozzarella cheese, then melt, roll and slice.

Mix up the sides. Go beyond pretzels.

• Dip apple slices in nut or seed butter.

• Pack snap peas, sliced bell peppers or cucumbers for color and crunch.

• Add more variety with air-popped, low-fat popcorn.

Don't forget that juice and sodas can be high in sugar and calories. Replace them with water or fat-free or low-fat milk.

Developed by the National Institutes of Health, We Can! provides parents, caregivers and communities with free tips, tools and guidance to help children ages 8-13 maintain a healthy weight by improving food choices, increasing physical activity and reducing screen time.

Sciatica Just One Cause of Back Pain

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: Our basement flooded, and I was chosen to clean it. All that pushing, lifting and scrubbing did a number on my back. It's been bothering me for two weeks. I never had a back problem before, but my dad used to have them all the time. He said it was sciatica. I believe that's what I have. How can I get rid of it? – M.J.

ANSWER: Don't jump to conclusions. Sciatica (sigh-AT-ik-ah) is only one cause of back pain. The fact that your father had it has little bearing on your having it. Did your dad arrive at the diagnosis on his own? Many people do. Quite often, they're wrong.

The sciatic nerve is a large nerve formed by the intermingling of nerve roots coming from the lower segments of the spinal cord. It and its branches run from the lower back through the buttock and down the leg to the ankle and foot. Pressure on the nerve at any point in its course irritates it and produces the pain of sciatica. The most common cause comes from a protrusion of one of the back's disks, which presses on the spinal cord rootlets that combine to build the nerve.

Low-back, buttock and leg pain are the hallmarks of sciatica. The leg pain is on the back of the leg or its outer side.

Even though the diagnosis is a bit iffy here, sciatica – and most of the other causes of low-back pain – get better in three to six weeks. You don't have to completely rest. Strict bed rest is contraindicated. Walk around and perform the normal activities of daily life, but don't lift, push or perform manual labor. Use heat or cold on your back, whichever you find benefits you more.

Tylenol (acetaminophen) usually controls pain. If it doesn't, one of the nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (Aleve, Advil, Motrin) can be tried. An injection of steroids into the back takes care of inflammation that adds to the pressure on the nerve. Surgery usually isn't necessary. The long-term outlook is good.

If the pain hasn't gone by four weeks, see a doctor. See the doctor promptly if pain increases or you lose control of your bladder or bowels.

The booklet on back, pain provides more information on this common problem. To obtain a copy, write: Dr. Donohue – No. 303W, Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Enclose a check or money order (no cash) for $4.75 U.S./$6 Canada with the recipient's printed name and address. Please allow four weeks for delivery.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: I remember your once writing about how a person with COPD ought to breathe. My dad was just diagnosed with COPD, and I would like to pass that information to him. Will you please repeat it? – S.A.

ANSWER: That is pursed-lip breathing. The person puckers the lips as though going to whistle or give a kiss. Then he inhales through his nose and exhales through the pursed lips. Exhaling should be more prolonged than inhaling. This technique keeps the airways opened to allow more air to get into the lungs and more carbon dioxide to get out of them.

"COPD" stands for "chronic obstructive pulmonary disease": emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

Presidents Take Lead In Patriot League Title Chase With A Come-From-Behind Victory

Instant Classic: Quincy Battles Back To Beat North Quincy, 3-2

By SEAN BRENNAN

Years from now, when people reminisce about memorable Quincy/North Quincy athletic events, Monday night's volleyball match between the Presidents and the Red Raiders, played in the sparkling new QHS gymnasium, should be at the top of everybody's list.

It was the venue's first instant classic.

And had a little bit of everything. Not only was it a match of significant importance, and it was, as the eventual winner would have a serious leg up on the chase for the Patriot League title, but it was a match of swinging game-to-game momentum, outstanding team and individual performances and, in the end, a result that was not decided till almost the last point.

Quincy (18-2 overall, 13-1 in Patriot League) held serve on their home floor by digging themselves out of a two-games-to-none deficit to knock off the North Quincy (15-3, 12-2), 3-2.

"The beginning was a little rocky and I think my team had some nerves in the first game," said QHS head coach Jacqui Niosi. "But when we started playing as a team and when we settled down we played well. It was a simple as that.

"They are a tough group of kids and I think at first we didn't play our game because of everything that was a stake including our first game against North Quincy in our new gym, Senior Night, and the lead in the Patriot League up for grabs. But we responded."

The Presidents, playing in front of a boisterous home crowd, came into this match looking to enact some revenge on the Red Raiders. Quincy, earlier this month on Oct. 1, had lost a 3-2 match to North Quincy at NQHS; this was their opportunity to even the score.

The Red Raiders had a different plan. North Quincy came out hot in Game One, jumping out to an 8-0 advantage; following a Quincy timeout, the visitors kept the pressure on and, after an Elaine Chan block, North held a dominating 18-3 lead. Quincy could have folded but didn't, cutting North's 15 point lead down to three (22-19). Another timeout, this time by the North Quincy bench, seemed to settle down the Raiders who responded with a 3-2 closing run to win the game, 25-22.

Game Two was no contest. North Quincy fell behind, 4-2, before ending the game on a 23-5 run and winning 25-9. At one stretch during the second game, the Red Raiders went on an 11-0 spurt, breaking open a 12-7 score.

Trailing 2-0, Quincy needed to regroup, and fast, in Game Three. The home crowd, which before the game had made the QHS gymnasium sound like you were at a rock concert, was eerily quiet and after the Presidents fell behind 11-2 in the third game it looked as if North Quincy was going to ruin the Presidents' party.

But then it was if a light went on on Quincy's side of the court. The Presidents started to chip away. First it was 12-5, then 12-8, and after consecutive serving aces from senior libero Kori Sorensen sliced the lead to 14-12, the Raiders called a timeout. The momentum continued to sway Quincy's way after the break. Before you could blink, the Presidents had tied the score at 15-15, a North point pushed it back to 16-15, but that would be the last lead for the Raiders in Game Three.

Quincy closed on a 10-5 scoring run to win the third game, 25-21

In Game Four, the Presidents and Red Raiders were evened up at 7-7 before Quincy scored the next three points to take a 10-7 advantage. Smelling blood, QHS upped their lead to 17-10, forcing NQHS to take another timeout. The Raiders responded with a 5-3 run (20-15), but it was too little too late as Quincy came all the way back to tie the match at 2-2 with a 25-20 game win.

The decisive Game Five (first team to 15 points) started, again, with Sorensen serving her team to a 3-0 lead. And, like a broken record, North Quincy counterpunched with their own 7-2 scoring run, highlighted by two kills from junior middle hitter Olivia Umoren and a serving ace from junior setter Rachel Chu.

Divisional Game Against Hanover Friday

Quincy Presidents Outlast Middleboro HS, 34-26

By JOE REARDON

The fourth quarter of a football game is not the opportune time to daydream. Case in point, Quincy High.

The Presidents inexplicably let their guard down and it very nearly cost them a huge Patriot League victory.

The Presidents' collective minds wandered last Friday night against a deceivingly tough Middleboro squad at Veterans Stadium.

The Sachems took advantage of Quincy's pondering and pounded out three fourth-quarter touchdowns. It still wasn't enough as Quincy had a pair of scores of their own in the fourth to come away with the wild 34-26 win.

The Presidents upped their record to 4-3 on the season, but more importantly, went to a perfect 2-0 in the Patriot League heading into this Friday's league game at home against Hanover.

Quincy coach Bill Reardon wasn't looking at Middleboro's 2-4 record coming into the contest. He was more concerned with the talent the Sachems had and their penchant for making big plays.

"I was definitely nervous going in because they have the potential to score a lot of points," he said.

Reardon knows for sure that the Presidents will be in a world of trouble with Hanover if they suffer a similar fourth-quarter collapse against the Indians as they did Middleboro.

Reardon will make it a point to stress to his squad this week how critical it is for the Presidents to play four full quarters of football without mental lapses on either side of the ball.

"We've had a hard time playing a full game of football," said Reardon. "We've looked great, but there have been times that we've been awful. We want to get away

Game Five went back-and-forth from this point. Quincy senior outside hitter Stella Edwards' kill made it 7-7, but another Umoren point gave NQ the 8-7 lead. The Presidents scored the next two points to go up 9-8; the Red Raiders countered with a 2-0 run to go up 10-9. Following a 2-0 Quincy run (11-10), and a timeout by NQHS, the Raiders went back up 12-11.

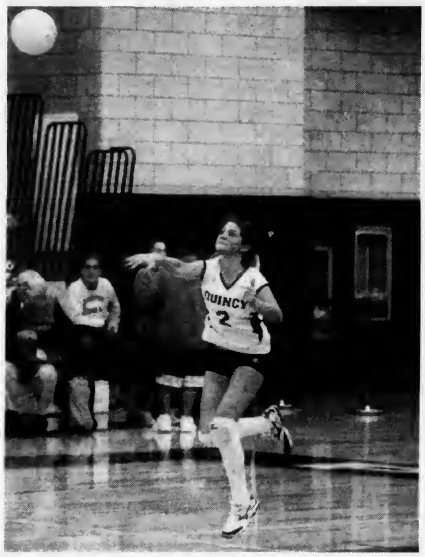
This 12-11 score would be the last time North Quincy held a lead.

Quincy closed out the Red Raiders with a 4-0 run to win Game Five, 15-12, and the match, 3-2.

"We really attacked them serving in the first two games, and we stayed pretty aggressive in the third and fourth game, but their passing turned around and their offense switched gears and found the holes," said NQHS head coach Kerry Ginty about her young team's performance. "But it was great just coming to this new gym and having the noise and the intensity. You get to work on composure and you can't teach that in practice.

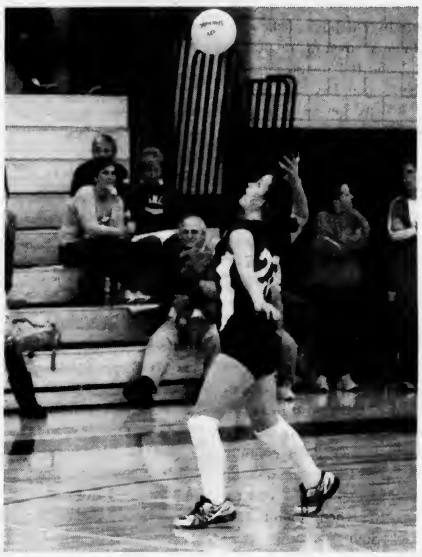
"This experience, coming into a hostile environment, and playing pretty well and being aggressive in the beginning, you can't teach that. Hopefully it helps us as when we start the tournament.

"We will probably see Quincy again."



Playing well for Quincy were seniors Sorensen and Edwards, juniors Nicole Parry, Bridget O'Connor, Caitlin Lowry, Sam Albanese and Donna Niosi, and sophomore Alysha Dunbar.

The rest of the QHS roster includes seniors Erica Santiago, Nneoma Aguguo, and Nelly Rodriguez, juniors Maria Berberan and Erin Chiocchio, and sophomores Devon McMahan and Laura Donahue.



Juniors Elizabeth Sullivan (28 digs, six aces) and Emma Ainsley (four kills, 12 digs) and sophomore middle Rose Bennett (four kills) played well for the Red Raiders.

Senior Kamilah Gonzales, juniors Lizzie Kelley, Elizabeth Forde, Megan Leahy, Kara Reardon, Michelle Cole, and Rachel Chu, sophomores Lisa Wong, Si Han Huang, Emily Luc, and Elaine Chan, and freshmen Carolyn Schwartz and Maya Umoren make up the rest of the North Quincy roster.

Both Quincy High School and North Quincy High School will be one of the top seeds in the upcoming Central-East Division I playoffs, which are scheduled to begin in early Nov.

JUNIOR SETTER DONNA NIOSI returns a North Quincy serve during Monday night's 3-2 Quincy match victory over the Red Raiders. The Presidents trailed two-games-to-none before rallying back for the huge Patriot League win.

KORI SORENSEN, Quincy's senior libero, serves up one her many aces during the Quincy-North Quincy volleyball match on Monday. Sorensen and the Presidents improved to 13-1 in the Patriot League with the victory.

QYFL Playoffs Kick Off Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium

The Quincy Youth Football League, which is celebrating its 60th season in this fall, concluded another exciting regular season last weekend with a handful of games.

The league's playoffs begin this Saturday with games being played at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The consolation game featuring the Storm and the Panthers gets the evening of football started at 4 p.m.; the first semifinal game between the Elks and the Manets begins at 5:30 p.m. and the other semifinal between the Apaches and the Mustangs will be played at 7 p.m.

The 2010 championship game will be played on November 7.

Elks def. Apaches, 8-0

The West Quincy Elks (7-0) finished the regular season undefeated with an 8-0 victory over the North Quincy Apaches (5-2). The game was a "defensive battle" as neither team reached the end zone through the first three quarters.

Although scoreless entering the fourth, both teams offenses had mounted some nice drives. The Elks offense was led by Scott Pollock, Jimmy Dalton, and the ground attack of Joe Weinstien and Dayvon Jones. The Apaches offense was led by QB Pat Frasso, Jake Bergonzi and the running of Erick Cohane Jones (45 yards) and Mike McNelly.

In the fourth quarter, the Apaches defense forced the Elks offense into a punting situation. An inaccurate snap on the punt had the Elks pinned deep in their own territory when the punter lateralled the ball to WR Jimmy Dalton and he raced 75 yards down the sideline for the game winning score. The Elks kick was successful to make the final score 8-0.

The Apaches defense was led by Jake Bergonzi (ten tackles) Alex Chen (sack, fumble rec.) Jackie Chen, Steve Scolaro, Bryan Lennane and Mike McNelly.

The Apaches will face the Milton Mustangs in a playoff game Saturday, October 30th at 7:00 p.m. and the Elks will play the Houghs Neck Manets in the playoffs at 5:30 p.m.

Mustangs def. Storm, 12-0

The Storm had its running game thwarted by a feisty Milton Mustangs team in a 12-0 loss on Sunday, bringing their final regular season record to 2-5; Milton finished with a record of 5-2.

Mustang defenders Stephen Timmins, Mikel Witherspoon, and Timmere Campbell bottled up he Storm running backs, holding them to a total of 71 yards on the ground. Quarterback Joey Gaglione did connect on 3-of-7 passes for a total of 26 yards, including completions to Connor Cramond for five yards, Zack Dangora for seven, and Solomon Umoren for 14 yards.

On offense, the Mustangs were led by quarterback David Mullen and running back Timmins, who rumbled for 50 yards. Mullen scored the game's first touchdown on a one-yard quarterback sneak; the conversion failed.

For the Storm, Umoren carried the ball 12 times for 50 yards, Kiley ran for five times for 11 yards, and Dangora ran five times for 10 yards. Four Storm fumbles, three of them lost to the home team, and two interceptions killed whatever drives they could mount. The deepest the Storm penetrated was to the Mustangs 32-yard line.

The leading tacklers for the Storm were Will Bronske, Cramond, Gaglione and Dangora all with three tackles, followed by Umoren, Kiley, Mac Deegan and Ryan Higgins with two each. Dangora intercepted a Mullin pass on the home team's first series and returned it for five yards to their 49-yard line.

The Storm finished the regular season with a disappointing record of 2-5. They will be playing the Quincy Point Panthers in the league consolation game on October 30th at 4 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Manets def. Panthers, 12-6

The Manets beat the Panthers, 12-6. Joe Early, Joe Boddie, Michael Nazzaro, Cody Desmand, Mike Monroe all played a good game for Milton.

A jayvee jamboree will be held Nov. 6 at the Stadium, time to be announced.

QRD Men's Drop-In Basketball

The Quincy Recreation Department and Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation, announced that the QRD would be supervising a Men's Drop-In Basketball program at the Atlantic Middle School gymnasium on Monday evenings.

The program, which will begin on Monday, Nov. 1, runs from 6-8 p.m. each Monday throughout the winter with the exception of Monday holidays. Each week pickup teams will are formed from those who are in attendance and games are played.

There is a $5 fee payable each week at the door and new participants are always welcome. Locker room facilities are available and QRD staff supervises the activities.

Atlantic Middle School is located at 86 Hollis Ave in North Quincy and the gym entrance is at the rear of the parking lot.

Additional information can be obtained by calling the QRD at 617-376-1394 or on the website at www.QuincyRec.com.

Road Game Saturday Against Hingham HS

NQ Drops Divisional Game To Duxbury, 36-21

In a pivotal Keenan Division game last Friday, the North Quincy Red Raiders played powerhouse Duxbury High School (7-0, 2-0) close, but, the final result was not what the Red Raiders would have hoped for heading into the contest.

The Green Dragons withstood a solid game from North Quincy and hung on for a 36-21 victory; the win by Duxbury pushed the Raiders' overall record to 4-3 and 0-1 in the race for the Keenan Division crown.

North Quincy, a team that was riding a three-game winning streak before kickoff, allowed Duxbury to gain a first quarter advantage following an eight-yard touchdown dash by Henry Buonagurio (two TDs). The successful point after attempt (PAT) gave the Dragons a 7-0 lead entering the second quarter.

As his team has done over the course of season, NQHS head coach Jim Connor, went back to his team's strength, which is running the ball and maintaining possession, and he was rewarded when senior tailback Seyi Adesuyan found the end zone for a ninth time this fall. Kyle McKay's PAT knotted the contest at 7-7.

Duxbury would answer Adesuyan's TD with vigor. The Dragons opened up a 14-point lead heading into the halftime break following consecutive scoring drives. The first a five-yard TD pass from Matt O'Keefe to Joe Guilfoile gave Duxbury an advantage they would not relinquish; the two-point conversion put the score at 15-7.

A seven-yard touchdown reception late in the period made the score 22-7 after two quarters.

The Red Raiders did not fold up in the third and fourth quarters despite trailing by 15 points. The defense made a big play in the third as Kyle McKay stepped in front of a pass and returned the interception 40 yards to the house. McKay's PAT was good and North Quincy moved within eight points of the visitors.

Near the end of the third quarter, Duxbury took back the seven points they had spotted North on the McKay interception with a long touchdown run. At the start of the fourth quarter, the Dragons were leading the Raiders, 29-14.

North Quincy scored its final seven points on a 70-yard touchdown run by senior Mike Morrison, but they would get no closer than that as Duxbury's Buonagurio scored his second TD of the tilt for the final seven points.

"We battled," said Connor. "Duxbury just maintained a solid lead. We were hanging on and hanging on."

The Red Raiders get right back into divisional play this Saturday when they travel to Hingham HS to play against the Harbormen (1 p.m. start).

QUARTERBACK JOE SCHMITZ (#13) looks into the flat for an open receiver during last Friday's Patriot League Keenan Division game between North Quincy and Duxbury. The Green Dragons built an early lead and held on to defeat the Red Raiders, 36-21.

from that Jekyll and Hyde problem."

Still, despite the rocky fourth quarter, the Presidents did put up plenty of crooked numbers to preserve the win. Running back Reggie Cesar, who is fully recovered after sustaining a concussion against Randolph on Oct. 1, was a game changer with 200 all-purpose yards against the Sachems' defense. The 6-foot 190-pound junior used his breakaway speed to score on runs of 74 and 50 yards. Cesar wound up with 151 yards on eight carries.

Middleboro, which dropped to 2-5 with the loss, had problems all evening with Cesar, junior running back Jalen Green and senior back Ronn Newsome slicing the defense to bits.

Green, the Presidents' leading scorer with 49 points, broke a 23-yard touchdown run and also booted a 30-yard field goal for Quincy. The compact (5-9, 185) Newsome barreled in from the 2 and 3-yard lines to add to the scoring.

Reardon did his job in making adjustments on the fly. Midway through the first quarter he moved Ryan Boyle to noseguard to anchor a defense line, which, up to that point, was having problems knocking Middleboro off the line. The position change proved to be a good one for Quincy as the 6-4, 300-pound Boyle clogged the middle, taking away a running lane for the Sachem backs.

"He's a big boy," Reardon said. "We felt we were being pushed around in the first quarter and we wanted to get some size in there. It worked out for us."

To be sure, the Presidents will have heard plenty of Reardon emphasizing the importance of going all-out and keeping their minds on the game by kickoff time on Friday.

"Hanover's a tough team," said Reardon. "We'll have to be ready to play a physical football game. We're really going to have to protect the football and not turn it over.

"This is a big week for us."

ABWS Soccer Tri-Captains All Hail From Quincy

Three Quincy residents held the position of team captain this season for the Archbishop Williams High School girls soccer team, announced athletic director Joseph Francis along with head coach Gordie McClay.

Michelle Barry, Kristen Spain and Kelsey McCarthy were team tri-captains for the Bishops.

"Michelle Barry is a team player, she cares about her teammates, both on and off the field," said McClay. "She goes the extra mile for the team." Barry excels off the field as well; she is a member of both the National Honor Society and Spanish National Honor Society. A four-year member of the varsity soccer team, Barry, a senior, also plays basketball for Archies.

Kelsey McCarthy was the Catholic Central League All-Star, Eastern MA All-Star, and the MA All-Star for soccer two consecutive years. "Kelsey is the hardest worker on the team," added McClay. "Her attitude and work ethic is second to none. She leads by example on a daily basis." She is also a member of the National Honor Society and Admissions Council at ABWS where she is also captain of the swim team.

"Kristen is a student of the game," concluded McClay. "Her passion and knowledge of soccer are invaluable to the coaches and the team." Spain, a senior, and second-year captain, was named a league all-star in 2010.

North Quincy Defeated Quincy, 1-0, Sunday

Raiders & Presidents Fall Short of Postseason Berth

By SEAN BRENNAN

The final minute was a Quincy flurry, but the North Quincy Red Raiders (6-10-2) held on for a 1-0 Patriot League victory Sunday night at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The one-goal win marked the second time this season that the Red Raiders had defeated the Presidents by a goal margin; unfortunately, neither team is going to have the requisite number of victories need for postseason eligibility and, therefore, both schools will be on the outside looking in when the state tournament kicks off next month.

The Presidents, this fall, were expected to have a steep learning curve. Quincy's roster is stacked with a number of underclassmen, including seven freshmen, a sophomore and seven juniors, so the 2011 season should be a better barometer of just how much progress this young team can make.

For the Red Raiders, the 2010 season, although not a total disappointment, didn't meet expectations. North Quincy's most glaring deficiency was scoring production; the team's defense was a standout, even competing in the competitive Keenan Division of the Patriot League.

The Red Raiders have scored 15 goals in 18 games. They have allowed 33 goals against, but if you take away the ten goals scored by nationally ranked Whitman-Hanson against them, North Quincy has given up 23 goals. A fairly strong showing, but 2-1 and 1-0 losses still go in the books as a defeat.

"Goal scoring has been an issue for my team all season long," said NQHS head coach Paul Bregoli. "There were plenty of games this year in which we allowed only one or two goals and still lost. We have played strong defense, but when you can't finish around the goal you aren't going to win too many games."

Against Quincy, the Red Raiders had numerous chances in the first half, but came away with just one tally, which came off of a set play. Sophomore Liz Kelly, occupying the weak side of the pitch, took a crossing pass from senior Sarah Gardiner and buried it past Michaela Walker. It was Kelly's second goal of the season and Gardiner's first assist.

That would be it for scoring the rest of the way.

Earlier last week North Quincy played a three-game set against the best-of-the-best in Eastern Massachusetts; the Raiders lost to Whitman-Hanson (5-0), Silver Lake (1-0), and Duxbury (4-0). And again, a lack of scoring touch doomed North Quincy.

"These are some of the best soccer programs in the state," said Bregoli. "We hung with all of them expect Whitman-Hanson, but when you can't finish it makes it tough to win. We have the talent on this team but we couldn't capitalize when we really needed to."

With the remainder of the regular season winding down, seniors at both high schools will be finishing up their careers. Quincy's Nichole Campbell, Brittany Haefner, Amanda Hyslip, Giovanna Maurano, and Courtney Peters played at Middleboro HS on Tuesday and at home versus Everett HS today while North Quincy's Jillian Carchedi, Maggie Lynch, Jillian Keezer, Courtney Byrne, Sarah Gardiner, and Shannon Coleman finish with a game at Mt. Alvernia on Friday and at Marblehead HS next Tuesday.

QYB Travel Presidents Division Begins Oct. 30

Quincy Youth Basketball Travel (QYB Travel) will hold an open gym session for all Quincy boys in grades 6-8 on Saturday at 11 a.m. at the new Quincy High School gymnasium. There is a $5 fee per child for the open gym session, payable at the door.

Tryouts will be held on Saturday, Nov. 6 at the new QHS gymnasium at 11 a.m. Players selected for the QYB Travel teams must register and actively participate in QYB's in-house league.

In other QYB news, there are still approximately ten openings remaining in the QYB Girls Grades 6-8 program. To register come to the open gym session on Oct. 30 (there is no $5 fee for the girls to register for QYB).

These openings will be filled on a first-come-first placed basis; you can also register by mail by downloading a registration form from the website: www.quincyyouthbasketball.net. On the home page, click on the Forms link at the left, print out the form and mail it with the necessary documents.

AFC Soccer Informational Meeting on November 5

America FC, a youth soccer program based in Quincy, will hold an informational meeting on Nov. 5 from 6-7:30 p.m. at the Bauer House (314 Water Street, adjacent to Kincaide Field) for the purpose of welcoming new families who are interested in learning more about their winter and spring training programs.

Parents of existing AFC Revolution players will be on hand to answer any questions. AFC will also be offering an overview of their training programs, philosophy, and player developmental approach; enrollment for new teams is also being offered at the meeting.

If you have any questions, email James Abundis at james.abundis@mac.com or plan on attending the informational meeting on Nov. 5.

Sacred Heart Basketball Registration Oct. 30

Registration for the Sacred Heart North Quincy Youth Basketball Program will be held on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Sacred Heart Parish Hall, 386 Hancock St., North Quincy.

This program, which is celebrating its 22nd season this year, has provided thousands of children in Quincy the opportunity to learn and enjoy the sport of basketball.

The program is open to all boys and girls ages 5-18 (grades K-12) from the Quincy area; you do not have to be a member of Sacred Heart Parish or live in the North Quincy area to participate.

Children (K-2) will play one hour a week of fun oriented instructional basketball, usually on Saturday afternoons beginning mid-November at NQHS gym.

Children (3-12) will practice once a week on either Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday night or will play a schedule of games usually on Saturday afternoon.

The fees are as follows:

Grades K-2 are $50; Grades 3-12 is $100, and a maximum family payment is $250.

Travel teams will be selected from certain age groups and will involve additional fees and no child will be turned away for financial reasons.

For additional information, contact Mark Jaehnig at 617-472-3311.

QHS Hockey Hall of Fame To Induct Five

The Quincy High School Hockey Hall of Fame will induct five new members on Saturday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m. at the Quincy Sons of Italy.

The five new members are:

Stephen Provost (1994), Mark Glynn ('97), Steven Verlicco ('98), Derek McTomney ('98), and Christopher Haidul ('98).

Tickets may be purchased for $30 each, and includes a roast beef dinner, by contacting Dennis Bertoni at 617-653-1526 or bertoni@haemonetics.com. Deadline is Nov. 12.

SSCL Basketball Registration Oct. 30

The South Shore "Church League" Basketball program will be holding an open registration for the upcoming season on Oct. 30 from 9 a.m. until Noon at the Richard J. Koch Park & Recreation Complex, One Merrymount Parkway.

An additional registration period will also be held Nov. 6 from 9 a.m. until Noon.

This basketball league is for boys and girls ages 7-15 and all games are played on Saturdays; location and schedule for practices and games will be a set times.

The following are the costs for the three age divisions:

7-9-year olds is $75; 10-12-year olds is $90, and 13-15-year olds is $105.

Church affiliation is not required to register for the SSCL.

SCOTT DEWARE

A Thought For The Week

In less than a week we will have a chance to exercise one of our great privileges as Americans. Yes, it's that time to vote again. Election Day is next Tuesday, Nov. 2. We can exercise a right that nearly every American is willing to fight to maintain, yet pitifully few exercise and fewer exercise seriously.

No need to discuss at length the reasons for low voter participation. The reasons given vary little over time . . no good candidates, too much corruption, my vote doesn't matter, not registered but may register and vote next time, etc. . , etc.

Granted, some of the folks we elect leave much to be desired, but if all the smart people who didn't vote or weren't registered had been registered and had voted, maybe we'd have elected better. It is so easy to agree with Harry Truman who said, "Ninety percent of politicians give the other ten percent a bad reputation." But, if we don't vote, there is no chance of improvement . . .

Let us, as Americans, make next Tuesday a very special day. Let us exercise our very special right. Let us "in droves" go to the polls and vote for the candidate of our choice and for the issues we believe in. . .

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Deciding to work out that pesky problem (even though you might have been bored, bored, bored with it) should be paying off right about now. Expect to hear some very welcome news very soon.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Unexpected news might cause you to rethink a previous conclusion. Don't be bullheaded and try to bluff it out. Make the needed change, and then take a bow for your objectivity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Money-matters should be considered as you continue to work out your holiday plans. This is a good time to scout out discounts before demand for them outstrips their availability.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A calm period early in the week helps you complete most, if not all, of your unfinished tasks. A new project appears by midweek, and this one could carry some big career potential.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Positive results from recent ventures continue to pump up those self-esteem levels, making you Fabulous Felines feel you can tackle any challenge anyone wants to throw at you.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Family and friends might feel neglected because of your almost total focus on a project. Try to rework your schedule so you can have time for both your loved ones and your work.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Don't be surprised if you suddenly hear from someone from your past who wants to contact you about the possibility of renewing a long-dormant (if not dead) relationship.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) This is a good time to check over what went right and what went wrong with recent efforts. This can provide valuable lessons for projects that will be coming up soon.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Dealing with people who feel they're always right about everything might be a problem for some. But the savvy Archer should be able to deflate their oversize egos.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) This week favors a balance between the demands of your work and your need for fun timeouts. Taking breaks helps restore and keep your energy levels high.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) There could be an occasional setback in what you're working on. But look at them as lessons on how to do better as you move along. More supporters turn up to cheer you on.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Although a more positive aspect influences this week's course, you still need to be sure that those who will work with you have no reason to work against you. Good luck.

BORN THIS WEEK: You believe in keeping your promises. It's not always easy to do, but somehow you do it.

Nice Work!

According to Detective Ward, this arrest stemmed from a simple anonymous phone call to the Drug Unit. In most cases, due to involvement in active cases, it takes time to conduct an investigation, but due to the thorough information in this particular case, Detectives received the information on Tuesday, researched the suspect, performed surveillance and had two suspects under arrest the next day! The Quincy Police Department encourages all citizens to provide information on any type of crime, whether it is from the past or a crime projected to happen. Too often, citizens are reluctant to provide information because they fear involvement or retaliation. By simply providing information, Officers or Detectives can corroborate the activity and take action accordingly.

SCAM OF THE WEEK: the victim in this case attempted to sell an item through Craigslist.

She received an email instructing her to set up an account with "PayPal," so following instructions, she deposited $270 into the PayPal account via Western Union. She then received another email requesting $200.00 for "insurance reasons."

The victim suspected that there was a problem, so she called PayPal, and they told her that they had not received any money from her. PayPal representatives said that most likely it was a scam, where someone cuts and pastes the PayPal logo onto a fraudulent site.

Officer Bill Lanergan, who responded to the call, told the victim it is unlikely that she will get the money back due to multi-jurisdiction issues.

Only One Candidate Has All That It Takes To Be Norfolk County District Attorney

Michael Morrissey
has been fighting crime for over 30 years:

He's the only candidate with all the qualifications for the job:

- Over 25 years trial court experience, including criminal cases
- Three decades working with community groups and police to prevent crimes
- A manager who has hired, trained and supervised strong legal teams

He's written and supported the tough laws to keep criminals off our streets, including:

- Drug trafficking
- Repeat drunk driving
- Domestic violence
- Cyber crime and identity theft
- Against bullying
- Helping to pass "Jessica's Law" to prosecute crimes against children

"Michael Morrissey is the only candidate who combines the extensive legal experience, proven management skills and community background necessary to take on the multiple responsibilities of District Attorney."

William Keating
Norfolk County District Attorney

Michael Morrissey will bring strong leadership to prosecuting & preventing crime. His election will continue the tradition of Quincy-based Norfolk County District Attorneys.

MICHAEL W.
MORRISSEY

The Best Choice for Norfolk County District Attorney

A lifelong resident of Quincy, Michael and his wife Joanne (Ross) have two children: Colby, a law student; and James, a recent graduate of Mass. Maritime.

Three Quincy political veterans and one first-time candidate were big local winners in Tuesday's state election as Democratic candidates pulled off impressive victories for open local legislative seats and for two offices in county government.

The winners: Michael Morrissey, Norfolk County district attorney; Michael Bellotti, Norfolk County sheriff; John Keenan, State Senate – Norfolk/Plymouth District and Tackey Chan, state representative, 2nd Norfolk District.

Two other well-known local public servants did not fare as well.

Independent Tim Cahill, a former city councillor and current state treasurer, finished a distant third in the race for governor with a projected 8 percent of the state-wide vote as The Sun went to press Tuesday.

Democrat incumbent Gov. Deval Patrick was re-elected to a second four-term term.

Former Mayor James Sheets, also running as an Independent, finished fourth in the five-candidate field for Congress in the 10th Congressional District.

The race to replace retiring U.S. Rep. William Delahunt went to Democrat William Keating who defeated his closest challenger, Republican Jeff Perry. Keating claimed victory at 10:45 p.m. at a victory celebration at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

In Quincy, Keating finished first with 16,646 votes. Perry was second with 8,465 votes. Sheets was third here (but fourth overall in the District which spans from Quincy to Cape Cod) with 4,018 votes. Maryanne Lewis – the third place finisher overall – had 974 votes and Joe van Nes 243 votes here.

Tuesday's election was also history-making in Quincy as Democrat Tackey Chan became the first Asian-American in Quincy

Legacy Of 2nd U.S. President Honored At 275th Birthday Anniversary

'John Adams Taught Us What Leadership Is About'

By JOE REARDON

In one of his final public appearances as congressman, William Delahunt told an audience of more than 500, on hand for the Presidential Wreath-Laying Ceremony on the occasion of John Adams' 275 Birthday Anniversary at the United First Parish Church, that both of the city's first sons had a "profound" influence on his career in public service.

"His legacy is more than just the achievements he made to American democracy," Delahunt said at last Friday's ceremony. The second U.S. President was born Oct. 30, 1735. "Adams gave the Declaration of Independence its voice."

Delahunt, who will retire in January after 14 years of representing the 10th Congressional District which includes Quincy, said he shares a "special kinship" with Adams as a native son of the community. The Quincy Democrat also spoke of the contributions the country's second President made as a foreign diplomat and emphasizing education, instilling concepts of integrity and courage along the way.

"Thank you John Adams for this legacy," said Delahunt. "I'm sure he's very proud that Massachusetts, in a number of categories, is

Cavanagh DAV Chapter Meets Nov. 10

The Disabled American Veterans Cavanagh Chapter 79 will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday, Nov. 10 at the Morrisette American Legion Post, 81 Liberty St., Quincy.

Social hour begins at 6 p.m.

The meeting will start at 7 p.m.

Information will be given on any changes in veterans' laws.

The next monthly meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Jan. 12.

Palmucci Seeks Community Response To Proposed Rooftop Sign

Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci is seeking residents' comments on plans for a sign atop the Granite Mart building, 308 Willard St., and has scheduled a community meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 16, in the Conference Room, St. Mary's School.

"Given the history of signs in this neighborhood, I want to make sure residents have a chance to express their opinion before anything is approved or built," said Palmucci, adding that representatives of the applicant will be on hand to discuss details of the sign.

Scheduled for the following week is the Zoning Board of Appeals' formal hearing. The Appeals Board, which must approve a variance for the sign, has scheduled a public meeting beginning at 7:15 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 23 in City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

If approved, "Granite Mart Lottery Food" and "Marylou's Coffee" will be the words printed on the four-foot by eight-foot sign which will be internally illuminated.

According to current plans, the sign would be anchored to the pitch of the front roof of the Granite Mart building and be visible from the Expressway.

Area residents are already talking about the sign plan and some are comparing it to the controversial 60-foot billboard located across the street at Biondi Service Center.

That billboard raised considerable anger in the adjacent neighborhood which offers a wide variety of neatly kept homes as well as some small adjacent businesses.

At this time, the city's legal action against the billboard at Biondi's is still wending its way through the court system.

Palmucci has, also, invited residents to call or e-mail him with their comments on the application.

The e-mails will be part of the Appeals' Board file.

One resident already notified the Appeals Board that she favored the application while others wrote that such signs are destroying their neighborhood and creating a tacky atmosphere.

Residents may call or write Palmucci on his cell phone (617)-834-3945 or by e-mail bpalmucci@quincyma.gov.

TOPAZ TALES

With a relatively high refractive index that induces sparkle and a Mohs hardness rating of 8, topaz, November's birthstone, is a favorite of both jewelry designers and jewelry lovers. Those looking for color, clarity, and value in a colored gemstone need look no further than topaz. This gemstone displays a remarkable diversity of color, ranging from yellow, orange, pink, and red to brown, green, blue, and violet. Deep golden yellow topaz (sherry topaz) and pink topaz rank among the most valuable colors. Also quite popular is blue topaz, which is almost indistinguishable from aquamarine when seen with the naked eye. Topaz fanciers are often drawn to "imperial" topaz, a high-quality, intense brownish-orange stone that is in a category by itself.

This month's birthstone is equally lovely gracing a ring, necklace, bracelet, brooch, or earrings. Topaz is durable and lends itself well to both formal and informal pieces. If topaz is your choice for your next jewelry purchase, come see our selection at, 1402 Hancock Street, Quincy Center. Set solo as a pendant or paired with diamond or other gemstones, topaz would make a stunning addition to anyone's jewelry wardrobe. PH: 617-773-3636.

To Expand New Campus

Koch Will Seek Demolition Of Old Quincy High School

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Mayor Thomas Koch will ask City Council to approve bond funds for the demolition of the former Quincy High School building as requested by the School Committee.

Once the property is cleared and landscaped, the new Quincy High School campus will increase by almost four acres. Some of that space will be relegated for parking and drop-off areas under current plans.

Demolition costs for the structure are expected to be under $10 million while estimates for renovation range as high as $50 million, according to city officials.

"We studied it thoroughly and determined that the expense to renovate the building up to code would be many millions of dollars more than demolition," Koch said in a statement after last week's School Committee Meeting.

"It's really the only reasonable option considering the financial and practical restraints on renovation...." said Koch who had considered using the structure for city administrative offices.

Last week, the School Committee recommended the demolition. Committee members also recommended that the city purchase the President's City Inn property for the new Central Middle School campus.

As for purchasing the motel property, Koch pledged to review the issue, but he made no promises.

"My colleagues on the School Committee have asked me to consider taking the motel as part of the Central project and I will revisit the issues."

Some School and School Building Committee members believe incidents at the motel could seriously impact students at a new Central Middle School planned for St. Ann's Road, Wollaston.

QUINCY AFTER SCHOOL Child Care (QCARE) recently received $1,000 from the Quincy Walmart, 301 Falls Blvd. The money will be used for the scholarship fund, which provides tuition assistance to eligible families enrolled in the program with a demonstrated financial need. QCARE is a non-profit organization that provides quality after school child care to children ages kindergarten through 13 in nine public elementary and one public middle school in Quincy. QCARE also offers vacation programs during February, April and summer vacation weeks. Children who attend Quincy After School holding the oversized check are (from left) Thomas Page, Nicole Page, Barry Page and Hannah Ford. Back row (from left): Martin Disla, manager, Quincy Walmart; Sarah Dunphey, executive director, Quincy After School; Carole Saia, Fundraising chairperson, administrative assistant, Quincy After School. "We are grateful to Walmart for their support," Dunphey said. "In these challenging economic times, we have experienced a growing number of inquiries for financial assistance and need to increase our Scholarship Fund in order to help more children and families in need." To support the QCARE Scholarship Fund, donations may be sent to Quincy After School Child Care, P.O. Box 710144, North Quincy, MA 02171. For more information, call 617-773-3299.

Star Of Sea Friends Prayer Meeting Monday

In 2005, the Friends of Star of the Sea met with Sr. Janet Eisner and Jack Connors of the Meade-Eisner Commission - the committee appointed by then Archbishop O'Malley to take a second look at parish closings.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Connors suggested that the group, "Keep Praying -- It Works!" Following that advice, the Friends will hold its next prayer meeting on Monday, Nov. 8 at the First Church of Squantum, 164 Bellevue Rd. from 7 to 8 pm. in the upper church.

Group leader, Mary Grace Montalto said, "To clarify, the focus of this group is to pray together and to gather as a community. At the first prayer group we said the rosary, meditated on the 'Reading of the Day' from the United States Catholic Conference of Bishops website (http://www.usccb.org/nab). We also looked to the saints for inspiration, and read the story of St. Margaret Clitherow." She noted that the format is very informal and fluid, and if someone would like to suggest other topics for the prayer group, they can contact her via email (mgandhd@verizon.net), or bring material and suggestions to the next prayer group.

The meetings are tentatively set for the first Monday of the month through June 6, 2011.

At the conclusion of the prayer meeting, co-chairs Maureen Mazrimas and Sean Glennon will give a brief update of the recently-filed appeals, and are encouraging all to invite friends, family and neighbors to join them on Nov. 8.

High Praise - And Deserving Honor- For Stilt Man Rick Cobban

He's been a "high" light – both literally and figuratively – of the Quincy Christmas Parade for the past 25 years.

But this year, Rick Cobban won't be walking the 3-mile parade route on his familiar 6-foot stilts wearing a tuxedo or other crowd-pleasing costume.

Cobban, who is 60, has hung up his stilts for the city's official start of the holiday season. Last year's parade was his last. Instead, the fun-loving comedian and talented entertainer will be honored as the grand marshal of the 58th annual parade Sunday, Nov. 28.

The Quincy native has been invited by the Quincy Christmas Parade Festival Committee to ride along the parade route in the comfort of an open convertible or some other vehicle of his choice. My choice: a stretch limousine for one of the most deserving grand marshals ever.

Since 1985, the stilt man has been one of the main attractions (sorry Santa, he may be more popular than you on parade day) since he first giant gaited the distance from Quincy Center to North Quincy High. While the marching bands lift your spirit with holiday sounds, it's Cobban's towering and engaging presence that's brought smiles to thousands of parade goers of all ages.

The feeling's been mutual.

"Being the grand marshal is very special to me," a truly honored Cobban says. "I'm really looking forward to it.

"Of all the things I've done over the past 39 years (as a comedic entertainer), I look forward to the Quincy Christmas Parade. I'm a Quincy guy. You have 200,000 people along the parade route. Every step I take someone's yelling my name. It's very overwhelming."

It's also physically demanding.

The parade route from Quincy Center to North Quincy High School is about 3 miles. That's straight down Hancock Street. But Cobban constantly interacts with the crowd and criss-crosses the street like a slalom skier on stilts. His "Family Circus" cartoon-like route covers at least another mile.

"I'm able to do it because with all the people there, it gets your adrenaline flowing," Cobban says. "It's almost a let down when you get to the finish line. My legs are beat, my back may hurt. You can't stay still on stilts. You need to keep moving – it's a good workout.

"Most of all, it's a labor of love because you're entertaining."

Cobban was raised in Quincy. He attended the Parker School, Atlantic Junior High School and graduated from North Quincy High School in 1968 where he played varsity football, baseball and hockey.

In 1971, Rick enrolled in the Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Clown School and toured with the renown circus for four years throughout the U.S. and Canada. While performing as a clown with the circus, he learned how to walk on stilts.

He then married his college sweetheart, Helen (Michaelides) who graduated from Quincy High School in 1969. They met while attending Boston State College.

"I ran away from the circus to join a home," Cobban jests. Today, they live in Abington and are the parents of two adult children: Stacey and Scott. Cobban is employed as a property manager for Falconi Companies.

After his circus days ended, Cobban still had the urge to entertain.

"When I got out of the circus, I wanted to continue but as a freelancer. There were no one-man bands and stilts so I started my own circus. I put on a one-man show (juggling, tight-rope, stilts, plate-spinning). It was a one-hour show. I did that to supplement my income with a growing family."

While he's not going to walk the Christmas Parade route on stilts again, Cobban thinks he'll still "rise to the occasion" for charity events.

For example, he's donned a hockey referee uniform with "stilted" skates for Bruins' alumni games and other charity sporting events. "I do a comedy routine, sort of like the Harlem Globetrotters. I'm on skates and I do a lot of eccentric skating and crashing into the boards. I've been skating all my life."

Cobban may also be recognizable for doing a one-man band routine at the Quincy Center Sidewalk Festival during the 1980s. He played eight or nine musical instruments affixed to him – from a bass drum and piano keyboard to horns, whistles and cymbals.

The stilt routine is not without its occupational hazards.

One New Year's Eve, Cobban was on stilts during a First Night Event inside Presidents Place in Quincy Center. There's a ceramic floor and it had been snowing. He stepped on some slush, slipped and fell to the ground. He fractured a kneecap and broke both wrists.

But he's never fallen walking the Christmas Parade route.

"It does get windy at some of the intersections," he explains. "You have to brace yourself. On a nice, sunny day, it's just fantastic. The cold or rain doesn't bother me. You have to dress for that."

On stilts, Cobban stands about 12 feet tall – big costume wig or hat included. The stilt "boots" are six feet off the ground. Cobban stands about 5'9".

He makes the stilts out of wood and equips them with a boot which he places his feet in. The bottom of the stilts have mock shoes.

For the Christmas Parade, he was allowed to "freelance." He picked a spot in the parade route which is open and provided him some space to do his routine.

"I didn't want to be in front of the politicians or behind the horses," he says for obvious reasons.

He's worn about eight or nine difference costumes over the years. He makes the props and his wife sews the outfits. "It's a bit time-consuming and you have to get the right materials," he says.

Among the bigger crowd-pleasers: Elvis complete with an oversized microphone and a big dark wig; cowboy with a big gun and large foam hat; and Red Sox player with a glove and ball that he can "toss" to the crowd like a yo-yo. The Sox uniform debuted in 2004 – after the Local 9 won the World Series.

The Elvis costume has been the most popular over the years.

But this year, there will be no stilts.

"I'll honestly miss doing it," Cobban says. "It's been a big part of my life."

Enjoy the ride this year, Rick.

You deserve it.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1910 postcard view of the beach and cottages on Post Island Road in Post Island, a little known and secluded section of Quincy. Post Island is situated between Shell Beach in Adams Shore and The Bit in Houghs Neck. It is not part of Houghs Neck. Post Island was originally the easternmost section of the colonial land grant to William Coddington in the 1630s. When he was self-exiled to Rhode Island, he sold a large portion of his land stretching from what is now Mount Wollaston Cemetery to and including Post Island and beyond nearly to The Bit. Through inheritance it later became the Mount Wollaston Farm of Colonel John Quincy for whom the city was named. In the 19th century, it became the property of John Quincy Adams II and his wife Fanny Crowinshield Adams. They built a large mansion on the farm near Samoset Avenue. Adams died in 1894 and his wife and family began selling the property to land developers. In 1896, Post Island was the last parcel to be sold. The subdivision had 34 house lots with 10 of them on the water including the cottages shown above. Today, these are year-round homes. To contact Tom Galvin, e-mail tmgalvin@verizon.net.

Palmucci To Host Community Meeting On Downtown Redevelopment Nov. 13

Ward 4 Councilor Brian Palmucci will host a community presentation and meeting Saturday, Nov. 13 to discuss the proposal, currently before the City Council, for the Redevelopment of Downtown Quincy.

The meeting will be held on the eighth floor of the Granite Trust Building, 1400 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

In addition to receiving a presentation of the overall proposal, the meeting will give residents of ward four the opportunity to tour Streetworks' marketing center as well as discuss the plan in detail with members of the development team.

The proposed redevelopment calls for over $1 billion of private investment and a significant amount of public infrastructure improvements by the city. Representatives will be on hand to discuss the proposal in further detail with interested neighbors.

All ward four residents are invited and encouraged to attend and participate at the Nov. 13 meeting. Because space is limited, contact Palmucci to reserve a spot.

"Given the magnitude of the proposal, I want to offer the residents I represent the opportunity ask questions and discuss the project in detail with myself and the proponents," Palmucci said.

Residents with questions about this or any other matter can contact Palmucci on his cell phone, (617) 834-3945 or by email at bpalmucci@quincyma.gov.

O'Donnell Cautions Against Overpaying For Deed Copies

Some Norfolk County residents are still being solicited to pay a private company $59.50 for "certified deeds" they could get directly from the Norfolk County Registry of Deeds for $2.

"It may be legal, but I still think it's outrageous," Norfolk Register of Deeds William O'Donnell said of a direct-mail solicitation thousands of Massachusetts homeowners recently received.

"I want to continue to bring this to the public's attention in response to direct inquiries I have received from Norfolk County residents who nearly fell victim to this scheme."

In an official looking letter that includes the homeowner's Norfolk Registry Book and Page deed citation, National Deed Service, Inc. writes: "The U.S. Government Federal Citizens Information Center website recommends that property owners should have an official or certified copy of their deed. If you don't already have this important document, you may obtain one now."

O'Donnell said the letter offers homeowner one certified copy of their deed for $59.50, and then appears to offer a bargain by charging only $20 for a second certified copy.

The firm's letters do disclose that many of these records "are available free or at a nominal cost from government agencies," and notes that it is not affiliated with any government agency.

O'Donnell said the solicitation still does not sit well with him.

"I just want to warn all the residents and businesses of Norfolk County that this practice preys on those who don't realize how easy and inexpensive it is to contact the Registry directly to obtain a certified copy of a deed or any recorded document. For just $2, our customer service staff will process your request and mail you out a certified copy of your deed," O'Donnell added.

For more information, call the Registry of Deeds at 781-461-6101.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Reagan, Prop 2 1/2 Cerasoli, Eleey Win

This Week
1980
30 Years Ago

By FRANK McCAULEY

Quincy went Republican in a presidential election for the first time in 24 years as its contribution to Ronald Reagan's landslide victory over President Jimmy Carter.

The margin was a slim 61 votes.

Reagan got 18,038 votes to 17,977 for Carter in the "City of Presidents" and the third major candidate, Independent John Anderson, received 5,328 votes.

Referendum Question #2, the controversial Proposition 2 1/2, limiting the municipal tax levy, swept Quincy by a 26,859 to 14,135 margin; it won by 3-to-2 around the state.

In the only contested election on the Quincy ballot, Rep. Robert Cerasoli easily prevailed over George Lawler of Weymouth by 11,532 to 5,128.

And Quincy attorney Peter Eleey apparently won the Fourth District seat on the Governor's Council. He outpolled the GOP's William Robinson of Hull in Quincy 28,178 to 9,609.

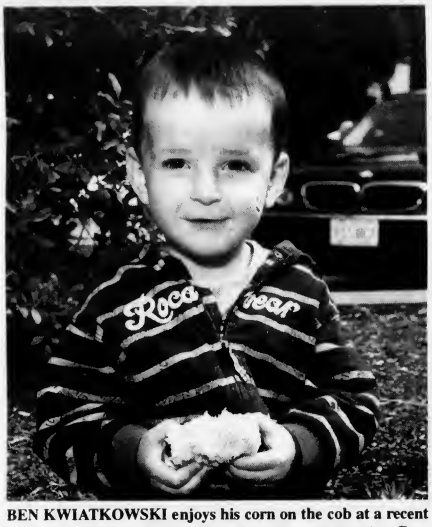
(Editor's note: Results from other communities in the district confirmed Eleey's win.)

BAD NEWS: $242.60 TAX RATE FORECAST

Announcement of a $242.60 tax rate for fiscal 1981, an increase of $18.60 over the previous year, was expected in a matter of days.

Mayor Arthur H. Tobin refused to confirm or deny the figures but he said if certain figures are accepted by the state "the tax rate increase will be $1 or $1.50 less than the projected $2."

"When I announce it," he added, "I want to be able to say that this is it."



It was an apparent reference to the fact that last year the tax rate was prematurely announced at $221.20, then the figure was withdrawn at the insistence of the state and rose to $224.

Tobin pointed out that the tax rates already announced by cities and towns across the state have averaged an increase of 9.1% while Quincy, if it turns out to be $18.60, would rise only 8.1%.

QATV Wins First Place Award

For the second year in a row, Quincy Access TV has received the prestigious "Overall Excellence Award" for community television for 2010-11 from the regional members of the Alliance for Community Media-New England (ACME-NE) which includes all of New England, New York and New Jersey.

The award is judged by professionals in the television field. Score is based on content, creativity, technical elements and how well the community is served, as well as their overall reaction to the compilation video.

This year, there was an upsurge in the number of entries, doubling the number of entries from last year.

"I am very proud of all who contributed to the success of QATV; many members, and my wonderful staff including Mark Crosby, Jon Caliri, Joe Catalano, WC Potter, Bill Earley, Carol Themmen, Mike Jarvie and Frank Tansey – all are most deserving of this honor," said QATV Executive Director Elizabeth Campbell.

Quincy Access Television is open to Quincy residents over the age of 18. Members are taught every aspect of television production.

Members are entitled to the use of the equipment and channel time.

Quincy Symphony Orchestra Concert Sunday

The Quincy Symphony Orchestra will open its 57 season of classic and contemporary orchestral works Sunday, Nov. 7 at 2:30 p.m. at the Lloyd Hill Performing Arts Center at Quincy High School.

The performing arts center is inside the main entrance on 100 Coddington St. Parking is also available in the Russell Street parking lot.

Highlighting the QSO's Fall Concert will be a performance by pianist Miyuki Otani of the Beethoven 4th Piano Concerto under the baton of Yoichi Udagawa.

The opening selection will be "An American Hymn," a recent composition by local composer Tom Vignieri. The concert will conclude with Dvorak's Symphony #9, "From the New World."

Quincy Symphony classical recitals offer concert-goers an intimate and enjoyable symphonic experience with the convenience of free parking and less the burden of ticket expense.

To fulfill its new vision of "Bringing World-class Music to Everyone," the QSO is providing the public with a limited number of complimentary (free) seating tickets. Tickets will be available through area outlets, listed on the QSO's website, and at the door up to 30 minutes before the concert.

Donations of any amount will also be accepted. Donors of $50 or more ($40 for seniors) will receive two Priority-seating tickets to each of the QSO's three classical concerts as well as reserved, preferred seating at those concerts.

For the listing of area outlets with QSO tickets, available donation subscription packages, or any other questions, call 800-579-1618.

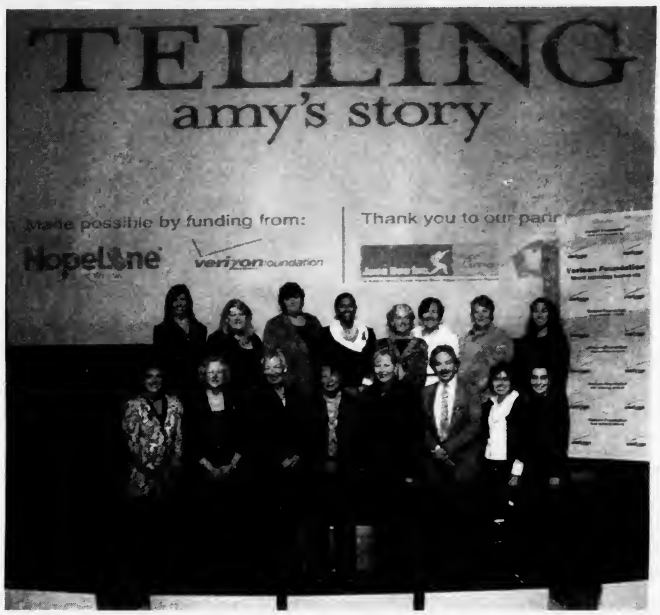
New Blog Highlights English Garden Style



Quincy master gardener, garden writer, and professor at Bridgewater State University Thomas Mickey has started a blog about American gardeners' love for the English garden.

The blog combines a bit of history with gardening. Mickey bases a lot of the material on his research into American gardening at the Smithsonian archives in Washington.

With a Fellowship from the Smithsonian's Department of Horticulture, Mickey spent a year pouring through dozens of seed and nursery catalogs from the nineteenth century and concluded that the English garden model began with the seed and nursery catalogs of that period. He said, "The catalogs sold us more than seeds and plants. With their essays and images in the catalog, the company owners sold us the English garden."

The obsession with the lawn is only one example of how the English garden model has influenced gardening in this country. Though the lawn is the most important feature of the English garden, there are other elements as well, like the curved walkways, the cluster of shrubs, well-placed trees, and, of course, flowerbeds with annuals or perennials.

The blog, called American Gardening, has this URL: www.americangardening.net.

THE VERIZON FOUNDATION awarded a total of $165,000 in grants to 15 agencies that provide services to survivors of domestic violence across Massachusetts at the "Telling Amy's Story" screening event. The documentary, funded by the Verizon Foundation and created by Penn State Public Broadcasting, recounts the tragic story of a Verizon employee who was shot and killed by her husband. Among the organizations receiving a grant was DOVE, Inc. (Domestic Violence Ended) based in Quincy. Potato Crusted Halibut

Most fish need some kind of enhancement or they are bland- with the exception of scallops and shrimp that have such a distinctive flavor of their own they hardly need anything else.

Today's recipe for halibut has a few other ingredients to make a delicious treat and so different. Other fish can be used, but halibut usually comes thicker sliced and makes this dish unique as you will see.

POTATO CRUSTED HALIBUT
1 large potato (sliced on a Mandoline slicer)
4 pieces of halibut
Salt and pepper
Olive oil for drizzling
Parchment paper
Vegetable oil for sautéing

First slice the potato and set aside. If you don't have a slicer, try it by hand and make them very thin.

Season the halibut with salt, pepper, and a little olive oil.

On a piece of parchment or waxed paper, arrange the slices of potato. Over the potato, place the halibut in the center of the potatoes. Roll the potatoes around the halibut until the potato fully covers the fish. Refrigerate for one hour.

In a large frying pan, heat the vegetable oil. Sauté the halibut turning carefully until the potatoes resemble potato chips. It seems like a lot of work, but well worth it.

Thanksgiving Menu Topic At Library Nov. 10

Learn the art of creating a Thanksgiving menu that is easy, artistic and delicious Wednesday, Nov. 10 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

Chef Liz Barbour will discuss the best way to prepare turkey and demonstrate two of her favorite side dishes. Each recipe is designed to make Thanksgiving preparation simple and stress-free.

Barbour has been cooking professionally in the Boston area since 1992 and started The Creative Feast in 2004.

Space is limited for this program; registration is required.

Do Not Rake Leaves From Yards Into Streets

Fall Street Sweeping Underway

As the fall street sweeping continues throughout the city's neighborhoods, Quincy DPW Commissioner Larry Prendeville says residents should not rake leaves from their yards into the streets.

"The weight of the large piles of leaves causes problems with the sweepers, requiring additional maintenance," Prendeville said.

Fall street sweeping in both residential and business districts is underway and will continue through Dec. 10, weather permitting, Prendeville added.

All residents are encouraged to make neighbors aware of the schedule and remove vehicles from the street on the day of the sweeping. This allows the city to remove much debris before the winter season.

The schedule is set up by both ward and precinct, weather permitting.

Signs will be posted midday the day prior to sweeping.

Here is the remaining schedule for street sweeping by ward and precinct:

Sterling Middle School Veterans' Day Ceremonies Nov. 10

Reay E. Sterling Middle School, 444 Granite St., Quincy, will hold its annual Veterans' Day ceremonies Wednesday, Nov. 10 from 1 to 2:30 p.m. in the George DePaulo Auditorium.

There will be several speakers, video, and a musical presentation.

This year's emphasis includes a power point with the history of more than 30 West Quincy veterans who have been honored by the city with intersections or memorials named for them in the Sterling School district.

Inspired by the dedication of the square to Richard Davis Jr. last spring, research was done and will be presented on the history of Private Davis as well as the other brave soldiers whom Quincy has dedicated squares.

Sterling invites the public to attend, especially veterans and their families to this year's special event.

Union Congregational Church Fair Saturday

Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Wollaston, will sponsor its annual Fair Saturday, Nov. 6 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the church gymnsasium.

This year's event, "Fall into Christmas," will feature homemade baked goods, handcrafted gift items and seasonal decorations.

There will also be a snack bar and a silent auction including collectible ornaments, antiques, local services, restaurants and entertainment.

Durim Hyseni Graduates ROTC Training

Durim Hyseni, son of Mehdi and Aishe Hyseni of Presidents Lane, Quincy, recently graduated from the Army ROTC Leader's Training Course at Fort Knox, KY.

The cadet, a 2008 graduate of Quincy High School, is a student at the University of Hawaii, Honolulu.

Interpretive Signs Ceremony At Wollaston Beach Saturday

The Friends of Wollaston Beach (FWB) will hold an opening ceremony Saturday, Nov. 6 at 10 a.m. for Interpretive Signage recently installed along Wollaston Beach.

The signs are made possible via grants awarded to FWB by the Massachusetts Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR) and the City of Quincy.

The signs are along the walking trail of the coastline from Moswetuset Hummock to Caddy Park. They highlight the natural landmarks, local history, and environmental and conservation components of the open space along the shoreline.

Members of the FWB, the DCR, the City of Quincy will be on hand as FWB President Neil McCole and Quincy Historian Tom Galvin review the highlights of the project.

The group will meet on Wollaston Beach Saturday at 10 a.m. across from the Tot Lot on Sachem Street and will tour a few of the signs.

The event is open to the public. The FWB will provide coffee and breakfast treats.

Sheriff Bellotti Joins Partnership To Support Citizen Soldiers

Norfolk County Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti recently hosted the Adjutant General of the Massachusetts National Guard in Dedham at an event where both men signed an agreement giving National Guard and Reserve members a leg up when it comes to consideration for employment.

The Employer Partnership of the Armed Forces is dedicated to forming employment and business relationships that benefit Reservists and Guard members as well their employers.

"We find that men and women who are Reserve or National Guard members are extremely well-trained, highly-motivated and utterly competent. They fit in well with the kind of agency we run here at the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office," Bellotti said.

Maj. Gen. Joseph Carter extolled the virtues of the men and women who sacrifice their time and talents in service to their country in times of peace and war. Carter also praised the businesses and agencies such as the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office for entering into the Employer Partnership.

NORFOLK COUNTY Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti (right) shakes hands with Maj. Gen. Joseph Carter after both men signed an agreement that gives National Guard and Reserve members good civilian employment opportunities.

"We want to recognize employers who take a leadership role in giving support to the members in the National Guard and Reserves," Maj. Gen. Carter said as he shook hands with Bellotti. "These men and women have an outstanding work ethic and are instilled with the highest values – such as integrity, honor, service and morality.

Several of the Norfolk County Sheriff's Office staff members already have served overseas in National Guard or Reserve capacities in Iraq and Afghanistan. Bellotti pledged to do all he can to help the people who form such an important component of the nation's military force.

"These men and women take themselves away from their family, friends and careers to make sure the rest of us remain safe," Bellotti said. "The least we can do is give them some extra consideration when they return to the workforce."

FIRE SAFETY

by Captain Tom Lyons
Fire Prevention Bureau
Quincy Fire Department

Good Bye, Be Well, Be Safe

For the most part, it's been easy to write these articles for you, where I've been motivated by the strongest desire to help prevent you from experiencing the devastation of fire. Having seen first hand the impact of fire, the motivation to educate has come naturally as have these articles.

However, this essay is entirely different. If you're reading it I've retired and left the Quincy Fire Department after 32 plus years of service. Just yesterday, I walked that gauntlet of memories and appreciation, loss and apprehension as I walked out of headquarters for the last time, attempting not to fully succumb to the impact of heartfelt comments and final goodbyes. It was quite a challenge. I attempted to minimize its effect by not announcing my departure; even then it was still quite difficult.

Consequently, this article, my last, isn't the easiest to write either. How do I sit here and convey the depth of gratitude I have and now feel for the opportunity I was given in the summer of 1978 when hired by the City of Quincy for a position in the fire department? How do I relate to you the appreciation I feel for the connections I've made and felt with so many residents, business owners and coworkers over these 32 years as I've attempted to help others in my own unique way?

My first 16 years as a firefighter and lieutenant, responding to emergencies, witnessing the impact of fire on individuals, their families and businesses, exposed me to the destruction of fire, laying the groundwork for the motivation to prevent it. Later, it wasn't the easiest thing to do 16 years ago when becoming captain, to separate myself from the more heralded suppression activities, from those incidents on the fire trucks. I then relinquished the opportunity to work closely, shoulder to shoulder, responding to emergencies with fellow firefighting personnel. However, I did so where I saw a need in fire prevention, code enforcement and education and knew I was uniquely capable of fulfilling that need. I don't regret that choice.

So to those firefighters who pulled me aside, shared their heartfelt comments and to those that said, "Thank you for all you have done for us!" I reply to them and the residents of the Quincy community, "Thanks for all you have given me in return!" Life is short, and as the years pass so quickly, it is apparent to me that service to others brings much reward. I've been fully rewarded by my attempts at helping you, and am ever so grateful for that opportunity. A commitment became a passion and a job became a vocation, while it's time to move on to something else as difficult as it is to do.

So in leaving I say, the best to you all, thank you so much for what you have given me, while I ask that in my absence you will continue to maintain a healthy fire prevention attitude. Thank you for doing so.

Good-bye, be well and be safe!

Hope Alive But Flickering For 'Wolly' Restoration

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Supporters of the landmark Wollaston Theater still hope for a miracle on Beale Street, but that hope appears dim as the key players officially withdrew from the revival project in recent weeks.

Both Mayor Thomas Koch and Jeffrey Levien, Senior Director for Street-Works Development, LLC, cited multi-million dollar estimates for repairs and renovations in official statements dooming their plans.

"The original plan to redevelop and revitalize the Wollaston Theater, although much desired and approached with hopefulness, is simply cost prohibitive," Levien explained in his notice to Peter Hoy, the attorney representing property owner Yvonne Chandler.

"Thus, at this time we remain unable to proceed with the redevelopment and thus payoff (sic) the mortgage," Levien stated in the three-page notice from Street-Works dated Oct. 18.

Koch described the same obstacles and the economy in his statement, "Unfortunately, the financing isn't there and the willingness from outside investors to take on this kind of risk in this economy isn't there right now."

These recent developments stand in marked contrast to the excitement generated in late 2008 when Koch announced that Street-Works, the lead developer for Quincy Center, supported the "Wolly" restoration.

Property Sold

The plan moved forward as the property was sold on June 16, 2009 for $1,145,000.

According to Assessors' records, the buyer was Wollaston Development Associates, LLC, a White Plains, NY, firm headed by Kenneth Narva, co-founder and partner of Street-Works.

At the time, the real estate transaction appeared to be signed and sealed with the buyer located at the Street-Works' Glenn Street address in White Plains.

"It appeared to be a win-win situation," recalled Hoy of the plan which would cover the Chandler investment and, also, be a boon to the city.

The 84-year-old theater became one of the focal point of the long-range plans to recharge Wollaston Center that were unveiled in July 2009.

However, the financing never materialized.

In his statement, Koch noted that Street-Works was never expected to rehabilitate the property, "Street-Works role was essentially to give us time to line up other investors and transfer it to a nonprofit group. It was never their intention-nor were they asked-to play a long-term role in the future of the theater."

Hoy said Monday that he was "never told that Street-Works was planning to farm it out to a non-profit group," and that he's surprised that Street-Works is "advertising a $1.3 billion project (for Quincy Center) at the same time they're walking away from this one."

HOPE DIMMED for a future revival of the Wollaston Theater after announcements by Mayor Thomas Koch and Street-Works executive Jeffrey Levien, attorney, that the project would be cost prohibitive. Quincy Sun Photo/Laura Griffin

"The cost for the renovations got prohibitive," according to the city's legal consultant Thomas Kiley who spoke during reviews of the Quincy Center revitalization plans.

Kiley told city councillors that the center plan could have been impacted, "We could overburden this project."

To date, Hoy said he has received minimal payments on the property of under $100,000 and the deed transfer has never been filed in Probate Court.

"There was a balloon payment ($1 million) that was due in January that was ignored," Hoy said Monday, adding, "We were hopeful."

Hoy's client Yvonne Chandler is the widow of Arthur Chandler who had always hoped for the restoration and re-opening of the Wollaston Theater.

Future Vision

"If things continue, Mrs. Chandler will have to reclaim the property and put it back on the market," said Hoy.

While hopes are fading fast, they are not entirely gone.

"I'm not terribly optimistic," Hoy said this week but he later added, "I hold out this slight hope...."

Hoy's not alone in envisioning a second act for the old theater.

"We are still holding out hope that something may happen," Koch said in his announcement, adding, "... and I have no regrets about giving it a shot."

Mark Carey, co-director Quincy Chamber of Commerce and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro also believe there could be a last minute reprieve before wrecking balls demolish the structure.

"I think there is an enormous appetite to preserve it," Gutro said, last week, adding, "I'm looking forward to getting a comprehensive update on what happened in just 12 months and the documentation to substantiate cost projections on restoration."

Until the final decisions are made, the theater marquee remains blank above Wollaston Center while the theater poster case offers reminder of the past when the big screen offered double features like Fred Astaire in "3 Little Words" and a the B-film "Shadows on the Wall."

Minutes From Quincy License Board Oct. 26 Meeting

The Board of License Commissioners of the City of Quincy took the following action at its Oct. 26th meeting held in Council Chambers of City Hall.

Board Chairman Joseph P. Shea presided at the meeting. Also present were Police Chief Paul Keenan, Inspectional Services Director James Duca, Health Commissioner Andrew Scheele, Fire Chief Joseph Barron, Det. Leo Coppens.

• Hearing regarding the request of Pankaj Patel d/b/a Alpha Sub Quincy, Inc. d/b/a Subway @ 301 Falls Blvd. for a Common Victualer License. Patel stated he has competed three weeks training at Subway headquarters in Connecticut. After inspection of the site today Chief Barron noted the fire extinguisher is out of date and must be replaced. Patel agreed to replace it. Motion to grant the request made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request of Brian Tenore, d/b/a Beale Street News, 19 Beale St. for a Common Victualer License. Tenore is moving his existing business across the street and will offer coffee. Motion to grant the request made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request of Quincy Entertaining, d/b/a Remick's, 1657 Hancock St for transfer of the CV All Alcoholic Restaurant, Cabaret & Pledge of License from Evia Food Service, Inc. Timothy Collins Manager. Attorney Jon Aieta and Timothy Collins present.

Collins explained the concept using a part of Quincy history, 1657 Hancock St. housed the oldest restaurant in Quincy and Remick's a large part of "Shoppers Town". Proposed Chef Marco Farley is a seven time nominated best chef. Brunch as well as a Jazz and Blues will be offered two nights a week.

Architect plans for the 156 seat restaurant were presented to the Board.

Commissioner Scheele questioned the sprinkler law. Attorney Aieta believes if used as a restaurant it would not need to be sprinkled. Chief Barron and Director Duca both agreed to review the plans and determine if the site needs a sprinkler system.

Collins stated 60 percent of the restaurant will be food and 30 percent alcohol. A Jazz percussionist from Quincy will perform.

Commissioner Scheele questioned the request for a Cabaret License. Chairman Shea noted the existing Cabaret License at Finian's is current. Motion to grant the request for transfer of the CV All Alcoholic Restaurant & Cabaret License pending fire approval made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

Motion to grant the Pledge of License to Evia Food Service made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request of Wild Blue Burger, LLC, d/b/a Wild Willy's Burgers, 588 Washington St. for a Common Victualer License. Applicants Paul & Ruth Bennett present.

Chairman Shea noted Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi held a neighborhood meeting Sept. 16, and visits to the site by Inspectors Bill Dicarli and Director Duca as well as himself and Det. Leo Coppens. The site will be completely converted from the existing laundromat.

Bennett explained he will operate the franchise with his wife Ruth, they are former McDonald's franchisees. He also was the General Manager of the Bay Side Expo Center in Boston. They are both TIPS and Food Save Certified.

Bennett stated that Wild Willy's does offer beer and wine at the three other locations in Massachusetts and would like to apply for a Wine and Malt License when one becomes available in Quincy. Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi stated the neighborhood meeting was attended by over 75 residents along with Chief Keenan.

He is very impressed with the new owners adding this is a quality operation and asked the Board to do what they could to expedite the application.

Chairman Shea noted the 77 parking spaces are almost double what is needed, he spoke with the applicants Oct. 15 about Wine and Malt not being available. "I don't want anyone to think we're tricking people when one becomes available and we give them one."

Commissioner Scheele questioned the drive-thru in the drawings.

Bennett explained it is there because of the express wash the laundry has and he envisions it as a pick-up.

Chief Barron requested the applicants to contact Quincy Fire Prevention. Motion to grant the request pending occupancy made by Commissioner Scheele, second Director Duca. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the request for Transfer of the CV All Alcoholic Restaurant, Change of Manager, New Officers & Directors & Stockholders from Samthan, Inc. to Country Saloon Products, Inc., d/b/a Texas Saloon, 1546R Hancock St. Ashlee Forsyth, Manager. Attorney William Keener, present the applicant David Keville.

Only cosmetic changes are planned, a new floor plan will be submitted. The applicant is in the process of installing sprinklers, and will apply later to increase the occupancy. Mr. Keville requested a One-day license for the Grand opening on Friday Oct. 29, a police detail has been arranged and he will contact traffic and parking regarding use of the parking area.

Director Duca asked Keville to pay attention to the City's Noise Ordinance. Chief Keenan advised Keville to control the alcohol section of the outside area.

Motion to grant the Transfer of the CV All Alcoholic Restaurant License made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan.

Motion to grant the request for New Officers/ Directors made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan.

Motion to grant the request for Extension of Premise, (pending approval of Jack Gillon for use of the parking area) Oct. 29, rain or shine, from 8-11 p.m., made by Commissioner Scheele, second Chief Keenan. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the status of the Retail Wine & Malt Package Store License presently held by the Wine Messenger, 111 Franklin St. Chairman Shea read a report from Lt. Peter Turowski, Liquor Inspector, dated Oct. 18, 2010. Lt. Turowski reported he called the contact person listed, Robert Mitchell who stated the store closed Sept. 30. Certified Mail was sent to the Wine Messenger in New York on informing them of today's hearing and Mass General Law 138, Section 77 (failure to conduct business at the licensed premise).

Chairman Shea read the minutes of the original meeting, September 2000, granting the license and the agreement that if the store closed the Wine Messenger would surrender the license to the City. With no response from the Wine Messenger the Board voted 5-0 to cancel the Retail Wine & Malt Package Store License.

• Hearing regarding the Sept. 11 violation of MGL 138 § 34: serving alcohol to a minor @ Quincy Jade Restaurant. Mihn Phuoc Giang, Manager, present with interpreter. Commissioner Scheele questioned if Giang understood the violation. Through his interpreter Giang stated he understands and is not challenging anything, the waitress that night has signed up to be TIPS trained in Watertown and will return to work when the class is completed. He asked that the City give him a chance and added it will not happen again.

Chief Keenan motioned to issue a written warning and place it on file for one year. Second Director Duca. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the Sept. 11 violation of MGL 138 § 34: serving alcohol to a minor @ Bistro Chi/Karma Lounge, 39 Cottage Ave. John Liang, Manager. Lt. Turowski read his report of the incident. Jimmy Liang and Emily Conroy, present.

Lt. Turowski read his report. Liang noted Conroy is very experienced, she made a mistake. He has decided to give her another chance. Chief Keenan motioned to issue a written warning, placed on file for one year. Second Director Duca. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the Sept. 11 violation of MGL 138 § 34: serving alcohol to a minor @ Applebee's Neighborhood Grill & Bar, 200 Hancock St. Andrea Meola, Manager, and the barmaid were present. The manager noted all employees are TIPS trained, and will be recertified, he has reminded all employees that busy is not an excuse. All employees have been warned about the responsible service of alcohol. Chief Keenan motioned to issue a written warning, placed on file for one year. Second Director Duca. All in favor.

• Hearing regarding the Sept. 11 violation of MGL 138 § 34: serving alcohol to a minor @ Tedeschi's, 751 East Squantum St. John Whalen, Manager, present.

Lt. Turowski read his report. Whalen reported he was not present that night, the employee has been terminated. He has purchased new software for the registers requiring birth dates to read drivers licenses. There have been two prior violations, 2005 and 2006 at the store resulting in 3-day suspensions.

Commissioner Scheele noted how the 2006 Board struggled with the 3-day suspension because the fake I.D. did look like the person, the vote was 3-2 to suspend, there were 6 different votes.

Chairman Shea read the minutes of that meeting. Chief Keenan stated he is discouraged that this is the second time, but encouraged as to how Whalen does business.

Chief Keenan motioned to suspend the license for 3 days, suspend the suspension for one year from today, second Director Duca.

Commissioner Scheele motioned to place it on file for two years. The motion failed. Chief Keenan's motion to suspend for 3 days, suspend the suspension for one year and place on file, second Chief Barron. All in favor.

• Discussion regarding One-Day License Fees.

Commissioner Scheele's motion to impose a $200 fee for all for profit one-day Wine & Malt requests made by Commissioner Scheele failed.

Chief Keenan motioned to charge $100, second Director Duca. All in favor.

FOOT NOTES

by Joel Chariton, D.P.M.
Diplomate, American Board of Podiatric Surgery
Diplomate, American Board of Podiatric Orthopedics

ON THE SAFE SIDE

Diabetic foot complications are the leading cause of non-traumatic limb amputation in the United States. The dramatic impact that foot care can have on diabetics was recently on the agenda at The American Podiatric Medical Association's (APMA) 98th Annual Scientific Meeting in July, 2010. Patients with diabetes and foot ulcers were statistically matched according to who had seen a podiatrist prior to the onset of the foot condition, and who had not. Those who had seen a podiatrist in the year prior to the onset had far lower rates of hospitalization or amputation than those who had not. It was shown that even one visit to a podiatrist can have a significant impact for diabetics.

November is American Diabetes Month, conceived to communicate the seriousness of the disease and the importance of proper diabetes control. We've seen the results of untreated and self-treated diabetic foot problems, and we cannot advise strongly enough for diabetics to seek professional care. Whether you are dealing with diabetes-related problems or feet that just hurt, we hope you'll call us for an appointment at 781-986-3668, QUINCY MEDICAL CENTER. Office hours are also available at 999 North Main St., in the Randolph Medical Building, and Milton Medical Building in Suite 221. Servicing of diabetic shoes, sneakers, and orthotics is available at all three locations. I am affiliated with the Brockton and Good Samaritan Hospitals.

HINT: The sooner a podiatrist is included in the health care of a diabetic, the greater the chances of the patient having a better quality of life.

Committee Begins Review Of 25 Applicants For College Board

There's no shortage of applicants for the six openings on the Quincy College Board of Governors as 25 persons filed applications, according to Michael McFarland, Chairman of the Appointing Committee.

"I think the interest is very high because Quincy College is very strong," McFarland said Tuesday, "We're very pleased that people are willing to take the time to serve."

McFarland and the Appointing Committee members were scheduled to begin their review yesterday (Wednesday).

Each applicant will have an opportunity to speak to the committee, according to McFarland's plans who said the interviews and screening process will likely take considerable time.

McFarland also said that it appears that the majority of the applicants are Quincy residents. Residency became an issue last summer when the governors attempted to choose a new president for the college.

Under the governing statute, only four non-residents plus one non-resident alumni may serve on the board.

Police: Point Shooting Not A Random Attack

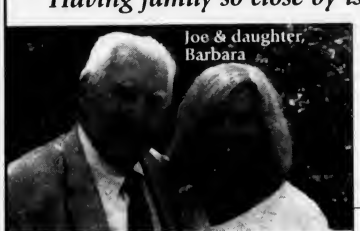
Police are still investigating last Friday's home invasion on Sumner Street, and the shooting of a 19-year-old Dorchester man, according to Captain John Dougan.

"This was not a random event," said Dougan adding that the individuals involved appeared to know each other.

In addition, Dougan said the police have stepped up patrols of the area in an effort to ease residents' fears.

Dougan said police are looking for the van with the license plate 2ED-110. The vehicle was registered to the father of the victim, Casie Drosa.

In another case, Dougan said that police are awaiting autopsy and toxicology test results after the body of a 45-year-old man was found near the banks of Town River off Southern Artery.



The area is slated to be upgraded by Thayer Academy officials who plan a pier for crew at the site.

COMMANDER SCOTT GRAHAM, Naval Operations Support Center Quincy, speaks at the wreath-laying ceremony in honor of John Adams' 275th birthday anniversary.

CONG. WILLIAM DELAHUNT, who will retire in January after representing the 10th Congressional District since 1997, speaks at the Presidential Wreath-Laying ceremony commemorating the 275th birthday anniversary of President John Adams.

JOHN ADAMS, a 7th generation direct descendant of the 2nd U.S. President, was among the guest speakers at last Friday's wreath-laying ceremony held at United First Parish Church in Quincy Center.

'John Adams Taught Us What Leadership Is All About'

in a number of categories, is ranked No. 1 in education.

"He taught us what leadership is about. To me, he's very much alive. I am deeply in his debt."

Delahunt went on to say that one of Adams' strengths was his ability to put the interest of the nation above partisanship and his own concerns.

Mayor Thomas Koch thanked Delahunt for his years of public service, which was followed by applause from the audience. "Mr. Delahunt has been nothing but a friend to the city and to me personally," said Koch.

There was complete silence in the 182-year-old church as sailors from the Naval Operational Support Center of Quincy slowly walked down the main aisle, carrying the presidential wreath that was later placed on his tomb in the crypt of the church.

Michael Cook, President of the United First Parish Church, welcomed the various dignitaries and groups who turned out for the annual wreath-laying ceremony. Commander Scott Graham of the NOSC Quincy said with the state election on the horizon, it's an opportune time to remember Adams and his legacy.

"It's especially appropriate that we honor our second president," said Graham. "We honor the vision and steadfastness of purpose."

Woodward School for Girls senior Shannon Galvin, the daughter of Sean Galvin and Kathy Galvin of Quincy, and the granddaughter of Quincy Historian Tom Galvin, told the audience during her 10-minute speech that she and her Woodward classmates "are direct beneficiaries of his great foresight." The school was found by Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, a cousin of Adams, in 1894.

Galvin said that Adams spoke often of the importance of education, and taking an interest in literature and the sciences. "Education is a keeper of peace and freedom," said Galvin, quoting Adams.

"These are the famous words he wrote to his wife, Abigail Adams, while he was in France: I must study politics and war that my sons may have liberty to study mathematics and philosophy.

"My sons ought to study mathematics and philosophy, geography, natural history, naval architecture, navigation, commerce and agriculture in order to give their children a right to study paintings, poetry, music, architecture, statuary, tapestry and porcelain."

Adams, too, was a prolific letter writer, and in a letter to his son, John Quincy Adams, told him that knowledge makes a person complete.

"You will ever remember that all the end of study is to make you a good man and a useful citizen. This will be the sum total of the advice of your affectionate father."

Galvin said the United First Parish Church and the Woodward School are still vibrant institutions today.

"This church and my school are not just historic institutions visited by people interested in the story of Revolutionary American times," she said. "Both of these institutions remain active and relevant today, in their original structures – busy fulfilling their original missions – this church as a place of worship and service to people – and my school preparing students for college and life as engaged citizens in a free society."

John Adams, a seventh generation, direct descendant of the second President, who shares the same name, pointed out that Adams was chosen to work on the draft of the state constitution after extensively studying other forms of government from around the world.

Arthur Ducharme, the director of the church's visitor program, said that the Declaration of Independence would never had made it through the Continental Congress and the "unthinkable" happened when the colonies separated from their mother country.

"And yet it happened," said Ducharme. "And it happened on a large degree because John Adams believed it could happen. Let us honor the gifts John Adams gave us."

Quincy Veterans Council Commander Thomas Stansbury said afterwards that the wreath-laying ceremony is an important one. "It was interesting," Stansbury said. "You're talking about John Adams. If we don't remember him, who will? There's a lot of history here (in Quincy). We're lucky to have two Presidents to be born here."

Water Meter Replacement and Automated Meter Reading System Project

Information for Residents

The Quincy Department of Public Works is updating 24,000 water meters throughout the city. The project includes the replacement of both the water meters and external reading system. The completed project will greatly improve the reliability and accuracy of water meter reading operations and will increase the efficiency of the DPW. The city has contracted with Easton Winwater Services, who will be performing the installations. Easton WinWater Services will need access to each water customer's house or business for this work. Please be aware that Easton WinWater Services will contact customers directly via U.S. mail. Residents of Quincy are reminded not to respond to unsolicited phone calls or home visits. All personnel installing water meters are issued identification and will arrive in uniform and in marked vehicles. A link to names and pictures of each installer can be found on the DPW website. If you believe you have been contacted by someone other than Easton Winwater or the city, please call the Quincy Police Department at 617-479-1212.

The meter replacement work will begin in September in the North Quincy/Squantum area, and will progress throughout the city by water meter reading route over the course of a two-year period. There is a systematic implementation plan for this project and therefore customers are asked to not contact Easton Winwater Service or Public Works for their meter replacement until they have received a notification letter from Easton Winwater. For a current update on this program please visit the DPW website at http://www.quincyma.gov/Government/PWD/WaterMeterRepacement.cfm

Woodward School For Girls Senior Shannon Galvin Pays Tribute To U.S. 2nd President

'John Adams Gave Many Gifts To This Great Nation'

Good Afternoon I am greatly honored to stand before you to speak in this extraordinarily beautiful and historic Church.

Thank you Mr. DuCharme and Reverend Bennett for the invitation to The Woodward School ---- which I am pleased to be representing today.

Many of my schoolmates are here and it is a privilege to speak on their behalf. In May, I will graduate with the class of 2011 in this Church under this beautiful Alexander Parris ceiling, as is our school tradition.

The Woodward School, the First Parish Church, and President John Adams all share an ongoing story. Woodward is located just a few blocks away on Hancock St. It opened in 1894, across the street from the Adams Academy for Boys.

Both the Woodward School and The Adams Academy were established to "support a school for the teaching of Greek and Latin and other foreign languages, as well as the arts and sciences."

Woodward's founder, Dr. Ebenezer Woodward, was a cousin to the Adams' and was the leading physician in Quincy until his death in 1869. He is remembered as an especially capable and compassionate doctor who cared for all of his patients – with no concern for whether they could ever pay him.

Following the opening of the Adams Academy for boys --- Dr. and Mrs. Woodward established a trust for the purpose of founding a school for girls. And thus, The Woodward School came to be.

Dr. Woodward and his wife, Mary Wroe Greenleaf were inspired by the former President and his wife Abigail Adams. It was John Adams' belief in the ideal of a comprehensive education for all Americans that I will speak of today, on the anniversary of his birth. I speak with personal gratitude to former President Adams and on behalf of all the students in this audience – as we are all direct beneficiaries of his foresight.

Any history of John Adams tells us that he was a true and diligent scholar.

He loved books and took wisdom and comfort from reading great literature, especially in times of trouble.

He read widely on the subjects of philosophy and government and he did so with purpose.

Writing to his son, Adams wrote: "You will ever remember that all the end of study is to make you a good man and a useful citizen. This will ever be the sum total of the advice of your affectionate father."

Most know that our Massachusetts Constitution -- recognized as the oldest functioning written constitution in the world – was authored in significant part by John Adams.

There is much to say about President Adam's contributions to our structure of Government in that document. Perhaps above all else - his determined commitment to education for all citizens is written directly into our State's Constitution.

SHANNON GALVIN of Quincy, a senior at the Woodward School for Girls and a member of the National Honor Society, speaks at the Presidential wreath-laying ceremony last Friday commemorating the 275th birthday anniversary of John Adams. The ceremony was held at United First Parish Church. The 2nd U.S. President, along with his son, 6th U.S. President John Quincy Adams and their wives, Abigail Adams and Louisa Catherine Adams, are entombed in the crypt of the church. Shannon is the daughter of Sean and Kathy Galvin of Quincy, and granddaughter of Quincy Historian Tom Galvin.

These are some of the words he wrote and which remain today in that document:

"Wisdom and knowledge, as well as virtue, diffused generally among the body of the people, being necessary for the preservation of their rights and liberties; and as these depend on spreading the opportunities and advantages of education in various parts of the country, and among the different orders of the people, it shall be the duty of all legislators and magistrates in all future periods of this Commonwealth to cherish the interests of literature and the sciences....

Mr. David McCullough, ---- John Adams' biographer ---- called this "a declaration of Adams faith in education as the bulwark of the good society".

And, this may be why John Adams was never quiet about the importance of education -- or hesitant to support it with his own estate prior to his death. These are the famous words he wrote to his wife, Abigail Adams, while he was in France:

"I must study politics and war that my sons may have liberty to study mathematics and philosophy.

My sons ought to study mathematics and philosophy, geography, natural history, naval architecture, navigation, commerce and agriculture in order to give their children a right to study paintings, poetry, music, architecture, statuary, tapestry and porcelain."

Today, we witness tragic news and images from around the world 24 hours a day. We are watching our fellow citizens on duty in the war zones of Iraq and Afghanistan. Too many are sadly immersed "in the study of politics and war"

We can only hope that these countries will one day enjoy freedom and peace, and that their citizens and our brave soldiers will someday be able to study only paintings, poetry music and architecture.

Two hundred and seventy-five years have passed since the birth of John Adams. And yet, his philosophy of education as a great maker and keeper of peaceful and free societies remains as powerful and relevant as it was in his time.

Because of John Adams' great passion, vision, and idealism and the shared goals and personal generosity of other Americans like him and the Woodwards, the students sitting in this Church today are recipients of the promise and commitment that John Adams inserted into the state constitution.

This Church and my school are not just historic institutions visited by people interested in the story of revolutionary American times.

Both of these institutions remain active and relevant today, in their original structures -- busy fulfilling their original missions---this Church as a place of worship and service to people --- and my school preparing students for college and life as engaged citizens in a free society.

My school, Woodward, continues to receive the income from the trust Fund that President Adams established for education in 1822. Thus, I speak as a direct beneficiary of President Adams and his wife Abigail's generosity and vision all these years later.

I will close with words John Adams wrote in his diaries: "The preservation of liberty depends upon the intellectual and moral character of the people.

As long as virtue and knowledge are diffused generally among the body of a nation, it is impossible they should be enslaved."

Let us hope that the enormous power of this simple ideal -- that education is the keeper of peace and freedom - can be spread to all the nations of our world. So, thank you to John Adams on the date of his birth --- for his many unique gifts to our great nation and in particular for the promise and opportunity of an education for all her people.

THANK YOU.

13th Annual Beechwood Knoll Fall Festival A Success

The recently held 13th Annual Beechwood Knoll Fall Festival was a huge success with an estimated several thousand visitors enjoying the festivities on a beautiful day.

"I happened to be standing next to a few people and after chatting with them, I happened to ask where they are from and they said Dedham," said Robin Franceschini, the BKS Fall Festival Chair. "I couldn't believe it, but it goes to show that it is a fun day for all!"

This year's festival featured many carnival rides, courtesy of North American Amusements, Inc., including a 70-foot slide and a 22-seat giant swing.

"The looks on the kids' faces was precious, having a blast. We also had pony rides, arts and crafts with endless sandart, pumpkin decorating and face painting.

"The silent auction is also a big attraction for the adults. Many thanks go out to our sponsors," Franceschini added.

Organizers of the Fall Festival expressed their appreciation for all their donations and sponsors, including Walmart, The Fours, and Stephen Wessling Architects, Inc.

The Parks and Recreation Department and the Quincy High School Culinary Arts Department, and Quincy Access Television and The Quincy Sun helped advertise the event, and were instrumental in making the day a great success.

"Thank you to all the parents at the Beechwood Knoll School for all their time and dedication for making a day turn into a fabulous one for the children. We also had several parents work the Fall Festival, as they do every year, that don't even have children in this school anymore.

Thank you to any company and persons that donated their time for the day. Without all of you, this day would not happen," Franceschini added.

Taking The Stress, Mess Out Of Moving

(NAPSA)-According to the U.S. Census Bureau, some 40 million Americans move to a new home every year. The next time you're among them, following a few tips can make it easier.

• Many people unpack their boxes and only clean a room as necessary, but in the end this can cause you more time than if you clean before unpacking. Start with a room-by-room cleaning plan, focusing on the kitchen and bathrooms first. Kitchens are especially important to clean and maintain, given that they are the hub of the home.

• Pack a clearly marked box with cleaning supplies, paper towels, toilet paper and other items you may need. It can help save yourself time by quickly locating these items without digging through boxes to find a dishcloth or glass cleaner.

• Before unpacking, tackle the refrigerator, oven, microwave, dishwasher and garbage disposal with a good cleaning overhaul. Cleaning your appliances before you begin using them is a great way to help them perform more efficiently.

WHEN YOU move into a new home, it's a good idea to clean the place before unpacking.

• Clean under, behind and inside your appliances to ensure they are in tip-top shape.

• Start a regular maintenance routine for dishwashers, garbage disposals and washing machines, with a monthly cleaning product such as the affresh Dishwasher and Disposal Cleaner or affresh Washer Cleaner Kit, along with the suggested tips in appliances' Use and Care Guides, which can usually be found online.

• If your house or apartment comes with a refrigerator that has a water filter, be sure to change that filter. Refrigeration experts recommend changing it every six months to keep water and ice tasting great and to help save yourself money.

• Remove any drawers or bins in the refrigerator and wash them in the kitchen sink with dishwashing liquid and warm water. Wash the inside of the refrigerator with a clean dishcloth-don't forget to wash the compartments on the door.

• When using the self-cleaning cycle, remove oven racks, as they can discolor or become harder to slide. If this happens, place a light coating of vegetable oil on the rack guides to help them slide in. Also, be sure to remove the broiler pan and any other utensils inside the oven prior to starting the self-cleaning cycle.

• If you have a microwave hood, the grease filters can be removed for easy cleaning. Dishwasher-safe filters are also available on some models to make maintenance easier. To clean the filter, remove it from the hood, wash it in the dishwasher and then reinstall it.

Sonya Hardiman Joins Red Door Real Estate

Red Door Real Estate, LLC announces Real Estate Sonya Hardiman has joined the Quincy-based real estate company.

Hardiman will specialize in residential real estate sales in Quincy, Weymouth and the South Shore. Born and raised in Cambridge, she is a Quincy homeowner and speaks fluent Portuguese and Spanish.

SONYA HARDIMAN

Before joining Red Door Real Estate, Hardiman worked as a financial analyst. She graduated with an Associate Degree in accounting from Bay State Community College, where she worked as the Administrative Assistant to the Vice President. She also studied finance at the University of Massachusetts in Boston.

Hardiman's interest in real estate sparked when she purchased her first investment rental property. She soon began scouting additional investment opportunities throughout Massachusetts and assumed the role of an investor and property manager.

"We are excited to have Sonya's welcoming personality as a new addition to our team," said Madelene Cheney Broker/Owner of Red Door Real Estate. "With her past work experience and personal real estate investing, Sonya is sure to succeed as a real estate agent."

Hardiman lives in Quincy with her husband, Paul, and two young children.

For more information on Red Door Real Estate or Sonya Hardiman call (617) 553-1880.

Homebuyer Workshop Nov. 15, 17

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will offer a two-part workshop for first-time homebuyers, to be held from 5 to 9 p.m. Monday, Nov. 15 and Wednesday, Nov. 17 at the J. Crehan Elderly Housing Complex, Calnan Circle in Weymouth.

Sponsored by Rockland Trust, the workshop will give participants an opportunity to meet and hear from real estate brokers, insurance agents, attorneys and loan originators.

Attendees also will have an opportunity to learn about Neighborhood Housing's Down Payment Assistance Grant Program, and to be pre-qualified by at least one lender.

The registration fee is $20, which is refunded upon completion of the workshop. To register or for more information, call 617-770-2227.

Is Your Home's Roof Ready For The Harsh Weather Ahead?

(NAPSA)—When it comes to protecting the value of your home and what's in it, think two words: your roof.

Your home's roof is its first line of defense against rain, snow, cold air and harsh weather in general. And so if you're smart, experts say, you'll want to check what kind of shape yours is in twice a year.

That means being on the look-out for missing shingles or deteriorated flashing (the metal that seals bends and joints on skylights, chimneys, etc.). More than 90 percent of roof damage occurs in these two areas, and catching it early can be key to preventing bigger problems.

Here are more hints that can help:

When To Inspect

Check your roof every spring after severe weather and every winter before the worst weather sets in.

What To Look For

• Examine the roof edge for damage from wind, rain or ice dams. The dams occur when water freezes and backs up under the roofing system.

• Inspect for signs of mold, algae and mildew, such as dark spots and discolored shingles. Inadequate or faulty shingle underlayment can be behind this.

• Look for blistering or peeling paint due to poor attic ventilation.

Roof Maintenance

Leaves, sticks and other debris can cause water to back up and flow under a roof, so clean out your gutters and roof drains regularly. Also, check that all gutters are securely fastened to the house and that downspouts are pointing away from your home.

If You Spot Damage

If your inspection reveals roof damage, work with professional roof contractors who are bonded, insured and use quality materials. They can help you prolong the life of your roof and keep you from having to spend money on costly future repairs.

A Job Well Done

On Wednesday, Oct. 27, at approximately 2 p.m., Officers Mike Brandolini and Paul Foley were dispatched to the Star Market at 130 Granite St. on a call of a female customer who was just groped by a male suspect. As officers responded, the dispatcher provided a description of the suspect, who was wearing a green T-shirt and walking across the parking lot away from the store.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer Foley arrived on scene in seconds and was able to spot the suspect near the parking lot entrance. The suspect was walking with another male. Officer Foley detained the males while Officer Brandolini approached a female who came running towards him from the store entrance. She was pointing toward the two males who were detained, yelling, "That's him. He grabbed my buttocks."

Officer Brandolini calmed the victim and asked her to give a full account of what occurred. The 52 year-old victim said that she was on her lunch break shopping at Star Market. When she went to the self check out line, she felt the presence of a person right behind her. Before she could turn, she felt a hand grope her right buttock and another hand on her back area. As this was happening, she heard a male voice say, "I don't mean to bother you, but you have a nice body."

The female victim said she was outraged, turned quickly and observed the male suspect very close behind her. When she screamed for him to get away from her, the male suspect fled towards the door.

The victim immediately went to Star Market personnel and requested that they call the Police. She then followed the suspect at a safe distance, keeping a visual contact on him. She watched him head toward the Fruit Basket Store, where he met up with another male. The two males then proceeded across the Star Market parking lot where they were stopped by Police Officers.

Based on the statement of the victim, Officer Brandolini placed the suspect, a 45 year old homeless man, under arrest for "Indecent Assault and Battery on a Person over 14 Years of Age." After giving the suspect his Miranda rights, Officer Brandolini asked him what happened in the store.

The suspect said that he was behind the victim in the check out line and she backed into him, bumping him. He denied any indecent assault or making any comment to her. Detective Jim Dentremont, who was on scene at Star Market, met with Store Security and reviewed the video tape, which clearly showed the assault.

A copy of the video was taken as evidence for court purposes. Officer Foley also learned that the other male with the suspect had an outstanding default warrant and he too was placed under arrest.

Nice Work!

SCAM OF THE WEEK: the victim in this case read about a similar scam in this newspaper and recognized that the call was bogus.

The victim received a call from a male stating he was Buffalo, New York Police Officer Jim Miller. He said that her grandson has been arrested and needs bail money sent via wire. The money was to be sent to Haiti.

This didn't make sense to the victim, so first she called the Buffalo Police, who said that they did not have an Officer by that name and her grand son was not under arrest. The victim then called her grandson and he said that he was at college. During the time that Officer Tom Ford was there, the victim received three more calls. Officer Ford told the suspect that the scam was up and not to call.

Cases like this are difficult, if not impossible to prosecute, because the caller is often from outside the United States.

League Celebrating 60th Season; Championship Game Nov. 7 at 1 p.m. at Veterans Stadium

Elks and Apaches To Play For QYFL Title

By SEAN BRENNAN

Established in the fall of 1950 by Lawrence Creedon, a standout player at North Quincy High School and later Superintendent of Schools in Quincy, Lloyd Carroll, Pete Zoia and Gerry Coletta, Quincy Youth Football League (QYFL), originally called Quincy Little League Football, has been a sporting institution for thousands of Quincy (and Milton) youngsters ever since. Throughout the last six decades teams representing North Quincy, Squantum, Quincy Point, Houghs Neck, West Quincy, and Milton have taken to the fields of Quincy with the ultimate goal of being crowned champion.

The league's mission statement, from inception, has always been to operate with a philosophy towards "neighborhood team play." QYFL's approach, an ideal that has worked and flourished, encourages boys and girls from the same geographical area to form football and cheerleading teams that compete with others in Quincy in their age group.

With two divisions, the Desmond and the Meyers, the league's six teams consist of varsity, jayvee, freshmen and cheerleading teams; all varsity games are played at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

In 2010, the regular season saw the West Quincy Elks of the Desmond Division run the table and finish with a 7-0 record. The Elks entered the first-round of the QYFL playoffs as the top seed, and the boys from West Quincy proved their merit with a 32-0 thrashing of the Houghs Neck Manets (2-6 overall) in the semifinals.

The other semifinal game was a matchup between the North Quincy Apaches (5-2 in the Desmond Division) and the Milton Mustangs (5-2 in the Meyers Division). The Apaches escaped the Mustangs, 8-7, to earn their spot in the finals. North Quincy, as a side note, was the inaugural 1951 QYFL champion, defeating the West Quincy Elks (known then as the Mayo's Club All-Stars).

The Apaches last won the QYFL title in 2007, interestingly enough with a 6-0 victory over West Quincy.

The Elks will be playing for their first league title since 1995 when the two teams meet in the 2010 championship game on Nov. 7 at 1 p.m.

It what should be a competitive final game, it is only fitting that the Elks and the Apaches have qualified. West Quincy has been the most dominant team this fall; the Elks have scored 187 points while allowing just 22 points against. The Apaches have scored 126 points and allowed only 34 against.

The championship game will also be a rematch of a Week 5 tilt, a game in which West Quincy won 26-16.

The following information, sent in by the QYFL, is game recaps for last weekend's semifinal and consolation games.

North Quincy def. Milton Mustangs, 8-7

The Apaches clinched a spot in the 60th Annual QYFL Championship game with an 8-7 victory over the Mustangs under the lights at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Milton got on the board first as running back Stephen Timmins scored on a 64-yard dash; quarterback Joe Mullin's conversion pass made the score 7-0 Mustangs at the half.

Led by the running attack of Mike McNelly (nine carries, 71 yards) and Erick Cohane-Jones (eight carries, 41 yards), North Quincy drove deep into Milton territory to start the second half. However, the Mustangs held NQ on down-and-goal. With their offense unable to put points on the board, it was the Apaches' defense that made the first big play for NQ. Linebacker Jake Bergonzi tackled a Milton runner in the end zone for a safety, making the score 7-2.

Following a short kickoff, North Quincy QB Pat Frasso (4-for-7, 62 yards) mounted a six-play drive that was capped off with a 12-yard TD run from Bryan Lenane; the PAT was blocked by Mikel Witherspoon, but the final 8-7 score held up for NQ.

Bergonzi (11 tackles, safety), Mike Connelly (six tackles, sack), Alex Chen, Frasso, Steve Scolaro, McNelly, Cohane-Jones, Jackie Chen and Freddy Flynn all played great games for North Quincy.

West Quincy Elks def. HN Manets, 32-0

West Quincy quarterback Scott Poullack ran for a 40-yard TD and a 55-yard TD helping the top-seeded Elks roll by the Manets, 32-0, in the semifinals.

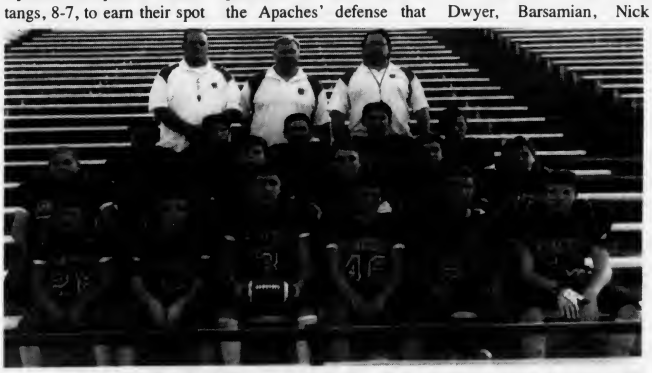
Poullack also threw a 30-yard TD pass to tight end Bobby Salvucci. Joe Weinstein returned a punt 75 yards for a touchdown for West Quincy.

Leading the Elks' strong defensive game were linebacker John Crump (13 tackles), Jimmy Dalton, Pat Sullivan and Alex Leo.

Squantum Storm def. QP Panthers, 19-0

In the league's "consolation game," the Storm, last year's champions, defeated a young Panthers team, 19-0.

Solomon Umoren (ten carries, 77 yards, TD, two catches, TD) paced the Storm offense. Quarterback Joey Gaglione (5-for-10, 56 yards, TD) and Andrew Kiley (eight carries, 54 yards) played well with help from strong blocking from Nick Manning, Ryan Higgins, Ryan Manning, Fred Barsamian, Sam Grossfeld, Connor Cramond, Joey Dwyer and Zack Dangora (two interceptions).



Dangora, Umoren (INT), Dwyer, Barsamian, Nick Kelly, Evan Aimola, Jeremy Downey and Joel Lawless played well defensively for Squantum.

Entering its 60th season, Quincy Youth Football League is successful because of the people who are devoted to making it so. It is always about the kids, but a special recognition goes out to the Franchise Holders Steve Koski (Apaches), Steve Ohlson, Sr. (Elks), Chuck and Evelyn MacDonald (Manets), Bill Hunt (Mustangs), Bruce King (Panthers), and Bruce Marquis (Storm). The 2010 QYFL Officers include Steve Koski (President), Janet Ford (Treasurer), and Paul Doherty (Web, Media & Advertising).

The QYFL also receives sponsorship from a number of local businesses. These contributions allow the league the opportunity to run smoothly and at a low cost to every player and cheerleader involved.

The 2010 sponsors include Agnitti Insurance Agency, Marquis Consulting, Fallon Ambulance Service, Steven R. Striffler Attorney at Law, The Four's Restaurant, William R. Caddy Marine Detachment #124, Anderson Bicycle, Keller Williams Realty-Richard Lannon, Century 21/Tullish & Clancy-Joseph Clancy, and Zip Realty-Deborah Riley.

Quincy Residents Tri-Captains of AWHS Girls Soccer Team

Longtime Friends and Teammates Heading Their Separate Ways

By JOE REARDON

There was supposed to be a different ending to this soccer story.

Three life-long friends, tri-captains of the Archbishop Williams squad, all from Quincy, had the dramatic ending all set up. Beat Sacred Heart in the final game of the season and they reach the postseason for the first time in their four years as varsity players. Once into the tournament, the flight of the Bishops couldn't end badly.

The saga of Michelle Barry, Kristen Spain and Kelsey McCarthy, though, had a completely different sort of ending. Playing for their tournament lives in cold, windy conditions last Friday night, the Bishops lost a heartbreaking 2-0 decision to the Saints, leaving Archbishop Williams at 7-9-1, one gut-wrenching game short of .500, the mark that deems teams as tournament-worthy.

The game marked the final time the three captains would be on the field together since the age of 7 when they were getting their start in Quincy Youth Soccer.

"My dad was holding tryouts and we saw Kelsey walking down the hill wearing a Notre Dame sweatshirt and we knew we liked her," laughed Barry, the afternoon before the Sacred Heart matchup.

The girls had the chance to experience each other both as teammates and opponents through their youth soccer years. The competitiveness between the three was always a common denominator; a trait that only grew as they matured.

"We were together a lot because we were always playing together," said Barry. "We always knew how the other one played. When we got older and started playing on club teams, it was more serious on the field until after the game."

Members of the varsity squad since their freshmen year, Barry, Spain and McCarthy have seen the team steadily improve since they were ninth-graders. Spain's goals against average (GAA) had been cut in half, and the team had several notable games during the regular season, the biggest being a 0-0 war against 12th-ranked Cardinal Spellman. Williams also showed their resiliency by coming from behind to win four consecutive games.

"The Spellman game reassured us that we could go head to head with a team that may be better than us," said Barry, an attacking center-midfielder.

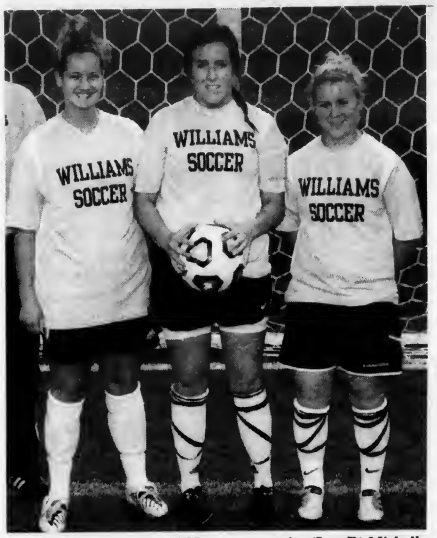
Despite the outcome, coach Gordie McClay said his three captains have left their mark on the team that will be felt for seasons to come. "You can't look at the program over the next three years and not see their influence," said McClay.

"They've worked hard to get these girls where they have to be. We've starting a very young lineup. These seniors have made my job so much easier for the future. "We would not be where we are without them.

"All three of them bring something different to the table."

Barry, one of the team's attacking center-midfielders, is probably the best captain dealing with behind-the-scene issues and reaching out to boost her teammates.

"Michelle's compassionate and really relates with the players," said McClay. "She's a team player. She cares about her teammates, both on and off the field. She goes the extra mile for the team."



Spain, a Catholic Central Conference All-Star, is the epitome of a player who leads by example. Goals against her this season have been few and far between and she's very vocal with her teammates on the field.

Spain is a thinking-man's player as well, the most cerebral athlete on the field at any given time.

"Kristen is a student of the game," said McClay. "Her passion and knowledge of soccer are invaluable to the coaches and the team."

McCarthy, McClay said, will excel at the Div. 1 level in college and is the team's best field player. "She brings an intensity that you just can't teach," he said. "Her attitude and work ethic is second to none. She leads by example on a daily basis."

The defensive center-midfielder has garnered almost every award possible for a schoolboy soccer player, including Massachusetts All-Star for the past two years.

ARCHBISHOP WILLIAMS soccer captains (L to R) Michelle Barry, Kristen Spain and Kelsey McCarthy, all residents of Quincy, have been playing soccer together since the second grade. The trio played their final game together last Friday night, a 2-0 loss to Sacred Heart of Kingston.

The final game against Sacred Heart was a heartbreaker. After a first half that ended with a 0-0 tie, the Saints finally got on the board with just under 15 minutes remaining. Archbishop Williams had several scoring chances, but couldn't find the back of the Saints' net. Sacred Heart ended the Bishops' season with another tally with less than two minutes remaining.

Barry found the game hard to swallow, but knowing that the Bishops played Sacred Heart even, throughout, made the outcome a little more palatable.

"We had a lot of chances," said Barry. "It was kind of emotional. That's the last game we'll be playing together."

Red Raiders Ace Presidents At Granite Links

QUINCY'S FRESHMAN FAB FOUR: The Presidents golf program is in good hands as the team has four freshmen on its 2010 roster. They are, from left: Matt Joyce, Mike Pugsley, Jack Fischer, and Matt McLellan.

Last month, on a beautiful afternoon for golf at Granite Links Golf Club, the North Quincy Red Raiders enjoyed a breezy win over rival Quincy High School, 54-18, in match play format.

Both programs, thanks to the hospitality shown by Granite Links club professional, Chris Sleeper, and his staff, has been able to have this rivalry match, for the past few seasons, at the world-renowned layout at Quarry Hills.

The golfers played over the par-36 Granite sidecourse, and Red Raider senior captain Liam Cain, playing at #1, fired a one-over par-37 to easily win his match, 8-1, over QHS senior Mat Head.

North Quincy's #2, senior Matt Layden enjoyed a 6-3 win over Justin Keenan and, at #3, NQHS senior Colin Wilson shot a 39, knocking off QHS senior Myles Riddell, 7 ½ to 1 ½

At the #4 position, Brendan Glynn defeated Quincy's Brendan Gibbons, 5 ½ to 3 ½; a lone bright spot for the Presidents, still in defeat, was at #5 as Quincy freshman Mike Pugsley held his own despite dropping a 5-4 decision to NQHS senior Eric Kelly.

Kevin Jackson of North Quincy closed out Matt McLellan, 7 ½ to 1 ½ in the sixth position and Dan Nicolar bagged QHS' Jack Fischer, 8-1, in the #7 spot on the card.

NQ's Ryan DeAngelo defeated Matt Joyce, 6 ½ to 2 ½ in the eighth spot to seal the sweep team victory.

The coaching staffs for both Quincy and North Quincy High School would also like to thank professionals Mike McBroom at Furnace Brook GC and Don Small at Presidents GG for their support throughout the fall.

Team Already Preparing for 2011

Six Seniors Played Final Game for NQHS

By SEAN BRENNAN

The curtain has closed on another girls' soccer season at North Quincy High School.

The Red Raiders performed admirably while playing in the ultra-competitive Keenan Division of the Patriot League; finishing with a 7-10-2 record, but in the end, the team fell two points shy of advancing into the state playoffs.

And when the last whistle blew at the end of Tuesday's game at Marblehead High School, it wasn't just the end of the regular season; the finish also marked the last high school game for North Quincy's six seniors.

Jillian Carchedi, Maggie Lynch, Shannon Coleman, Courtney Byrne, Sarah Gardiner, and Jillian Keezer leave the NQHS girls program on solid footing as all of them have continued the Red Raider tradition of playing hard and sacrificing for the team.

"My seniors brought leadership and competitive play to every game we played," said NQHS head coach Paul Bregoli on Monday. "It is always sad for me when another season ends. You will never again get to experience the highs and lows with this group of girls. It was a good season and I am very proud of my seniors."

In the Red Raiders' second-to-last-game of the fall on Oct. 29 at Mount Alvernia HS, it was the senior class that made sure North Quincy would have something extra to celebrate at season's end.

North Quincy rolled out to a 5-0-halftime lead and came away with a 6-0 victory. Carchedi scored the first goal ten minutes in off an assist from Gardiner; Gardiner added her team's third tally, and Keezer, who had assisted on the fourth goal of the half, plotted the Red Raiders' fifth goal before the break.

If it was the senior class taking center stage in the opening 40 minutes, then you could say that the underclassmen played the roles of supporting actors. Mixed into the flurry of first half goals were scores from sophomore Liz Kelly and freshman Delia Devane (goal and assist); sophomore Danielle Paschall had a helper on Keezer's goal.

"It was great to finish with a win," added Bregoli. "We did fall just short of the postseason, but our record this year was better than last year and that is always something we strive for as a team. We lose a number of valuable seniors, but our young core has gained experience and that should only bode well for us next season."

Bregoli pointed to his young defense as a main reason as to why his program should be a threat next fall. This year, North Quincy allowed 33 goals, as opposed to the 43 it allowed in 2009, and the majority of the defense will be back, stronger.

The team's wall of defense starts with junior keeper Sara Sullivan who finished the year with a 1.63 goals against average. In front of her, junior Courtney Timmins, sophomores Caitlin Bulger, Jaclyn Scuzzarella, and Lauren Campo, and freshmen Haley McKay and Arianna Viscione will be back.

"Our young defense really played well this fall," said Bregoli. "Another off-season of development and growth should really bode well for us in the future."

In the middle of the pitch, juniors Taylor McKay, Kaleen Campo and Jess O'Donovan and freshman Stephanie DiPietro will return, helping to set up the forward core of Jonlyn Lydon (junior), sophomores Liz Kelly, Shannon McCleary and Danielle Paschall and freshmen Delia Devane and Abby Smith.

"I have the young talent and we should be much improved on offense next season," Bregoli concluded. "The season just comes and goes so quickly. We are already looking towards next year."

Notes: The final result of the NQHS game against Marblehead will be in next week's Quincy Sun... The jayvee team defeated Mount Alvernia, 4-0, behind goals from Mallory Devoe, Erica Histen, Molly Brown and Danielle Mullaney; Christine Kelliher earned the shutout in net... Seniors Jillian Carchedi and Shannon Coleman were named to the Patriot League All-Star team.

Divisional Games On Friday For Both Teams

NQHS and QHS Looking To Get On Track

By SEAN BRENNAN

It was a weekend of missed opportunity on the football field, for both, the North Quincy Red Raiders and the Quincy Presidents.

North Quincy (4-4 overall, 0-2 in Keenan Division), which was looking to rebound from a 36-21 loss to Duxbury High School on Oct. 22, dropped its second straight Patriot League divisional game on Saturday, 35-14, to Hingham HS.

The divisional loss puts added pressure on the Red Raiders as the team gets ready for a three-game season-ending stretch against Silver Lake HS (Nov. 5), Whitman-Hanson HS (Nov. 12), and Quincy HS (Nov. 25), all but the Presidents being Keenan Division foes.

Currently, North Quincy sits behind Duxbury (8-0, 3-0), Silver Lake (4-4, 2-1), and Hingham (5-3, 1-1) and is tied with Whitman-Hanson (2-5, 0-2) in the division, giving additional importance to these final Keenan Division tilts.

The winner of the Keenan Division advances, automatically, into the Division 2A playoffs. For this scenario to happen for the Raiders, North Quincy needs to take care of their business and hope that the teams above them start losing.

The Presidents (4-4 overall, 2-1 in Fisher Division) went into last Friday's game against league foe Hanover HS with an eye toward an impressive 3-0 divisional start.

The end result was not what Quincy was hoping for. The Presidents dropped a 29-7 decision; setting up their contest this Friday at Scituate HS as maybe the biggest game QHS has played in years.

Scituate (6-2, 2-0) is a game ahead of Quincy in the race for the Fisher Division title and the automatic bid into the Division 3 playoffs that comes with that honor. The Presidents are currently ahead of Pembroke (4-3, 1-1), Hanover (3-5, 1-1), and Middleborough (2-6, 0-3) in the Fisher Division with games left against the Sailors, Silver Lake HS (Nov. 12) and NQHS.

(Correction: In last week's story on North Quincy's loss to Duxbury, it was reported that senior Mike Morrison had returned an interception 70 yards for a touchdown in the second half. Senior Mike Curran actually made that play. The Quincy Sun Sports Department apologizes for the error.)

Event to Be Held Nov. 23 at Sons of Italy

QHS/NQHS Hall of Fame Announces Inductees

Daniel Karp Retiring After Rewarding Career In Acupuncture

By JOE REARDON

Daniel Karp couldn't have known that the excruciating neck pain he was suffering from more than 28 years ago would pave the way to an entirely different career.

An accomplished trumpet player and Abington High School music teacher back in the early 80s, Karp woke up one morning with a severe pain in his neck. His doctor examined him and said there was nothing physically wrong with his neck, believing instead it was stress related.

Karp's next move was to visit Dr. So, a highly-respected acupuncturist in Cambridge, to see if there was anything he could do to lessen the neck pain, that was by this time almost unbearable.

So's work made the difference and Karp's pain dissipated and disappeared for good. "He cured my neck problem in three treatments," said Karp.

DANIEL KARP, a licensed acupuncturist, is retiring after 28 "rewarding" years. Quincy Sun Photo/Joe Reardon

At the same time as his neck problem, Karp was throwing around the idea of a career change. He thought things through and went home to his wife, Judy, to inform her his neck pain was gone and he was quitting his job to concentrate on becoming an acupuncturist.

"I told my wife I had good news and better news," Karp said with a laugh. "I've been involved in acupuncture ever since.

"Out of the evil of that horrendous neck pain came a brand new career."

Now, 28 years later, Karp, a licensed acupuncturist, has decided its time to retire from a profession that saw him treat several thousand patients from ailments ranging from migraine headaches to stomach problems and practically everything in between.

"It's extremely rewarding," Karp said of his profession. "These past 28 years have gone by fast."

Karp has seen acupuncture evolve over the years from a practice that was dismissed as voodoo by the medical community to a viable treatment acknowledged by the National Institute of Health and the FDA for more than 50 health problems.

Acupuncture was viewed entirely different when Karp started out in his career. "I used to see mostly hippy types and those people who were interested in acupuncture," he said. "It was called quackupuncture by a lot of doctors."

The landscape of the practice began to change, however, and with it, Karp began to grow a large following in Quincy and other local communities. Now, more medical doctors are going into the field and it is more widely accepted by the general population.

Karp didn't hesitate for a second when asked what he would tell someone contemplating a career in the field. "Go for it," said Karp. "There's a great future in it. And there'll be a huge increase in business when it eventually becomes covered by health insurance."

Acupuncturist and Chinese Herbalist Donna Nolan has known Karp for more than 17 years and regards him as an expert in his field. Coming up with correct diagnosis's and the way he interacts with patients are his biggest strengths as an acupuncturist.

"There has always been a great rapport between us," said Nolan. "I do know he has a way of putting people at ease."

The most satisfying aspect of Karp's job over the years has been working with, and giving hope, to women who were infertile. Acupuncture, Karp said, makes the In Vitro fertilization procedure 10 times more effective. He has treated 50 women with fertilization problems over the years and has seen the joy it brings to couples who are looking to start families.

"The most thrilling thing is working with infertility," Karp said. "I have several babies out there thanks to acupuncture," Karp explained that there are two types of acupuncture; The Chinese method that balances the stagnant Chi and blood, and the Western approach that stimulates the flow of endorphins. The use of acupuncture by the Western method is enormously successful and 5,000-10,000 times stronger than narcotics for the relief of pain and stress.

Having experienced acute pain himself, Karp has sympathized with patients who have come into his office in pain. There have been times over the years where people have come into his office barely able to walk because of back pain. After a session they begin to feel better and many times the pain has completely disappeared after a few more sessions.

With his retirement just around the corner, Karp is very much looking forward to spending time with his wife traveling and devoting more time playing the trumpet. As for acupuncture, he plans to use it only on family and friends if the need presents itself.

The practice, though, is in his blood and Karp admitted that he'll always be reading up on his profession and the advancements that will be made in the years to come.

It's the patients, though, that he'll miss the most. "I've developed relationships with many of my patients and grown to respect and enjoy them," Karp said. "I'll miss them very much."

VOICE FOR HEALTH

by Dr. Gabrielle Freedman
Chiropractor

MASTER MANIPULATORS!

While the term "manipulator" is often used in the pejorative sense, as in cases of one person manipulating others' feelings for personal advantage, chiropractors are manipulators of a very different sort. In fact, these "master manipulators" deftly manipulate joints to make their patients' bodies function better. These artfully performed movements, called "adjustments," are intended to move joints beyond restrictions, but not beyond the point that they were designed to go. These adjustments are often accompanied by a popping sound, much like the one that cracking one's knuckles elicits. This noise is nothing more than the sound of gas escaping the fluid that encapsulates the joint. In time, moving joints to their prescribed limits leads to improved physical function.

Chiropractic health care is based upon the fact that all organ, tissue, and gland functions are controlled via nervous system input, starting from signals in the brain cascading downward via the spinal cord and peripheral nerves. Maybe it's time to visit us at the FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC for safe and gentle chiropractic care. We're located at 112 McGrath Hwy., Quincy, where we work to restore your health and guide you in a personalized approach to overall wellness. Stop suffering needlessly, call 617.472.4220 today to schedule an appointment. Chiropractic works! We offer computerized spinal scans. We are able to adjust patients sitting, standing, or lying down to accommodate any level of discomfort. If your problem is a chiropractic condition we offer you exceptional service.

P.S. Tightened muscles may force joints all over the body out of their natural positions and limit range of motion.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

SAME DAY TOOTH IMPLANTS

While traditional dental implants usually require up to six months for the titanium implant to successfully bond with the surrounding bone ("osseointegration"), same-day dental implants don't require a long waiting period. The ability of these "immediate-load" tooth implants to be readily available as foundations for replacement teeth is a direct outcome of their advanced design. As a result, patients can leave the dental office with an immediate-load implant on the same day they have a tooth extracted. With pre-planning, it is even possible to have a permanent tooth in place instead of a temporary. Same-day tooth implants cut down on office visits, spare patients the embarrassment of enduring visible gaps, and ensure excellent gum interface with the replacement tooth.

This innovative technique is revolutionizing the way people around the world receive dental implants. We are trained in the most advanced dental methods and take pride in paying full attention to all facets of dentistry. Our purpose is to help people reach and commit to the highest level of dental health personally appropriate to them. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we believe regular dental care is one of the best investments you will ever make. To schedule an appointment, please call 617-479-6220. Smiles are our business. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincydentist.com.

P.S. As with dental implants, immediate-impact implants are not suitable for all patients. Consultation with the dentist can help patients make the tooth-replacement decision that best suits their needs and circumstances.

Stroke, Osteoporosis Screening Dec. 3 At Kennedy Center

Life Line Screening will offer residents in Quincy and the surrounding area a stroke and osteoporosis screening Friday, Dec. 3.

The screenings will be hosted by the Council on Aging at the Kennedy Center, 440 East Squantum St., Quincy.

Appointments begin at 9 a.m.

The screenings are intended to help reduce the risk of stroke and bone fractures.

Four key points every person should know:

- Stroke is the third leading cause of death and a leading cause of permanent disability.
- Eighty percent of stroke victims had no apparent warning signs prior to their stroke.
- Preventive ultrasound screenings can help avoid stroke.
- Screenings are fast, noninvasive, painless, affordable and convenient.

Screenings identify potential cardiovascular conditions such as blocked arteries and irregular heart rhythm, abdominal aortic aneurysms, and hardening of the arteries in the legs, which is a strong predictor of heart disease.

A bone density screening to assess osteoporosis risk is also offered for men and women.

Packages start at $139. All five screenings take 60-90 minutes to complete.

For more information regarding screenings or to schedule an appointment, call 1-877-237-1287.

Pre-registration is required.

RELIGION

Rabbi Navah Levin Introduced At Temple Beth El

The Quincy-South Shore Jewish Committee introduced the new rabbi at Temple Beth El to its group at a recent meeting.

The Jewish War Veterans and Temple Beth El congregants were also in attendance.

Rabbi Navah Levine graduated from the Hebrew College Rabbinical School this past June. She is currently serving on a part-time basis as rabbi at Temple Beth El. She is also affiliated with Temple Emeth in Brookline.

Rabbi Levine was originally employed in financial planning. She discussed the Quincy area community some thoughts about making Temple Beth El more accessible to the community.

Rabbi Levine also shared some ideas about working with different groups within the community on a collaborative basis.

The meeting was viewed as the basis for additional planning and community coordination.

Quincy Community United Methodist

Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston will hold a special worship service on All Saints' Sunday, Nov. 7, at 10:30 a.m.

People will be invited to write their loved ones' names on paper tags and a sheet of paper. The tags will then be attached to little bells, the bells pinned on a banner, and the banner carried in to the worship service during the opening procession.

During the service, all names listed on the sheets of paper will be read; after each name, the bells will be rung.

Everyone is invited to take their loved one's memorial bell home with them after the service.

For more information about the All Saints' Sunday service for about Quincy Community United Methodist Church, call the church office at 617-773-3319.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The dictionary defines the word 'creed' as "any system of belief or of opinion."

The value of any creed lies in its use, not in its possession. What we believe is important, but the diligence with which we give ourselves to the keeping of any creed may have is vastly more important. The world is interested not so much in the creed we profess as in the creed we live by. The creed we leave at the church door or at home will not do us nor the world much good. The question is not only, Do you have a creed?, but, Do you have it with you? . . .

Someone once said that Ralph Waldo Emerson had a short creed, but he took it with him. . . The same thing was said of a certain business man. His creed might have been summed up in the word "honesty." It was short, but from the time he awoke in the morning until he went to bed at night, he carried it with him; and everyone recognized this . . .

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your honesty continues to impress everyone who needs reassurance about a project. But be careful you don't lose patience with those who are still not ready to act.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Pushing others too hard to do things your way could cause resentment and raise more doubts. Instead, take more time to explain why your methods will work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Be more considerate of those close to you before making a decision that could have a serious effect on their lives. Explain your intentions and ask for their advice.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You might have to defend a workplace decision you plan to make. Colleagues might back you up on this, but it's the facts that will ultimately win the day for you. Good luck.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The Big Cat's co-workers might not be doing enough to help get that project finished. Your roars might stir things up, but gentle purrr-suasion will prove to be more effective.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Someone you care for needs help with a problem. Give it lovingly and without judging the situation. Whatever you feel you should know will be revealed later.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) While you're to be admired for how you handled recent workplace problems, be careful not to react the same way to a new situation until all the facts are in.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Rely on your keen instincts as well as the facts at hand when dealing with a troubling situation. Be patient. Take things one step at a time as you work through it.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Your curiosity leads you to ask questions. However, the answers might not be what you hoped to hear. Don't reject them without checking them out.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Be careful not to tackle a problem without sufficient facts. Even sure-footed Goats need to know where they'll land before leaping off a mountain path.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Appearances can be deceiving. You need to do more investigating before investing your time, let alone your money, in something that might have some hidden flaws.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Your recent stand on an issue could make you the focus of more attention than you would like. But you'll regain your privacy, as well as more time with loved ones, by week's end.

BORN THIS WEEK: You're a good friend and a trusted confidante. You would be a wonderful teacher and a respected member of the clergy.

PRAYER TO THE BLESSED VIRGIN

"Oh, most beautiful flower of Mt. Carmel, Fruitful vine, splendor of heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in my necessity. Oh, Star of the Sea, help me and show me, herein you are my Mother. Oh, Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth! I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart to succor me in this necessity. There are none that can withstand your power. Oh, Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to thee (three times). Holy Mary, I place this cause in your hands (three times). Say this prayer 3 consecutive days, and then you must publish and it will be granted to you. M.B. 11/1/10 to be elected to public office. Chan, age 37, of 66 Meadowbrook Rd., a former legislative aide and a former state assistant attorney general, won the three-way race for the vacated 2nd Norfolk District state representative seat.

Chan, who served as an aide to former State Rep. Michael Bellotti and later as legislative director for Sen. Michael Morrissey, turned aside challenges by Republican John Iredale of 200 Rock Island Rd. and Independent Karl Roos, 8 Park St.

Chan polled an impressive 6,732 votes. Iredale finished second with 4,136 votes and Roos was third with 2,005.

"Everyone gave 100 percent," Chan said at a victory party with supporters at Five Spices Restaurant at Presidents Place. "In life, you've got to take a chance. I intend to be a strong voice for Quincy, along with (State Senator-elect) John Keenan."

Keenan, of 37 Hobomack Rd., topped the three-candidate field to win the open State Senate seat in the Norfolk-Plymouth District. In Quincy, Keenan finished with 18,245 votes while Republican Dan Dewey of 139 Sonoma Rd. had 8,382 and Independent Laura Innis of 37 Delano Rd. was third with 2,701.

"There was a lot of hard work by a lot of people but it worked out pretty well," Keenan said at an election night celebration at the Morrisette American Legion Post. "We had a great group of volunteers who did great work in a lot of towns. We now have to work on getting the state budget in order and get local aid for schools in the district. It's a long campaign," Keenan said. "The people you meet and work with keep you going. I'm anxious to get started."

Keenan, a city councillor at-large, said he would fill out the remainder of his council term through next year but would not seek re-election next fall.

In the race for Norfolk County district attorney, Morrissey – a Quincy Democrat who vacated the state senate seat he has held since 1992 – defeated Independent John Coffey, a Needham attorney. In Quincy, Morrissey received 22,0076 votes to Coffey's 7,426. Morrissey has won every election since he was first elected a state representative in 1976.

In the contest for Norfolk County Sheriff, Democrat incumbent Michael Bellotti was elected to his third six-year term. Bellotti, a Quincy Democrat who was first elected sheriff in 1998, defeated Republican William J. Ferratta of Weymouth. Bellotti's Quincy vote was 22,737; Ferratta polled 6,812.

In the hotly contested race for governor, Quincy was in step with the state as Democrat incumbent Deval Patrick was re-elected to a second four-year term. Patrick and his running mate, Lt. Governor Tim Murray, finished first in Quincy with 12,620 votes ahead of the Republican ticket of Charlie Baker and Richard Tisei who polled 10,411.

Cahill finished third in the governor's race statewide and here in Quincy. The two-term state treasurer who dropped out of the Democratic party in July 2009 to mount an Independent run for governor, received 7,636 votes here.

The Green Rainbow Party ticket of Jill Stein and Richard Purcell had a mere one percent of the vote state-wide. In Quincy, they received 353 votes.

In other races:

Democrat incumbent Martha Coakley won re-election to a second four-year term as state attorney general defeating Republican James McKenna, a former assistant district attorney in Suffolk County. In Quincy, Coakley received 19,985 votes while McKenna had 10,234 votes.

Secretary of State William Galvin, the Democrat incumbent, was re-elected to a fifth four-term term defeating Republican William Campbell and unenrolled candidate James D. Henderson.

In Quincy, Galvin, who is also a former state representative, received 19,985 votes. Campbell, the city clerk in Woburn, received 7,378 votes and Henderson, an attorney, polled 790 votes.

In the open seat for state treasurer, Democrat Steve Grossman, chairman of Grossman Marketing Group and former chairman of the Massachusetts Democratic Party, defeated Republican Karyn Polito, a former Shrewsbury selectwoman. In Quincy, Grossman received 17,808 votes while Polito had 11,913 votes.

VICE PRESIDENT JOSEPH BIDEN (right) visited Quincy last Saturday to help rally support for Democratic Congressional candidate William Keating (left). Keating defeated four challengers including Republican Jeff Perry and former Mayor James Sheets who ran as an Independent, to win the hotly contested 10th Congressional District in Tuesday's State Election. Looking on at the rally held at the Quincy Lodge of Elks is Cong. William Delahunt, who is retiring from Congress, and Vicki Kennedy, widow of the late U.S. Senator Ted Kennedy.

The race for the open state auditor's seat was too close to call as The Sun went to press late Tuesday night.

In Quincy, Democrat Suzanne Bump, a former state representative from neighboring Braintree, finished first with 14,486 votes. Republican Mary Z. Connaughton and Green Rainbow Party candidate Nathanael Alexander Fortune polled 12,453 and 1,375 votes to finish second and third respectively.

Quincy's other two state representatives were re-elected Tuesday.

Democrat incumbent Ron Mariano, the House assistant majority leader, was re-elected to a 10th two-year term in the 3rd Norfolk District. He defeated Independent Gary Lowell of Weymouth. In Quincy, Mariano received 3,876 votes while Lowell polled 1,328 votes.

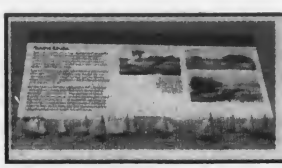
Bruce Ayers, the Democrat incumbent state representative in the 1st Norfolk District, was re-elected to a seventh two-year term.

In the contested race for Governor's Councillor in the Fourth District, Democrat incumbent Christopher Iannella, Jr. was re-elected. In Quincy, Iannella's vote was 18,772. His Independent challenger, Jacquolyn Payne-Thompson had 8,382 votes here.

In the other uncontested race on Tuesday's ballot, Norfolk County Commissioner Peter H. Collins was re-elected. In Quincy, Collins received 21,618 votes.

Quincy voters also appeared in step with how the three ballot questions fared state-wide.

As the Sun went to press, it appeared Question 1 would prevail but Questions 2 and 3 failed.



The vote here on Question 1, which would remove the state sales tax on alcoholic beverages and alcohol, was 15,349 YES and 13,290 NO.

The vote here on Question 2, which would repeal the state law allowing the issuance of a single comprehensive permit to build housing that includes low-or-moederate income units, was 17,006 NO and 11,582 YES.

The vote here on Question 3, which would reduce the state sales tax from 6.25 percent to 3 percent as of Jan. 1, was 16,465 NO and 13,176 YES.

A Trip Down Memory Lane For 18 Classmates

QHS Class Of 1939 Reminisce At 71st Reunion

By JOE REARDON

Memories of yesteryear came flooding back to Dorothy Giarrusso when she met up with former classmates for her 71st high school reunion.

Eighteen of 537 classmates of the Class of 1939 gathered at the Neighborhood Club on Oct. 27 to reminisce about their days at Quincy High School and where life has taken them in the 70 years plus since graduation.

And, of course, there was other conversation as well.

"Mostly we talked about how great we looked," Giarrusso said with a laugh.

For the 89-year-old Giarrusso, it was a surprise at just how quickly time has passed. "When you do a reunion of so long ago, you wonder where did the time go," said Giarrusso.

As Donald Houghton provided background guitar music, the alumni members chatted and sang the school song.

Looking back Giarrusso remembers a simpler time in Quincy when the city was less commercial and the pace was less hectic. The memories of walking home from the Wollaston School with her two sis-

Raymondi Criticizes Appraiser's Report; Timmins Counters Criticism 'Out Of Context'

Councillors Clash Over Value Of Municipal Lots

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi rattled the council chamber Monday when he declared that an appraiser's report on the Ross Parking Garage was "ridiculous" and "silly" for valuing the three-acre parking lot at $000 value in their official report dated May 6, 2009.

Raymondi spoke as councillors prepared to approve independent counsel to help them review the Quincy Center revitalization plan which is expected to bring $1.3 billion in redevelopment to Quincy Center.

"No reasonable person would say that the Ross Parking Garage has no value," Raymondi said, citing page 60 of a Property Appraisal of Ross Parking Garage by the Foster Company

Downtown Finance Team Makes Case To Council

The City team that negotiated key financial elements of the $1.3 billion Quincy Center redevelopment plan was to take its first turn detailing the intricacies of the master agreement for the City Council on Tuesday night.

Sarah Woodworth, a managing partner of the firm W-ZHA Associates, led the City's presentation on the financial plan: which calls for the City's private development partner, Street-Works Development, LLC, to pay at least $227 million to replace downtown infrastructure and requires the City to buy back the public improvements through new revenue generated by the $1 billion private investment.

"Our goal from Day One of negotiations was straightforward: Protect our taxpayers from risk and ensure that we are always on the positive side when it comes to cash flow," said Mayor Thomas Koch. "I believe this agreement does that – and much more. The team is truly looking forward to reviewing all of the details with the Council."

Woodworth, who has managed finances for several large-scale urban redevelopment projects across the country, will be joined by the City's independent bond advisor, Cinder McNerney

State Senator-Elect Says He Wants To Complete Review Of Downtown Project

Keenan To Finish Council Term, Won't Seek Re-election

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Senator-Elect John Keenan said Tuesday he plans to finish his full term as at-large city councillor in order to complete the review of the Quincy Center revitalization and oversee the Finance Committee's fiscal year 2012 budget hearings.

However, Keenan said he will not run for a new term on the council next fall.

JOHN KEENAN

"I'd like to finish the review of the downtown project," said Keenan. "If the Council passes the Land Disposition Agreement and the bonds, I'd like to be there in the early stages in case anything arises."

Keenan has chaired the council's Finance Commit-

Joseph Jackson Jr. Promoted

Deputy Chief's Role A Father-Son Tradition In Quincy

Mayor Thomas Koch last week appointed Joseph C. Jackson, Jr., as a Deputy Fire Chief in the Quincy Fire Department, a position his father held in the department for 14 years.

"There's been a Joseph Jackson protecting the citizens of Quincy as a firefighter for the last 60 years, and both built reputations of leadership, respect among their peers, and a deep commitment to the City," said Mayor Koch. "Deputy Jackson will be invaluable asset to Chief Barron's leadership team."

Joseph Jackson, Jr. was appointed to the Quincy Fire Department in 1998, five years after his decorated father retired. He was promoted to lieutenant in 2002 and Captain in 2007, and his appointment last week fill's a vacancy created by a retirement in July.

His promotion to Deputy Chief comes nearly 60 years to the day that Joseph Jackson, Sr. was appointed to Quincy Fire Department in November of 1950. While firefighting is a family tradition, it is rare that a father-and-son combination to rise so high through the ranks.

Neighbors Concerned New Track Will Cause Flooding

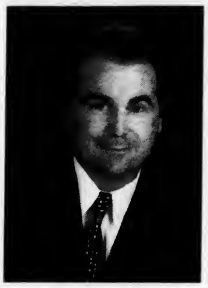
By JOE REARDON

Ward 1 City Councillor Margaret Laforest, Monday night, expressed worries the abutting neighbors have concerning possible flooding at the location of the long-awaited track for the city.

The track had been designated by Mayor Thomas Koch to be built on the grounds of the new high school where Coddington Street intersects the Southern Artery.

The track is still on schedule to be completed sometime next spring.

Faxon Field has experienced flooding after heavy rains and the project cannot more forward until the problem is contained.



"It's a real low-lying area with chronic flood problems," said Laforest.

The location of a new track has been a hot button issue in the city for several years. The city council originally approved building the track in Veterans Stadium back in 2002 using money from the hotel/motel tax. It was determined, however, the area inside the stadium was not big enough to fit a regulation 400-meter track.

Because the renovation of the stadium went over budget, monies for the track weren't available when the council voted in 2003 to build it in Faxon Field.

MARGARET LaFOREST

DOUG GUTRO

A sum of $3 million was amended into the bond to address flood control. Former Mayor William Phelan "reversed course" in 2007 to move the location to Pageant Field before Koch proposed to build it at Faxon Field.

Ward 5 City Councillor Doug Gutro questioned whether the money that was to be used for the project at Pageant Field is enough to address the flooding issue. "Does that money get you the track and the drainage?" said Gutro.

Gutro wants the parking situation and flood control to be looked at by the department of public works and the finance committee. The city council voted unanimously to forward the issue to both bodies.

Koch had conducted an "extensive review" concerning the construction of a track in the city and the determination was that it was "most advantageous" to be constructed at Faxon Field.

While Gutro believes it is a viable location, he wants to make sure the flooding issue is addressed and resolved. "I haven't seen any designs on the track so I don't know about the flood impact," he said.

Gutro said he has yet to see the parking study that has been done and wants to be sure the residents abutting the location don't have cars parked on their street. The track will be used when school isn't in session.

He was concerned that people coming from out of town would be parking in those neighborhoods.

"I'm sure the neighbors want to be sure people won't be parking in their neighborhoods," said Gutro.

Public Flu Clinics Nov. 14, Nov. 30

The Quincy Health Department announces public flu clinics for seasonal influenza (which includes the H1N1 vaccine) will be held Sunday, Nov. 14 and Tuesday, Nov. 30, according to Commissioner Andrew Scheele.

Clinics will be held at two locations on Sunday, Nov. 14 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

• Quincy High School Cafeteria, Coddington St. Enter through the Rotunda Entrance on Russell Park. Parking is available in the Quincy High School Parking Lot on Russell Park.

• North Quincy High School Atrium, 316 Hancock St. Enter through the main entrance.

These clinics are open to Quincy residents ages 9 and older. Children between the age 9 and 18 must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian.

A second public clinic is set for Tuesday, Nov. 30 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. at the Quincy Elks, 254 Quarry St. This clinic is for residents age 18 and older.

"We ask that residents wear clothing that allows quick and ready access to the upper arm for the administration of the influenza vaccine (flu shot)," Scheele said.

"Seniors should bring all of their Medicare and Medicare supplemental health insurance cards, so we may submit for administration reimbursement. There is no cost for the flu shot. Women who are pregnant should have a note from their doctor," Scheele added.

For more information, call the Quincy Health Department, 617-376-1275.

LEND AN EAR

If you are a man who wants to give the woman in his life the perfect gift, consider a set of diamond earrings. Not only do diamonds occupy a special place in the hearts of most women, they are becoming an increasingly popular accessory that can be worn nearly anywhere with anything. A woman can put on diamond earrings in the morning when going to work or meeting with friends, and leave them in place until she slips out of the little black dress that she wore to a formal dinner. Moreover, not every neckline benefits from a necklace, and rings and bracelets may get in the way of everyday tasks. Diamond earrings, however, are always suitable and appropriate.

Jet is also highly suitable for carving, and examples have been found in caves that date back more than 6,000 years. Are you drawn to the unique? Intrigued by the unusual? Then you'll love what you see in our sparkling display cases. Our custom designs are only one reason why clients often travel considerable distances to shop with us. Other reasons include using only the finest materials and craftsmanship available, and a knowledgeable, friendly staff standing by, always ready to help but never to interfere. 'Staffing Adjustments Will Have No Bearing On Our Service Plan,' Chief Says

Councillors Ask Barron To Discuss Budget, Fire Dept. Promotions

By LAURA GRIFFIN

City Councillors Monday outlined their concerns regarding recent promotions in the fire department at the same time that budget woes are forcing brownouts, manpower shortages and service fees, and public housing residents face added risks from space heaters.

Councillors then voted unanimously to invite Fire Chief Joseph Barron to an upcoming council meeting for a budget review.

Councillor Joseph Finn filed the formal motion questioning the promotions in the light of new fees, the "significant layoffs of suppression personnel" and budget cuts.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro launched the discussion after noting that Barron forecast reduced service in Rescue 1, Ladder 2, and Engine 1 last spring due to budget woes and now was promoting officers.

During that budget sessions, Barron, also, introduced a controversial fee-for-service program al-tee for more than eight years and will do the same this year.

Right now, Keenan said he's given his notice at the Norfolk County Retirement Board where he has served as Executive Director for the past eight years. The county system, which oversees a $530 million budget, has begun the search for his replacement.

While Keenan declined to discuss details, he acknowledged that he will be earning less money as a senator than in his current position. Keenan's an attorney with degrees from Harvard College and Suffolk University Law School.

Keenan began his public career as Executive Secretary to Mayor James Sheets and credits former City Auditor Bob Fox with preparing him for financial positions.

As for his next step, Keenan said that he has spoken to Senator Michael Morrissey who was elected Norfolk County district attorney last Tuesday. Keenan will succeed Morrissey who has held the Senate seat since 1992.

"He's been very helpful. Told me what's pending, what to look for."

Keenan said his ten-year-old son appears to be the most interested in Beacon Hill while his other two sons are taking it all in stride.

For now, Keenan said he's easing up a bit after a long summer of knocking on doors and attending meetings.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, Keenan was raised in Wollaston. He and his wife JeanneMarie have three sons, Christopher, Timothy and Kevin.

Meeting Saturday On Downtown Redevelopment

Ward 4 Councilor Brian Palmucci will host a community presentation and meeting Saturday, Nov. 13 to discuss the proposal, currently before the City Council, for the Redevelopment of Downtown Quincy.

The meeting will be held on the eighth floor of the Granite Trust Building, 1400 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

In addition to receiving a presentation of the overall proposal, the meeting will give residents of ward four the opportunity to tour Streetworks' marketing center as well as discuss the plan in detail with members of the development team.

The proposed redevelopment calls for over $1 billion of private investment and a significant amount of public infrastructure improvements by the city. Representatives will be on hand to discuss the proposal in further detail with interested neighbors.

All ward four residents are invited and encouraged to attend and participate at the Nov. 13 meeting. Because space is limited, contact Palmucci to reserve a spot.

Credit - Not Blame - For Cahill

Gov. Deval Patrick won a second four-year term in last Tuesday's state election.

If you voted for the governor, you're happy he'll be guiding the state as its chief executive over the next four years.

If preferred Republican Charlie Baker, you're disappointed he came close but not close enough.

And if you supported Tim Cahill, you may find yourself on the defensive.

CAHILL

That's because there are some Baker supporters who blame Cahill voters as the reason the Republican came up short.

"Had Cahill not been in the governor's race, his votes would have gone to Baker and Deval would be done," so goes the logic among some in the Baker camp.

Math-wise, you can make that argument.

Cahill collected just 8 percent of the state-wide vote in finishing third behind Patrick and Baker. Patrick received 48.8 percent of the vote; Baker 41.7 percent. Assign Cahill's votes to Baker and – presto – Baker wins with 49.7 percent.

But that argument is too simplistic.

And flawed as well.

No one can predict voter patterns. It's doubtful every Cahill voter would have cast their ballot for Baker had the state treasurer dropped out of the governor's race after his running mate Paul Loscocco abandoned the Independent ticket four weeks shy of Election Day.

When he unhitched his own wagon, Loscocco said Cahill couldn't win the governor's race, defected from the camp that brought him in, and then embraced Baker's run. It was an unprecedented development in state gubernatorial campaign history.

Undeterred, Cahill resolved to stay in the race. And why shouldn't he? He campaigned for 15 long months because he thought he could help move this state forward again.

The Cahill-Loscocco split was like a bad divorce. But once a marriage is over, one ex spouse shouldn't have control over the other.

So give Cahill credit for staying in the governor's race and giving Massachusetts' voters another option at the ballot box.

Maybe the real issue here is the voter turnout.

Some political observers agree Republicans did not do a good job at getting "their vote out" last Tuesday. Every local, county and state-wide office – including auditor and treasurer – were won by Democrats. It certainly appears Democrats voted Democratic up and down the ballot. The Republicans were counting on swaying unenrolled voters but they couldn't get enough of them to the polls apparently.

If you want to place blame on Patrick's re-election, why not go after a different group of voters.

How about the hundreds of thousands who stayed home?

Turnout was about 55 percent statewide, according to the State Election Office. Of the 4,190,907 registered voters, approximately 2.3 voted in the governor's race. Another 1.8 million didn't bother.

We've grown accustomed to calling turnout good when it passes the 50 percent mark. I'd say the turnout last Tuesday in the state – and in Quincy where it reached 57.22 percent – is fair at best. A "B-minus" on the grade scale A through F.

By some published reports, it appears Democrats were driven to the polls last Tuesday in part because of the election of Republican Scott Brown to the U.S. Senate seat long-held by Ted Kennedy 10 months ago.

Last Tuesday, party leaders evidently made sure that Democrats would support Democratic candidates and stop a so-called Republican revolution in the Bay State in its tracks. Only future elections – especially Brown's re-election quest in 2012 – will determine if Massachusetts will remain the bluest of the "Blue States" or have some Republican "Red" underlines.

It's easy to see why many have labeled Cahill a spoiler in last Tuesday's election. Republicans are third in voter registration by party in Massachusetts– as well as in Quincy. The GOP needs unenrolled voters – as well as some Democrats, too – to support their candidates to have any chance of success at the ballot box. (Just like the Brown election over Democrat Martha Coakley for U.S. senator.)

But I think spoiler is a unfair label for Cahill.

Here's a guy who dropped out of the Democratic party to launch an Independent bid for the state's highest office. A lot of people were excited by the prospects of a viable third-option in the governor's race. He also ran a positive, issue-oriented campaign without negative attack ads.

You have to give Cahill credit for sticking to his principles and not changing his maverick stripes in an effort to win votes. He could have easily stayed a Democrat, sought re-election as state treasurer, and wait for the governor's seat to open in 2014.

Cahill also took a risk in 2002 running in a crowded field for state treasurer when he could have coasted to another six-year term as county treasurer.

Anyone who has followed Cahill's political career in Quincy knows he doesn't take the sure route or the popular stance to be "electable." In the governor's race, that philosophy didn't work out for him.

But at least he stayed true to form up through Election Day. Who knows what would have happened had Loscocco stayed with Cahill down the stretch through Election Day. Obviously Cahill lost some support when Loscocco endorsed Baker (and Baker's chances of winning probably took a hit when he welcomed Loscocco into his camp) but there was a point in the campaign when Cahill's poll numbers were much higher than the 8 percent he received at the ballot box last week. One poll had Cahill at 18 percent around Labor Day.

Who's to say his support couldn't have climbed higher as Election Day neared?

That question will never be answered.

But blaming Cahill for Patrick's victory doesn't add up.

CITY CLERK Joseph Shea was spot on with his turnout prediction. Quincy's turnout was 57.22 percent - Shea speculated 56 to 58 percent of the city's 55,231 would vote. Numberwise, 31,603 Quincy voters went to the polls last Tuesday.

SHEA

By precinct, 10 of the city's 30 precincts topped turnout over 60 percent. The highest turnout was in Ward 6 Precinct 5 with 74.88 percent - 1,598 voters out of 2,134 registered).

The other top precincts in turnout in descending order:

Ward 1 Precinct 1 - 70.5 percent (1,282 out of 1,818); Ward 1 Precinct 5 - 69.94 percent (1,389 voters out of 1,986); Ward 3 Precinct 4 - 68.16 percent (1,250 voters out of 1,834); Ward 1 Precinct 4 - 67.07 percent (1,438 voters out of 2,144); Ward 5 Precinct 4 - 64.29 percent (1,003 voters out of 1,560); Ward 5 Precinct 5 - 62.68 percent (1,122 voters out of 1,790); Ward 3 Precinct 2 - 61.17 percent (1,073 voters out of 1,754); Ward 5 Precinct 1 - 60.62 percent (1,196 voters out of 1,973) and Ward 4 Precinct 2 - 60.08 percent (1,094 voters out of 1,821).

On the low-side, there were four precincts with less than 48 percent turnout.

They are: Ward 1 Precinct 2 - 46.79 percent (620 voters out of 1,325); Ward 4 Precinct 4 - 47.29 percent (734 voters out of 1,552); Ward 4 Precinct 5 - 47.32 percent (768 voters out of 1,623) and Ward 2 Precinct 3 - 47.91 percent (722 voters out of 1,507).

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1936 postcard showing two of the four control towers of the then newly completed $2.4 million Fore River Bridge. Built during the Great Depression, the total cost was paid out of Federal Public Works Administration funds. State engineers designed the bridge in the art-deco style popular at the time. Note the resemblance of these towers to the art deco Granite Trust Building in Quincy Square. In 1936, the bridge won an award as the most magnificent bridge built in America that year. Originally each tower controlled the opening of one of the four sections of the bridge. Later, the controls were consolidated into just one of the towers. State engineers managed the bridge's construction by a private company. It took only two years to build and put to work hundreds of unemployed construction workers. The bridge lasted 67 years. Today's temporary bridge cost $55 million and took three years to build. It opened seven years ago and is expected to last only 15 years. Construction of the new permanent bridge is scheduled to begin in 2011 and open after four years in 2015. It will cost $250 million and is expected to last 75 years. World War At An End – Fighting Ceases On German Front

By FRANK McCAULEY

This Week
1918
92 Years Ago

Armistice terms have been signed by Germany, the State Department announced at 2:45 this morning.

The official notice from Washington that an armistice had been signed with Germany was received in Quincy shortly before 4 o'clock this morning. Word came to Central Fire Station by telephone and immediately after, fire alarms bells began to sound and whistles began to blow.

If any doubt existed it was dispelled before 8 o'clock when crowds of Fore River workmen began to parade through Quincy Square carrying flags and cheering. The men carried branches of trees, their working tools as well as tin pans, which they hammered.

When City Hall was reached a halt was made. Here Mayor Joseph Whiton and other city officials reviewed the parade.

TERMS OF THE ARMISTICE

President Woodrow Wilson told Congress the terms that Germany had accepted.

The terms included:

Evacuation of invaded territory, including Alsace-Lorraine and Luxembourg;

Surrender of vast amounts of guns and equipment.

Abandonment of Bucharest and Breast treaties;

Unconditional surrender of German forces in East Africa, surrender of submarines and larger combat vessels and restoration of all allied and United States merchant vessels.

QUINCY CONTRIBUTES TO THE WAR EFFORT

The war, which lasted from April 1917 to November 1918, drew 1,666 Quincy residents into the Armed Forces, 71 of who died in the service to our country. In 1917, a Red Cross chapter was established in the city. The Fore River and Victory Shipyards delivered 89 ships, 16 of which saw service in the War.

The lawn of the Thomas Crane Public Library was dug up and potatoes planned in an effort to increase food production for the war effort. However, the potatoes grown were too small to be much of help for the war effort.

He Trusts Keating Will Do The Right Thing In Congress

As a former Quincy voter for 23 years, I still take great interest in politics Quincy-style. Recently, even tough, I consider myself an Independent Democrat; I was supporting the election of Democrat Bill Keating for United States Congress in the 10th District over his Republican opponent Jeff Perry.

As a police officer for 25 years with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, I supported and campaigned for Keating over one word, "Trust." I trust Keating to do the right thing when he gets to Capitol Hill in January. I've watched him in action as Norfolk County district attorney. I remembered him as a state senator before that. He is what he says.

He will be replacing another friend of mine, United States Rep. Bill Delahunt, who has served both Quincy and the entire congressional district quite well since his 1996 election. I always trusted him to do right, too.

Many Perry supporters think Keating ran a negative campaign with dirty politics. This is silly. Keating had a right to bring up a 19-year-old issue that questions Perry's actions as a police sergeant for the Town of Wareham.

As a police officer, I expected more from Perry on this issue than he gave voters. It isn't dirty politics to call into question the credibility of one's opponent. In the end, it was a tight race but Keating prevailed and for that I am happy.

I also would be remiss if I didn't comment on the election of another friend, Tackey Chan, as both the first Asian American elected to office from Quincy and the first to do so up on Beacon Hill in the state legislature. He ran a great campaign, kept it positive and will be ready to serve the moment he is sworn in come January.

Encourages Keating To 'Look Outside The Box'

I congratulate Bill Keating on his win. This letter is not aimed at him, just the system in general in which we all live.

I hope Mr. Keating has the ability to stand up to special interests and keep the people in mind when he is tempted with money and power. I would also like to encourage him to look outside the box in his search for solutions and not be restricted by the status quo. I'm sure I speak for the entire district when I wish him the best of luck.

You know it's election season when only "noncombat" troops remain in Iraq and "terrorists" start sending their last minute bombs in the mail from Yemen. Just like they assured us before the primaries, our army was leaving Iraq, the media spent the last days of the election talking about explosives which did not explode. Keep the fear alive, but at controllable levels and you can get the "sheeple" to vote for the "lesser of two evils" every time. I wonder what's going to almost happen right before the next election.

Voting for the lesser of two evils is impossible when both parties take money from (and owe loyalty to) the same boss. Until we stand up for ourselves by voting with our hearts and minds, don't expect our representatives to stand up for us. Garbage in, garbage out. Anyone who contributes a little piece of garbage to the pile has to take responsibility for the mess. We have to spread the word to not blame the garbage on the garbage itself. It only takes one smart person to realize that voters will follow the polls, (as opposed to the other way around) before the entire system becomes manipulated.

With that said...

As the only candidate to receive more votes than money I'm happy with the way things turned out. Over 3000 votes is huge when you consider the following: I have never done this before. I ran the entire campaign myself. I didn't have any money to spend on advertising. The independent vote was split 3 ways.

While I am happy with the results, I can't help but imagine what we could do with more help, money and experience. This campaign goes to show that we can replace our government of corporate employees with people who care about common interest more than special interest. We just have to take it up a couple of notches.

I'd like to thank my campaign contributors. Without their help I would not have been able to cover the travel expenses and other necessities of the campaign trail. I am also grateful to the people who donated their time.

Don't get discouraged, we have just taken a big step in the right direction. I want to encourage everyone to build on what we have accomplished.

Glennon Family Christmas Party To Benefit The Jimmy Fund Dec. 3

The Second Annual Glennon Family Christmas Party to benefit the Jimmy Fund will be held Friday, Dec. 3 from 7 p.m. to midnight at the Tirrell Room, 254 Quarry St., Quincy.

Tickets are $25 and all proceeds will directly benefit the Pediatric Patient Assistance Fund at the Jimmy Fund/Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

Last year, the event raised over $22,000 that went directly to the Jimmy Fund. The fundraiser is being organized by Sean and Jo-Anne (Hidalgo) Glennon in honor of their seven-year old daughter Avery. Shortly after her first birthday, Avery was diagnosed with optic glioma, a cancerous tumor that is growing around the optic nerve in her brain. Avery endured 13 months of chemotherapy, which has successfully shrunk the tumor by 30 percent.

Because they have experienced first hand what it's like to have a daughter with cancer, the Glennons wanted to do something to" pay it forward" for other families who find themselves in a similar situation.

"We have always considered ourselves to be extremely fortunate to have the support and assistance of our family, friends and community," said Sean Glennon. "It's great to be able to give something back to another family who needs the support."

The Pediatric Patient Assistance Fund support families of children being treated at the Dana/Farber/Children's Hospital Cancer Care program. This support includes grocery gift cards, pharmacy gift cards, prepaid telephone cards, prepaid gas cards, gift certificate to the local hospital food court, and gift cards to struggling families during the holidays.

For more information, call 617-835-9197 or emailaveryschristmasbenefit@gmail.com

Checks for the tickets should be made payable to The Jimmy Fund.

BIKE WINNER - State Rep. Bruce Ayers recently visited the Squantum Elementary School to deliver a new bike to second grade student Mary Loney (standing in front of Ayers), the winner of a new literacy contest at the school. Mary read 38 books over the summer to win the new bike that was donated by Ayers.

Rep. Ayers Visits Squantum School To Support Literacy

State Rep. Bruce Ayers recently visited Squantum Elementary School to deliver a new bike to 2nd grade student Mary Loney as part of an exciting new literacy contest at the school.

Mary was one of many students who participated in the new Race to Read Summer Reading Contest this past summer.

Squantum students were asked to track the number of books they read over the summer months as part of the school's summer open library program. The books were then tallied at the start of the school year and Ayers donated a bike as the top prize and incentive for students to read over the summer.

Mary won the bike after reading 38 books.

"We are so proud of all the students that participated in this contest and we anticipate the contest to grow next summer as Representative Ayers has offered to partner with us again to support this exciting reading program at the school," said Principal Steve Sylvia.

What To Do With Left-Over Pork?

Recently when I was talking to my son Jim, a doctor in New York, our conversation naturally steered itself to cooking. Since he enjoys cooking so much in his rare spare time, he often times will give me a new way of preparing certain entrees.

So this time he gave me great way to use left over pork tenderloin roast.

He said there was quite a bit left over, and since he had some fresh vegetables in the refrigerator, he concocted a delicious dish.

PORK TENDERLOIN WITH ZUCCHINI AND TOMATOES

Slices of pork (whatever is left)
Olive oil for sautéing
1 garlic clove (minced)
1 small onion (chopped)
1 cup chicken stock
¼ cup white wine
2 zucchini (diced)
2 large fresh tomatoes (diced)
Salt and pepper to taste

In the hot oil, sauté the garlic and onion. Add the pork and blend it into the oil mixture. Add the chicken stock, the wine and then the diced zucchini and tomatoes. Cook until vegetables are cooked.

The mixture can be poured over rice, noodles or just enjoyed with crusty bread.

Free History Lecture At ENC Nov. 18

The Eastern Nazarene College History Department will present a free lecture by Harvard University historian Jill Lepore at 7 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 18 in Shrader Lecture Hall on the college's main campus.

Titled "Poor Richard's Poor Jane," Lepore's lecture is based on her forthcoming biography of Ben Franklin and his sister Jane Mecom.

Lepore is also the author of New York Burning: Liberty and Slavery in an 18th Century City, The Name of War: King Philip's War and the Origins of American Identity, which won the Bancroft Prize, A is for American: Letters and Other Characters in the Newly United States and most recently, The Whites of Their Eyes: The Tea Party's Revolution and the Battle over American History.

Lepore has written for the New York Times, Washington Post, the New Yorker, and the Los Angeles Times.

The ENC History Department Public Lecture Series is made possible by the support of the ENC alumni.

'The Quiet Figure' Exhibit At Library

An exhibit of portrait and life drawings in pastels and oils by William MacDonald is on display through Nov. 30 in the Coletti Reading Room at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

A reception will be held Saturday, Nov. 13 from 2 to 4 p.m.

The artwork of The Quiet Figure is an expression of the artistic meeting of an artist and his models, which the exhibit is an attempt to extend the intimacy of those moments into the viewers' time and space. It's an invitation for the viewers to see the sitters – whether in portrait or full figure representation – as our neighbors and peers.

The exhibit relates to the communication of human intimacy – generally the result of numerous life drawing/paint sessions over the years. There was no use of photographic reference material in the creation of the works – it's all personal.

A long-time Quincy resident, MacDonald has studied with Tom Ouellette and Alison Macomber and attended a number of workshops conducted by Constance Flavell Pratt and Dennis Cheaney.

For more information, call 617-376-1301.

Preserving Family Achives Seminar At Crane Library

A digital preservation seminar for family archives – family photographs, documents and artifacts for posterity – will be held Monday, Nov. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

Attendees will learn and ask questions about the basics of organizing and describing items, digital imaging and home scanning devices, tagging, digital storage, and preservation with Thomas Blake, digital projects manager at the Boston Public Library. Blake will also discuss a new digital loan program being offered at the Boston Public Library where rare genealogical titles can be checked out online.

Councillors Clash Over Value Of Municipal Lots

of Leominster. MA.

Raymondi cited the city's assessment of the building and land at $12.5 million for the entire property and $3.2 million for the land alone.

In addition, Raymondi said the Ross Garage brings approximately $200,000 in income to the city each year.

According to the auditor's report, both parking lots had total revenues of over $713,000 in fiscal year 2010 Income has dipped slightly in the first quarter of this year with the closure of a portion of the Hancock lot.

"I don't have any confidence in this report," said Raymondi.

Both City Solicitor Jim Timmins and Councillor John Keenan countered that Raymondi had taken the appraisal out of context and Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee said that Street-Works had no chance to offer feedback at Monday's meeting.

"We need to understand the many pieces of this transaction," said McNamee after noting that he, too, had been shocked by the appraiser's conclusion but was willing to wait for a full report.

"You have to look at the entire proposal," said Keenan while Jim Fatseas, chief of staff for Mayor Thomas Koch, took offense at Raymondi's conclusion for challenging the 15 to 20 people who have worked for two years on this project, "None of whom are silly or dishonest."

"I don't think anything's served by being alarmist about this," said Keenan, adding, "There are many pieces. It's a legitimate concern."

Timmins compared the zero evaluation to the value of the old Schaeffer Stadium in Foxboro, noting that it was of no value before it was demolished and then it cost $15 million to build Gillette Stadium.

"This is zero for a good reason...." said Timmins, noting that the entire project had to be considered and that none of the Street-Works principals were on hand to interpret the findings.

Keenan, also, said that Raymondi's statements were "political grandstanding" and a "disservice to taxpayers.... That downtown is a drag on the city."

While Raymondi was not satisfied with the appraisal, he, also, stated that the transfer of city property is subject to the state statute Chapter 30B which requires full appraisals and Requests for Proposals or bidding.

Timmins called Raymondi's criticism "insulting and very disappointing" and countered with Chapters 121A and Chapter 121B, "These are statutes that trump 30B."

Raymondi remained firm in his critique of the project, outlining the city's eventual payment for utility upgrades which will be repaid through a $289 million bond.

The total sale of both Hancock Parking Lot and the Ross parking area are listed at just over $4 million in the proposed LDA.

Other councillors called Monday's discussion a major example of the need for their own independent advisor.

"There's no sin in acknowledging how complex this LDA is," said Councillor Joseph Finn who, with Ward 4 councillor Brian Palmucci, sought funding and approval for independent counsel to help councillors review the Quincy Center plan.

City Council President Kevin Coughlin cited the desperate need for improvements to Quincy Center and noted that councillors had a lot of work to do.

In addition, Coughlin said, "The Attorney General's office has offered their assistance."

Timmins Responds.

On Tuesday, Timmins issued a formal statement in which he called Raymondi's statement "an unwarranted attack on the appraisal report of the Ross garage" based on an utterly inaccurate reading of the full report.

"The appraisal (was) prepared by Foster Appraisal of Leominster, Massachusetts, an independent licensed appraiser, which prepared its analysis at the request of the City of Quincy Planning Department and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Housing and Community Development.

"The Planning Department and the state are working together to oversee the proposed redevelopment of Quincy Center under Mayor Koch's leadership.

The report was not prepared by, or at the request of, Street-Works, as Councillor Raymondi stated at last night's council meeting.

"The appraiser was asked to look at the Ross Parking Garage as one of several lots being assembled and developed under the urban redevelopment plan that Mayor Koch is seeking to implement, with Street-Works as the developer.

"The report reviewed the history of the garage, which was repeated by Councillor Raymondi at last night's meeting. The appraiser included as part of the report the cost to construct the garage when it was built in two phases, extending from 1984 through 1987; and looked at its current condition today.

"In determining value, the appraiser explained in detail the costs involved in redeveloping the parcel, as the Street-Works project proposed to do. None of these details were shared with the city council, or the public, when Councillor Raymondi spoke last night (Monday).

"Essentially, the appraiser calculated that the cost to demolish the garage, as is proposed, and provide the necessary infrastructure to then develop the site would exceed the value of the garage-resulting the his conclusion of 0 value for the site.

"When the full report is analyzed and the reasons for the conclusion are reviewed, Mayor Koch and the development team are quite confident that anyone looking at the appraisal will understand and accept the conclusions reached."

Council Wants Auditor Duties Amended

By JOE REARDON

In an attempt to gain back an important component of its ability to make more informed decisions, the city council voted unanimously to forward to the finance and ordinance committee, and advertising, an order to amend the duties of the city auditor.

"It has to do with how the city council does its job," said Councillor Joseph Finn.

The vote centered on wording having to do with the city auditor's task. The auditor's duty of looking at checks going out of the mayor's office was taken away when Nick Puleo was named the director of Municipal Finance.

Finn, in his opinion, said the mayor could spend money in "impunity" under the new process. The auditor no longer is able to see where the money is being spent.

Finn reintroduced the issue that the auditor should be able to sign off on the warrant. He said the motion in no way was a reflection of the job Puleo is doing in the position.

The wording in the duties of the auditor dealt with line 1, after "the documentation submitted by the agency requesting payment of any such bill supporting payment of bills and the cancelled checks on file in the treasurer's office" and insert the following: "the auditor shall sign off on all warrants prior to the payment of any bill in order to ensure that such payment is consistent with the annual budget and in conformance with existing law."

But Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee said the city underwent a financial reorganization two years ago in the finance and administration areas and that changing the auditor's duties would be a "serious undoing" of a lot of hard work.

The council corrected what the majority was an "inconsistent set of responsibilities" according to McNamee. The auditor, he said, who was appointed by the council, wasn't doing any audit functions, but was essentially auditing the city's books, transactions and financial data.

"He was keeping the city's books," said McNamee. "That was inconsistent with the duties of an auditor."

The auditor's job, McNamee said, is to test and review city budgets, and be the overseer and determine if internal control is producing reliable financial information.

"You're taking the auditor into the transactional world of responsibilities," McNamee said.

What needs to be done, he said, is to see what path to take to understand why deficiencies are occurring if they arise. If the warrants are defective, systems must be defined to eliminate the problems. The path to correction is to understand why the warrants are defective.

"We need to correct from a system standpoint to the origin of errors," said McNamee. "We need to design policies, procedures and systems along with training personnel that help you correct this."

Intrepretive Signs Unveiled On Wollaston Beach

Friends Of Wollaston Beach Plan To Install Informational Kiosks In Spring

SEVEN INTERPRETIVE SIGNS, including this one highlighting the history of the city's yacht clubs, have been installed along Wollaston Beach in a collaborative effort involving The Friends of Wollaston Beach, Department of Conservation and Recreation, the City of Quincy and its Community Preservation Committee. Photo Courtesy Maureen Mazrimas

The Friends of Wollaston Beach (FWB), the Department of Conservation and Recreation (DCR), the City of Quincy and its Community Preservation Committee (CPC) jointly participated in the long-awaited unveiling of seven interpretive signs along the Wollaston Beach walk last Saturday.

The signs showcase the history, geography and ecology of Wollaston Beach, and are much like those found at a National Park or Historic Landmark.

FWB president and grant author, Neil McCole, opened the program by thanking Mayor Thomas Koch, Carl Pastore of the DCR, Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro, City Historian Tom Galvin, officers of FWB, and the City's CPC for bringing the project to fruition. He noted that Wollaston Beach has become a year-round amenity and a wonderful place for families.

The FWB has either sponsored or co-sponsored roughly 40 events over the last four years including beach cleanups, volleyball tournaments, Kids Fests, Kite Fests, Tot Lot events, Senior lunch events at beach restaurants, a car show, art shows, and the John Hancock plunge. He identified FWB officers and thanked Rich Joyce, the group's webmaster, for keeping the public informed of what's happening on the Beach at www.wollastonbeach.org.

McCole also pointed out the "Plunge," sponsored by the Quincy Beaches & Coastal Commission, will take place in January (near John Hancock's birthday). The event challenges "plungers" to solicit pledges to take a dip in the Bay, with donations earmarked for the Interfaith Social Services Agency.

He then introduced Gutro who noted that the project was seven years in the making.

"I have seen a transformation in this Beach over the last several years. People have taken pride in it and I see them walking the Beach and picking up trash, just because it's the right thing to do." He spoke of the State's significant investment in infrastructure improvements.

"They spent at least $11 million in enhancements along Quincy Shore Drive. There's a seawall at the south end of the Beach that is the envy of neighboring seaside communities. People have come back to the Beach and that's great!"

Koch commended the collaborative effort of all involved. He noted the contribution of Tom Galvin.

"His knowledge of the Beach's history, his expansive collection of Quincy memorabilia and his willingness to give of his time and expertise helped make this project a reality," he said.

"The signs are only one component of the City's commitment to Wollaston Beach. Through the hard work of members of multiple city departments, we have been able to identify and correct weaknesses in the system that allow wastewater to filter into the Bay, making it unswimmable.

"We are making efforts to ensure that there are fewer and fewer days when you can't swim at Wollaston Beach."

CPC member Maureen Mazrimas noted the sign project is but one of the many benefits of the Community Preservation Act (CPA). She said that in 2006, the CPA carried in every precinct across the City.

"You need to thank yourselves," she said, "not only for these great signs but for the nearly 30 acres of Open Space that have been preserved, the many historic sites that have been restored, and the affordable housing units that have been created as a result of the CPA. Your tax dollars have gone a long way toward further enhancing the great qualify of life we enjoy in Quincy."

Galvin reiterated that without the hard work of all involved, this project might not have happened.

"There's over 400 years of recorded history about this area. It's nice to be able to capture that for future generations. In the past couple of weeks [before the formal unveiling], it's been gratifying to see so many people stop to read these signs as they walk the Beach. The sign we're standing in front of right now is going to settle a lot of arguments as people look out across the Bay and are able to correctly identify the Harbor islands."

Also on hand were City Councillor and state Senator-Elect John Keenan, state Representative-Elect Tackey Chan, and other beach stakeholders, including members of the Wollaston Yacht Club as well as members of the team from DCR charged with maintaining the beach – specifically Sandy Meskimen – for whom the job is a labor of love.

Armed with coffee and breakfast pastries, the group briskly followed along the Beach walk to view other signs now in place.

The final element of the project – 4 informational kiosks – is expected to be installed in the Spring. Another event will be planned at that time.

A VERY SPECIAL THANK YOU!

In this season of giving thanks, the Quincy Animal Shelter would like to show our appreciation to all of our many donors and sponsors who, through their generosity, have helped us make 2010 another successful year of providing care to the many homeless cats and dogs in the Quincy area.

Our list of the people and businesses is quite long making it difficult to list them here. Every contribution, large or small, goes towards our caring for our special guests anxiously waiting to find their forever home. From the child celebrating his or her birthday who asks that a donation be made to the Shelter instead of presents to the corporate giant matching an employee's donation to the Shelter as well.

On behalf of the volunteers, managers, Board of Directors and those of us who do not have voices, thank you for being the special people that you are and for the support you give us throughout the year.

Gutro Seeks Full Report On Efforts For 'Wolly' Revival

By LAURA GRIFFIN

"What's been done to revive the Wollaston Theater in the past 2 ½ years?"

That's the major question that Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro wants answered at a City Council meeting as soon as possible by both Street-Works Development, LLC, and the Koch administration

At Monday's meeting, Gutro described his fear that neither has explored all the avenues for the Wollaston Theater's revival and that time has been lost for the theater.

Subsequently, Gutro won council support for his resolution asking for a council meeting as soon as possible with both Street-Works and Koch's designees.

Gutro also cited a Boston Globe story describing the $41 million invested in an old theater that will be reopened in downtown Boston and said he could list scores of such success stories for old theaters in Massachusetts alone, such as in Dedham, Holyoke, and Boston.

"I've had two groups approach me," Gutro said, stating that grants and tax breaks are available for theater revival projects.

"I don't think all is lost. There is a rationale and an explanation that hope is not lost," said Gutro. "There are people with expertise who have done this. Let us begin."

"I know what the cost is to us if we don't do it. We have a clock ticking, an opportunity to act."

Gutro said the alternative could be a condominium development or a Burger King in place of the Wollaston Center landmark.

"There's real affection and affinity for (Wollaston Theater)," said Gutro who believes that Koch is still interested. "The mayor gave me more hope than I expected."

Koch's Chief of Staff Jim Fatseas said the mayor has made an effort. "There are still folks we are talking to. We have been stymied. Perhaps it's the economy; perhaps it's the building."

According to Gutro's resolution, the Wollaston Theater built in 1926 is the last of the nine theaters in Quincy. The theater closed in 2003.

According to Assessors' records, Wollaston Development Associates, LLC, purchased the property on June 16, 2009 for $1,145,000. The firm headed by Kenneth Narva, co-founder and partner of Street-Works is located at Street-Works White Plains address.

In announcing their withdrawal from the project, Koch said that Street-Works was never expected to do anything other than hold the property until funds could be raised for the full purchase and revival of the property as a theater.

In October, Jeffrey Levien, Senior Director for Street Works Development notified Attorney Peter Hoy that the theater revival would be too expensive and they were withdrawing.

Levien's three-page letter was written on Street-Works stationary.

Hoy said that, to his knowledge, no one has paid more than the $45,000 original down payment and a $25,000 payment from the mayor's charity fund in 2009 and that he was never informed that the buyer would be just holding the property.

"There was a balloon payment ($1 million) that was due in January that was ignored," said Hoy.

While this may be the end, it could also be a detour, according to Gutro.

"I don't think we've beaten every bush and banged on every door," he added.

Councillors Ask Barron To Discuss Budget, Fire Dept. Promotions

lowing charges for repeated false alarm and insurance company billing for accidents. The program was expected to add some $250,000 annually to fire department income. To date, the department has billed $9,000 for a five to six week period.

In a letter to Barron on Oct. 28, Gutro described his concerns regarding the promotions and the deep cuts in suppression personnel since 2002. "There was testimony we were down 20 firefighters," Gutro said.

In a written response dated Nov. 4, Barron stated a captain and three of five lieutenants were demoted as part of the 2011 budget and these individual were being reinstated. However, he also wrote that he planned to fill a Deputy Chief's spot and two open lieutenant positions.

"These staffing adjustments will have no bearing on our service plan previously discussed with the Council as part of the budget process," Barron wrote.

Gutro said Monday that he supported the reinstatement of demoted officers, but he challenged the new promotions.

"I'm still left with questions," Gutro said Monday, citing the possible "implication of those promotions on overtime costs." He later asked, "Does that impact the personnel that could be on fire apparatus?"

Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest presented data from the fire department indicating 'brown-outs' and that Engine 8 was not in service 123 days through Oct. 31. However, she emphasized, "It has never been out of service in the evening. It's the daytime shifts."

In addition, Laforest said that Quincy Housing Authority is now supplying space heaters to some tenants due to problems with their heating systems and warned, "We now have an increased risk."

"We are in desperate need of manpower in our station," said Laforest who said the number of brownouts are double the number planned during budget hearings.

"Did we save that $100,000?" asked Laforest, adding that the brown-outs were now double the number anticipated. "Does that equate to $200,000 (in savings)?"

In his reply, Barron also noted that the discussion of promotions during budget hearings ". . . was limited to manpower as it existed at that time-without the expectation of further retirements in the Departments.

"These subsequent departures will allow us to keep four additional firefighters who have already received pink slip..."

Barron also said he is pursuing "every available avenue to restore the fire firefighters laid off in this year's budget."

Downtown Finance Team Makes Case To Council

of First Southwest Company and Municipal Finance Director Nicholas Puleo as the financial proceedings move forward.

In the first meeting on Tuesday night, Woodworth was to detail the series of up-front payments and other requirements that Street-Works must meet before the City is required to begin buying back $227 million in public improvements. Chief among them is the requirement that Street-Works pay the City $30 million to cover the debt the City has already incurred as part of its downtown redevelopment efforts and a $10 million fund to for public improvements outside of the development district.

Woodworth was also to detail the series of benchmarks that Street-Works must meet, most importantly that the private development is occupied and producing revenue, that will trigger the City to begin paying off the public improvements through that new revenue.

The state redevelopment program being used for the project is called Chapter 121A, which sets taxes for the redeveloped properties. It is the revenue from those new taxes that will be used to pay for the public improvements – but only after there is proof that the revenue is actually being generated, Woodworth said.

Koch has stressed that at no point during the development process will any property taxes from homeowners be used as part of the project, and the City estimates that it will generate more than $7 million in annual new revenue to help protect local services even after the financing of the public improvements is calculated.

Woodworth, who has been working on the agreement for more than two years, said at the first Council presentation last month that she has never been involved in a development deal that had so many protections for the public entity involved.

Airman Charles Riordan Supports Launch Operations

By AIR FORCE STAFF SGT. JESSICA SWITZER

PATRICK AIR FORCE BASE, Florida - Satellites have become a fixed part of life for most Americans. They provide television to homes, help people find their way around, track weather patterns and offer a view of neighborhoods and cities around the world.

The brother of a Quincy woman helps get those satellites into orbit, among other things.

Air Force 1st Lt. Charles F. Riordan, brother of Michelle Riordan, of Presidents Lane, Quincy, is a facilities and infrastructure program manager with the 45th Space Wing.

The main part of the wing is located at Patrick Air Force Base, but a few miles down the road, other parts of the wing work at Cape Canaveral Air Force Station where the launches occur.

The 45th Space Wing launches rockets, including the Delta IV and Atlas V, which put those satellites in orbit and also provides support for the Department of Defense, NASA, and commercial manned and unmanned space programs.

The Wing launches rockets, including the Delta IV and Atlas V, which put satellites in orbit and also provides support for the Department of Defense, NASA, and commercial maned and unmanned space programs.

"My job involves planning and managing construction and modernization projects on facilities involved in processing and launching rockets," said Riordan, a 2004 graduate of Niceville High School, Fla. He went on to earn a bachelor's degree in systems engineering in 2008 from the U.S. Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo. "This ensures that these facilities are able to support the launch operations for the Atlas V and Delta IV programs."

Hundreds of airmen, including Riordan, support launch operations both directly at the launch sites and indirectly as a part of support units that provide security and medical care.

"My favorite part of the job is seeing one of our rockets launch successfully and knowing that my efforts helped make it possible," said Riordan, who is assigned to the 5th Space Launch Squadron, located at Cape Canaveral. "It's a great feeling to know that my work helped put critical national capabilities into space."

It's not all work for the members of the 45th Space Wing. The Patrick main gate is just across the street from a beach, and with Orlando and several parks and preserve areas only a short drive away, there is a lot for airmen to do.

"I love living in Florida again," said Riordan. "It's great to be close to home again and it's good to be back where it's warm and to not have to deal with snow for a while. During my off-duty time I practice taekwondo and spend time at the beach."

Riordan is the son of two Air Force Officers and has been in the Air Force for two years. He said he plans on serving a full 20-year career.

Meet New Marshall School Principal Nicholas Ahearn

By JOE REARDON

There's a framed picture on Nicholas Ahearn's office wall that reads, "Challenge. Without challenge, there is no achievement."

They're words that the 30-year-old Ahearn adheres to as the new principal of the Clifford H. Marshall Elementary School.

Ahearn is more than two months into his new position and his passion for the job, and the challenges that come with it, are brimming.

"I truly see this as a school that is the cornerstone of the community," said Ahearn. "It's an incredible place to work. The staff, students and community are incredible."

Educated in the Milton School System, Ahearn earned his bachelor's degree at Boston College and went on to get a master's in educational leadership at Bridgewater State College.

Education has always been a big part of Ahearn's life and it's little wonder that he became a teacher. His mother Ellen was a teacher in the Milton Public Schools and the Woodward School and Dan, his father, was a teacher in the Boston Public Schools for 30 years. Ahearn's wife, Sarah, is a sixth-grade science teacher at the Central Middle School.

"I saw the job my parents did as teachers," Ahearn said. "The teachers in the building take their concerns and hopes for the kids home with them.

"I love going into classrooms and seeing teachers teach. I don't think you can do this job if you don't have a passion for teaching and learning."

Quincy School Superintendent Richard DeCristofaro said Ahearn had a strong track record as the assistant principal at the Sterling Middle School and his knowledge of education separated himself from the pack of candidates for the Marshall position.

"I think he'll do an extraordinary job at Marshall," said DeCristofaro. "He's already spent a number of hours after the school day getting to know the kids. He's a very positive and very motivated. Every student at Marshall will know they can accomplish great things."

DeCristofaro also said that Ahearn would benefit greatly by having assistant principal Bill Bloomer as his right hand man. "He brings Mr. Ahearn a real nice foundation of knowledge of the Marshall School and the Quincy Point Community."

For Ahearn, elementary school is an exciting time in the kid's lives because they are so open to learning. The teachers at Clifford H. Marshall take their jobs very seriously at this important juncture in the kids' education.

"The kids are bright-eyed and ready to learn at this age," Ahearn said. "They light that candle every day."

In his six years teaching and three serving as assistant principal at the Sterling School Ahearn has grown as both an educator and leader. He's a firm believer in "it takes a village to raise a child" and in the importance of keeping constant communication with the teachers, students and parents.

"I think one of the important messages I send is to be fearless learners," Ahearn said. "We learn from doing and we learn from our mistakes. I come to work every day to do the best job I can."

School committee member Anne Mahoney has seen Ahearn grow "exponentially" and excel from his time as a teacher, assistant principal at the Sterling, right up to his current position. Ahearn takes on challenges head on and is a strong problem solver.

"His career is just at the beginning," said Mahoney. "We need young, energetic people like him in the school system.

"Every time he's stepped up to the plate he's hit the ball out of the park."

The "new energy" that Ahearn brings to the job is a plus for both the school and neighborhood community. It's the kids, Mahoney said, that are his No. 1 priority.

"He'll be able to draw people in and take the school to the next level," Mahoney said. "He can inspire all kids. He can draw out their skills and work with them. He's able to make a lot out of a little, He can see the diamond in the rough."

Teaching is still very much in Ahearn's blood and he views the job as principal as a natural extension of being in the classroom with the students. And Ahearn doesn't believe those days are over for him.

"You can make a greater impact on the school (as principal)," he said. "I think 30 years from now, when I retire, I'd like to teach again. I haven't gotten away from the ideas of teaching."

Along with his parents, there have been other educational influences in his life. He sees on a regular basis the commitment of his wife, the passion she has and the effort she puts into her teaching. And then there are certain teachers Ahearn had who made a lasting impact on him. He especially remembers a history teacher he had his sophomore year at Milton High.

"He believed we were all capable of the highest level of work," Ahearn said. "That message really rings true with me today."

Veterans' Day Parade, Ceremonies Today

Erik Joseph Filipe of Quincy, a member of the 747th Military Police Company of the Massachusetts Army National Guard out of Ware, will be the honorary guest speaker at the city's Annual Veterans' Day Parade and Ceremonies today (Thursday).

The parade will start at 10:30 a.m. at Quincy Avenue and Scammel Street. Marchers will proceed on Quincy Avenue and Hancock Street to the Adams Academy at the corner of Adams and Hancock Streets where the Veterans' Day ceremonies will be held.

Filipe, promoted to the rank of lieutenant in April, has served more than 18 years in the Guard and has been awarded the Meritorious Service Medal, Army Commendation Medal, Army Achievement Medal and the Army Reserve Component Achievement Medal. He also earned the Reserve Component Overseas Training Ribbon, Global War on Terrorism Expeditionary Medal, Global War on Terrorism Service Medal, NCO Prof. Developmental Ribbon, Iraq Campaign Medal, Army Service Ribbon, Army Overseas Ribbon, Armed Forces Reserve Medal (Bronze Hourglass) and the National Defense Service Medal.

Many veterans' organizations, local officials and junior R.O.T.C. members from both high schools are expected to take part in the parade

In the case of inclement weather, the Veterans' Day services will be held at 11 a.m.. in the Quincy High School gym, 52 Coddington St.

The invocation at the Veterans' Day Service will be given by John Raeke, the Quincy Veterans' Council Chaplain and Master of Ceremonies Lawrence Norton will introduce the invited guests.

Greeting and remarks will be made by Pakkala, Mayor Thomas Koch and City Council President Kevin Coughlin. Pakkala will then place a wreath and the Gold Star Mothers will place flowers in front of the Doughboy Statue at the Adams Academy.

Joseph Booker, assistant chaplain of the Quincy Veterans Council will give the benediction.

"Thank you for your vote and support on election day! I am honored to be elected as your next State Representative."

A Job Well Done

On Monday, Nov. 1, at approximately 10:20 p.m., Officers Bruce Tait and Lauren Lambert were dispatched to Cleverly Court on a "Breaking and Entering in progress" call. The suspect, who fled from the rear of the apartment towards the street, was wearing a red hooded sweatshirt.

LT. DAN MINTON

Officer Tait interviewed the female victim, who stated that she was watching TV in bed with her 4 year-old daughter when she heard a window in her daughter's bedroom being opened. She walked into the room, and observed a middle-aged male wearing a red sweatshirt halfway inside the apartment, up to his waist through the window. She screamed, "Get the @#$% out of my apartment." The male then fled.

With multiple units checking the area, Officer Bob Bell radioed that he was detaining a male matching the description at the Quincy Point Car Wash, which is a couple hundred yards away from the crime scene. While Officer Lambert stayed with the victim's daughter, Officer Tait brought the victim/witness to where Officer Bell was located to see if she could identify the suspect.

As soon as she saw the male, she said that she was sure it was not the male who came through her window, stating that the suspect was much older. As Officer Tait brought the victim back to her home, a male in front of the building stated, "Officer, that guy was hiding behind those bushes." Officer Tait went over to the bushes and approached the male, who was wearing a red sweatshirt. The victim, upon seeing the suspect come out from behind the bushes, became extremely emotional, stating, "Oh my God, that's him."

Officer Tait handcuffed the suspect, who smelled strongly of alcohol, and continually asked, "Where am I?" The suspect, a 55 year old Braintree resident, was placed under arrest for "Unarmed Burglary."

Nice Work!

A JOB WELL DONE: On Saturday, Oct. 30 at approximately 10:10 p.m., Officer William Lanergan was dispatched to the Corner Market located at 171 West St. for a "Breaking and Entering in progress."

The 911 caller stated that she was watching two suspects, one wearing a Boston Celtics jacket, kicking in the front door or window of the market. At that time, multiple units started in that direction. Upon my arrival, Officer Lanergan observed a male wearing a Celtics jacket directly in front of the store. When the suspect observed the police cruiser, he started to walk away.

As the officer approached the suspect, he noted that the suspect was bleeding from his hand. Due to the proximity of the suspect to the damaged door, Officer Lanergan ordered the suspect to the ground at gunpoint.

At that time, Officers Roger White, Jimmy Whedbee, Daniel Church and Sergeant Jim McNeil arrived on scene to assist.

Fallon ambulance was called to the scene to bandage up the cuts on the suspect's hand. The suspect appeared to be under the influence of alcohol and drugs and stated, "Oh man, my boys left me, those f@#$%^& - *&^%$# s are going to get it if I'm the only one going down for this".

After being given Miranda rights, the suspect said he understood them. When asked what happened, the suspect said he was the one trying to get in the store, stating, "Yeah I threw some rocks at the glass so I could get in and just get some Newports." Officer White spoke to the "911" caller, who yelled out, "That's him" as she pointed to the suspect. There was extensive damage to the metal security bars covering the store front window and the entire large glass window itself was shattered.

The manager of the Corner Store arrived on scene and estimated the cost of the damage was over $1,000. Officers searched the area for the second suspect but were unable to locate anyone who may have been involved.

The suspect, an 18 year old homeless man, was charged with "Malicious destruction of property over $250.00" and "Attempt to commit a crime (B&E)."

While being searched on scene, a small amount of marijuana was discovered on the suspect and this was placed in the department's drug locker for destruction.

Nice Work!

Culinary Students Cook Turkeys, Host Pie Sale

QHS Supports Fr. Bill's, MainSpring's Thanksgiving Community Dinner Nov. 25

Quincy Public Schools Career and Technical Education Culinary Arts Program will cook more than 70 turkeys at the school's new culinary facility to serve at the Father Bill's MainSpring (FBMS) Thanksgiving Community Dinner held at Christ Episcopal Church on Thanksgiving Day.

Additionally, the culinary arts students will host a pie sale Tuesday, Nov. 23 at the Quincy High School from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Proceeds of $1 from the sale of each pie will go to the support programs at FBMS.

For nearly 20 years, FBMS has hosted a Thanksgiving Dinner in the Quincy community, providing a Thanksgiving meal to over 300 individuals and families in need during the holidays. Coordinated by Father Bill's Place Kitchen Coordinator Paul Anderson, generous donations of turkeys are made each year helping support more meals for more individuals. Partnering with FBMS for the second year, the culinary students learn how to properly cook, carve a turkey and give it back to the community, led by instructors Mark Kelly, Patrick Noe and William Gulva.

A variety of pies and baked goods will be on sale Nov. 23 at the high school. Pies will be sold for $7 each. Orders of five or more pies can be made in advance by calling William Gulva 617-376-3328.

"We are thrilled to partner with Father Bill's & MainSpring once again this year," said Keith Segalla, Quincy Public Schools Executive Director of Career & Technical Education and Instructional Technology. "Not only does this partnership give our students a wonderful learning opportunity to enhance their culinary skills, it also teaches them about civic responsibility and community service.

"We are proud to be a part of Father Bill's & MainSpring's mission and help support those in need in the Quincy community. We plan to expand on this partnership by participating in future initiatives with Father Bill's & MainSpring."

Father Bill's & MainSpring President and CEO John Yazwinski said. "This partnership speaks to the very nature of Thanksgiving by providing a great example of how a community can come together to help support their neighbors. We thank the Quincy Public Schools, and specifically the kids, for their continued commitment to our mission in helping those without a home. It is through their support that we will be able to provide a warmer holiday for many individuals and families this year."

Monetary donations can be made to the FBMS Thanksgiving Community Dinner by sending a check to FBMS, Development Office, and 422 Washington St., Quincy, MA 02169. Additionally, donations of turkey and food in bulk sizes are being accepted at Father Bill's Place, 38 Broad St., Quincy.

Bishop Roy Cedarholm Visits Christ Church

THE RIGHT REV. Roy F. Cedarholm Jr., Bishop Suffragan of the Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, visited Christ Church Quincy Sunday. During the service, Bishop Cedarholm took time to give a special sermon and teach a song to the children of the parish. Later, Bishop Cedarholm praised the parish for undertaking a number of capital projects that have made the church more energy effecient, as well as for providing a home to the Helping Hands Essentials Pantry, which provides personal care items to people in need. Photo Courtesy Rick Collins

Quincy Native Ken Furfair Receives State Police Lifesaver Award

Trooper Ken Furfari, a former Quincy resident and 1973 Quincy High School graduate, was recently awarded the Massachusetts State Police Medal of Lifesaving.

Furfari was presented this award by Col. Marian J. McGovern, Superintendent of the Massachusetts State Police, at an awards ceremony held at the State House in Boston.

The Medal of Lifesaving was established to bestow recognition upon sworn police personnel who undertake significant actions in the saving of another life.

On the night of Sept. 15, 2009, State Police a Logan Airport received numerous calls regarding a man who fell from the top deck of the Tobin Bridge and landed below the lower deck, within a construction staging area hundreds of feet above a paved parking lot. The injured man was lying inches from the edge of the suspended platform.

Without thought of his own safely, Trooper Furfari along with Trooper Timothy Harris and Mr. Ryan St. Martin climbed down a portable wooden ladder, with no harnesses or safety devices toward the dangerous perch. In darkness they crawled across the staging, reaching the injured and pulling him to safety. Emergency responders then arrived and took the man to the hospital.

Furfari lives in Abington with his wife Lynn and daughters Lindsey and Lauren.

ENC Receives Marketing Award

Eastern Nazarene College's Graduate and Adult Studies division was recently selected as this year's recipient of the 2010 ACHE Crystal Marketing Award, presented by the Association for Continuing Higher Education at its recent annual conference in Albuquerque, NM.

The award recognizes the ACHE institution "that achieves significant results from a marketing communications tool through a print, broadcast or electronic medium . . . that exemplifies the most creative and outstanding uses of marketing, advertising or public relation."

Assistant Director Karyn Donahue said ENC was selected to receive the prestigious award for its new "Discover Your Purpose" branding campaign.

"The multimedia campaign involved the creation of a wide range of new materials, view books, billboards, print advertisement, brochures and more," she said.

Donahue credited marketing consultant and ENC alumnus Tom DeSantes with designing the new materials.

"All of our existing materials, including the ENC website, were revamped to reflect the central message that ENC is a place where students of all ages and backgrounds can 'discover their purpose" in an academically and spiritually nurturing environment," Donahue added.

JCPenny Supporting Salvation Army Angel Giving Tree

The Salvation Army and JCPenney have joined forces again this holiday season to give joy to even more children and seniors in need by offering an online option to support Angel Giving Tree adoptions.

The annual Christmas gift drive provides clothing, special-need gifts, and other wish list items to kids and senior citizens experiencing financial hardship. The Salvation Army expanded its 40-year old Christmas tradition by partnering with JCPenney to make it easier for supporters to participate.

Customers can visit jcp.com/angel to request an Angel by zip code, city/state, age range, and gender. An Angel who matches the criteria will be e-mailed to the customer along with a list of requested items. The confirmation e-mail will also include a link to view drop-off locations in the recipient's area and ship-to-addresses to receive online orders.

The program allows customers to ship for an Angel online at jcp.com, in JCPenney stores, or at any retailer they choose.

In collaboration with UPS, Angel Giving Tree gifts purchased through jcp.com can be shipped free of charge to a local Salvation Army collection center – putting the entire selection, shopping, and delivery process at the customer's fingertips. Deadline is Dec. 10.

The Salvation Army has hundreds of children in need of adoption this year.

Quincy High School Class Of 1939 Celebrates 71st Reunion

ters for lunch and then back again feel as though they happened just yesterday, not 75 years ago.

Giarrusso enjoyed riding in trolley cars on Hancock Street and it was always a thrill going with her father, Umberto Giarrusso, to watch baseball games at the Merrymount Park field.

Umberto, who Giarrusso remembers lovingly as a true "baseball fanatic" never missed a Red Sox game, whether it be at Fenway or on the radio.

It was the Merrymount games, though, that she looks back on with the fondest of memories.

"They had a fence with a rail around the park and you'd stand on the rail to watch the game," said Giarrusso.

There were teachers, too, who made a lasting impression on Giarrusso through their passion for learning and desire to get the most out of their students. It was Isabelle Browne, a teacher at Central Middle School, who taught Giarrusso penmanship, a skill that she has maintained over the years. "I still get compliments on my handwriting," she said with a laugh. "She (Browne) was one of my favorites."

Esther Gizzarelli, who taught at Central, was a "powerful teacher" as was Caroline Welch, whose specialty was science.

The World War II years in the city were bittersweet. Giarrusso's sister owned a beauty shop in Wollaston and the girls would congregate there on Saturdays and talk about how the war was playing out in Europe and the Pacific.

It especially hit home for girls because many of their male friends whom they had grown up with were overseas battling the Axis Powers of Germany, Italy and Japan.

"We saw a lot of our male school acquaintances go off to the war," Giarrusso said. "It was a very sad time, but a very happy time when it was over."

The girls used to watch as the planes took off and landed at the Naval Air Station in Squantum and then have lunch at the nearby Dennison restaurant.

QUINCY NEIGHBORHOOD CLUB was the setting for the 71st reunion of the Quincy High School Class of 1939. Eighteen classmates of the 537-member graduating class attended the reunion.

Giarrusso went on to attend the Chandler School in Boston and graduated in 1940. She took a job working public relations for the New Haven, Hartford, New York Railroad. One of the perks was a free cross-country trip. The country's beauty was evident before leaving the state.

"I remember seeing the Berkshires and thinking what a beautiful area this," she said.

Giarrusso traveled extensively throughout Europe, and in particular Italy, where her parents were born. Other trips included the Caribbean, Ireland and Scotland.

Her job was not always so glamorous, though, having to attend stockholder meetings at the Oyster Harbors Club in Osterville. Giarrusso remembers being the lone woman in attendance at the meetings.

A huge sports fan, Giarrusso had prime seats at Boston Garden to follow the Bruins that were provided through her job. She went on to write colorful stories for the company magazine "Along The Line" as well as taking photographs for the publication.

DON HOUGHTON performs some music, including the Quincy High School song, during the 71st reunion of the Quincy High School Class of 1939 held at the Quincy Neighborhood Club.

After retiring in 1988, Giarrusso took a job with Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Massachusetts in North Quincy where she worked until the age of 75.

"Looking back, I had a wonderful life and enjoyed every bit of it," she said. "I probably would not have changed anything if I could have. Life has been so interesting and exciting and still is with many wonderful nieces, nephews, great nieces and great nephews."

Giarrusso said she is looking forward to meeting up again with friends at 75th anniversary, which she hopes will be held again at the Neighborhood Club.

"Perhaps we'll have one in five years if we're here," she said. "We'll go for another luncheon at the Neighborhood Club."

Other members of the Class of 1939 who attended the reunion were Violet Benedetti Corvi, Dina Cellini DeLuca, Phyllis Dahlbom Beauragard, Albert Ferrante, Dorothy Giarrusso, Paul Gorachy, Alfred Grazioso, Barbara Gampright Johnson, Amelia Malvesti Mattes, Dr. Joseph McDermott, Jean McKim Sherriff, Linda Monti Montillio, Jennie Mucciaroni Nourse, Betty Norton Boorack, Nicholas Pepe, William Rendle, Eleanor Serroni Murphy and Anna Sheehan Tingley.

Sterling Compost in a Tiny Backyard

Q: I have a very small backyard, not big enough to plant a garden, but I'd like to try container gardening. I'm also interested in making my own compost, but again, there's a space issue. Do you have any suggestions? – Carla in Burlington, Vt.

A: It's possible to have a compost pile in smaller backyards, although the composting action may not be as fast or thorough as a larger pile. There are a number of options available.

The biggest problem with a backyard compost pile is locating it far enough from the house to prevent rodents and insects that may frequent the pile from getting into your house. The pile must be at least 10 feet away, and farther if possible.

Really small backyards or patio areas just don't create enough distance to safely locate a typical compost pile. But you can purchase a large plastic composter from the home-improvement store. This unit, either barrel- or sphere-shaped, is raised several inches off the ground and can be rotated using a hand crank to turn the compost. This is a fairly expensive option, costing well over $100 for most units. And friends of mine who've tried compost barrels felt that while composting was adequate, it wasn't as fast and didn't create as rich a soil.

A cheaper option is simply composting in a large bucket (or buckets). You can't generate as much compost, and you must turn the compost about once a week with a shovel or garden spade. Keep the bucket covered but not sealed to allow air to exchange freely but keep rainwater out.

Follow the basics of composting, in any case. A layer of kitchen scraps, fallen leaves and other organic material, sans meat scraps (which will draw maggots and rodents), should be covered with a layer of dirt. Turn the pile as more compost is added and add a thin layer of dirt if needed.

HOME TIP: Composting even a small amount provides a rich layer of nutrient-laden soil for your plants by springtime, and costs nothing.

Add Value, Appeal With Four Simple Home Maintenance Projects

(ARA) - Regardless of whether you're staying or thinking of selling, you want your home to look its best and be an asset to the neighborhood. Attractive homes accrue in value and help build strong, thriving communities. Plus, you'll enjoy living in your house more if you're happy to come home to it every night.

Projects to improve the value and appeal of your home don't have to cost a lot of money or take a lot of time to accomplish, according to Lou Manfredini, Ace Hardware's home expert. "There are four easy and inexpensive projects that I recommend every homeowner undertake."

Update your curb appeal

Curb appeal is, quite simply, what everyone sees first when their car pulls up to your house. "Your mother's advice holds true here - nothing is more important than a good first impression," says Manfredini. "Strong curb appeal will help set a positive tone for the rest of the house."

Walk out to your sidewalk and take a look at the front of your house, checking for anything that needs to be cared for. A good first step is to update your exterior hardware, including house numbers, which often become dirty and dated over time.

Create a luscious lawn

Green, lush lawns always receive a lot of attention. Help your lawn reach its full potential by providing it with the proper fertilizer and grass seed. Manfredini recommends making sure that your lawn receives between 1 and 1 1/2 inches of water per week, including rainfall.

Groom your garden

Nothing compliments a great lawn more than a well-manicured garden. After the cold winter months, gardens and flowerbeds can be left looking unruly. Everyone wants outdoor spaces where they can enjoy spending time, so it's important that you tidy up these areas.

An easy way to do this is by spreading new mulch. Traditional mulch is a great option, but if you are looking for something that will last, consider Rubberific Rubber Mulch, which will last for 10 years.

"Homeowners should also trim and prune shrubs and trees to create a refined look," says Manfredini. "A 'jungle theme' makes your house look unkempt." Electric hedge trimmers can make this project simple and easy.

Finally, give your garden a pop of color by planting inexpensive annuals, such as marigolds and snapdragons.

Spruce up with paint

Now that the exterior of your home is looking great, spend some time on your interior. "Interior painting is one of the most inexpensive and simple projects that homeowners can do," says Manfredini. "And, it makes a huge difference!"

Choose neutral paint colors over bold ones. Equally important to the color is the type of paint you select. Ace Paint recently launched a new paint called Royal Finest, which is the first paint to combine ultimate stain resistance and environmental friendliness. Royal Finest is made with Scotchgard Protector from 3M, so stains and scuffmarks wipe right off. It is also low-odor, low VOC and GREEN WISE certified, so you know it's eco-friendly.

Steps To Weatherize Your Home This Winter

(ARA) - The weather outside is about to get frigid and frightful, but inside, many homeowners can still enjoy the comfort and coziness of warmth ... if they don't have to worry about cold air drafts and leaks causing the temperature inside to plummet like the climate outside.

Luckily, for many homeowners, problem areas where cold air is sneaking in - and warm air may be escaping - can easily be found, fixed and then forgotten. According to the U.S. Department of Energy, the annual energy bill for a typical single family home is about $2,200. By properly sealing and insulating your home, you can save up to 10 percent on home energy costs. And, you don't need a permanent - and more expensive - draft-blocking solution, such as installing new windows, adding more insulation or replacing old doors with insulated versions, to stay warm and reap the financial rewards.

Here are a few simple do-it-yourself steps to keep the warm air - and cost savings - in your home this winter:

* Find. Perform a home energy audit to determine where you might have some issues. While you can pay a professional, this can also be done quickly with a simple list and a few household items.

To start, make a list of potential problem areas, including windows and doors, as well as places where pipes, electrical outlets, vents and mail slots are located.

To complete the audit, make sure all doors, windows and fireplace chutes are closed, shut off all combustion appliances, and turn on exhaust fans (in the kitchen and bathrooms, if you have them). Then, take a lit incense stick or candle and hold it in front of the areas you listed as possible problem sources - leaks and drafts will cause the smoke or flame to flow in the direction of the air leak. Be sure to keep track of any areas in need of sealing.

You can also shine a flashlight around doors and windows to look for gaps and cracks - if you see light shining through, you've likely found an area in need of fixing.

* Fix. Once you've determined the areas that need attention, look for DIY weatherization products that can help. Many cost-effective, easy-to-install solutions are on the market today, with many formulated for specific problem areas.

For leaks around pipes, electrical outlets, vents or mail slots, consider caulk or other specialized products, like foam seals, to block the drafts.

Drafts around windows can be fixed with a window insulation kit, typically a clear plastic film that can be placed on the inside or outside of the window to create a draft-proof seal that can easily be removed when the cold air clears out.

Additionally, many window and door seals can be applied quickly and easily, but don't forget about the bottom, where cold air might be creeping in.

For leaks under doors and windows, look for a solution that will "hug" the bottom to create an airtight barrier. The Double Draft Seal from Duck brand offers two layers of protection from drafts, sealing underneath doors and windows from both sides, for maximum energy efficiency and thermal protection.

* Forget. Take the time to fix the problem areas now and you'll forget you had any air leaks and drafts by the time the weather turns frigid and frightful.

Homebuyer Workshop Nov. 15, 17

Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore will hold a first-time homebuyer workshop Monday, Nov. 15 and Wednesday, Nov. 17 from 5 to 9 p.m. at the Joseph Crehan Housing for the Elderly Community Center, Calnan Cir., Weymouth.

The workshop is sponsored by Rockland Trust.

The workshop is open to all.

Participants will have an opportunity to speak with a lender to discuss mortgage options. Other topics include the legal aspects of buying a home, importance of home and lead inspections and other information.

The workshop is a prerequisite for first-time homebuyer mortgage and grant programs.

Attendance at both sessions is necessary to receive a homebuying certificate.

There is a $20 fee per person. Call b17-770-2227 ext. 31.

Real Estate License Renewal Program At Conway School

The Conway School of Real Estate is offering a two-day continuing-education program for real estate licensees Tuesday, Nov. 16 and Wednesday, Nov. 17 at the school's Norwell location.

The two days of courses are open to all of the state's licensed real estate agents – active or inactive – and will satisfy the state's requirement of 12 hours of continuing-education credit for license renewal.

The two-hour classes, which run form 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day, will cover foreclosures, financing issues, buyer agency, closing and settlement procedures and Fair Housing laws.

Participants may choose any or all of the six courses being offered to help fulfill their license-renewal requirements.

The classes will be held at the Conway Training Center, 137 Washington St., (Route 53) Norwell.

For cost information and to register, call 781-871-0080, ext. 342.

Buyer Education Series Dec. 4, 11

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) will offer a first-time homebuyer workshop consisting of two sessions Saturday, Dec. 4 and 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Attendance at both sessions is required in order to receive a certificate.

The workshop provides a comprehensive review of the homebuying process. Real estate professionals will cover topics ranging from mortgages to home insurance.

In addition, participants who complete the 10-hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing assistant of up to $10,000 and for the soft second program.

Participants may use their Certificate of Completion to obtain a low-rate loan through MassHousing or MassHousing Partnership.

Registration begins Nov. 15. For more information about the program and/or register for the workshop, contact Sandy Perkins, QCAP housing assistant, at 617-657-5327.

QHS Played Tuesday Against Brookline HS; NQHS Already Into Sectional Semifinals

Local Volleyball Teams Vying For State Title

By SEAN BRENNAN

November is well known in high school circles as state tournament time.

For Quincy and North Quincy High School, the upcoming state playoffs, and the dreams of a potential state championship run, now rests, solely, on the backs of the volleyball programs from QHS and NQHS; soccer will not be represented, Quincy does not have field hockey teams and the football teams, though still playing, will not have enough wins to qualify for the postseason.

So, it all comes down to the performances of the Presidents and the Red Raiders on the court. Based on where each team has been seeded in the MIAA Volleyball Central-East Division 1 bracket, there is a strong possibility that these city rivals may meet in the Central-East final, with the winner of that match advancing to the Massachusetts Division I state semifinals.

First-thing-first.

Quincy (19-2 overall) has been seeded number one overall, in the field of 13. The Presidents, based on their strong regular season record, earned a first-round bye and were scheduled to open the Central-East playoffs on Tuesday at home with a quarterfinal match against No. 9 Brookline HS.

Last fall, the Presidents finished the regular season with a perfect 20-0 and proceeded to knocked off Brookline HS (3-0) in the Central-East quarterfinals, defeated North Quincy (3-0) in the semifinals, and escaped a five-game match versus Newton South in the sectional finals.

Quincy would fall two games shy of a state title, losing to Central Catholic HS in the MA state semifinals.

This time around, Quincy, again, earned top billing. Depending on the results of Tuesday's match-played after the Quincy Sun went to press-the Presidents could very well see Newton South HS again. The Lions (14-5, fourth seed) defeated No. 13 Chelsea HS, 3-0, on Nov. 6 and played No. 12 King Philip HS (11-10) on Tuesday. A win by Quincy and Newton South, which was expected, sets up a rematch of last year's Central-East finals in the semifinals.

The 19-2 Presidents' roster includes seniors Erica Santiago, Nelly Rodriguez, Nneoma Aguguo, and Stella Edwards, juniors Donna Niosi, Maria Berberan, Bridget O'Connor, Erin Chiocchio, Caitlin Lowry, Nicole Parry, Kiley McDonald, Sam Albanese, and Kori Sorensen, sophomores Devon McMahan, Maryssa Dwyer, Laura Donahue, and Alysha Dunbar.

Jacqui Niosi coaches QHS, assisted by Colleen Nichol and Tricia Wong.

North Quincy Red Raiders

The Red Raiders entered the Central-East Division I postseason as the No. 3 team in the field of 13. North Quincy (18-4 overall) played and won a quarterfinal match on Monday against No. 6 Cambridge Ridge & Latin (see side story); the Red Raiders had a first round bye.

The Red Raiders played No. 2 Newton North (16-2) in the other semifinal on Wednesday night at Newton North High School.

The winners of the Central-East semifinals are scheduled to meet in the sectional finals on Saturday at Hudson High School, the neutral site for this round.

In a perfect (city of Quincy) volleyball world, both QHS and NQHS, would run their respective brackets and meet, for a third time, in the Central-East finals on Nov. 13.

The Presidents and the Red Raiders have already met twice this season, with NQHS capturing the first match in five games and the Presidents doing the same (a five-game win) in the second meeting.

Last year, North Quincy finished the regular season with a 15-6 record and was seeded fourth; the team defeated East Boston HS in the quarters before losing 3-0 to Quincy in the semifinals.

The 17-4 Red Raiders' roster includes senior Kamilah Gonzales, juniors Lizzie Kelley, Elizabeth Forde, Megan Leahy, Elizabeth Sullivan, Kara Reardon, Olivia Umoren, Michelle Cole, Emma Ainsley, and Rachel Chu, sophomores Lisa Wong, Rose Bennett, Si Han Huang, Emily Luc, and Elaine Chan, and freshmen Carolyn Schwartz and Maya Umoren.

Kerry Ginty coaches NQHS, assisted by Caitlin Plaskasovitis and Cara Pekarcik.

Note: The Central-East Division 1 field is as follows: QHS (19-2), Newton North (15-2), NQHS (17-4), Newton South (14-5), Brighton (12-7), Cambridge (10-6), East Boston (10-6), Charlestown (11-7), Brookline (12-8), Boston Latin Academy (10-8), Boston Latin School (9-9), King Philip (10-10), and Chelsea (7-12).

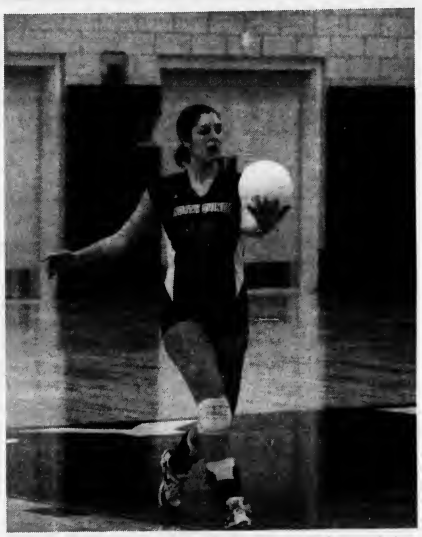
Defeated Cambridge R & L, 3-0, in Quarterfinals

Red Raiders Advance Into Sectional Semifinals

By SEAN BRENNAN

North Quincy took the first step towards a Division I volleyball state championship Monday night following a 3-0-match victory over Cambridge Ridge & Latin High School in the quarterfinals of the Central-East Division I playoffs.

The quarterfinal match, played in the NQHS gym, pitted the No. 3 seeded Red Raiders (18-4 overall) against No. 6 Cambridge (10-7).



Behind solid performances from junior middle hitter Olivia Umoren (five kills, three blocks) junior outside hitters Emma Ainsley (six aces, seven digs, three kills) and Michelle Cole (seven kills, three digs, three aces) along with clutch showings from sophomore middle hitter Rose Bennett (six kills) and freshman opposite Maya Umoren (four blocks, six kills), North Quincy hung a three-games-to-none victory on the scoreboard.

"We are a young team but we do have some players with tournament experience and we played well enough to win," said NQHS head coach Kerry Ginty. "Our serving was solid and so was our passing. I thought we were consistently aggressive and that seemed to be the difference in all three games."

The Red Raiders controlled the pace of play in Game One, winning a tight decision, 25-19; Game Two was more of a rout as North Quincy jumped out to a commanding 9-2 advantage and went on to claim victory, 25-16.

In the deciding Game Three, Cambridge Ridge & Latin dug out of an early hole, but strong serving, crisp passing and menacing defense from North Quincy, ended the quarterfinal match with a 25-22 game win.

Next up for the young Red Raiders was a semifinal bout against No. 2 Newton North High School. This match was scheduled for Wednesday evening at Newton North HS; the results of this contest will be reported in next week's Quincy Sun as the paper had gone to press before the semifinal game was held.

The Tigers of Newton North were coming off a dominating 3-0-match victory over No. 10 Boston Latin Academy on Monday. They entered the semifinals with an impressive 16-2 overall record.

"Newton North played all season against tough competition," said Ginty. "They have a couple of strong hitters and they are a solid passing team. It is going to be a challenge."

The Red Raiders, according to Ginty, would be well prepared when they stepped on an enemy court Wednesday night.

"The second half of our season we played a lot of tough road matches and I think that will help us," she added. "It is going to be a tough game, but we should be ready to play."

The winner of the North Quincy-Newton North match will play for the Central-East Division I sectional title on Saturday, Nov. 13 at Hudson High School.

On the other side of the bracket, four teams remained as of noontime Tuesday. No. 1 Quincy High School (19-2) played against No. 9 Brookline HS at QHS on Tuesday evening while No. 4 Newton South went up against No. 12 King Philip on Tuesday as well, both games were in the quarterfinal round.

If QHS won, the Presidents will be hosting a semifinal match today (Thursday) at 7 p.m. If Quincy has been upset, the top seed remaining would play host in the semifinals. The winner of the QHS-Newton South-Brookline-King Philip quarterfinal/semifinal games will play for the Central-East sectional title on Saturday against either North Quincy or Newton North.

Nine Seniors Made Up 16-Member Team

Golf At NQHS On The Way Back Up

By SEAN BRENNAN

The fast-approaching winter season may be placing a hold on golf tee-times in Quincy, but for 16 North Quincy High Schools student-athletes, the previous two-and-a-half months were their chance to compete and shine on the local courses in the area.

Record-wise (3-14 overall), the NQHS boys' golf team may not have achieved total team success, but after playing in a very strong Patriot League, wins and losses don't tell the whole story of the 2010 season.

"Wins and losses don't always define whether the season was deemed a success or not," said fifth-year NQHS head coach Bob Doyle. "Our 16-member team of nine seniors, four juniors, two sophomores and one freshman showed tremendous character and growth throughout the season.

"Only seven out of the 16 had played varsity golf prior to this year, so inexperience, coupled with a competitive league schedule resulted in many defeats."

Despite the low number of match victories, Doyle was impressed with the fortitude and eagerness to improve from his squad.

"I was very impressed with the competitive attitude and work ethic displayed by our players," he continued. "They worked diligently and were cooperative and earned the Patriot League Sportsmanship Award, which was a testament to their demeanor on the golf course."

Doyle noted that his team improved throughout the season and lost four of their matches by only five strokes.

"We are currently in a rebuilding pattern having lost some extremely talented golfers over the last three years to graduation and school transfers," he said. "The future looks bright with seven returnees who will actively seek junior memberships to improve their games."

With a lack of golf acumen on the 2010 roster, the Red Raiders, it should be noted, received solid leadership from its nine seniors with each individual making a positive contribution to the program's growth.

Leading the way, according to Doyle, were tri-captains Liam Cain, Matt Layden and Colin Wilson with both Cain and Layden earning Patriot League All-Star awards and Wilson earning a league Honorable Mention All-Star award.

Wilson played his best golf for NQHS in his senior year, averaging a 41.4 score with three rounds in the high 30's and Layden was one of the more consistent golfers during his four-year career and finished with a career scoring average of 39.1.

"In the true sense of sportsmanship, Matt deferred a spot to represent North Quincy as our individual golfer in the MA State Sectionals in the D1 MIAA Golf tournament at Brookmeadow GC to teammate Liam Cain even though they had identical scoring averages," said Doyle. "Liam made the exact same gesture to senior Matt Brundige the year before. Liam has been a tremendous asset to our program as a four-year starter.

"His defining moment came last year when he recorded a rare ace at the 164-yard, 4th hole at Lebaron Hills CC in Lakeville with a crisp 8-iron."

Senior Connor Flynn improved in his second year on the team and earned himself the Individual Patriot League Sportsmanship Award; senior Ryan DeAngelo also played well for North Quincy as did first-year senior players Dan Nicolar and Brendan Glynn and fellow seniors Eric Kelly and Kevin Jackson.

Juniors John Schwartz, Colin Kulig, Jack Glennon and Mike Maranian will be looked at to shoulder the load for NQHS in 2011 along with sophomores Matt McPhail and Rory O'Connor. Freshman Stephan Maranian held strong this fall for North Quincy.

The Red Raiders and Doyle appreciated the support and accommodations given to them by golf professional Don Small and his entire staff at Presidents Golf Course. The team, which for dual matches was allowed just eight golfers participating, used Presidents GC, daily, to improve their skills through practice.

Doyle also extended his thanks for the work put in by his assistant coaches Dan Coughlin and Rick Hutchins throughout the year and a very special thanks to all the Booster parents for their hard work.

NQ Dropped 21-7 Decision At Silver Lake HS Last Friday

NQ Red Raiders Focusing On Whitman-Hanson HS

By SEAN BRENNAN

Following an impressive 19-0 victory over Hanover High School on Oct. 15, the North Quincy Red Raiders stood at 4-2 overall and 2-0 in the Patriot League with both league wins over Fisher Division opponents (Pembroke, Hanover).

Starting on Oct. 22 against Duxbury HS, North Quincy embarked on a tough three-game set with the Green Dragons, Hingham and Silver Lake, all Keenan Division teams. The Red Raiders had postseason destiny in their hands, but after suffering a 21-7 loss to Silver Lake HS last Friday, North Quincy (4-5 overall, 0-3 in the Keenan) now finds itself on-the-outside-looking-in with regards to the Division 2A playoffs.

The goal now is to get back to .500, with an eye toward finishing at 6-5; the Red Raiders host divisional foe Whitman-Hanson HS at 7 p.m. Friday before closing out the 2010 season on Thanksgiving against Quincy HS.

"We always look at games from week to week," said NQHS head coach Jim Connor on Monday. "These last three games have been against some tough teams and although we lost all three we played Duxbury and Silver Lake close, a couple of plays here or there and the results may have been different.

"All three of them are very good but we play whoever is on our schedule and go from there. It has been a very physical stretch of games, but despite that, we have had a lot of players really step up and take leadership roles. The kids have done a good job of moving forward and that is what we have to do the rest of the way."

On the road last Friday, the Red Raiders actually grabbed the early advantage on the Lakers as senior running back Seyi Adesuyan gave North Quincy a 6-0 second quarter lead with a three-yard touchdown run. Senior Kyle McKay's point after attempt pushed the score to 7-0.

Silver Lake did respond later in the quarter as Tom Castanah scored his own three-yard touchdown. At the halftime break, the teams were knotted at 7-7.

"I thought we played really well against Silver Lake," said Connor. "The final result came down to two plays in a four minute span in the third quarter."

The first of these fluky plays was a tipped pass by North Quincy quarterback Joe Schmitz that was intercepted in the North Quincy end zone for a score; the other play occurred on the ensuing Lakers kickoff when a squib kick deflected off of a Red Raider special teamer and was recovered by the hosts.

Silver Lake would then move down the field and score, again, this time on a five-yard scamper from quarterback Mitch Graziano.

"It was those two plays that were the difference," Connor lamented. "The interception was on a tipped ball and on the kickoff, which wasn't planned, the ball just took a bad bounce off of one of our players. Sometimes that is what happens in a football game.

"But following that four-minute stretch, we played them evenly the rest of the game."

Next up for the Red Raiders is another Keenan Division game versus Whitman-Hanson HS. The Panthers, like North Quincy, have played a brutal league and non-league schedule. Both teams are currently winless in divisional play.

"Our focus now is on getting ready for Whitman-Hanson," said Connor. "That is another divisional game and they are going to be just as hungry as we are to come out of that game with a win.

"They are better than their record indicates. We have both played tough teams, so this game is going to be a chance for both teams to slug it out.

"We will be ready to play."

Once the North Quincy-Whitman-Hanson tilt is finished, the Red Raiders will have 13 days to prepare for the Quincy Presidents in the 78th edition of the city's Thanksgiving Day clash.

"We are not focusing on Quincy right now," Connor stated. "It is an exciting game, but first up is Whitman-Hanson."

NQ Boys Soccer Alumni Game Set

The North Quincy boys soccer program has scheduled an Alumni Game for Friday, Nov. 26 at 3:15 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

There is a $25 fee for any interested players with money going to support a scholarship fund.

For additional information, contact Coach Rich Hanlon at 617-827-8697.

Will Take Place Nov. 13

NQ Boys Hoops To Hold Meat Raffle

The North Quincy High School Basketball Boosters will be holding a Meat Raffle, to benefit the NQHS boys basketball program, on Saturday, Nov. 13 from 2-4:30 p.m. at Malachy's Saloon, 51 Granite St., Quincy.

All proceeds raised will go directly to help offset the cost of the program for the 2010-2011 season.

Prevites will provide the meat trays and there will also be a 50/50 raffle.

For questions, call Beth Moran Liuzzo at 617-328-1416.

Thanksgiving Day Football Tickets On Sale Nov. 18-23

Tickets for the Thanksgiving Day football game between North Quincy and Quincy, which is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 25 at 10 a.m., will be on sale at both high schools, all Quincy middle schools, and Merrymount and Beechwood Knoll Elementary Schools starting Nov. 18.

Tickets may also be purchased at the Quincy Public Schools Athletics Office.

Pre-game tickets, which cost $5, will be on sale from Nov. 18 until Nov. 23; tickets purchased at the gate on the morning of the game will be $8 for students, adults, and senior citizens.

Michael Mullaney Boys Champion; Emily Bryson Girls Champion

Central and Broad Meadows Claim Middle School Titles

By JOE REARDON

Michael Mullaney and Emily Bryson quelled any corridor and locker room chatter as to just who holds the distinction of being the city's king and queen of middle school cross country.

Both harriers wasted no time at all turning their respective races into a one-runner statement with surprisingly easy victories at Oct. 29th's Quincy Middle Schools Cross Country Meet.

Mullaney drew clear of the pack at the gun and was never challenged over the 2,000-meter (1.24 mile) layout at Pageant Field. The Central School eighth-grader surged across the finish line with a blistering record time of 8 minutes, 36.6 seconds. His time bettered the 8:41 Central's Matt Damon ran last year in defeating runner-up Mullaney.

The Atlantic School's Emily Bryson was as much of a force as Mullaney. Bryson finished in a swift 9:30.6, well ahead of her sister Julia's 9:54.3 to defend her 2009 title.

Emily felt ready to run and expected a challenge from her sister, her main competition through the season. "I was pretty confident but nervous too," she said. "I wanted a fast start and then pick it up as the race went on."

Emily never looked back to see how much of a lead she had over Julia, but instead could gauge how far ahead she was from the spectators. "I can hear people calling the names behind me," said Emily.

Mullaney's record run led Central to the team title with 22 points to finish well ahead of Broad Meadows (52) and Atlantic (60). The Sterling School took fourth with 128 points, edging out Point Webster with its 134 points.

Central dominated the meet with five runners in the top 10. Peter Saccoach came away with the third-place medal (9:30.7), followed by Aidain Smyth (fifth, 9:33.5), Kevin Fitzgerald (sixth, 9:39.1), Tom Durgin (seventh, 9:40.8) and Ryan Harty (eighth, 9:44.8).

Mullaney knew his biggest competition would be the clock. "I was pretty far ahead of the second kid in the meet before this one," he said. "This was my last chance to break it so I went for it."

Harpret Singh cracked the top five and was Atlantic's first finisher, nailing down fourth in 9:32.1. Jake McCarthy of Broad Meadows took ninth in 9:55.4 and Brian Regan of Atlantic rounded out the top 10 in 9:57.6.

The girls' race found a familiar tandem at the head of the pack. The Atlantic School's Emily Bryson left the field behind at the gun to win easily in 9:30.6. Bryson's sister, Julia was just over 23 seconds back with her 9:54.3.

It was Broad Meadows, however, that packed its scoring runners at the front to come away with the team title. Monica Ly led her squad in 10:03.6 to finish third behind the Brysons and Molly Donahue nailed down the fifth position with a 10:17.4. Marissa McGue was a step back in sixth with her 10:19.3 while Victoria Deery (10:25.9) and Alaina Villarreal (10:30.7) were eighth and ninth, respectively.

Central had three harriers in the top 10 in Abigail Ryan (fourth, 10:14.4), Grace Scuzzarella (seventh, 10:25.4) and Colleen Madden (10th, 10:39.6).

Broad Meadows' 31 points put them well ahead of Central (44) and Atlantic (56). Point Webster and Sterling were fourth and fifth, respectively.

Other runners in the top 20 include: 11. Paul O'Brien, Broad Meadows, 10:00.6; 12. Kevin McDonough, Central, 10:01.9; 13. Justin McGaffigan, Atlantic, 10:02.6; 14. Stephen Scolaro, Broad Meadows, 10:03.6; 15. Tim Glynn, Atlantic, 10:04.4; 16. Nolan Flynn, Central, 10:14.7; 17. Martin Aliberti, Central, 10:15.6; 18. Tristan McCormick, Broad Meadows, 10:18.0; 19. Liam Mahoney, Central, 10:21.1; 20. Max Hurley, Central, 10:26.5.

On the girls' side, runners in the top 20 were: 11. Ariana Paulo, Central, 10:39.6; 12. Ciara Viscione, Central, 10:44.5; 13. Courtney Campo, Central, 10:45.4; 14. Kerry Phelan, Central, 10:54.2; 15. Ciara Forde, Central, 10:57.7; 16. Marguerite Belcher, Central, 10:59.1; 17. Michaela Mavromates, Central, 11:02.5; 18. Olivia Mavromates, Central, 11:09.7; 19. Lauren Petrie, 11:12.0, 20. Bridget Durgin, Central, 11:13.9.

Quincy Harriers Run Tall At State Middle School Meet

By JOE REARDON

Quincy's harriers got a taste of big meet competition and the circus-like atmosphere surrounding it at Saturday's 2nd Massachusetts Middle School Cross Country Invitational.

Racing in chilly temperatures against a cold win, eight local runners earned medals over the 1.7-mile, grassy layout, dotted with hills, on Tewksbury's Town Recreation Fields.

"The runners got an awareness of what the high school championships are like," said Central Middle School coach Ricardo Cordero of the popular meet that drew nearly 1,000 middle school harriers. "We really prepared for this meet. We wanted to make the most out of the experience and have fun. It was a great way to end the middle school season."

Sisters Emily and Julia Bryson of the Atlantic Middle School, Central's Michael Mullaney, Peter Saccoach, Broad Meadows' Molly Donahue, Victoria Deery and Alaina Villarreal all came away with medals against the best middle school talent in the state.

Emily Bryson, fresh off her second straight Quincy Middle School Cross Country Championships win, wasn't about to lose contact with the lead pack. After a furious sprint at the start to avoid getting boxed in towards the middle of the 103-runner field,

She moved into the top five and secured her spot, placing fifth with a time of 11:05. Sophia Collins of the Bromfield School in Harvard was the winner in 10:48.

Emily used the hills to her advantage in battling for the fifth position. "I wanted to stay with the leaders and pass them on the hills," she said. "I was hoping for the top 3 or top 5."

Julia cracked the top 15 with 13th in 11:38. Broad Meadow's Monica Ly was 17th in 11:49 and Central's Ciara Forde was just outside the top 20 in 21st with her 12:14.

Mullaney, who broke the Pageant Field course record in the city middle school race, ran at the back of a huge lead pack and moved up over the second half of the race to take seventh in eighth-grade event with a swift 9:58.

"I was looking for the top 10 or the top 14," said Mullaney.

Donahue ran aggressively and pushed hard at the finish for a strong fourth in the seventh-grade race in 11:19. Deery was 11th in 11:47 and Marissa McGue of Broad Meadows was clocked in 12:03 for 16th

Villarreal's 11:39 put her at fifth in the fifth/sixth grade race. Central's Grace Scuzzarella was 14th in 12:17 and teammate Bridget Durgin's 12:31 copped her an 18th-place finish. Kevin Fitzgerald of the Central School also sneaked into the top 20, sprinting across the finish line in 11:29 for 18th in the fifth/sixth grade competition. Saccoach's swift 10:52 in the seventh-grade race was good for 12th.

ALAINA VILLARREAL of Broad Meadows roars to the finish line of the Grade 6 State Championship Cross Country Meet in Tewksbury on Nov. 6. Villarreal finished in 5th place.

MOLLY DONAHUE of Broad Meadows separates from the field to finish 4th in the Grade 7 State Championship Cross Country Meet. Victoria Deery (11th) and Marissa McGue (16th) also finished in the top-20.

Judith Krimski: Top Sailor At Boston Championships

Judith Krimski, of Quincy, was among a team of three sailors representing Courageous Sailing Center of Charlestown – including former Hull resident John Murphy and Scott Sheffer of Salem – who took top honors in the 2010 Boston Sailor's Championship (BSC).

The BSC, now in its second year, brings together top sailing teams from local community sailing centers and yacht clubs.

This year, the regatta was hosted by the Boston Sailing Center on Boston Harbor and while the weather for the regatta consisted of light, shifty winds and cloudy skies, the competition was anything by lightweight. The teams competing consisted of no less than three class champions, several high school and college sailing coaches and college All-American sailors.

In the end, it was Krimski's team Courageous, with finishes 1-1-1-2, that took the day.

QUINCY RESIDENT JUDITH KRIMSKI (left) along with Scott Sheffer (center) and John Murphy made up the three-person Team Courageous Sailing Center, which won the 2nd Annual Boston Sailor's Championship last month.

This was the second year in a row that the longtime Quincy resident has been on the winning team at this regatta. Krimski, who grew up outside of Buffalo, New York, moved to Quincy in 1982, married a local Quincy kid, and lives in Wollaston.

She is also currently in her third year serving on the Quincy Park and Recreation Board and was recently tapped to become the head sailing coach at Milton Academy.

Matthew Poles Competed in Head of the Charles Regatta

Matthew Poles, of Quincy, a junior at Boston College High School, recently competed in the Men's Youth Fours at the Head of the Charles Regatta on Oct. 24.

The team, in only its fourth year of rowing since crew was reintroduced at BC High after an 80-year hiatus, placed 28th out of 75 boats at the event. That finish earned the team a place in next year's regatta.

"It's significant in that, as we continue to develop this young program, guaranteeing a spot in the Head of the Charles is great motivation for the younger oarsmen," said BC High coach Steve McKiernan.

The race was only the third time the boys have rowed in Youth Fours competition, using a boat generously loaned to them by Union Boat Club.

"The relationship between BC High and Union Boat Club dates back to the early 1900's. Union is a strong supporter of youth rowing in the community and we are honored to be able to maintain such a mutually supportive relationship."

Poles and his teammates, presently rowing out of Dorchester on the Neponset River and taking advantage of access to the Charles River whenever possible, have continued to grow in skill and reputation among rowing circles and have their sights set very high for the coming years.

BC High will next be taking three varsity Eights to Philadelphia to participate in the Head of Schuylkill River. one of the nation's premier rowing events.

Focusing On Fitness In The Festive Season

(NAPSA)—The holiday season with all its indulgences can make it difficult to stay focused on fitness, but a few expert tips should help you stay on target and in the right spirit.

Here are some suggestions from Lisa Dorfman, RD, the "Running Nutritionist™":

• Find the time. Although it may be tempting to skip your exercise routine when you have so many holiday events to attend, try to stay true to your normal schedule. Exercising on a regular basis can help give you the stamina you need to survive the holiday season in good health. Get your calendar out and pencil in regular exercise sessions.

• Find opportunities to exercise within holiday activities. Going to the mall? Park a few rows farther away so you have to walk. Planning a family get-together? Schedule one with skating or sledding so you can burn off some calories.

MAKE SURE your nutrition matches your exertion, or you may find yourself feeling tired, weaker and lethargic during the busy holiday season.

• Make sure you're getting the proper nutrients. If you're ramping up your activity to keep from gaining weight during the holidays, remember, regular, intense physical activity can deplete your body of essential vitamins and minerals, such as magnesium.

Research by the USDA shows that seven out of 10 people have a magnesium-deficient diet.

Magnesium is an essential mineral for your health, and if you're not eating enough magnesium-rich foods, such as beans, nuts and vegetables, you may want to consider a dietary supplement like Slow-Mag® Tablets, which combine magnesium and calcium, giving you two important nutrients your body needs.

Magnesium is one of the minerals that serve as a catalyst for the enzyme involved in energy production.

• Don't over-exercise. Some people are tempted to over-exercise to compensate for the season's fattening foods, but this can backfire. "Shifting into high gear can cause some unwanted side effects, such as muscle weakness and fatigue," says Dorfman. "Make sure your exercise regimen matches your nutrition, especially if you ramp up your exertion during the holiday season, when you're not eating the proper foods."

Don't discount the temperature. Exercising in cold weather can be more draining, burn more calories and deplete the body of electrolytes faster than exercising in warm weather.

Fighting Cold, Flu Season In The Workplace

Cold and flu season is setting in and the close quarters of the workplace allow coworkers to easily trade germs.

Better Business Bureau recommends that business owners take a few simple steps to prevent illnesses from spreading and promote productivity throughout the workplace.

According to the National Institutes of Health every year there are more than 1 billion cases of the common cold in the United States. The flu also affects 5 to 20 percent of Americans every year with the peak season starting in late November, according to the Center for Disease Control

There are more than 1 billion cases of the common cold in the U.S. - the flu affects 5 to 20 percent of Americans every year.

"Fighting germs around the office is about keeping your employees safe and maintaining productivity throughout the peak cold and flu seasons," said Paula Fleming, BBB spokesperson. "Encouraging proper hygiene and a liberal leave policy will help maintain a happier, healthier workplace."

BBB recommends taking the following steps to protect employees during cold and flu season:

• Build up an arsenal to fight germs. Kleenex, hand sanitizer, and products for cleaning work spaces are three basic purchases employers can make for fighting germs around the office. Also consider investing in no-touch trashcans.

• Encourage people to stay home. Sick employees may think they're being dedicated workers when they still come into work but, the truth is, they spread germs to other employees and cut down on the overall productivity of the business.

Encourage employees to stay home when they are sick at least 24 hours after they no longer have a fever or severe symptoms. Consider instituting a flexible leave policy—and appropriate technology—that allows employees to work from home if they or their kids are sick.

• Promote good hygiene around the office. Remind everyone of the importance of hand washing and covering your mouth if you sneeze or cough. Encourage employees to regularly clean shared equipment such as phones and computers and wipe down common areas. Post friendly reminders around the workplace in languages that all employees can easily understand.

• Encourage flu shots. Contact your local hospital to see if they provide on-site flu shots or consider reimbursing some or all of the cost for employees to get a shot on their own time.

• Hold a health fair. Contact your local hospital to see if they provide health fairs for larger offices. You can also contract the coordination of an on-site health fair with a company specializing in the service.

• Set a good example. Now that you've asked everyone to wash their hands regularly and stay home if they're sick, it's important as the business owner that you follow your own advice. When you're the boss it can seem like an impossible task to take a sick day, but stay home and keep your germs out of the workplace.

PREVENTING INJURY AT BREAK-NECK SPEED

In the wake of ski-related deaths of high-profile individuals, safety experts are strongly urging skiers to wear ski helmets. Although studies show that ski helmets provide protection against injury, their use came under fire when some suggested that a helmet would not have prevented the death of actress Natasha Richardson (who wasn't wearing a helmet). To study this claim, researchers analyzed ten years' worth of records of accidents involving snow boarders and skiers. They found that, despite claims that the extra weight of a helmet could contribute to accident-related neck injuries, "helmets do not significantly increase the risk of neck injuries among skiers and snowboarders and their use should be encouraged." Chiropractors endorse any safety measure that prevents neck injury.

Teaching you how to prevent being injured, how to properly warm up your body for physical activity, and how to align it correctly to keep from undue stress and strain on the muscles is part of what we do. At the FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC, you'll find an experienced and helpful staff of health care professionals dedicated to serving your health care needs. We provide expert chiropractic care from acute symptomatic relief to wellness care. We're located at 112 McGrath Hwy., Quincy. We offer computerized spinal scans. We are able to adjust patients sitting, standing, or lying down to accommodate any level of discomfort. If your problem is a chiropractic condition we offer you exceptional service. Please call 617.472.4220 to schedule an appointment.

P.S. The National Ski Areas Association promotes helmets, and several lawmakers are considering mandating their use.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Veterans' Day is a very special day . . . We celebrate it in America with the traditional laying of the Presidential Wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. Not only in Arlington, but all over the world there are places hallowed by those could say as did A.E. Housman in his famous "Epitaph for the Fallen" – "Here lie we dead because we did not choose to shame the land from which we sprung."

We do not know what great things those who gave their all might have accomplished . . . We do know they were Americans all. It did not matter whether they were rich or poor; what their color was; what religious beliefs they had. Theirs was not a divided nationality. They were just Americans who loved their country enough to offer their lives that those ideals of justice and democracy might not perish from the earth.

As Americans, we too, must not "shame the land from which we sprung." Do we not have a duty as binding upon us that of any soldier? Do we not have the duty of seeing to it that they did not die in vain; that the ideals which formed the United States be not set aside for lesser material advantages? Do we not have the duty to see to it that America remains strong – spiritually as well as materially – so that those who come after us may live as free people, unafraid in a free world? . . .

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Your ruling planet, Mars, allows you to assume a sense of command that can help you turn a chaotic workplace situation into one that's orderly, productive and, yes, even friendly.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Getting a relationship that's been stuck in a rut up and running again depends on how far you want to run with it. Be honest with yourself as you consider which decision to make.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Be wary of rumors that seem to be coming from everywhere this week. Waiting for the facts before you act means never having to say you're sorry you followed the wrong lead.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) A difficult personal matter might prompt you to turn to a trusted friend to help you sort through a maze of emotional conflicts. The weekend should bring some welcome news.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Some of the new people coming into the Lion's life could play pivotal roles in future personal and professional matters. Meanwhile, an old friend might have an important message.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A delay in getting things moving on schedule can be a blessing in disguise. Use this extra time to do more research so you can buttress any of the weaker points with solid facts.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) You might need to get involved in a personal matter before it becomes a serious problem. Also be wary of someone offering to mediate unless you can be sure of his or her motives.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Taking sides in a workplace or domestic dispute could prolong the problem. Stay out and stay cool. Then you can be friends with both parties when things settle down.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A friendship has the potential to become something more, and with this week's aspects favoring romance, you might feel that this possibility is worth exploring.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) The new job you want might require you to relocate. If so, keep an open mind and weigh all the positives and negatives before making your decision.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) A new relationship seems to be everything you could have hoped for. Congratulations. Meanwhile, it's not too early to get some feedback on that new project you're working on.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You might have decided to get out of the fast-moving current and just float around hither and yon for a while. But you might find that the new opportunity is too tempting to turn down.

BORN THIS WEEK: You believe in bringing out the best in people with kind deeds, loving words and recognition of their "special" selves.

OBITUARIES

Doris M. Venna, 86
Principal Secretary At Goff Jr. HS

DORIS M. VENNA

A funeral Mass for Doris M. (Moreau) Venna, 86, of Hingham, formerly of Pompano Beach, Florida, and Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday in St. John the Baptist Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Venna died Sunday.

Born in Pawtucket, Rhode Island, she was raised and educated in Pawtucket schools and was a graduate of East High School in Pawtucket. She had lived in Hingham for two years, previously ten years in Florida and Quincy for 51 years.

She was the principal secretary at the Goff Junior High School in Pawtucket, RI for 18 years and had been retired many years.

Mrs. Venna was also a gourmet cook and was devoted to her family.

Wife of Richard A. Venna; daughter of the late Arthur and Elizabeth (Beauchamp) Moreau, Sr.; sister of Arthur Moreau and his wife Loretta of RI, Norman Moreau and his wife Merle of FL, Janet "Jay" Stone and her late husband Raymond of RI and the late Gloria Paine and her late husband Russell.

She is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Interment was in Blue Hill Cemetery, Braintree.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Sweeney Brothers Home for Funerals, Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Norwell VNA & Hospice, 91 Longwater Circle, Norwell, MA 02061.

Margaret P. Kelley, 91

A Mass of Christian Burial for Margaret P. Kelley, 91, of Exeter, formerly of Hampton, New Hampshire and Quincy, was celebrated Wednesday in Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal Church, Hampton, NH.

Mrs. Kelley died Nov. 7 at Langdon Place of Exeter.

Born in Cambridge, she loved to travel and was a frequent visitor to Hampton since her childhood. She was also an avid golfer and was a communicant of Our Lady of the Miraculous Medal Church and Sacred Heart Church in Quincy.

Wife of the late Thomas V. Kelley; aunt of Moss Burke, James Burke, Michael McCarthy, Patricia Burke DeLosa, and Mary Ellen Griffith; sister of the late James and Brud Kelley and Mary Kelley Burke and Ellen Babe McCarthy.

She is also survived by an extended family.

Interment was in Cedar Grove Cemetery, Dorchester.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Remick & Gendron Funeral Home, Hampton.

Memorial donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Association, NH Office, One Bedford Farms Drive, Suite 105, Bedford, NH 03110 or to Little Sisters of the Poor, Jeanne Jugan Residence, 186 Highland Ave, Somerville, MA 02143.

Stroke, Osteoporosis Screening Dec. 3

Life Line Screening will offer residents in Quincy and the surrounding area a stroke and osteoporosis screening Friday, Dec. 3.

The screenings will be hosted by the Council on Aging at the Kennedy Center, 440 East Squantum St., Quincy.

Appointments begin at 9 a.m.

The screenings are intended to help reduce the risk of stroke and bone fractures.

Four key points every person should know:

• Stroke is the third leading cause of death and a leading cause of permanent disability.

• Eighty percent of stroke victims had no apparent warning signs prior to their stroke.

• Preventive ultrasound screenings can help avoid stroke.

• Screenings are fast, noninvasive, painless, affordable and convenient.

Screenings identify potential cardiovascular conditions such as blocked arteries and irregular heart rhythm, abdominal aortic aneurysms, and hardening of the arteries in the legs, which is a strong predictor of heart disease.

A bone density screening to assess osteoporosis risk is also offered for men and women.

Packages start at $139. All five screenings take 60-90 minutes to complete.

For more information regarding screenings or to schedule an appointment, call 1-877-237-1287.

Pre-registration is required.

Docket No. NO95P1753GM
RESPONDENT
Incapacitated Person/ Protected Person

To the named Respondent and all other interested persons, a petition has been filed by Danielle Assini of Foxboro, MA in the above captioned matter requesting that the court:

Remove the Guardian. The petition asks the court to make a determination that the Guardian and/or Conservator should be allowed to resign; or should be removed for good cause; or that the Guardianship and/or Conservatorship is no longer necessary and therefore should be terminated. The original petition is on file with the court.

You have the right to object to this proceeding. If you wish to do so, you or your attorney must file a written appearance at this court on or before 10:00 A.M. on the return date of 12/01/2010. This day is NOT a hearing date, but a deadline date by which you have to file the written appearance if you object to the petition. If you fail to file the written appearance by the return date, action may be taken in this matter without further notice to you. In addition to filing the written appearance, you or your attorney must file a written affidavit stating the specific facts and grounds of your objection within 30 days after the return date.

34-Family Housing Renovation At 6 Fort Street

By JOE REARDON

A misty rain and chilly wind failed to dampen the spirits of the dignitaries and members of the Asian Community Development Corporation's (ACDC) wall-breaking ceremony on Monday for a new 34-family housing renovation on Fort Street.

The project, which will be finished by the end of 2011, includes the renovation of the vacant business building at 6 Fort Street. The affordable housing development is in a prime location, close to Quincy Center, retail stores, schools and public transportation. The program responds to the Quincy Center Zoning District's Design Guidelines and stays sensitive to the commercial and residential neighborhood.

ACDC is a 23-year-old organization that serves the Greater Boston area by developing affordable housing and promoting economic development. The fostering of new leadership and building capacity within the community through education advocacy and action are also stressed.

ACDC is also working on Parcel 24, a mixed-use, mixed income development that will help revitalize a city block in Boston's Chinatown with approximately 325 rental and home ownership units. ACDC has totaled more than $100 million in development of new housing and commercial space.

"The success of this project is a tribute to collaboration between Quincy's Affordable Housing Trust Fund, the Quincy Department of Planning and Community Development, the Massachusetts Department of Housing and Community Development and ACDC and all their private funding partners," said Mayor Thomas Koch. "I am delighted to see that this project will benefit many low income families.

"At the end of the day it's about the job and a place to call home."

The property, which was a church before becoming an office building, was acquired by ACDC in September of 2008. Janelle Chan, the acting executive director of ACDC, said the families would breath new life into the area, and refurbishing the building was more cost effective and quicker.

"There'll be more activity and people on the street," said Chan. "We're really committed to green development and the best way to do that is to redevelop what we have."

When completed, the 43,000-square-foot building will have 34 units taking up 42,000 square feet and 1,000 square feet of community space. The project includes 63 parking spaces over 8,000 square feet. The structure will have seven one-bedroom units, 21 two-bedroom units and six three-bedroom units. Twenty-seven units will be available to households earning $30,000-$60,000 and seven will be slated for households with earnings less than $30,000.

"I'm feeling pretty sunny right now," Chan said with a laugh. "We now collectively say goodbye to these buildings as we know them. We're very excited that we'll be in Quincy long term."

ACDC Board President Michael Tow said the project marked the beginning of renovation for over 34 families in need. Many projects, Tow said, have been put on hold because of the economy and some may never come to fruition.

"This is not for ourselves," he said. "This is for the families we serve. The families will become a fabric of the community."

Joseph Flatley, the President and CEO of Massachusetts Housing Investment Corporation, said he was happy to be back working with ACDC since their last project together 15 years ago. "This has been a very challenging investment over the last couple of years," he said. "We're really proud to be your partners and looking forward to the project."

Despite Thayer Pier Plan Rejection By State:

Koch Moving Ahead With Town River Improvements

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Despite a rebuff by the state's Department of Environmental Protection (DEP), Mayor Thomas Koch said Tuesday that the city will double up efforts to develop the waterfront parcel at Town River abutting the Souther Tide Mill for both commercial and recreational use.

"We are going to continue to push forward," said Koch who has appointed a committee to study the issue and has issued a Request for Proposals for the property since receiving the decision issued Nov. 10.

Koch spoke after reviewing the DEP's decision rejecting plans by Thayer Academy for a pier for crew and recreational boating at the waterfront site off Southern Artery.

The four-page decision identified the area as a Designated Port Area and, therefore, denied the application due to its lack of any commercial or industrial focus.

Koch has not announced plans to challenge the decision but, in a formal statement Tuesday, said, "We've formed a committee that is reviewing the plans, and we remain committed to an active historic, commercial and public space that has the potential to be a true gem for the City.

"The decision is disappointing, but it does not mean that public access can-

Public Hearing On Quincy Center Monday

The City Council will hold a public hearing on the $1.3 billion Quincy Center Revitalization Plan Monday, Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. Monday in the auditorium of Quincy High School.

The council is currently deliberating the redevelopment master agreement submitted by Mayor Tom Koch in October. Monday's hearing will provide a forum to Quincy residents to speak on the project that is anticipated to create more than 4,100 construction jobs and 5,700 permanent jobs over the course of the next several years.

Under the plan, the New York firm Street-Works Development, LLC, will acquire and develop numerous properties in Quincy Center for new business use, hotels, apartments and condominium while, at the same time, enhancing the historic center with pedestrian-friendly walkways, art, and landscaping.

The council is debating the financial and legal terms that are the main thrust of the agreement which would allow Street-Works to build a mix of new office, retail, residential and restaurant space in return for paying the up-front costs of $227 million in public infrastructure.

The agreement calls for the city to pay back that money through the new revenue generated by the private development, and exactly how that was negotiated is the centerpiece of the Council discussions.

The plan involves the sale of the city's Ross and Hancock Parking Lot to Street-Works. In addition, the city's infrastructure will be updated through a partnership with Street-Works which will provide the initial funding for the work.

According to the proposal, the City of Quincy will pay for the infrastructure improvements only after new taxes and parking fees can cover the costs.

City Council must approve the plan and the councillors are currently reviewing the 62-page Land Disposition Agreement which details the obligations of the city and Street-Works.

Assisting the councillors is Boston attorney James R. Shea, Jr. who was recently hired as the council's advisor during the process.

Shea, a partner with Choate Hall & Stewart, LLP, listed 13 projects that he has worked on that are similar to the Quincy Center Revitalization Project.

The Council has had three sessions to date focusing on the legal and financial details of the agreement, and several more have been scheduled leading to an expected vote in December. Councillors also plan to cover environmental issues, parking, traffic and construction issues related to the public infrastructure.

Early Deadline For Next Week's Quincy Sun

Because of the Thanksgiving Day holiday, The Quincy Sun will be published a day earlier next week, necessitating an early news and advertising deadline. The paper will go to press Monday and be circulated on Tuesday.

News, socials, church and youth sports releases as well as retail, legal and classified advertising should be in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center, by noon tomorrow (Friday) for the Wednesday, Nov. 24 issue.

Ground Broken For East Quarry Medical Building

Building At 104 Quarry Street
Expected To Be Completed Next Summer

By JOE REARDON

A small quarry overgrown with brush will be the future site of the East Quarry Medical Building.

Located adjacent to the Sons of Italy building on Quarry Street, the groundbreaking ceremony was held on Monday afternoon.

Mayor Thomas Koch and Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci were on hand for the ceremonial event, along with partners Sean and Scott Galvin of Galvin Development, and Jay Bernasconi, the owner of Furnace Brook Physical Therapy.

The two-plus acres of land were purchased by Galvin on March 18 for the sum of $825,000. He spent the summer securing permits for the construction as well as conducting public hearings with neighbors surrounding the building of the 14,000 square foot, two-story medical facility.

"We spent the summer working through the permit process," Sean Galvin said. "We had the neighborhood meeting and it was a pretty positive experience."

Galvin secured permits from both the Zoning Board of Appeal and the Planning Board for the project.

Galvin reached an agreement with Furnace Brook Physical Therapy to occupy the first floor of the building and has leased half the second floor to a private medical office.

The building is expected to be completed sometime in early summer.

The Sons of Italy, which holds in the neighborhood of 250 functions a year, will remain open throughout the construction, which is set to begin within the next two weeks. Galvin said he hopes to have the foundation built before the winter weather arrives.

The future medical building is another of several projects in the Quarry Street area, which have made the area more esthetically pleasing, according to Galvin.

"It'll be nice to dress up the area they (Sons of Italy) weren't able to dress up," said Galvin. "It (the sale) was an opportunity for them to act quickly."

"It's going to look excellent," said Dan Grant, chairman of the Sons of Italy board in September. "It's a really beautiful building they're putting up there. It's (Sons of Italy) going to be there for years, years and years."

Galvin said the relationship between the Sons of Italy and Galvin Development has been a good one.

"We believe our proposal was chosen because it worked best with their desire to stay in their building," Galvin said. "Also, we were able to provide parking for our new office building and overflow parking for the hall which would peak at different times."

Galvin believes in the importance that the Sons of Italy continue to operate in the current location.

"The club is an icon in West Quincy and its benevolence would be seriously missed in the community," said Galvin. "The club has been there since 1969. I can't count the number of functions and events I have attended in that building."

Galvin sited other practical aspects of the development beyond saving the club. The land and the new building will pay tens of thousands of dollars in real estate taxes where the Sons of Italy paid no takes. The new building will keep a business in Quincy.

Yardwaste Collection Extended Dec. 6-10

With a great number of leaves still clinging to trees the City of Quincy will extend curbside collection of yardwaste one extra cycle.

The Department of Public Works announces that this season's bi-weekly collection of yardwaste will be extended from Dec. 6 through Dec. 10.

The City changed to bi-weekly collection this year in a cost cutting measure. By eliminating six weeks from the collection schedule the City saved the taxpayer over $48,000.

The DPW reminds residents:

YARDWASTE STICKERS should be placed on all yardwaste BARRELS. Free yardwaste stickers are available at the City Hall Information Desk, 1305 Hancock St. and the DPW, 55 Sea St., Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Curry Hardware, 370 Copeland St. and Danny's Hardware, 53 Billings Rd.

To have stickers mailed to a home, call (617) 376-1953 or email requests to: recyclequincy@quincyma.gov.

USE NO PLASTIC BAGS. Place leaves, twigs and grass clippings in paper bags or cardboard boxes. Barrels should be uncovered and clearly marked with yardwaste stickers.

Yardwaste should be placed curbside by 6 a.m. on regular trash collection day. Yardwaste should be set apart from regular trash. Tree branches should be cut into 3-foot lengths and tied with string or rope.

Yardwaste, including larger brush and tree limbs, are accepted at the DPW Yard at 55 Sea St., Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., and on Saturdays from April 10 through mid-December, from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The City of Quincy Department of Public Works recycles and reuses the entire city's yardwaste diverting over 5,000 tons from the solid waste stream and saving nearly $500,000 annually.

One-half acre of lawn in New England produces over 3 tons of grass clippings or 260 bags of grass clippings each year. You can have a healthy lawn by leaving grass clippings where they fall so they will decompose and act as a natural organic fertilizer. E-mail recyclequincy@quincyma.gov for a free brochure.

Whenever a scheduled collection day falls on a HOLIDAY, that day's collection and all remaining collection days for the rest of the week will be delayed for one day. Friday's collection will be on Saturday.

Memorial Mass Dec. 9 For Fr. Bill McCarthy

Fr. Bill's and MainSpring will host a Mass in memory of Rev. William "Fr. Bill" McCarthy Thursday, Dec. 9 at 5:30 p.m. at Saint John the Baptist Church, 21 Gay St., Quincy.

The memorial Mass will fall on Fr. Bill's birthday anniversary. The beloved former pastor of Saint John's Church died July 24, 2009 at the age of 82. He would have turned 84 on Dec. 9.

All are welcome to attend the Mass. Refreshments will be served following the Mass.

LEND AN EAR

If you are a man who wants to give the woman in his life the perfect gift, consider a set of diamond earrings. Not only do diamonds occupy a special place in the hearts of most women, they are becoming an increasingly popular accessory that can be worn nearly anywhere with anything. A woman can put on diamond earrings in the morning when going to work or meeting with friends, and leave them in place until she slips out of the little black dress that she wore to a formal dinner. Moreover, not every neckline benefits from a necklace, and rings and bracelets may get in the way of everyday tasks. Diamond earrings, however, are always suitable and appropriate.

Put stars in your loved one's eyes with a gift of diamonds. Let your choice of beautiful diamond earrings say how you feel. Our knowledgeable friendly sales staff at 1402 Hancock Street, Quincy Center, will be happy to help you choose from among many different styles in creative settings of imaginative design. We offer you a fun, relaxing time to choose special gifts for special people. Come see! PH: 617-773-3636.

Councillors Seek Tougher Law

Drug Houses, Illegal Activities Targeted

By LAURA GRIFFIN

The City Council's Public Safety Committee intends to add more teeth to the city's ordinance targeting landlords and property owners housing drug dealers and noisy tenants.

After reviewing the current law at Monday's meeting, councillors agreed to revisit the issue at a later date with additional amendments.

Councillors agreed with Committee Chairman Brian Palmucci, Ward 4, who presented an amendment that would charge property owners when police details are sent to the homes of unruly tenants.

As an example, Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci described a rooming house that doubles as a drug den in his area. Police have been called to that house "182 to 186 times in a four year period."

Not only is the property a slum and blight, but it's costing the city considerable money to police the property and respond to each call, according to Palmucci who said that one or two such properties cause major problems in each city neighborhood.

Palmucci described the law that allows the police chief to station a private detail at such properties. However, that ordinance has not been used due to its cost.

At Palmucci's request, Police Lt. Dan Minton described his experience with the current ordinance.

Minton said the department initially used the law when residents sought help with a rooming house but, after ten days of police details, the department was stuck with costs of some $2,000.

"Is that the reason it's only been used once?" asked Palmucci. Minton said yes.

In many instances, the landlords won't cooperate with the police in evicting unruly tenants, according to Palmucci whose amendment to the law would require that property owners foot the bill for such police details and that the costs be added to the tax bill and property liens if needed.

Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest described a problem in her area so severe that at a neighborhood

Quincy Man Struck By Car Dies From Injuries

The pedestrian who was critically injured after being struck by a car on Quincy Artery Saturday night has died.

Norman Holler, 66, who resided at the River Bay Club, died Monday evening at the Boston Medical Center from serious head injuries.

Quincy Police Captain John Dougan said the accident is still under investigation and should be concluded in the next couple of days.

Holler was struck at 9:44 p.m., while crossing at 540 Southern Artery when he dropped his water bottle. A car in the left lane stopped as Holler picked up the bottle, but he was struck by a car driving in the second lane after continuing across the street.

Dougan said Tuesday afternoon that no charges have been filed against the driver, identified as David Cifrino of Hingham.

Dougan said Cifrino, who was driving a 2004 Volvo station wagon, pulled over immediately after striking Holler. He went on to say that the roadway at that location has not had many accidents in the past.

"There aren't a lot of accidents on that street," said Dougan.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro, who is looking to reestablish a traffic commission ordinance adopted under Mayor James Sheets' administration, believes accidents could be prevented in the future with a commission looking at various roadway and traffic issues.

"I do think there's a value in doing it," Gutro said.

The new free checking account customers we're seeing lately have something in common. They're aggravated beyond belief with their old bank. They've had it with not being able to call their branch directly. They're sick of the constant staff turnover. When their old bank dropped overdraft protection and started charging monthly fees, these folks got fed up and decided to make a change too. They came to Colonial Federal – where free checking is convenient, easy and still free. You get everything you're accustomed to, without the aggravation. You can come see us or call any time. We answer our own phones, no call center. We'll even help you move your Direct Deposit/s. Our customers love being with a neighborhood bank that's 100% local, stable and strong. Looking for a new home for your checking account? Come check us out! Or call Betty or Pauline at 617-471-0750.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Nov. 27, 1703, an unusual storm system finally dissipates over England after wreaking havoc on the country for nearly two weeks. Featuring hurricane strength winds, the storm killed somewhere between 10,000 and 30,000 people and sank hundreds of Royal Navy ships.

• On Nov. 22, 1783, John Hanson, the first president of the Continental Congress under the Articles of Confederation, dies in his home state of Maryland. Hanson is sometimes called the first president of the United States, but this is a misnomer, since the presidency did not exist until 1789.

• On Nov. 28, 1925, the Grand Ole Opry, one of the longest-lived and most popular showcases for Country Western music, begins broadcasting live from Nashville, Tennessee. The showcase was originally named the Barn Dance, after a Chicago radio program called the National Barn Dance.

• On Nov. 26, 1931, the first cloverleaf interchange to be built in the United States, at the junction of US 1/9 and NJ Route 35 in Woodbridge, N.J., is featured on the cover of the Engineering News-Record. A piece on the under-construction Hoover Dam was relegated to the journal's back pages.

• On Nov. 24, 1944, 111 U.S. B-29 Superfortress bombers raid Tokyo for the first time since 1942. Their target: the Nakajima aircraft engine works. Despite the barrage of bombs that were dropped, fewer than 50 hit the main target, doing little damage.

• On Nov. 23, 1966, Elvis Presley's 22nd film, a rock 'n' roll musical called "Spinout" in which Elvis played a singing race car driver, opens in theaters across the country. "Spinout" was filmed on location at Dodger Stadium in Los Angeles and the Ascot Motor Car Racing Ground, a well-known dirt track nearby.

• On Nov. 25, 1980, Sugar Ray Leonard regains boxing's welterweight title when his opponent, reigning champ Roberto Duran, waves his arms and walks away from the fight in the eighth round, telling the referee "No mas, no mas" ("No more"). Duran maintained that he had stomach cramps and could barely stand up.

Keenan Made The Right Decision

The election of John Keenan as the next state senator representing the Norfolk-Plymouth District which includes Quincy has sparked some discussion as to whether a city councillor should serve concurrently as a local legislator on Beacon Hill.

KEENAN

After his win in the senate race Nov. 2, Keenan announced he would not step down as a councillor at-large and would instead fill out the remainder of his council term which expires at the end of next year.

Had Keenan decided to step down, the city council would meet as a special appointing authority and vote to fill the vacancy. The appointee would then fill out the remaining time on Keenan's term and be eligible to campaign for a full two-year term next fall.

Keenan is doing the right thing by holding onto the seat and filling out his term.

In explaining his decision to stay, Keenan said he wants to remain on the council especially during the review of the Downtown Redevelopment Plan. It is one of the most important issues facing the council and is not the time to transition another citizen into one of the three council at-large seats.

In addition, as chairman of the council's Finance Committee, Keenan has been a voice of reason on budget issues and provides an even keel during council deliberations which can be testy at times.

Keenan is also obliging the city's voters who elected him to another term as a councillor at-large in the 2009 election. He topped the ticket among the three incumbents who ran for re-election.

Which brings us to another issue.

Keenan was appointed city councillor at-large by the city council in early 2003 by a unanimous 8-0 vote to fill out the remaining term of then Councillor At-Large Tim Cahill. Cahill stepped down from the council after being elected state treasurer – a full-time, Constitutional office. (Cahill, by the way, remained on the council during his six-year term as Norfolk County treasurer before leaving the council and becoming state treasurer.)

Keenan was the logical choice to fill Cahill's term because Keenan actually ran for councillor at-large in 2001. He demonstrated to voters that year that he wanted to be a councillor at-large and campaigned vigorously for the seat. Keenan came close to winning a seat in that election, too.

Cahill topped the six-candidate field that year with 13,208 votes. Joseph Finn was second with 11,136 votes and former Mayor Frank McCauley finished third with 11,083. Keenan was fourth with 10,282 votes – 801 behind McCauley.

A special appointment this time could become a highly political maneuver because the last council at-large race in 2009 did not include any challengers. All three incumbents – Keenan, Finn and Mike McFarland – were all re-elected without opposition. So, if Keenan didn't fill out his term, his successor would be someone who did not express any desire to serve as councillor at-large to the city's electorate in the last election.

One last point:

Those serving on the city council and school committee, for the most part, have other jobs and strive to fulfill their responsibilities as elected officials while earning a living in their professional capacity. That's true, too, for some elected state representatives and state senators. It's no secret that some legislators work as attorneys, operate small businesses or work in some other capacity besides their legislative duties on Beacon Hill.

We are not advocating that the city's mayor – which is a full-time job – also serve in some legislative capacity.

But in Keenan's case, he's already giving up one responsibility when he is sworn in as a state senator. He is stepping down from his job as the director of the Norfolk County Retirement System – a full-time post which pays $110,000 annually. That's certainly worth something in terms of his desire to serve as both a councillor and a senator for one year.

Furthermore, we trust Keenan will be able to fulfill his dual duties as a councillor and state senator next year before he officially vacates his council post.

That also levels the playing field for anyone who wants to campaign for his open seat next year.

YOU CAN DISMISS the rumors of former gubernatorial candidate Tim Cahill running for any elective office in local or county government.

CAHILL

"I firmly believe that once you move on, you move on," the state treasurer said after bowing in the governor's race. "I made a vow (after being elected state treasurer) that I would not come back to run for elective office in Quincy. That includes city councillor and mayor," Cahill said.

Rumors have been rampant since Cahill, who served as a city councillor for 15 years and Norfolk County treasurer for six years before winning the state treasurer's post in 2002, may make a bid for elective office locally or in Norfolk County. He's also been mentioned as the next executive director of the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority or filling a post in Gov. Deval Patrick's administration during his second term.

"I've heard the rumors, too and they're all false," Cahill says.

For now, he's keeping his options open in the private sector. He is also thinking about starting a business, possibly a restaurant. He was the proprietor of Hand Shakes Café in Quincy Center for a number of years while serving on the City Council.

Cahill was first elected to the City Council in 1987 and served until stepping down in early 2003 after he was elected state treasurer in November, 2002. There was one year remaining on his Cahill's council term and John Keenan was appointed to fill the unexpired term. Keenan had finished fourth in the 2001 city council at-large race (behind Cahill, Joseph Finn and Frank McCauley.)

Keenan, of course, was elected state senator Nov. 2, will not seek re-election next fall as city councillor at-large. It would be symmetrical if Cahill decided to run for Keenan's seat. But Cahill says he is not interested.

Cahill also says he would not succeed Keenan as the executive director of the Norfolk County Retirement System.

KEENAN'S COUNCIL SEAT that will be open in next fall's city election has generated some interest by potential candidates. Already, one current city councillor and one former city councillor have indicated they will run for the open councillor at-large seat.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro says he will run, as will former Ward 4 Councillor Jay Davis.

A third potential candidate is Steve Perdios, chairman of the Community Preservation Committee and spokesperson for the Quincy Environmental Network. Perdios, a lifelong Quincy Point resident, told The Sun he is considering making a bid for councillor at-large but will hold off on making a decision until after the holidays.

PERDIOS

Perdios spearheaded the effort to create the city's Community Preservation Committee. The committee makes recommendations to the city's mayor on how to allocate Community Preservation funds. There are four areas the Committee targets: open space, historical restoration, affordable housing and recreation facilities.

City Council President Kevin Coughlin, who represents Ward 3, may also be taking a hard look at running for councillor at-large.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1910 postcard view of Wollaston showing a train passing under the Beale Street Bridge on its way to Quincy Center. Newport Avenue is on the right. The old Wollaston Depot on the left, originally named Wollaston Heights, was on the right side of the tracks until Newport Avenue was widened. It was very narrow and still a dirt road at this time and was widened to ease navigation on the hill for horse drawn wagons when it was mud. The tall building at the top of the hill was the Wollaston Hotel. It was built in 1870 along with the depot when the land called Wollaston Heights was subdivided into house lots. The Old Colony Railroad Corporation built the railroad on this right-of-way in 1845. John Quincy Adams was still serving as the U.S. Congressman from the district that included Quincy when it was built so very close to his home on Adams Street. David Ezickson, Vincent Scribi Remembered

David Ezickson Obituary - Page 12

City Council dedicated Monday's meeting to the memory of a well-known former teacher and longtime firefighter, David Ezickson and Vincent Scribi.

"These two men really defined what public service is, " City Council President Kevin Coughlin said in opening the meeting and describing their total 70 years work in Quincy.

Coughlin noted that Mr. Ezickson was a devoted teacher for 40 years and Vincent Scribi not only fought in Normandy in World War II, but then returned to serve as a Quincy firefighter for 30 years.

Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro who said Mr. Ezickson was "better known affectionately as Mr. E," outlined the many activities "Mr. E" supported as an advocate for those in need, for inclusion, for the environment and for human rights.

"He will be missed." said Gutro.

"I've known both of these men most of my adult life,' said Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi who praised Mr. Ezickson's contributions and described many wonderful conversations with Mr. Scribi whom he described as an "outstanding firefighter and outstanding veteran."

Crisis Center Seeks Drivers For Thanksgiving Deliveries

The Quincy Crisis Center, a program partner of the Esther R. Sanger Center for Compassion, is seeking volunteer drivers for its "Help for the Holidays" Thanksgiving deliveries.

Deliveries will be made Saturday, Nov. 20 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Volunteers are needed to deliver bags of non-perishable food and a turkey to more than 300 households throughout Quincy and the South Shroe. It is an event for families and youth groups can participate together.

Delivery help is also needed Nov. 22-24. Those interested in volunteering can call 617-847-6987 to schedule a delivery time.

In preparing for the holiday deliveries, the following food is especially needed: gravy, stuffing mix, green beans and desserts. Donations are accepted at 282 Billings Rd., Quincy, Monday through Friday, between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Holiday Food Drive Underway At Registry Of Deeds

Norfolk County Register of Deeds William P. O'Donnell announces the Registry's Annual Holiday Food Drive is underway and will continue through Dec. 17 at the Registry of Deeds, 649 High St., Dedham.

Donations of nonperishable food items will be forwarded to area food pantries.

A donation bin has been set up in the lobby of the Registry building which is open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Suggested donations include canned goods, breakfast cereals, pasta, sauces, toiletries and paper products.

Anyone who would like to contribute but cannot make it to Dedham can also contact a local food pantry in the community.

For a list of local pantries, visit the Registry of Deeds website, www.norfolkdeeds.org, or call the Registry support services office at 781-461-6104.

$500,000 Sought For Public Works' Jobs

This Week
1933
77 Years Ago

By FRANK McCAULEY

Mayor Charles A. Ross and several department heads are in Boston today with a program of proposed public works amounting to about $500,000, which can be started within 24 hours of the time the money under the federal civil works program becomes available.

There is little chance the city will be given the entire sum but a belief prevails that the amount to be allocated to the city will amount to $250,000. The sum will not be turned over to the city in a lump sum but will come week-by-week as the works undertaken progress.

It appears that the first men who gain work will be family heads who were on the welfare lists of the city before November 16.

Mayor Ross and Public Works Commissioner Angelo P. Bizzozero are not entirely satisfied to hire men from only the welfare list, as they know there are many other deserving unemployed in the city.

WOMEN HAVE FISTFIGHT

After failing to get Miss Margaret E. Sweeney, principal of the Gridley Bryant School, to act as a referee for their differences, two women staged a fistfight on Willard Street near the school building; it was revealed in district court when one of the women charged the other with assault and battery. Patrolman Sullivan separated the two combatants before serious damage resulted although one of the women sustained a cut on the cheek.

Both women lived on California Avenue in West Quincy and their troubles originated as a result of quarrels between their respective children. Judge Nash dismissed the complaint.

One of the women made news several years ago when after her husband failed to get city work, dumped her four children in then Mayor Thomas J. McGrath's office and told him to take care of them.

ROCK ISLAND ROAD MAN WINS FEDERAL POSITION AS RESIDENT ENGINEER

Walter Moulton, 302 Rock Island Rd., Houghs Neck, was appointed the first resident engineer in this state in the inspection division of the federal administration of Public Works. The inspection division was organized and is being directed by the administrator in Washington, DC.

Mr. Moulton, a longtime city resident, had a wide variety of experience during the past 35 years during which he has handled $30 million in work.

THE 70-VOICE Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union will present two free performances of Handel's Messiah Saturday, Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 5 at 3 p.m. at the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

Free Performances Dec. 4, Dec. 5

Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union To Present Handel's Messiah

A popular annual holiday tradition returns next month, as the Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union presents two free performances of Handel's Messiah.

Comprised of ENC students and members of the community, the 70-voice Choral Union will present the beloved oratorio Saturday, Dec. 4 at 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 5 at 3 p.m. at the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, located adjacent to the college's main campus at 23 E. Elm Ave., Quincy.

The performances will be conducted by ENC faculty member Delvyn Case and feature solos by several ENC students as well as professional vocalists, including Alyson Greer, faculty member at Quincy Point Music Academy; Providence-based tenor Fred Frabotta; and Boston bass-baritone Graham Wright.

Members of the Choral Union will also be accompanied by the Quincy Bay Chamber Orchestra, a 25-member professional orchestra.

For more than 75 years, the Eastern Nazarene College Choral Union has performed two major masterworks of choral literature each concert season.

Each fall, the Choral Union presents free performances of Handel's Messiah as a holiday gift to the city of Quincy. In the spring, the group performs a different piece each year, with previous concerts featuring works by Brahms, Bach, Mozart, Beethoven, Faure and more.

Welch Healthcare Hosts First Chili, Chowder Cook-Off

Harbor House Rehabilitation & Nursing Center in Hingham recently participated in a great New England tradition at Welch Healthcare and Retirement Group's inaugural Chili & Chowder Cook-Off held at the Colonial Rehabilitation & Nursing Center in Weymouth.

Harbor House Executive Chef Frank Dragone served up his authentic New England clam chowder and his 3-bean hot house chili.

Chefs from several Welch Healthcare & Retirement Groups centers took part in a friendly contest that served up some of the most delicious chowder and chili on the south shore! Chef Brian White of Colonial hosted the event for his fellow chefs.

Attending were: Chef John Cooney of Allerton House at Central Park in Weymouth; Chef Russell Dearing of Bay Path Rehabilitation & Nursing Center in Duxbury; Chef Dawn Fairbank of Hancock Park Rehabilitation & Nursing in Quincy; Chef Frank Dragone of Harbor House Rehabilitation & Nursing Center in Hingham; and Chef Brian Villa of the Village at Duxbury.

Residents, family and staff voted on their favorite dishes as they enjoyed an afternoon filled with tasty cuisine.

Quincy Retired Teachers Association Holds Luncheon

Members of the Quincy Retired Teachers Association recently held a luncheon at the Neighborhood Club of Quincy.

A jazz quartet performed under the direction of Richard Kinneally, music director of Quincy Public Schools.

QRTA President Linda Lew-Hanson welcome the members and the new retirees:

Edward Arnold, Philip Connolly, Donna Dunbar, Janet Greene, Mary Ann Lencki, Janet Little, Colleen Manning, Patricia O'Brien, Margaret O'Neill, Paul Phillips, John Raymer, Lynn Rowe, Anne Smith and Margaret Spencer.

School Supt. Dr. Richard DeCristofaro provided an enthusiastic report of the recent opening of the "new" Quincy High School. Allison Cox was presented as the new president of the Quincy Education Association.

QRTA members continued their mission of recognizing students graduating from Quincy High and North Quincy High School who merit recognition for their academic achievement. Some 34 graduates were the recipients in the Class of 2010. Between the years of 1987 and 2010, 667 scholarships have been awarded totaling $1,600,000. The presentations were made in May at a reception attended by the recipients and their parents as guests of the QRTA Scholarship Committee.

The Association also remembered a number of members who have died during the past year. Those remembered in memoriam were Thomas Adams Sr., Priscilla Dauphine, Henry Marani, Patricia McDermott, Marie McKeever, William Mitchell, Thomas Nestor and Dana Smith.

Houghs Neck Celebrating 375th Anniversary

The Houghs Neck Community Council is planning a series of events to celebrate the 375th anniversary of Houghs Neck.

On Jan. 4, 1636, Atherton Hough was awarded a deed to 500 acres of land that is now Houghs Neck. The Houghs Neck Community Council's 375th Committee will sponsor various events now through next summer.

One event will be a Whist/Cribbage Tournament Sunday, Nov. 21 from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

Cost to participate in either tournament is $5 per person. Whist players may come as a team of two or individuals will be paired up.

Cash prizes to the winner of either tournament.

The committee is looking for fun(d) raising ideas and additional volunteers to be on the committee. To submit an idea or join the committee, email:

hnccbulletin@yahoo.com.

The next event will be held in January. It will resemble a reunion with organizations and community groups displaying their goals and accomplishments with the idea to promote their group to new members and give the community an opportunity to see what each organization. There will be a birthday/anniversary cake for all to enjoy.

The Committee is also planning a large celebration nearly next summer with a parade, picnic and concert.

John Adams Biographer At Crane Library Nov. 27

Author Marian Carlson will present a reading of John Adams: the Voice Heard 'Round the World, her recently published biography for children Saturday, Nov. 27 at 10 a.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, Quincy Center.

The book is a companion book to the Boston Landmarks Orchestra's History through Music series. The multimedia presentation will include a recording of the Orchestra's performance.

The book tells the story of Adams' vision and courage in making the Declaration of Independence happen. Marked for hanging by King George III, Adams risked his life to secure "Independence Forever" for America.

Aided by the strong support of his wife, Abigail, Adams spoke up in the Continental Congress and in Europe with a "voice heard 'round the world." His dedication to the cause of American freedom separated him from his family for 10 long years.

The program is suitable for children ages nine and older as well as adults.

No registration is required.

Koch Moving Ahead With Town River Improvements

not be a part of a larger plan that includes commercial uses."

Koch continued, "We've made tremendous progress to date restoring the historic site and working through complicated steps required to reuse the entire site...."

For Koch and the city, development of the parcel which abuts the CVS property at 610 Southern Artery is a major concern as one of the city's few remaining untouched waterfront space and one with considerable historic significance.

In addition, Koch wants to upgrade the property, which has become a haven for homeless persons, for drinking and rowdy gatherings. Earlier this month, the body of a 45-year-old man was found in the overgrowth at the site.

Among the key passages in the decision is the following:

"The Department has determined that this project does not meet the statutory tests for approval under M.G.L.c.91 and is otherwise not in accordance with the protected interests of 310 CMR 9.00 since it does not meet the minimum standards for licensable structures or fill located within a Designated Port Area (DPA). Accordingly, the project is denied...."

When it was announced last summer, Thayer's Share the Pier plan won considerable support across the city.

Thayer officials promised not only to upgrade the area at their expense, but to, also, offer Quincy youth the opportunity to learn and practice crew through their program.

In addition, Koch kicked off improvements to the Souther Tide Mill which is at the entrance to the property and which is designated as a National Historic site.

Koch said Tuesday, "We are continuing to move forward with plans for what will be a beautiful waterfront property through a request for proposals that went out to solicit ideas for commercial use of the site."

To date, Koch has appointed the following persons to the study committee: Robert Collins, John Fagerlund, former Ward 1 Councillor Leo Kelly, Carolyn Marks, and Brad Croall.

New QC President By Dec. 30

Seven new members of the Quincy College Board of Governors were scheduled to be sworn in Wednesday (yesterday) and they will get right down to the business of choosing a new president, according to William Grindlay, Chairman of the Board.

Chosen from a field of 26 applicants, the new board members offer the college expertise in law, business, marketing and government, according to Grindlay who said Monday he was delighted with the excellence of his new associates

By Dec. 2, Grindlay expects the full board to be ready to chart the course for the presidential search. Grindlay said he called the special meeting that night "strictly to discuss the presidential search.

Grindlay outlined the board's options:

"The Board could vote to reopen the search, to appoint one of the finalists or semi-finalists (in the past search) or make no decision that night."

"If no decision is made, we will appoint an acting president," said Grindlay, noting that the current president, Martha Sue Harris, was appointed Acting President before her full appointment.

Harris has notified the Board that she will leave the post Dec. 30.

All but one of the appointees are Quincy residents and three appointees are Quincy College alumni.

The new College Board members are as follows:

Joseph Shea, Quincy City Clerk, an alumnus of Quincy College

Maureen Glynn Carroll, a lawyer and counsel to Issues Management Group of Boston;

Frederick Doyle, a lawyer with Doyle and Moscardelli,

Barbara Clarke, consultant, Interactive Data of Bedford,

William Boozang, Northeastern University Director of Domestic Market Expansion,

Christopher Bell, Chief of Staff for State Treasurer Timothy Cahill, and Paul Barbadoro, lawyer, Baker Braverman & Barbadoro.

Buyer Education Series Dec. 4, 11

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) will offer a first-time homebuyer workshop consisting of two sessions Saturday, Dec. 4 and 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Attendance at both sessions is required in order to receive a certificate.

The workshop provides a comprehensive review of the homebuying process. Real estate professionals will cover topics ranging from mortgages to home insurance.

In addition, participants who complete the 10-hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing assistant of up to $10,000 and for the soft second program.

Participants may use their Certificate of Completion to obtain a low-rate loan through MassHousing or MassHousing Partnership.

Registration begins Nov. 15. For more information about the program and/or register for the workshop, contact Sandy Perkins, QCAP housing assistant, at 617-657-5327.

FIRE SAFETY

By TOM LYONS
Retired Captain, Quincy Fire Department
Fire Prevention Bureau

Smoking Related Fires

I've been reading a U.S. Fire Administration advisory on smoking related fires. They associate the fatalities resulting from smoking related residential fires as the number one cause of preventable fire deaths. Their spokesman says, "Every year, about 1,000 people are killed in smoking-related home fires... It just takes a few seconds to light up – and a few seconds to make sure the cigarette is really out."

Consequently here's what they recommend: If you feel you must smoke, it's better to smoke outside. Inside the home, use big ashtrays with a stable base. Really put the cigarette out, don't just tap it into the ashtray. It's not a good idea to smoke if you are drowsy, and never smoke in bed.

If people smoke at your home, check for cigarette butts near the furniture and under sofa cushions before you call it a night. Douse butts and ashtrays with water, leaving them in the sink, before they're discarded into the trash.

USFA data shows that one-in-four people killed in home fires is not the smoker whose cigarette caused the fire. In fact, 34% were children of the smokers and 25% were neighbors or friends of the smokers. Most smoking related residential fires occur on beds, furniture, or in the trash when cigarettes are carelessly disposed of, or still lit as individuals fall asleep.

Incidents from our own Massachusetts Fire Incident Reporting System in 2006 indicate that 84% of all smoking related building fires occur in residences. While it has been suggested that with the new statutes prohibiting smoking within public places, individuals' homes have become sanctuaries for the practice. Statistics from this same system, hilite the fact that rubbish, trash and waste ignited, accounted for 14% of these fires, while upholstered furniture and bedding combined accounted for 18%.

Statistics can speak loudly of trends, and pinpoint areas needing attention. Smoking, smoking related fires and smoking related deaths have historically drawn awareness toward the continuous need for further education.

While alcohol use can be a contributing factor, lying on a couch or bedding is obviously the primary behavioral combination leading toward disaster. Carelessly disposing of cigarettes within trash barrels prior to full extinguishment is the second most common method of ignition.

If you smoke, kindly adhere to the hazards hilited by these studies. Efforts toward safer behavioral habits can far outweigh the consequences of regrettable outcomes.

Be mindful of your smoking practices, and if you must smoke, please do it safely and responsibly. Your life, and those of your loved ones may depend upon it.

Thank you for doing so.

Good Shepherd Lutheran Church Thanks All For Assisting Food Drive

The members of Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in North Quincy went out to the Neighborhood Oct. 16 and collected 35 boxes of nonperishable food and $250 cash to support the Quincy Interfaith Social Service Food bank.

This was the third annual food drive for Good Shepherd.

"We want to thank all the wonderful people who contributed to this much needed cause," said Kathleen Carlson, one of the coordinator's of the food drive.

"Every year more and more neighbors in the Harvard/West Squantum Street neighborhood hear about us and are ready for us when we arrive at their doors door. May God bless everyone who contributed and who receive these wonderful gifts!

'Edward Everett' At Adams Academy

Actor Jim Cooke will perform a dramatic portrait of orator Edward Everett tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the Quincy Historical Society, Adams Academy, 8 Adams St., Quincy.

Cook will bring to life the Massachusetts man who was the main speaker at the Gettysburg Cemetery dedication at which Lincoln gave his immortal address.

Capping a varied career as clergyman, Harvard president, governor, U.S. senator, and secretary of state, Everett, after a decade of wrenching choices, became, in the minds of his contemporaries, the greatest spokesman for the Union Cause. Cooke's portrayal brings to light both the decisions Americans faced in the years leading to the war and Everett's ceaseless dedication to the Union.

Tonight's program is open to the public. There is no admission charge.

On Thursday, Dec. 9 at 7:30 p.m., the Historical Society will host author Stephanie Schorow. The topic will be The Cocoanut Grove Fire.

Schorow – who has written what is considered the authoritative book on the subject – will discuss the story of Boston's famous, tragic fire. The event changed how Americans thought about public safety.

Speakers Charge Gas Leaks Killing Trees, Raising Concerns

By LAURA GRIFFIN

City councillors agreed Monday to ask National Grid representatives to meet with them to discuss gas leaks reported throughout the city,

Prior to their decision, councillors discussed statistics presented by Robert Ackerley of Gas Safety U.S.A., INC. who charged that gas leaks are killing trees throughout the city.

"I have been up and down every street in the city," said Ackerley who called the loss of trees "a pocketbook issue."

Ackerley stressed that gas leaks do not kill vegetation instantly but weaken the roots making them susceptible to disease, weather problems, and insects.

"It was an eye opener," said City Council President Kevin Coughlin who invited Ackerley and Mark McDonald of New England Gas Workers Association to make the presentation to the council.

McDonald said there are currently 599 gas leaks in the city.

"There have been leaks for well over 10 years," said McDonald. "They could have fixed them three times over."

Speakers said the gas leaks do not pose an immediate threat to residents, but stressed that neither National Grid nor enforcement agents are addressing the issues.

"They say it's highly regulated but it really isn't," said Ackerley of the industry.

Both Ackerley and McDonald said the industry will not invest the money to fix the problems.

"The Number 1 issue is a staffing issue," said McDonald who, also noted that National Grid was able last month to increase its rates by $58 million. "None of it is earmarked for repairs."

Ackerley presented a street-by-street breakdown of his findings which focused only on gas leaks that could affect public trees.

Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest said her constituents had numerous complaints about the odor of gas and got inaction after calls to the company.

However, Ackerley had not listed many Ward 1 problems because his survey only dealt with public property and public vegetation.

After the presentation, Quincy Public Works Commissioner Larry Prendeville assured those present and those watching the council meeting that the findings should not cause alarm or panic as the city investigates complaints and National Grid staff respond.

National Grid spokesman David Graves dismissed the issues raised by Ackerley charging that the Shade Tree Trusts is seeking payments from National Grid for dying trees "as much money as possible without any data."

Graves did not have statistics available on Quincy's outstanding leaks but stressed the company follows all industry and regulatory standards.

meeting, "the whole street showed up."

"I couldn't agree with giving you more tools," said Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee who blamed "absentee owners who live outside the city."

"I've got a couple of these (problems)," said Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi who fears that the current standards for enforcement may be too difficult to meet, "The standards are so high." Councillors agreed with Raymondi that the 1999 description should be amended to offer the police more leeway in calling for police details.

"There aren't too many homes with four arrests in a year," said Raymondi who sought to "give the (police) department a more effective tool."

"Let's make it work," said Raymondi.

Councillors also agreed with Councillor John Keenan who said that if the landlord is cooperative or in the process of eviction, that should be taken into consideration.

The Committee agreed to consider additional amendments at their next meeting.

Coping With Grief During The Holidays

The holidays can be difficult for those of us who have lost a loved one, particularly if this is the first holiday season without that person. This usually joyous time of year is often accompanied by painful reminders of the person we are missing, and apprehension about how we will cope with the festivities all around us.

In "Coping with the Holidays – The Road to Recovery," published by the International Order of the Golden Rule, an anonymous writer says, "I thought I was doing much better. The pain had subsided: I could laugh again. I was beginning to spend time with friends. My eating and sleeping patterns were back to normal. Then, I had to face my first holiday without him. I felt the familiar effects of grief wash over me and it was just like the healing process had never even begun."

John Keohane of Keohane Funeral and Cremation Service has helped people to deal with loss and to cope with grief during the holiday season. "This is a particularly stressful time for many, but there are ways to manage the grief. The key is to give yourself permission to be flexible and to try to anticipate changes you may wish to make in the way you celebrated the holidays in the past."

Here are some suggestions to help those who are grieving face the coming season. Keohane added, "It is important for them to realize that they are not alone in their ambivalence about the holidays and that there are coping strategies available."

• First, acknowledge that adjustments will be necessary in the traditions and celebrations of the holiday season.

• Use a journal to write down your feelings and fears concerning the holidays. Clarifying your thoughts will help you feel more in control and less overwhelmed. View the holiday season as a series of small events, rather than as endless commitments and demands.

• Plan ahead to participate in some holiday activities to avoid having to make decisions under pressure. If you are not sure about an invitation, be tentative. Explain that some days are better than others and you may attend if you feel up to it.

•Build in quiet time to your schedule so you don't resent having too much to do.

• Getting into the spirit by decorating can bring warmth into your home. Ask family and friends to help if it all seems too much to do alone.

• If you are not ready to celebrate this year, that's OK. If you have children, discuss holiday changes with them so they don't feel confused or punished.

• If you find yourself alone for the holidays, use the time to pamper yourself – do something you've wanted to do and haven't had the time for.

• If you don't want to be alone, make a plan not to spend the holidays by yourself. Call family and friends and tell them you'd like to spend some time with them.

• Do for others: Put together a holiday gift package or basket of food for a needy family.

• Start a new tradition in memory of your loved one.

"Remember that there is no right or wrong way to experience grief; nor is there a time limit for our feelings," Keohane said.

"Everyone experiences loss differently. These suggestions will help those in need get through this time of year and to choose the strategies that are right for them."

Digitizing Family Archives Program At Library

Librarian Diane Costagliola will lead a program on digitizing old family snapshots and sharing them on-line at a program Monday, Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

Costagliola will show participants how to scan, organize, edit and share a digital photo at the presentation. No registration is required.

In this demonstration, she will be scan and organize photos, perform some basic edits and then post them to the popular websites Flickr and Facebook. Attendees will also learn how to crop and resize images, remove blemishes, and brighten up dull colors using Google's free Picasa software, before sharing photos with friends and family.

Learn ways to organize and name files to easily find them, and find out about the library's new Scan Station, which can be used to create free high-quality digital files without investing in a home scanner.

Sterling Middle School Hosts Annual Salute To Veterans

By JOE REARDON

Heikki Pakkala found himself having to pause, his eyes welling with tears and his voice halting.

The Quincy resident, who served in Iraq as a member of the 1st Battalion, 102nd Field Artillery Unit, told those gathered at the Sterling School's Veterans Day observance of the fellow soldiers he was forced to leave behind.

"Sadly, I lost four soldiers during my watch," Pakkala told the hushed auditorium of veterans, students and faculty last Wednesday afternoon during the Sterling Middle School's Veterans Day program.

The guest speaker at the observance, Pakkala, a Sterling alumnus, said his father, a veteran of the Finnish-Russian War, was a large-than-life figure to him growing up. And it was the veterans from past wars who made it possible to have the freedoms we do today.

"I always looked up to my dad, who to this day, is very strong-willed and determined," said Pakkala.

"We are fortunate to live in a democratic country. Each one of you has choices as to what you want to do. Follow your heart."

Principal Christine Barrett welcomed the audience to the program and expressed her gratitude to the veterans. "I want everyone to know how honored I am to be a part of the celebration of Veterans Day," said Barrett.

Director of Veteran Affairs Tom Stansbury told the audience that he once had to leave a meeting with Mayor Thomas Koch to attend the Sterling Veterans Day program. Koch, who was very impressed with the celebration when he attended, told Stansbury "Now I know why you left the meeting."

Music teacher Sara Shikowitz gave a beautiful rendition of the Star Spangled Banner and the North Quincy High ROTC Drill Team dazzled the audience with their skilled rifle routine.

Several students gave poignant readings during the ceremony both thanking and honoring the veterans. One by one, the students stood at the podium, reflecting on the sacrifices the veterans of all wars have made. The theme of reflection and thanks came across loud and clear in the students' words.

"For those of us who know a veteran or live with a veteran, we know the true meaning," said Griffin Curran. He went on to say that veterans shared many of the same qualities; character, courage, bravery, valor and loyalty.

Christina Tucci added: "We may not know who they are or where they are but they're still heroes."

A slide show followed giving the background of Quincy veterans who gave their lives in conflicts all over the world.

School committee member Dave McCarthy reminded everyone to always keep the veterans in their thoughts. "It's special to see veterans of the past conflicts and the ones that are going on now," McCarthy said. "Don't ever, ever forget the veterans."

Student Henry Yip said the veterans should be celebrated and should be thanked for protecting our country. "Veterans risked their lives for our freedom," he said. "Our freedom wasn't free. Our freedom was paid for."

Jennifer Nascimento expressed her appreciation for the veterans that are no longer with us. "These men and women have died for us," she said.

Added Kim Matos: "They believe in something bigger than themselves. They believe in freedom."

Bailey Brann believed that the freedoms we sometimes take for granted are direct results of veterans giving the ultimate sacrifice in foreign lands. "They think of us and do everything they can to make this country a better place to live," said Brann.

Julia Coletta said the veterans should be in each and everyone's prayers. "We should take the time to pray and thank all the men and women who have done so much for us," she said.

A Job Well Done

On Monday, Nov. 8, 2010, at approximately 12:47 P.M., Officer Thomas Gaeta Sr., Sergeant John Ryan and Detective Coen responded to a report of a man attempting to sell a laptop computer in the area of Hancock and Granite Street.

LT. DAN MINTON

The caller described this person, who was now walking northwesterly toward the Quincy Center MBTA Station, as wearing sunglasses and carrying a backpack.

Detective Coen, in his personal vehicle, spotted the man, and then saw Officers' Gaeta and Sergeant Ryan exit City Hall, looking for the suspect. Detective Coen observed the man move an object from is sweatshirt to his waistband, as if hiding it from the approaching uniformed Officers.

The three Officers converged on the man and told him why he was being stopped. The man stated that he just bought the laptop and was just trying to resell it for $100.00. When asked who sold the computer to him and where this occurred, the man/suspect said he didn't know the person's name or where he lived.

While waiting for the warrant/ criminal record check, Detective Coen asked the suspect if he had any weapons in his possession. The suspect stated, "I just have this," and then removed a black Billy club from his left rear pocket. Officer Gaeta took custody of the Billy club and Detective Coen questioned the suspect about any drugs that he could be carrying.

The suspect pulled out a pill bottle and gave it to Detective Coen, who saw that there were three green Clonazepam tablets and two pieces of an orange tablet believed to be Suboxone. The suspect did not have a prescription for the Suboxone.

Detective Coen performed a pat frisk of the suspect and felt an object in his waist area where he was seen placing something before the Police encountered him. The Detective removed a cigarette box from the suspect's waist area. Inside was a plastic bag containing a brown powder substance believed to be heroin.

At this time, Officer Gaeta placed the suspect, a 38 year old homeless man, under arrest for "Possession of Class A (Heroin) and Possession of Class B (Suboxone) Drugs." Once at the Station, Officer Gaeta, as part of an inventory search following an arrest, opened the box that the suspect claimed was a laptop computer.

Inside the box was a wet half red brick covered in sand, wrapped in newspaper. This is not the first time that this suspect has been arrested for this type of incident.

Back on April 10, 2010, Officer Paul Holland filed a criminal complaint against the same suspect after he attempted the same scam. A few days earlier, a different victim came forward, but there was no suspect information at that time. The trial from the April incident is still pending at Quincy District Court, scheduled for Nov. 22nd.

'Veterans Serve So You Can Be Safe'

Erik Joseph Filipe Keynote Speaker At Veterans Day Ceremony

'VETERANS SERVE so you can be safe here and have your own freedom,' speaker Erik Joseph Filipe, a member of the 747th Military Police Company of the Massachusetts Army National Guard said during his keynote address at the city's Veterans Day observance Nov. 11.

BY JOE REARDON

It was a day to celebrate veterans who have been called to all parts of the globe to fight enemies, all in the name of preserving the freedoms we've grown accustomed to as Americans.

Under a bright sky and against a cold breeze, Quincy's Veterans Day observance emphasized those who gave the ultimate sacrifice for their country.

Guest speaker Erik Joseph Filipe, a member of the 747th Military Police Company of the Massachusetts Army National Guard, stressed the importance of the sacrifices of all veterans.

"Remember and honor today, today's veterans that are out there serving," said Filipe. "They serve so you can be safe here and have your own freedom to come here today."

Donald Murphy stood tall in the shadow of the Doughboy Statue on the front lawn of Adams Academy. Murphy played the sad strains of taps on his trumpet, the crowd of Veterans Day observers standing quietly.

A member of the ROTC during his college days, Murphy has been playing taps at Memorial and Veterans Day ceremonies for the past 10 years. He regards being able to partake in the ceremonies a true honor.

"My father and my uncle were in the service," he said. "I had friends who died in Vietnam. I appreciate very much what the veterans have done. It's such an honor to be able to do it (play taps).

"There are a number of people who have passed away. I play for all the veterans."

On the day after the official 235th anniversary of the Marine Corps, Quincy paid tribute to veterans of all wars with a parade and somber ceremony at Adams Academy.

With the Quincy and North Quincy High marching band playing patriotic music, color guards and various veterans groups marched down Hancock Street as spectators, many families with young children, clapped and wave to those participating.

"Lord watch over our troops in Afghanistan and Iraq and bring them home safely," said Quincy Veterans' Council Chaplain John Raeke during the invocation.

Quincy Veterans' Council Commander Heikki Pakkala, the guest speaker the day before at the Sterling School's Veterans Day observance, told the crowd that gathered how lucky he felt to able to celebrate the day.

"It's great to be an American," said Pakkala. "It's great to be a veteran. I feel like this day is a blessing. Remembering (veterans) gives true meaning to their sacrifice and service."

Gold Star mothers Neumai Cavicchi and Angela Durkin placed flowers in front of the Doughboy statue, and Moe Morand sang the National Anthem. A volley in honor of the veterans who gave their life in battle was fired by the 2nd Marine Division.

Mayor Thomas Koch welcomed all those in attendance. "We say thank you to our veterans and God bless America," he said.

City Council President Kevin Coughlin quoted Winston Churchill and spoke of honoring the veterans. "Never was so much owed by so many to so few," Coughlin said. "There is something very poignant about silent reflection. We owe a debt to every veteran who has answered the call."

Veterans Director and Parade Chairman Thomas Stansbury noted that the number of veterans of the Second World War is decreasing rapidly, but they are still around. "We don't have any more World War I veterans in Quincy, but the World War II veterans are out there," Stansbury said.

Film Series At Temple Shalom

Temple Shalom, 180 Blue Hill Ave., Milton, will open this season's Winter Movie Series with two films that highlight the Sephardic Jewish experience Saturday, Nov. 20 at 7 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

The first film is Fiestaremos!, which presents the inspiring work of musician Judy Frankel. The film, directed by Kathleen Regan, explores Frankel's dedication to preserving Sephardic music and songs. It offers an intimate look at one of the leading collectors and practitioners of Sephardic folk music, including interviews with Frankel, musical excerpts and performances.

The second film is Island of Roses: The Jews of Rhodes in Los Angeles. This documentary visits the Los Angeles community of Rhodeslis, Jews who lived on the Mediterranean island of Rhodes from 1492 to World War II. It shows how immigrants from Rhodes passed down their traditions, foods, songs, rituals, and their medieval Ladino Spanish dialect to their American-born children and grandchildren.

The donation for admission is $3 per person, two for $5. Advance reservations get a free popcorn or bottle of water.

To order tickets or for more information, call 617-698-3394.

Christian Education, Formation Ministry Workshop

The Christian Education and Formation Ministry, in cooperation with the Parish Nursing Ministry at Christ Church Episcopal/Quincy will offer a free workshop open to the public Saturday, Nov. 20 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

The workshop, entitled "Compassionate Gifts" will include presentations on healing prayer, guided meditations, and lectures on Therapeutic Touch and Reiki.

The event is designed as a multi-track experience on various spiritual healing methodologies and prayer. The Healing Ministry will be discussing and demonstrating the benefits of healing touch and meditation.

Hilda Morrison, RN, one of the Parish Nursing coconveners, has been a therapeutic touch practitioner for over 25 years. She has spent over 20 years of her nursing career in various roles at Massachusetts General Hospital and will be giving an informational lecture about what it is, how TT works and a demonstration.

Any of the attendees who wishes a treatment or personal demonstration on Therapeutic Touch can see Hilda at the conclusion of the event.

Jennifer Golden, RN, another Parish Nursing coconvener is a certified Reiki practitioner and will be giving a lecture on the practice of Reiki, its history and how it can be useful in stress reduction and relaxation.

Beverages and healthy snacks will be provided. Attendees may bring a bag lunch and join us for further conversation and fellowship at approximately 1:30pm.

QUITE THE SUPPORT SYSTEM

If you have shin splints, heel pain, tendonitis, or arching or tired legs, you can achieve improvements and alleviate discomfort by using orthotics. Orthotics are custom-made inserts that fit inside shoes. They decrease the abnormal motion of the foot and allow for normal movement. Wearing an orthotic places the foot in a neutral position, restoring balance. Orthotics can also help reduce or eliminate back pain, and they can provide comfort and protection to those with geriatric or diabetic foot problems. The inserts offer relief for individuals who walk or stand excessively at work. Those who are active in sports may find that orthotics increase their endurance, strength, and performance. Orthotics can also help to avoid future foot problems.

Just like individualized foot care, out custom orthotics and inserts are designed to meet the specific needs of each patient who comes to us for treatment. They are the most non-invasive professional way to begin treating problems with foot mechanics. If you're tires of painful steps taking the smile out of your day, it's time for specialized podiatric care. For comprehensive foot care for everyone in your family, please call 781-986-3668. Our office is located at QUINCY MEDICAL CENTER. Office hours are also available at 999 North Main St., in the Randolph Medical Building, and Milton Medical Building in Suite 221. I am affiliated with the Brockton and Good Samaritan Hospitals.

HINT: Custom orthotics will be designed to treat the unique requirements of your feet.

MAYOR TOM KOCH (second from right) received the Manet Medallion at Manet Community Health Center's recent dinner and auction held at the Granite Links Golf Club. Manet Community Health Honors Mayor Koch At Annual Dinner, Auction

Manet Community Health Center Board of Directors recently honored Quincy Mayor Thomas P. Koch with the Manet Medallion at its sixth annual dinner and auction that was emceed by Norfolk County Sheriff Michael G. Bellotti at the Granite Links Golf Club.

Sheriff Bellotti, Alicia A. Gardner, Manet Board President, and Henry Tuttle, Manet CEO presented Koch with the 2010 Manet Medallion. The recipient of the Manet Medallion must have significantly lifted, supported, championed or advanced the health center's mission to provide accessible, quality health care for all. Moreover, the recipient must have demonstrated consistent community goodwill and fellowship.

"The decision by the board to award Mayor Koch the Manet Medallion this year was unanimous largely because earlier this summer, the city of Quincy, through its Planning Department and its Community Development Program, awarded Manet a Community Development Block Grant in the amount of $194,060 to install a sprinkler and fire alarm system at Manet's practice site on 110 West Squantum Street in North Quincy," Gardner said.

"Mayor Koch has prioritized health for the city, and has been a phenomenal support to the Manet Mission," Gardner added.

Past recipients of the Manet Medallion include State Senator, Michael Morrissey, Boston Medical Center, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts, Carolyn Cashman Skaves of the Cashman Equipment Corporation, and Chazy Dowaliby, editor of the Patriot Ledger.

Four hundred guests attended Manet's signature event and helped to raise presently slightly under $100,000 to support its Annual Fund as Manet closed its thirtieth anniversary year.

Volunteers from Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts (The Blue Crew), Jack Conway & Co. Realtor, Liberty Bay Credit Union, Quincy Medical Center and Manet dedicated time and resources to ensure event success.

Liberty Bay Credit Union hosted a table for some of Manet's primary care physicians and nurse practitioners who provide the care each day for patients across Quincy and the South Shore.

Key community leaders, officials and friends took part in support of Mayor Koch and the Manet Mission including: Congressman-Elect and Norfolk County District Attorney William R. Keating, Norfolk County District Attorney-Elect and State Senator Michael Morrissey, State Senator Elect and Councillor John Keenan, City Council President Kevin Coughlin, and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro.

Some of the event's sponsors and event contributors include: Dr. Peter Ambrus, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts, Boston Medical Center Health Net Plan, Bumble Bee Landing, CitiBank, Colonial Federal Savings Bank, Crown Obstetrics & Gynecology, Custom Construction, Mr. Ken Dyer, Eastern Bank Foundation, Eye Health Services, HDR Architecture Inc., Stephen Gore, Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest, Karman Lee Photography, Keohane Funeral Home, Dr. Paul Konowitz, Liberty Bay Credit Union, Mr. and Mrs. Rob and Julie Littlefield, Massachusetts League of Community Health Centers, The Mayor's Cup Charity Golf Tournament, Neighborhood Health Plan, New England Quality Care Alliance (NEQCA), Dr. Joseph Peppe, Chief Medical Officer, Manet; Quincy College, Quincy Medical Center, South Shore Hospital, StreetWorks, Tufts Medical Center, Tuttle-Sterricker Family, Walgreens, and WB Mason.

Manet's Philanthropy Committee provides the leadership for this annual event and is chaired by Joseph Reardon, Manet Vice-President. Members include Patricia Dillane, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Massachusetts, Helen Shiner, Jack Conway & Co. Realtor, Sean Kenealy, Key Realty, Alicia Gardner, Manet Board President, Rob Littlefield and Stephen Gore, Manet Board Members, Nancy Quilty, and Henry Tuttle of Manet.

Opportunities to become involved and to give are available; for more information call 857-403-0451 or visit Manet's web site at www.manetchc.org.

Founded in 1979, Manet Community Health serves the broad health needs of South Shore residents through a primary care model of care, including family practice, internal medicine and geriatrics. In 2009, it provided 51,889 visits to 13,926 patients at its five practice sites, four in the City of Quincy and one in the town of Hull. Manet has been accredited by The Joint Commission since 1999, demonstrating that the community health organization meets the highest standards of quality health care.

ENJOYING A MOMENT at Manet Community Health Center's recent Dinner and Auction at Granite Links Golf Club are (from left) Brenda Karkos, Hospice of the South Shore, South Shore Hospital; Jeannine Reardon, Joseph Reardon, Manet vice president, Philanthropy Chair; and Tina Dwyer, Home Care Division, South Shore Hospital.

CONNIE MURPHY, Mrs. Gloria Noble, Norfolk County District Attorney-Elect and State Senator Michael Morrissey, Alicia A. Gardner, Board President, Manet.

JOHN BROTHERS, Manet Board Secretary, State Senator-Elect and City Councillor John Keenan, Sean Kenealy, Key Realty, Manet's Philanthropy Committee; and Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro.

NFPA Urges Caution When Preparing For Dinner This Year

Thanksgiving Top Day For Cooking Fires

Thanksgiving remains the leading day for cooking fires, with three times as many cooking fires as an average day.

That's according to statistics by the nonprofit National Fire Protection Association (NFPA), which also found that cooking equipment fires are still the leading cause of U.S. home fires and fire injuries, and the third leading cause of fire deaths. On Thanksgiving 2008, U.S. fire departments responded to 1,300 home cooking fires compared to 420 such fires on an average day.

"Thanksgiving is a holiday of feasting, but it's also a day of intense cooking, when stovetops and ovens are working overtime," says Lorraine Carli, NFPA's vice president of communications. "These culinary activities bring an increased risk of fire particularly when people are trying to prepare several dishes while entertaining friends and family."

Unattended cooking was by far the leading contributing factor in cooking equipment fires. Ranges or cooktops were involved in the majority (59%) of home cooking fire incidents; ovens accounted for 16%. Clothing was the item first ignited in less than 1% of these fires, but these incidents accounted 15% of the cooking fire deaths.

NFPA offers the following cooking safety tips.

Cook with caution:

- Be on alert! If you are sleepy or have consumed alcohol, don't use the stove or stovetop.
- Stay in the kitchen while you are frying, grilling, or broiling food. If you leave the kitchen for even a short period of time, turn off the stove.
- If you are simmering, baking, roasting, or boiling food, check it regularly, remain in the home while food is cooking, and use a timer to remind you that you are cooking.
- Keep anything that can catch fire — oven mitts, wooden utensils, food packaging, towels or curtains — away from your stovetop.

If you have a cooking fire:

- Just get out! When you leave, close the door behind you to help contain the fire.
- Call 9-1-1 or the local emergency number after you leave.
- If you try to fight the fire, be sure others are getting out and you have a clear way out.
- Keep a lid nearby when you're cooking to smother small grease fires. Smother the fire by sliding the lid over the pan and turn off the stovetop. Leave the pan covered until it is completely cooled.
- For an oven fire, turn off the heat and keep the door closed.

Based in Quincy, NFPA is a worldwide leader in providing fire, electrical, building, and life safety to the public since 1896. The mission of the international nonprofit organization is to reduce the worldwide burden of fire and other hazards on the quality of life by providing and advocating consensus codes and standards, research, training, and education.

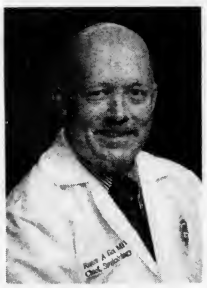
In Collaboration With Tufts Medical Center

Quincy Medical Center Opens New Surgical Speciality Clinics

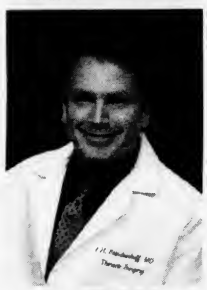


Offering greater access to care for patients with breast and lung cancer, Quincy Medical Center (QMC) is expanding its surgical oncology program to include two new clinics – one focusing on breast disease and the other on thoracic surgery.

The clinics are a result of the recent clinical affiliation between the QMC and Tufts Medical Center. Through the affiliation, three Tufts Medical Center physicians – two breast surgeons and a thoracic surgeon – have joined the QMC medical staff and will see patients in the hospital's newly renovated Surgical Specialty Clinics.

They will perform surgery at QMC on a regular basis.

"We are pleased to welcome our colleagues from Tufts Medical Center," says Nissage Cadet, MD, QMC Chief of Surgery. "With the addition of their surgical expertise in breast surgery and thoracic surgery, we can better meet the demand from our patients and expand our capacity for these services in the community hospital setting."



Breast surgeons Roger Graham, MD, and Janice Rothschild, MD, will see patients in the Breast Clinic at QMC. Graham is Chief of the Division of Surgical Oncology and Director of the Breast Health Center at Tufts Medical Center. In addition to breast surgery,

Dr. ROGER GRAHAM

Dr. JANICE ROTHSCHILD

Dr. LAURENCE BRINCKERHOFF

Rothschild also specializes in general surgery, including pancreatobiliary surgery, minimally invasive surgery/laparoscopy, endoscopy, and gastrointestinal surgery. Thoracic surgeon Laurence Brinckerhoff, MD, will also see patients and perform surgery at QMC two days a week, treating patients with a variety of thoracic conditions, including lung cancer. Brinkerhoff is Chief of the General Thoracic Surgery Section at Tufts MC and is an Assistant Professor at Tufts University School of Medicine.

To celebrate the opening of the new clinics, QMC hosted a ribbon cutting ceremony and open house in the newly renovated QMC Surgical Specialties Clinic, where a number of surgical specialists, including QMC general surgeons, vascular surgeons and podiatrists, see patients pre- and postoperatively.

Mayor Thomas Koch, members of the Quincy City Council, and administration and staff from both QMC and Tufts MC were in attendance.

"This ribbon cutting ceremony represents more than just a celebration of this new space and our expanded services for our patients – though both of these are very exciting and important," said John N. Kastanis, FACHE, QMC interim CEO. "This ceremony represents the first of many exciting things on the horizon at Quincy Medical Center and a great initial step in our in our affiliation with Tufts Medical Center, the first of many more to come."

Quincy Medical Center is a 196-bed acute care community-teaching hospital, providing quality, personalized and comprehensive medical and surgical services to patients throughout the South Shore. A private, nonprofit hospital, QMC has a clinical affiliation with Tufts Medical Center.

Tips for Healthier Menus, Holiday Eating

Holidays are filled with good cheer and good food. For many, the holiday season can lead to unwanted weight gain.

Members of TOPS Club, Inc. (Take Off Pounds Sensibly), the nonprofit weight-loss support organization, know that making conscious food choices and practicing portion control can prevent excess weight gain.

Healthy, well-balanced meal planning is a key element to successful and lasting weight-loss and maintenance. According to Dena McDowell, M.S., R.D., C.D., nutritional expert for TOPS, a typical Thanksgiving dinner contains 1,200 calories for the single meal. Modifying the menu to include recipes that are lower in fat and higher in fiber can reduce the calorie burden at mealtime.

McDowell suggests these additional strategies for keeping holiday weight gain to a minimum throughout the holiday season:

- Practice portion control.
- Choose skinless white meat turkey, instead of high-calorie and high-fat dark meat.
- Reduce the calories of the meal by loading half the plate with vegetables or fruit.
- Plan your menu to include salads and lots of vegetables
- Use a luncheon-sized plate for your meal.
- Wait 20 to 30 minutes before deciding on a second helping.

If you are still hungry, choose a small helping of a fruit or vegetable with a glass of water.

"Preparing low-fat and higher fiber recipe alternatives is another way to lighten the holiday meal," McDowell added. "For example, in recipes such as green bean casserole, use reduced-fat cream of mushroom soup and low-fat milk to reduce the calories and fat content of the dish substantially."

Cranberry Turkey Sausage Stuffing

Ingredients:

12 cups whole wheat/grain bread crumbs
1/2 pound 98% fat-free turkey sausage
2 T. olive oil
6 cups coarsely chopped leeks
1 green apple, peeled, cored, and chopped
1 Golden Delicious apple, peeled, cored, and chopped
2 cups celery, chopped
1 1/2 T. poultry seasoning
1 T. dried rosemary
1 cup dried cranberries
2 cups fat-free chicken broth
Salt and pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 350°F. In a large skillet, cook the sausage until crumbled and fully browned (about 10 minutes). Place sausage in large mixing bowl. Cook leeks, celery, and apples in oil. Add poultry seasoning. Stir frequently and cook for 10 minutes. Add the rosemary and dried cranberries. Stir well. Add the leek mixture to the sausage and then add the bread crumbs. Pour broth over mixture and stir well. Place in two baking dishes, cover, and cook in the oven for 45 minutes. Uncover and cook for additional 15 minutes.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

FLOSSING FOR APPEARANCE'S SAKE

After brushing but not flossing, about 40% of tooth surfaces will continue to harbor sticky bacteria (plaque) that give rise to tooth decay and gum disease. If this percentage does not motivate everyone to floss daily, it should be noted that failure to floss can also make a person look older. Overgrowth of plaque creates gum inflammation that can lead to gum recession and bone loss. In fact, the term for aging "long in the tooth" derives from receding, uneven gumlines that make people look older. On top of that, when gum disease leads to bone loss, lips and cheeks cave in and wrinkles form. This puckered, hollowed-out look cannot necessarily be fixed with cosmetic surgery. Prevention is best.

We often get asked questions such as how often should I floss, is flossing necessary, and what teeth should I floss? Next to brushing, flossing is the most important thing that you can do to ensure good oral health. We are a highly qualified and experienced team of professionals. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where our entire staff is thoroughly trained, skilled, and sensitive to your needs. Our goal is to make each visit to our office a comfortable and positive experience. To schedule an appointment, please call 617-479-6220. MYOFASCIAL PAIN SYNDROME

Lower-back pain is sometimes caused by soft-tissue disorders, one of which is "myofascial pain syndrome." This chronic form of muscle pain can be traced to areas in the muscles ("trigger points") that are sensitive to touch. The pain associated with myofascial pain syndrome differs from garden-variety muscle pain in that it does not resolve within a few days. Instead, it can spread throughout the affected muscle and either persist or worsen. Myofascial pain caused by trigger points has also been linked to headaches, jaw pain, neck pain, low back pain, pelvic pain, and arm and leg pain. The chiropractor may be able to help those affected by increasing muscles' range of motion and identifying and correcting contributing factors.

Nearly everyone experiences muscle pain from time to time that generally resolves in a few days. But people with myofascial pain syndrome have muscle pain that persists or worsens. At the FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC, we are experts in diagnosing and treating the soft tissue damage that may lead to this problem. We invite you to call 617.472.4220 to schedule an appointment. We can help you the natural way, without the use of drugs or surgery. Our office is located at 112 McGrath Hwy., Quincy. We offer computerized spinal scans. We are able to adjust patients sitting, standing, or lying down to accommodate any level of discomfort. If your problem is a chiropractic condition we offer you exceptional service.

P.S. In instances where poor posture is causing muscle stress that leads to myofascial pain in the lower back, the chiropractor can help correct posture with treatment.

NQ Played Wednesday Against Lincoln-Sudbury In State Semifinals; State Championship Saturday

Sectional Champion: North Quincy Earned Crown With A 3-2 Victory Over Quincy

By SEAN BRENNAN

The Central-East Division I volleyball sectional final between the North Quincy Red Raiders and the Quincy Presidents, held at Eastern Nazarene College last Saturday night, was a heavyweight fight that came down to the final bell.

Five exhilarating back-and-forth games were necessary to determine a winner and, in the end, it was North Quincy who earned the knockout victory, 22-25, 25-22, 12-25, 25-20, 15-4, sending the Red Raiders back to the Division I state semifinals for the first time since 2007.

Meeting for the third time this fall, the two programs came into the Central-East final both sporting 1-1 records against one another this fall. NQHS had previously beaten QHS, 3-2, on Oct. 1 while the Presidents had evened the score on Oct. 25 with a come-from-behind, 3-2, win.

The showdown at ENC would be no different. These teams were evenly matched. But someone had to win. You could put these squads on a court tonight and QHS would have just as much of a chance to walk off winners, but, in the state playoffs, it is win or go home. North Quincy earned this sectional crown. Quincy should hold their heads high, it just wasn't their night.

"We needed to play an aggressive match against Quincy," said NQHS head coach Kerry Ginty whose Raiders played Wednesday night against Lincoln-Sudbury HS at Milford High School in the Division I state semifinals. "I thought that we played as a team really well. There were times that we seemed to be over-thinking some things, especially in the third game, but, we got back to what we do best and really played our game as the match went along."

Unlike the previous two matches in which Quincy dropped Game One to North Quincy, the Presidents came out in the sectional finals looking to get an early advantage. Easier said than done.

The Raiders, behind three early kills from junior captain Olivia Umoren (20 kills), jumped out to a 6-3 lead. North Quincy would hold the momentum until Quincy's Kori Sorensen (six aces) evened the score at 9-9 with a beautiful serving ace. Following a kill from NQ junior captain Emma Ainsley, which locked the score at 11-11, the Presidents took a 13-11 lead on a block from junior Catlin Lowry; Quincy would not trail the rest of the way in Game One. Another ace from Sorensen made it 17-12, and Quincy made it 20-13 before the Raiders made a late-game push and, when, sophomore middle hitter Rose Bennett (season-high 11 kills) slammed the ball over the net, NQHS knotted the score at 22-22.

The Presidents, playing as the top-seed in the Central-East field, responded in kind, ripping off three straight points to win the opening game, 25-22.

Game Two was a replica of Game One, just reversed. North Quincy jumped out, again, to an early 5-2 lead, only to see Quincy cut it to 6-5 on a kill from senior Stella Edwards. A kill from Umoren made it 14-10, and up 20-16, another Bennett kill pushed the score to 21-16.

The Presidents did not go quietly. Facing match point at 24-20, Lowry elevated for a block (24-21) before Edwards finished around the net to cut the North advantage to 24-22. However, Olivia Umoren came through for the Raiders, burying another kill to give her team a 25-22 Game Two victory.

The pivotal third game was all Quincy. A serving ace from Sorensen gave the Presidents a 5-1 lead; a kill from Edwards doubled Quincy's lead to 12-6 and following a side out from North, Quincy's lead expanded to 16-7. Trailing 21-8, the Raiders got as close as 21-10 before another NQ fault placed Quincy three points from a game victory, 22-10.

The Presidents scored three of the final four points to win Game Three, 25-12, putting them one victory away from their second straight Central-East Division I championship.

In front of the North Quincy bench, following Game Three, Ginty, to put it lightly, gathered her girls in a circle and lit a fire under them.

"We were just playing hesitant and slow," Ginty said. "We were thinking too much and I just told them they needed to stay aggressive and attack."

Whatever she said, it worked. North Quincy took to the court determined to force a decisive fifth game.

After Quincy went up 2-0, the Raiders reeled off seven of the next eight points, with the exclamation point being a block from Umoren, which made it 7-3. The Presidents, after a Kiley McDonald block, got to 12-9 before NQHS expanded their lead to 15-10.

A kill from Bennett upped the advantage to 20-15 North; a Edwards kill cut the deficit to 20-17, but another Bennett kill put North two points from game victory. The Raiders would go on to capture Game Four, 25-20.

With the sectional crown on the line, it was appropriate that the match would come down to a winner-take-all Game Five.

The young Raiders came out swinging. Two straight serving aces from Sullivan and a point from junior setter Rachel Chu (36 assists) gave North Quincy a 4-0 lead.

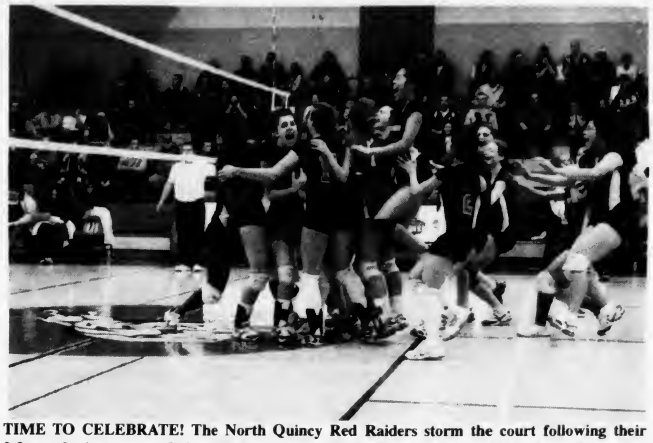
Timeout Quincy.

Sullivan's serving upped the lead to 7-0 before the Presidents went on a four-point spree (7-4), highlighted by a block from Lowry, but that would be all the scoring for QHS in the fifth game.

Umoren's block made it 8-4; a kill from junior Michelle Cole (eight digs, eight kills) pushed it to 10-4 and Ainsley finished off Quincy with her serving and when Umoren got above the net and hammered one last block, the Red Raiders had dispatched of the Presidents in classic fashion.

The ensuing celebration was well deserved for North Quincy.

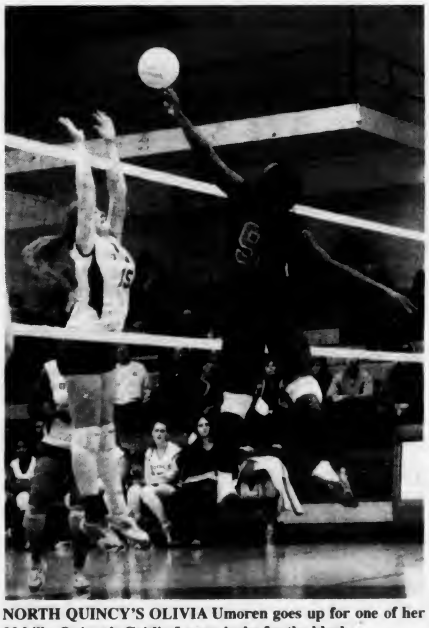
But do not forget what Quincy High School accomplished this fall; a 21-3 record, a Patriot League title, and a second straight trip to the Central-East D1 finals. Impressive.



And the emotional response in defeat was expected, said QHS head coach Jacqui Niosi after her team came oh-so-close to defending their 2009 sectional title.

"It is tough to walk away from this experience after a loss," she said. "We are a young team and we did really well this season. This match should help us improve our mental toughness next year.

"At times, and especially in Game Five, we didn't attack the ball. But I am proud of how my team played this season."



For Quincy there will be no tomorrow, but for North Quincy, there was a yesterday. The Red Raiders traveled to Milford HS Wednesday night and played in the Division I state semifinals against Central-West champ Lincoln-Sudbury HS. The winner of this match, held after the Quincy Sun went to press, will play either North Andover (North champ) or Barnstable (South champ) for the 2010 Massachusetts state title on Saturday, Nov. 20 at 6 p.m. at Algonquin Regional High School.

Championship Game Played Nov. 6 at Veterans Stadium

West Quincy Elks Defeat North Quincy Apaches, 18-0 for QYFL Title

The West Quincy Elks preserved their undefeated record and, again, were dominant as they downed the North Quincy Apaches, 18-0, to capture the "Founders Cup" as champions of Quincy Youth Football on Nov. 7 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

To preserve the history of the QYFL and, specifically, the league's Founding Fathers, this year the QYFL unveiled the Founders Cup at the start of the 2010 championship game. Beginning this year, "The Cup" will be passed down from champion to champion and will be engraved with the names of all winning teams, as well as the names of the founding fathers including the league's first president, Pete Zoia. The original league founders are: Lloyd Carroll, Ed Sweeney, Gerard Colletta, Lawrence Creedon, John Trione, Joe Mayo, and Johnny Joyce.

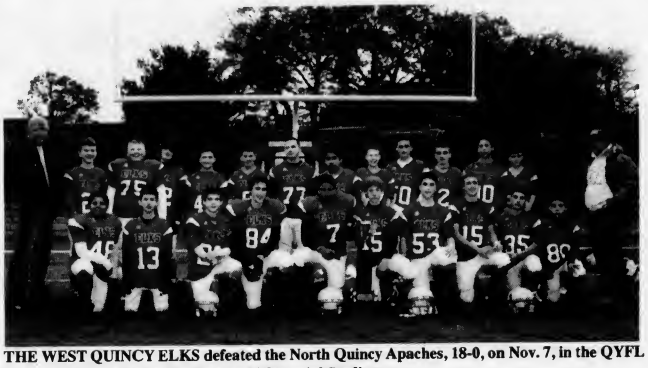
Championship Game

After recovering a fumble, the Elks got on the board early when Joey Weinstein ran for a 20-yard touchdown. Following that possession, the Elks played tough defense and Elk defender Scott Paulack knocked down a nicely thrown ball by Apaches quarterback Pat Frasso.

In the second quarter, the Elks set up a long scoring drive, which was highlighted by a big run by Paulack (Elks quarterback) behind strong blocking from Mark Gillespie and Bobby Salvucci. John Crump also had some hard rushing yardage against the tough Apaches defense. Paulack hit Jimmy Dalton on a 35-yard pass, and later threw a well-executed play action pass for a 25-yard touchdown to Salvucci.

On defense for the Elks, Dayvon Jones made a big hit to force a fumble (recovered by the Apaches) and also made an interception that he almost returned for a touchdown.



In the second half, the Elks running game saw more big runs by Crump and Paulack also had a long run on a huge fourth-and-15 conversion. The Elks had some outstanding defensive plays by Paulack, Wienstein, Salvucci and Alex Leo.

Later in the game, Jones recovered a forced fumble by Salvucci on a driving Apaches offense and returned it to the Apaches four-yard line. This play led to a four-yard touchdown by Crump, which closed out the scoring.

The Elks defense finished the game strong with sacks from Dalton, Leo, and Salvucci. Pat Sullivan forced a fumble on the Apaches final drive to close out the game. Scott Paulack and Dayvon Jones played great in the secondary. The Elks also got strong special teams play from Dalton, Wienstein, Sullivan, and John Texiera.

Although the 2010 Apaches (6-2) ended their season on a down note, Head Coach Tom Burke and defensive coordinator Sean Halpin praised the efforts of several of their players.

Offensively, Pat Frasso did an outstanding job at quarterback guiding the team to six victories this year. In the backfield, Erick Cohane-Jones, Mike McNelly and Kevin McDonough shared the running duties and all three were impressive for the Apaches' ground attack. Speedy wide receiver Bryan Lenane was a deep threat that posed a lot of problems for every defense North Quincy played this year. On the line, Sean Dozier anchored the offense from his center position, and had help from line mates Mike Connolly, Alex Chen, Clint Galac, Steve Scolaro and Freddy Flynn. The tight end tandem of Jackie Chen and Jake Bergonzi provided great run blocking, while also catching many of Frasso's passes off of play action.

THE WEST QUINCY ELKS defeated the North Quincy Apaches, 18-0, on Nov. 7, in the QYFL championship game held at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

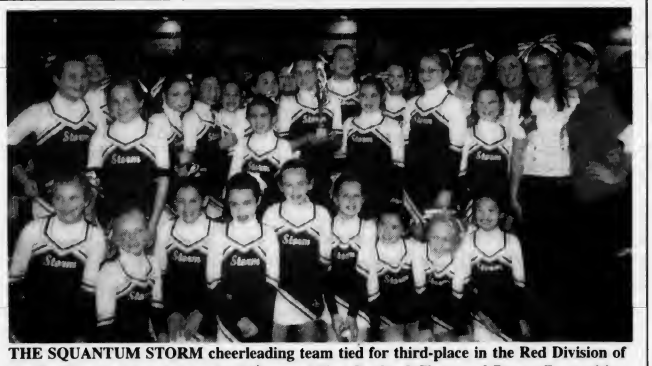
Defensively, the Apaches were led by the hard hitting of Bergonzi and Scolaro, while Alex Chen and Connolly played well on the defensive line. Defensive backs Lenane and Cohane-Jones also made some nice plays this year. The coaches also recognized the tough play of Marchello Toscanini and Zach Roos.

"We knew coming into the championship against the Elks, we would have our hands full. They have so many weapons to hurt you, but our guys never quit and kept playing until the final whistle. The Elks gave us a tough time every time we played them this season. My hats off to their team on a great season and a great win," Coach Burke said following the game.



The Quincy Youth Football League would also like to thank Mr. Tom Carter and Mr. Bob Noble who also attended the championship game. Coach Carter and Coach Noble were invited to come to the game as honorary captains for each team. Coach Carter is a long time North Quincy High coach and former coach of the Apaches in the 1970s and 1980s, while coach Noble, who is currently coaching in Marshfield after his time as head coach of Quincy High School, was also a coach for the Elks before moving on to high school coaching. Coach Carter performed the coin toss to start the game, while Coach Noble presented the Founders' Cup to the Champions at the end of the game.

78th Annual Thanksgiving Day Game Versus Quincy High School Up Next For Raiders

North Quincy Closes Out Whitman-Hanson HS, 27-14

By SEAN BRENNAN

The North Quincy Red Raiders had been on the short-end of a three game-losing streak heading into last Friday's home tilt against Patriot League opponent Whitman-Hanson High School, but a simple remedy solved that problem.

The Red Raiders (5-5 overall) went back to the power running attack that had helped them win four of their first six games and amassed over 400 yards on the ground to overwhelm the Panthers, 27-14, in the final regular season game before the annual Thanksgiving Day game with Quincy High School.

"It was a good win and much needed," said NQHS head coach Jim Connor. "We got back to running the ball and controlling the pace of the game. That is what made us so successful early this year.

"It wasn't like we went away from it recently, we had just played some tough teams (Duxbury, Hingham, Silver Lake) during that losing streak."

Running behind the blocking of a stout offensive line, seniors Mike Curran (150 yards, TD, two-point conversion) and Seyi Adesuyan (100 yards, three TDs) shredded Whitman-Hanson's defensive front, continually finding open space to run and convert first downs and keep the game clock moving.

"Mike Curran had a nice game carrying the ball as did Seyi Adesuyan," added Connor about his senior running backs, "but it always comes back to solid blocking and that is what we received from our offensive line. They played well all game long."

Not only did this victory snap North Quincy's losing streak, it also pushed the team's overall record back to the .500-mark, opening up a great opportunity to finish the 2010 season with a winning record if the Red Raiders can make it two in a row versus the Presidents on Thanksgiving.

"My team is always grounded even when we were struggling," said Connor. "Winning last Friday against Whitman-Hanson gives us some extra confidence heading into our game with Quincy. It was good to see the team as a whole put together a strong game."

The victory also has other ramifications. According to Connor, no North Quincy football team has finished a season with a winning record and with a win over the rival Presidents since the 1994 season.

"Going into the Thanksgiving Day game with an opportunity to finish with a 6-5 record on the table and with the chance to beat Quincy is exciting for the kids," he said. "We are going to take this time to prepare and be ready to play."

Progress is always the first step toward ultimate goals and for North Quincy and Coach Connor this year has been another positive step in the right direction for the program.

Last year, despite the team's 21-6 win against Quincy HS, North Quincy finished with a record of 4-7; depending on the final result of the 78th annual Turkey Day game the Red Raiders are either finishing 5-6 or 6-5.

"We are always striving for progress," Connor said. "And for the senior class, it is always nice to see them leave the program better than when they first arrived. These seniors have stepped up and will end their careers having moved North Quincy football forward."

With a week to go before the QHS-NQHS game, Connor can already feel the excitement in the halls and classrooms of North Quincy High School. He knows his team can sense it as well, but full focus is the name of the game in the team's preparation.

"There is a special feeling around the school right now," he said. "The team is real happy that we go into the game following a big league win, but we are staying grounded. Our focus is on preparing for a good Quincy team."

Notes: The start time for the 78th annual Thanksgiving Day game between QHS-NQHS is set for 10 a.m. on Nov. 25 at Veterans Memorial Stadium... The Quincy Sun's Thanksgiving Day high school football issue will be on the newsstands next Tuesday (Nov. 23).

QUINCY RESIDENT BRIAN FAIRBANKS (second from right) along with (from the left) Matt Kealey, Justin Mosca and John Hession were at the 28th annual Jimmy Fund Classic at The International Golf Club in Bolton on Oct. 4 to celebrate another season of raising funds on the green for the Dana Farber Cancer Institute. The Jimmy Fund Classic is an annual event that recognizes tournament organizers and sponsors who helped raise more than $6.4 million in 2010. Jimmy Fund Golf is one of the largest and oldest grassroots charity golf programs in the nation and since 1983 the organization has raised more than $79 million for life-saving cancer research and treatment. Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) This year, instead of jumping into the whole holiday prep scene, move in a little at a time. You'll appreciate the sense of control you're more likely to enjoy.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) The separation between the Bovine's head and heart is never as far apart as it seems. Both senses work best when they come out of logic and honesty.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) The best way to keep those pre-holiday pressures under control is to just say no to taking on new tasks while you're still trying to work with a heap of others.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) News means a change might be on its way, but what does it hold? Don't just ask questions; make sure you get answers you can trust.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Old friends and new have one thing in common: Both your longtime and newly minted pals have much wisdom to impart.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) With time running out, this is a good time for you to show 'em all what those Virgo super-organizational skills can do.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Librans and holidays are made for each other, especially if children and animals are going to be part of your joyous season.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Time is getting too short to allow a spat to taint the holiday season. Restart your relationship and reschedule holiday fun times.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Seeking advice is laudable. You might learn far more than you thought you could. Stay with it.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Continuing to assess changes works toward your getting your new project up and ready. Trusted colleagues remain ready to help.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) That new situation needs a lot of attention, but it's worth it. This is a very good time for you to involve the arts in what you do.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) It might be a good idea to slow your hectic holiday pace so that you don't rush past what – or who – you're hoping to rush toward.

BORN THIS WEEK: Others pick up on your confidence in yourself, which inspires others to believe in you and your special gifts.

A Thought For The Week

We wouldn't be human if we, at some time or another, did not disagree with another person. We are all individuals; we have our own personal ideas and beliefs; our thoughts of right and wrong... As we all know, this can and does lead to quarrels and arguments. And, yes, they can be small or they can be "humdingers."

According to this 'tale' this is how early Indians resolved their quarrels - "Burying the hatchet" is an old expression, said to have originated from an Indian custom. They believed that evil spirits in the air caused people to quarrel and put hatred in their hearts. Therefore, whenever a dispute was settled between the parties involved, the hatchet, the symbol of hatred, was placed where it could have no power. At the burying of the hatchet those quarreling would stand over the hole and talk out their grievances, pacifying their souls that they buried their grievances with the hatchet. This is superstition, of course, but the Indians firmly believed that it ended all personal troubles between them.

CULINARY ARTS STUDENTS Anxhela Kapaj and Casey Smith get ready to unpack a container of turkeys that will be prepared by the Quincy High School students, packed and transported to Father Bill's & MainSpring's Thanksgiving Community Dinner Thursday from noon to 3 p.m. at Christ Episcopal Church, 12 Quincy Ave., Quincy.

Thanksgiving Community Dinner Thursday From Noon To 3 P.M. At Christ Episcopal Church

QHS Culinary Arts Students Cook For Fr. Bill's Dinner

By JOE REARDON

Students gathered around the cutting board where Quincy High culinary arts teacher Mark Kelly meticulously sliced part of a turkey, before demonstrating how to make the cleanest cut to separate a leg from the body.

The kitchen at Quincy High was busy all day Monday and Tuesday as the students brined, carved, roasted and pack just over 70 turkeys to be served at Father Bill's & Mainspring's Thanksgiving Community Dinner.

The annual dinner is now in its 20th year and will be held Thursday at the Christ Episcopal Church at 12 Quincy Ave from 12-3pm. The public is welcome.

Along with the turkeys, the students baked more than 200 apple, cherry and custard pies that were sold at the high school on Tuesday.

A dollar from each sale was slated to go towards supporting programs run by Father Bill's & Mainspring.

"We are thrilled to partner with Father Bill's & MainSpring once again this year," said Keith Seagalla, Quincy Public Schools Executive Director of Career & Technical Education and Instructional Technology. "Not only does this partnership give our students a wonderful learning opportunity to enhance their culinary skills, it also teaches them about civic responsibility and community service. We're are proud to be part of Father Bill's & MainSpring's mission and help support those in need in the Quincy community. We plan to expand on this partnership by participating in future initiatives with Father Bill's & MainSpring."

Kelly, who worked on preparing the turkeys for the meals with the students and fellow instructors Patrick Noe and Bill Gluvna, said the experience of helping those less fortunate was an offshoot of the work.

"It's a real life lesson," Kelly said. "They get to help the community out."

Sophomore Casey Smith said he feels for the less fortunate and likes the idea of giving them a helping hand around the holidays. "It's truly a good experience for us for Thanksgiving. It shows we do care and they're not out there alone."

He said his fellow students dive into the work and feel a sense of accomplishment and satisfaction knowing they're helping others.

"We're excited to help,"

Proposal For 4 New Single-Family Homes At 629 Willard Street Meeting Topic Nov. 30

Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci will host a community meeting Tuesday, Nov. 30 to discuss Galvin Construction's proposal to build four single-family homes at 629 Willard St., West Quincy.

The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 30 in the Foy Conference Room, second floor of City Hall, 1305 Hancock St.

All neighbors are invited and encouraged to attend and participate.

Proponents of the project are seeking neighborhood input into the project before making an application for a variance before the Zoning Board of Appeals in the near future, Palmucci said.

The developers will be present to discuss the proposal in further detail with interested neighbors.

Residents with questions about this or any other matter can contact Palmucci on his cell phone, 617-834-3945.

85 Units In 58th Christmas Parade Sunday

By JOE REARDON

The holiday season officially kicks in on Sunday, Nov. 28 with the 58th City of Quincy Christmas Parade beginning at 12:30 pm.

The Christmas Parade Theme winner was Karly Heine of South Weymouth with "Christmas around the World."

This year marks the 42nd time that the public has had the opportunity to take part in the selection process.

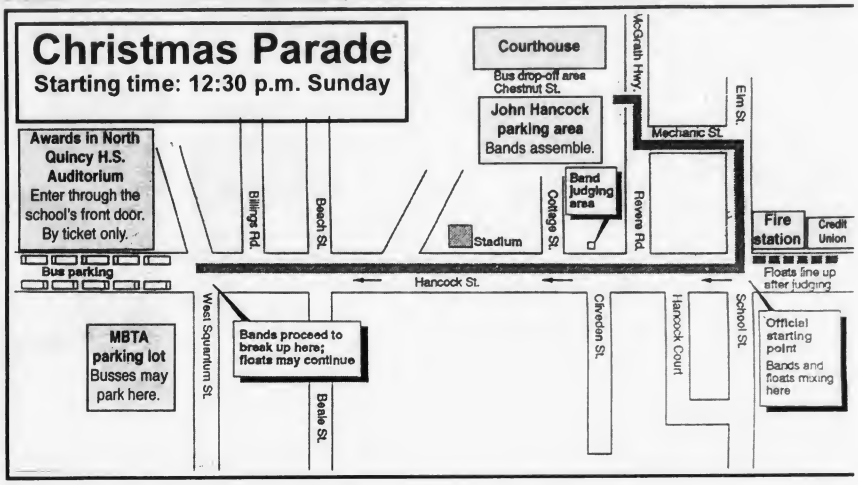
Heine said she was thrilled when she learned her theme was the winner.

"I have watched the parade since I was young and was able to participate in the parade through work representing the Quincy Credit Union for the past four years," Heine said. "I joined the QCU Parade Group because I love to be involved in the planning/creation of our float.

"I've participated as the following characters in past parades: Raggedy Andy, Christmas Mouse, Charlie Brown and Big Bird. I've submitted themes in years past hoping to bring my creativity and ideas to the entire parade. This year was my year."

Heine will be riding in a convertible along the 3-mile Parade Route and will receive a gift of appreciation from the Christmas Festival Committee.

Grand Marshal Rick Cobban, who since 1985 walked the 3-mile route on six-foot stilts, will be on one of the parade's many floats. For Cobban, the opportunity to be the Grand Marshal is an honor he's looking forward to.



"Being the grand marshal is very special to me," Cobban said. "I'm really looking forward to it.

"Of all the things I've done over the past 39 years (as a comedic entertainer), I look forward to the Quincy Christmas Parade. I'm a Quincy guy. You have 200,000 people along the parade route. Every step I take someone's yelling my name. It's very overwhelming."

The enormously popular parade includes marching bands, floats and antique cars, totaling 85 units in all. Among the more popular attractions in the parade are the Hallamore Clydesdales, Red Sox mascot Wally The

Finally fed up enough to move your checking account to another bank?

The new free checking account customers we're seeing lately have something in common. They're aggravated beyond belief with their old bank. They've had it with not being able to call their branch directly. They're sick of the constant staff turnover. When their old bank dropped overdraft protection and started charging monthly fees, these folks got fed up and decided to make a change too. They came to Colonial Federal – where free checking is convenient, easy and *still free. You get everything you're accustomed to, without the aggravation. You can come see us or call any time. We answer our own phones, no call center. We'll even help you move your Direct Deposit/s. Our customers love being with a neighborhood bank that's 100% local, stable and strong. Looking for a new home for your checking account? Come check us out! Or call Betty or Pauline at 617-471-0750.

WITH OUR FREE CHECKING, YOU GET FREE:

- ATM/DEBIT CARD
- ONLINE BANKING
- BILLPAY (when you pay 5+ bills a month)
- 1ST ORDER OF STANDARD CHECKS

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Nov. 30, 1886, the Folies Bergère in Paris introduces an elaborate revue featuring women in sensational costumes. The theater spared no expense, staging revues that featured as many as 40 sets. Among other long traditions, the show's title always contains 13 letters and includes the word "Folie."

• On Dec. 5, 1933, the 21st Amendment to the U.S. Constitution is ratified, repealing the 18th Amendment and bringing an end to the national prohibition of alcohol. Mississippi, the last dry state in the Union, ended Prohibition in 1966.

• On Dec. 4, 1945, in an overwhelming vote of 65 to 7, the U.S. Senate approves full U.S. participation in the United Nations. Some senators proposed a resolution designed to force the president to receive congressional consent before approving U.S. troops for any U.N. peacekeeping forces. The resolution was defeated.

• On Dec. 1, 1955, in Montgomery, Ala., Rosa Parks is jailed for refusing to give up her seat on a public bus to a white man, a violation of the city's racial segregation laws. Parks' refusal was not merely brought on by her tired feet, as is the popular legend. Local civil-rights leaders had been planning a challenge to Montgomery's racist bus laws for several months.

• On Dec. 3, 1967, 53-year-old Lewis Washkansky receives the first human heart transplant in Cape Town, South Africa. After surgery, he was given drugs to suppress his immune system and keep his body from rejecting the heart. He died 18 days later from double pneumonia.

• On Dec. 2, 1972, the Temptations earn the last of their four chart-topping hits when "Papa Was a Rollin' Stone" reaches No. 1 on the Billboard Hot 100. Earlier hits by producer-songwriter Smokey Robinson were "The Way You Do the Things You Do" (1964) and "My Girl" (1965).

• On Nov. 29, 1981, actress Natalie Wood, who starred in such movies as "Rebel Without a Cause" and "West Side Story," drowns in a boating accident near California's Catalina Island. It was believed she somehow slipped overboard while untying a dinghy attached to the boat.

Information On Support For Those Affected By March Floods At Library Dec. 4

MassSupport Network, a service of Riverside Community Care, will provide outreach to those affected by the floods in March as part of a Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and Massachusetts Department of Mental Health (DMH) funded crisis counseling grant.

MassSupport Network will be at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy, Wednesday, Dec. 1 from noon to 1 p.m. to make a presentation on stress management and disaster preparedness.

Residents affected by the floods are invited to receive information on community resources, support and guidance. MassSupport Network is working with voluntary organizations that may be able to help with home repairs and mold mitigation.

For more information on Riverside and MassSupport, call 781-433-0672 ext. 5637.

The Henry W. Bosworth, Jr. Memorial Award

We've changed the name and we hope you won't mind.

Everything else will stay the same.

HENRY

The Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year Award – which this newspaper has presented annually to an individual for outstanding community service since 1985, will now be known as The Henry W. Bosworth, Jr. Memorial Citizenship Award.

We think the change is appropriate and most fitting for the founder and longtime publisher of The Quincy Sun.

We hope our readers will agree.

Mr. Bosworth – who passed away unexpectedly in February, 2009 – gave his life to serving this country and this city. He grew up in Quincy Point and attended local schools before enlisting in the Navy shortly after the start of World War II. After the war, he worked at several daily newspapers before realizing a lifelong dream: publishing a weekly newspaper in Quincy – a city he often referred to as "the best in the world."

Last year, Mr. Bosworth was honored posthumously as the recipient of The Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year Award. Like other past recipients, he was nominated by a reader and his nomination was voted by a panel of judges.

We think it's fitting to rename the award in Henry's honor because he embodied what an outstanding citizen should be: a volunteer or professional who goes above and beyond to provide a service which improves the quality of life in Quincy. It also recognizes an unsung community hero – someone who deserves praise for his or her dedication to a worthy cause.

Granted, I'm not sure my father would approve of this name change . . . He probably would have wanted someone else to be recognized last year, too. He had been nominated for the award in the past but always graciously declined the nomination while thanking the person responsible for thinking of him.

But times change and we change along with them when it seems like the right thing to do.

In this instance, we think renaming the Sun's Citizen of the Year Award to the Henry W. Bosworth, Jr. Memorial Citizenship Award is an appropriate way to honor my father's legacy while continuing to recognize an outstanding citizen of the year. After all, Henry and The Quincy Sun are synonymous and they should be forever linked.

The award will also remain a community award and the Sun will still be the "vehicle" to present it.

It's official name will be "The Henry W. Bosworth, Jr. Memorial Citizenship Award" presented by The Quincy Sun.

Everything else – the award criteria, the nomination process and the selection – remains the same.

This will be the 26th year that the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service or a special achievement.

Beginning this week, Quincy Sun readers are invited to nominate an individual they believe is most deserving of the award.

A nomination ballot to help the selection process appears on Page 22 in this week's issue of The Quincy Sun.

The ballot will be printed in each issue of The Sun until nominations close on Friday, Dec. 31. After Dec. 31, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted.

If you know someone you would like to see recognized with the 2010 award, fill out the ballot and mail it to:

The Quincy Sun
Attn: Henry Bosworth Award
1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169.

Ballots can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address in Quincy Center by Dec. 31.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. We also encourage those submitting nominations attach to the ballot a letter detailing the reason for their nomination.

Nominees can be past or present public officials, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure, or an "unsung" neighbor, friend or community activist who has given freely or his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Those nominated in the past are eligible to be nominated again. Since this is not a popularity contest, each nominee has an equal chance of being selected regardless of the number of nominations received. Anyone nominated just once has the same chance of being the award recipient.

The name of the winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun early next year.

HE'S BEEN IN similar shoes and George Burke agrees with John Keenan's decision to fill out his councillor at-large term while serving as this city's next state senator. Keenan – who will be sworn in to a two-year term as state senator in January – will not seek re-election to the council next fall. So, during his first year as state senator, Keenan will also serve as a city councillor.

BURKE

Burke – a former duel office holder in Quincy – offers some personal history on holding more than one elective post.

"Fifty years ago I was a city councillor. At that time, Amelio Della Chiesa was the mayor of this city and also, at the same time, was a state representative from the First Norfolk District for many years.

"While I was a city councillor, I ran for state representative and was elected, also from the First Norfolk District, joining Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa as a duel office holder in the City of Quincy.

"In 1966, I was elected City Council president while holding the job as city councillor and state representative.

"At the age of 33, I also announced my candidacy for district attorney of Norfolk County. I was the first Democrat ever elected to this position. I took office as district attorney in 1967, while still a city councillor and council president.

"I announced that I would not run for re-election as city councillor and would complete the term that I was elected for.

"John Keenan grew up across the street from me on Lincoln Avenue in Wollaston. He is an outstanding city councillor and knows the issues presently before the City Council. He should complete his term in office based on the history of this city.

"He has already announced he will not run for re-election, same as I did when I was district attorney."

SHE'S STAYING PUT.

School Committeewoman Barbara Isola, who won the third school seat in the 2009 city election in a recount, says she is not interested in running for Ward 5 councillor next fall.

ISOLA

That seat – presently held by Doug Gutro – appears it will be open next fall since Gutro has indicated he will run for Keenan's open council at-large seat.

Isola – who won a four-year term on the school committee – says she is content . . . unless the right "offer" comes her way.

"Over the past several weeks, I have been asked by various people if I was considering a run for Ward 5 city councillor.

"My reply is that I ran for Quincy School Committee because of my deep commitment to Quincy Public Schools and I fully expect to complete my term and make positive contributions to our school system . . . unless of course, Hollywood calls," she adds with a laugh.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1924 postcard showing the then new Quincy High School on Coddington Street. When this school opened the old high school on Hancock Street became Central Junior High School. This building was the only high school in Quincy at the time; North Quincy High wouldn't graduate its first seniors for another dozen years. This building cost $1,068,000 and had 40 large classrooms. It also featured a 1,500-seat auditorium, a gym that held two classes at once, a cafeteria large enough for half the students and a large modern library. Next door, Faxon Filed, then a swamp, was being filled to build new athletic fields. Some 1,300 students and 58 teachers moved in here on opening day in September 1924. The building was soon pretty much at capacity and within a few years the city built three more junior high schools to accommodate a burgeoning school population. At the time, Quincy was the fastest growing city in the state. Now, with a new $130 million high school opened next door, this 87-year-old old building will probably be demolished. 300,000 Expected To See Christmas Parade Sunday

By FRANK McCAULEY

More than 300,000 people are expected to view the colorful floats, the galaxy of bands and the marching military units in the annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade.

This Week 1976 34 Years Ago

A highlight of this year's event will be more than a score of marching bands who will be competing for the State High School Parade Marching Band Championship.

George C. Fay is chairman of the Festival Committee.

The theme of this year's festival is "Especially for Children" and a colorful array of floats have been organized by Richard Venna, chairman of the Floats Division, to delight both young and old.

The Christmas Lighting Ceremony will be held at the McIntyre Mall at 6:30 p.m., Friday, Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia will do the honors, flipping the switch that will light up Yule decorations throughout the city.

TOBIN PROPOSES COMMITTEE TO DETERMINE COMMUNITY COLLEGE FUTURE

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, who is also a state senator, has asked that a Blue Ribbon committee be established to determine the future of the proposed South Shore Community College.

Tobin, who made the request to Quincy Junior College President Dr. Edward Pierce, said he was moved to ask for the committee in the wake of a statement attributed to School Committee member Charles T. Sweeny that state takeover of QJC is not needed.

"Although I consider Charlie a good friend and one who speaks his mind, which I sincerely respect," said Tobin, "I have to wonder whether I am butting my head against the wall both in the state and local levels of government."

"It is my intention to request a meeting with the Governor to discuss the status of the Junior College."

Wollaston Theatre, Quincy Center Redevelopment Concerns

I would like to submit the following letter to the Editor concerning the Wollaston theater and the downtown redevelopment project.

Little has been made of Streetworks default regarding the purchase and renovation of this project. Streetworks signed an agreement to purchase this property and ended up defaulting. There seems to be little or no consequence for this action by Streetworks because this is separate from the downtown redevelopment project according to Mayor Koch.

This is wrong. This was supposedly a $3 million project which ballooned to a $7 million project therefore it was not in Streetworks best interest to honor this agreement but we are told that the redevelopment agreement is different. All the numbers have been checked throughly and the taxpayers have nothing to worry about so let's look at that closer.

It appears from my questions to Mayor Koch at his community meeting that the purchase of the Hancock and the Ross will be financed through the infrastructure financing. That means there is no money down nor does the City receive any cash up front for this purchase which makes no sense to me but probably makes it harder for Streetworks to default on this purchase.

The City's attorney's and financial team have repeatedly stated that the City is secure because reimbursement can not take place unit the buildings are 75 % occupied and the City has received 121A payments for at least two quarters to show that there is sufficient revenue to support the bonds.

The problem is 15 % of the payment of the bonds is tied to parking revenue. So although, the developer may secure 75 % occupancy of the buildings and make these quarterly payments, there is no guarantee that parking revenue will be sufficient to meet the City's obligation on the bonds.

If the City Councilors and the Mayor truly want to protect the taxpayers, this arrangement should contain language with redeveloper that the new buildings will contain lease agreements to purchase x amount of parking from the new city lots.

This gives you a guaranteed revenue stream and further protects that taxpayers from any shortage that may occur in future parking problems with the new garages.

Robert C. Haley
75 Elmwood Park # 20
Quincy

A Response From The Mayor's Chief Of Staff

I wish to correct several inaccuracies contained in Robert Haley's letter that was sent to this Office as well as The Sun. While Mayor Koch believes that nearly three years of negotiating a master agreement to redevelop Quincy Center has produced a level of protection for our taxpayers virtually unheard of for an urban redevelopment project of this magnitude, we understand there will always be differences of opinion. Those differences, however, cannot not be confused with facts.

Mr. Haley states that the purchase of the Ross Garage and Hancock lot will be done "with no money down" or without any "up front cash for this purchase." In reality, the City does receive money up-front before the sale of the first City parcel (the Ross Garage) can take place. In total, by the time Street-Works purchases the Ross Garage, the City will receive $42,725,469. These monies include:

$1.1 million in non-refundable deposits

$10 million for public improvements outside of the district

$30 million to pay of the City's previous downtown financing

$740,000 for affordable housing

$250,000 at minimum for the City to hire consultant to review the project.

Mr. Haley also mischaracterizes the role of parking revenue in the structure of the redevelopment agreement by stating that "15 percent of the bond payment is tied to parking revenue." While the financial model does include parking revenue – it is not contigent upon it.

A total of 87 percent of City funds that will pay for public infrastructure improvements will be secure revenue sources generated by the new development through the land-sale proceeds and the Chapter 121A methodology. That same methodology requires a 20 percent protection be built into the calculation of the revenue stream, meaning that even if the parking garages sit unused, there is enough cushion built into the agreement to guarantee sufficient funds to cover the bond payments.

Mr. Haley suggests that the City require Street-Works to have private lease agreements to guarantee occupancy of public parking spaces. This would be illegal, as a public parking garage cannot be automatically leased to private tenants. A 95 percent beneficial public use is required on all public projects. However, Mr. Haley's assumption that a high percentage of the paid parking in Quincy Center will be used for large office or residential tenants is valid.

In the end, if the revenue streams – even when calculated using this exceedingly conservative methodology – do not meet the City's needs in the first two development steps and produce revenue well beyond what is needed to pay for the bonds, the agreement includes a "look back" provision that will allow us to revisit the methodology for future steps.

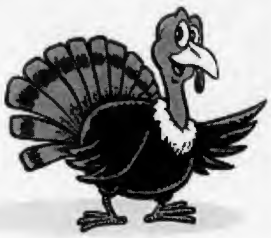
Marie's Kitchen



BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Roast Turkey Stuffing

There are so many ways to prepare stuffing for turkey or for any other food, and I have certainly used a few, but I always go back to my original one that I have made for years. Of course I could just enjoy the stuffing by itself especially if it is ever left over. (A rarity)

In today's recipe I am using some ground meat, but you can certainly leave that out and the stuffing will still be delicious. I make mine ahead of time, and if you are going to place it in the turkey, it has to be done when the stuffing is cold. It can also be cooked separately in a casserole dish. I usually make enough to be stuffed in the turkey and the dish as well.

ROAST TURKEY STUFFING

1 stalk celery (cut in small pieces)
1 small onion (chopped)
1-tablespoon Bell's seasoning or teaspoon thyme
½ bag of stuffing mix (soaked) or equivalent)
2 tablespoons oil
¼ cup white wine (optional)
½ pound ground turkey, beef or any other favorite

In the hot oil, sauté the celery and onion. Add the meat and sauté until well blended. Add the wine, the stuffing mixture and the Bell's seasoning. If dry, add some chicken stock or water.

When I stuff the turkey, I use toothpicks to close, or aluminum foil.

If you are making it in the casserole dish, bake covered in a 350-degree oven for about 35 minutes.

This is just a basic way to prepare stuffing, but any other favorite ingredient can be added such as oysters, sausage, chestnuts and mushrooms.

Happy Thanksgiving Day!

What To Do With Leftover Mashed Potatoes

Here it is the day after Thanksgiving and if you are looking for a great way to use up those mashed potatoes, and you're not going to use them as a side for hot turkey sandwiches, here is a solution that I have used so many times and to great raves.

POTATO PATTIES

Assuming you have at least two cups cold mashed potatoes
1 slightly beaten egg
¼ cup chopped onion
Salt and pepper to taste
Enough flour for dipping the patties
Two tablespoons vegetable oil and 2 tablespoons butter

Combine all of the ingredients and mix well. Shape into six patties. Dip each one into the flour.

Heat the oil and butter together. Brown the patties slowly about five minutes on each side. Serve hot. They can be kept in a warming oven if not eaten immediately.

A Night Of Thanks And Giving

GRADUATE GEMOLOGIST
NO WEAK LINKS
If you are as enamored of the current fashion of layering gold necklaces as many women seem to be, you are probably on the lookout for beautiful solid-link chains. These elegant necklaces come in a variety of styles, including the popular anchor chain and figaro (which usually features an alternating pattern of one large and three small links). A chain link that has been twisted and then flattened is often called a "curb link." Link chains also come in a variety of sizes, ranging from the small, basic chain known as the cable, commonly used for small pendants, to larger, striking necklaces and bracelets. Normally, the thicker the link, the stronger it is, provided it is solid and well-soldered.
Wife, sweetheart, mother, daughter, sister, or very special friend—we know what she's been dreaming of for this upcoming holiday. We are very much aware of today's trends in solid-link chains and other fine jewelry, and we'll be happy to keep you up to date on what is new and exciting. Our custom designs range from chic, up-to-the-minute designs to the well-loved traditions of the past, so you're sure to find what you are looking for at 1402 Hancock Street, Quincy Center. City Wins Model School Designation

New Central Plans Moving Ahead

With entry into the state's model school program now secured for a new Central Middle School, Mayor Thomas Koch said Monday that the City is making "great progress" on an agreement to purchase the former St. Ann's School from the Boston Archdiocese.

Taken together, the model school program and the reuse of the St. Ann's site for a major portion of a new Central is expected to shave several million dollars off the cost of the new building – and a substantial amount of time for design and land acquisitions, officials said.

"We are committed to a building a first-class facility for our children, and at the same time doing every possible to save money for our taxpayers," Koch said. "We are grateful to Treasurer Cahill and Executive Director Craven, whose leadership has made this innovative, cost-saving program possible. We are very much looking forward to working together with our partners on the School Building Authority on this vital project."

State Treasurer Tim Cahill, chairman of the Massachusetts School Building Authority, and Katherine Craven, MSBA Executive Director, announced last week that Central has been invited into the Model School Program. The next steps are for the City of Quincy and the MSBA to work in collaboration to study which model best suits the school's site, enrollment and educational needs to solve the problems identified in the district's Statement of Interest.

The MSBA's Model Schools effectively adapt and re-use the design of successful, recently constructed schools; simplifying the design process, reducing the amount of time projects are in the design phase and lowering design fees, officials said. Using elements of a previously designed Model School allows projects to begin construction faster and reduces construction costs for the project. At least a year of design work can be saved by using a Model School.

"Our Model School program for high schools has saved taxpayers millions of dollars," said Treasurer Cahill. "I am excited to bring that type of meaningful savings to communities who have deficiencies in their middle schools."

"We have been working closely with Mayor Koch on this matter," said Craven. "He has convinced me that the Model School Program is a good fit for Central Middle School."

The MSBA strives to find the right-sized, most fiscally responsible and educationally appropriate solutions to create safe and sound learning environments. The MSBA is committed to protecting the taxpayer's dollar by improving the school building grant process and avoiding the mistakes of the past in the funding and construction of school facilities.

The MSBA has reformed the Commonwealth's formerly rampant and unsustainable program, which had accumulated $11 billion in debt. In 2007, as a result of programmatic reforms and sound fiscal management, the MSBA was able to reopen a sustainable, reformed grant program. In its six year history, the MSBA has made more than $7.2 billion in reimbursements to cities, towns and regional school districts for school construction projects. These timely payments have saved municipalities over $2.9 billion in avoided local interest costs and have provided much needed cash flow to communities in these difficult economic times.

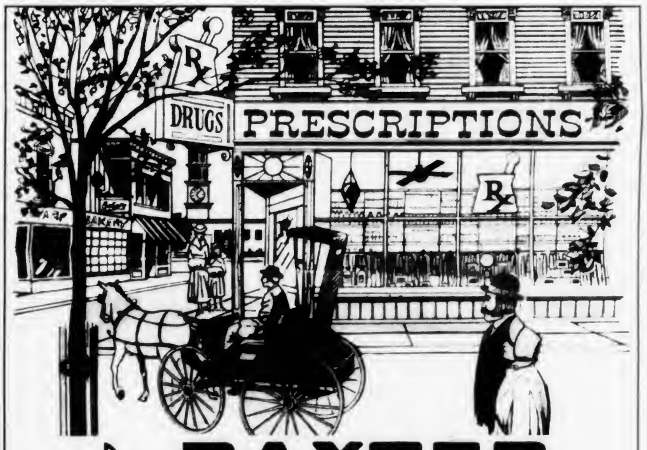
LUNCH WITH The Mayor – Mayor Tom Koch recently had lunch with Squantum Elementary School students Tommy McGovern (left) and Christopher Alallam. The students won a "Lunch with the Mayor" certificate in a raffle which was part of a fundraiser for the school.

Affordable Housing Trust To Receive $7 Million From Downtown Project

The City's Affordable Housing Trust Fund will receive a minimum of $7.5 million for its trust fund that is used to build affordable housing in different areas of the City.

The Trust Fund's Board of Directors voted unanimously to accept a plan that will see Street-Works Development LLC contribute $10,000 to the Trust Fund for every housing unit it builds as part of the $1.3 billion Quincy Center overhaul.

Current plans call for a total of 750 housing units, ranging from middle-income workforce housing to luxury condominiums to be built in Quincy Center. The contribution to the Trust is a part of the overall development master agreement now before the City Council.



The Trust will receive the money when Street-Works receives permits for specific housing developments. It will be largest contribution the Trust has ever received.

"Mayor Koch's team negotiated a tremendous agreement that will allow us great flexibility and latitude in creating moderate-income housing across Quincy," said Thomas A. Fabrizio, Executive Director of the Affordable Trust. "This is a strong statement in support of workhouse housing in our community."

The Trust Fund contribution is among a series of community benefits negotiated as part of the City's agreement allowing Street-Works to redevelop Quincy Center, including $10 million for public improvements outside of the downtown district and a $30 million payment that will cover the City's previous downtown development debt.

85 Units In 58th Annual Christmas Parade Sunday

Green Monster and 30 Aleppo Shriners Clowns.

Among the marching bands participating in the parade are the Boston Crusaders, Case High School, Weymouth High School, New Bedford High School, David Prouty High School, Somerset High School, Douglas High School, North/Quincy High Schools, Hanover High School, Natick Legion Band, Waltham Legion Post, Immaculate Heart of Mary High School, Acton-Boxboro High School and the 103rd Electricians Pipe Band

The parade draws approximately 200,000 spectators annually and they line the route that proceeds down Hancock Street in Quincy Center to East and West Squantum Streets at North Quincy High. The rain date is Sunday, Dec. 5. If postponed, announcements will be made on WATD radio in Marshfield and Boston area stations beginning at 6:30 am.

Floats will be judged before the parade between 9:30 and 11:45 am in the Quincy Credit Union parking area at Scammell Street and Quincy Ave.

Santa will be riding on a Quincy Fire Truck.

The top prize for the best float is the Father Thomas Tierney Trophy and $1,500 in cash. Fr. Tierney was the founder of the Christmas Parade in 1952. Smaller prizes are given in several categories.

The judges will rate the bands as they pass through the Cottage Avenue and Hancock Street area.

The awards for both the best floats and bands will be presented in the North Quincy High School auditorium after the parade.

Mayor Thomas Koch and a contingent of former mayors will march in the parade as well as color guards representing the Quincy Police Department, Boston Police Department, Morrisette Legion Post, 2nd Marine Division, US Navy, Quincy Fire Department, US Coast Guard Auxiliary Div. 12 and the Weymouth Police Department.

Others marching in the parade include the Quincy Police Department Lead Unit, Quincy Police Department Motorcycles, Morrisette Legion Post Sons of American Legion, Silver Dolphin Drill Team, Mayors Committee "Thank You" Banner, Municipal Officials, Council On Aging Van, Ronald McDonald Vehicle, Poster Contest Winners Grade 1-9, Boston Police Gaelic Column, Aleppo Shriners Fire Brigade, Norfolk County Sheriff's Dept, Toys For Tots, McGruff Crime Dog, DARE Convertible, Fallon Ambulance, Plymouth American Legion Post #40, Corvette Cars, Tortorelli Music Vehicle (Worcester Power), Quincy Fire Department Vehicle and the Quincy Fire Department Pumper.

Santa's Mailbox Opens Friday

Santa's Mailbox will open on Constitution Common (City Hall Plaza) Friday, Nov. 26, for the Christmas season.

Children writing letters to Santa may drop them in the mailbox to be forwarded to the old gentleman at the North Pole.

Marines To Collect 'Toys For Tots' During Parade

U.S. Marines will continue the tradition of collecting "Toys for Tots" along the Quincy Christmas Parade route Sunday, Nov. 28 which begins at 12:30 p.m.

The custom of collecting the distributing toys for needy children began on a nation-wide basis 60 years ago.

On Sunday, local Marine reservists will walk along the approximate 3-mile parade route placing toys in the vehicles provided.

In the Quincy area, the Toys for Tots program is directed by the 1st Battalion, 25th Marines with the cooperation of civilians and former Marines.

To donate to the Toys for Tots program, the public is invited to bring new, unwrapped, non-violent toys to the parade where they will be picked up by the Marines and placed in trucks passing along the three-mile Hancock Street parade route.

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee members, organizers of the 58th Quincy Christmas Parade are hopeful this year's spectators will show the same "Semper Fidelis" spirit that they have shown in the past, playing a role to the continuing success of this Marine's Toys for Tots program.

Downtown Streets Closed For Parade

A number of streets in Quincy Center will be closed to vehicular traffic at various times during Sunday's Christmas Festival Parade

Quincy Avenue from Elm, Hancock and School Streets the Scammell Street will be closed at 9 a.m. to all but parade participants to permit to parade to assemble.

Water Street will be closed at Franklin Street at 11 a.m. Until this time, traffic can use Water Street from Franklin Street only as an access to Quincy Avenue going south. There will be no left turn.

Quincy Avenue at Water Street will remain open going south only from Scammell Street.

Hancock Street barricade areas:

Hancock Street at Quincy Avenue south to Scammell Street, 9 a.m.

Quincy Avenue at Scammell Street north, 9 a.m.

Scammell Street open to traffic. Water Street at Quincy Avenue right turn only, 11 a.m.

Elm Street at South Street, 10:30 a.m.

Christ Church parishioners will be given access to arrive and leave their Sunday religious services ending around 10 a.m. After that, they will use the rear parking exit to Elm Street, taking a right on Elm.

Santa, Elves To Arrive By Parachute Saturday

Santa Claus and three of his hard-working elves will arrive in Quincy by parachute Saturday, Nov. 27, landing at Pageant Field up the road from Adams Field at 12:30 p.m.

The year marks the 32nd anniversary of Santa's arrival by parachute.

Prior to Santa's arrival, costumed characters will arrive by trolley at 11:30 a.m. to hand out candy canes to children.

After Santa and his three elves have landed, Mr. Claus, his elves and costume characters will leave by trolley and be driven through downtown Quincy Center.

Turning On The Christmas Lights Friday

The Quincy Christmas Festival Committee will kick off a weekend of holiday programs with the Turning on the Christmas Lights Friday, Nov. 26 at 7:30 p.m. in the Presidents Place Galleria, across from Quincy City Hall), 1250 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

There will be an hour of entertainment preceeding the turning on the lights.

From 6:30 to 6:45 p.m., costume characters will give candy canes to children.

Donna Marie Children's Puppet Show Program will be held from 6:45 to 7:20 p.m.

Santa will make a brief appearance during a Christmas sing-along from 7:20 to 7:30 p.m.

The lights will be turned on at 7:30 p.m.

Nativity Pageant Dec. 13 At United First Parish

The annual Nativity Pageant will take place Sunday, Dec. 12 at 6:30 p.m. at the United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

It will be conducted by the Rev. Jack O'Brien, Sacred Heart Church, and the Rev. Sheldon Bennett of United First Parish Church.

'Green,' 'Low Impact' Design Guidelines For Downtown District

For Planning Board's Permitting Decisions

In January 2010, the Planning Board established an advisory committee to research and review "green" and "low impact" design guidelines already in use in other states and in cities similar in size to Quincy.

The objective of the research was to create a set of "green" and "low impact" design guidelines for the Planning Board to use in their permitting decisions for the Quincy Center Districts.

Their work, approved by the Board Oct. 13, has become incorporated as a Chapter on Sustainability into the Quincy Center District Design Guidelines.

Meeting on a bi-monthly basis since March, the advisory committee members have been devoted to their task, working diligently for more than six months. They have invested many hours of their time in their research reviewing alternatives and formats that would best suit the Quincy Center Districts and, as an added benefit, have become good friends. Their professional credentials and dedication to the assignment are of incalculable value to the Planning Board.

"We were lucky to find such an enthusiastic group of young professionals to participate in this project," said Dennis E. Harrington, Quincy Planning Director. "We're particularly pleased that they have recognized the importance of participation in the civic life of their city. We see them all as the future members of important Boards and Commissions."

Bill Adams, chairman of the Planning Board, said, "This is a wonderful group of talented young men and women who enthusiastically volunteered to take on the most special of projects – Sustainability Guidelines. The residents of this terrific city will forever be indebted to them for the far-reaching and positive effect that this concise and professional document will have on their lives and the lives of their children and their children's children as we go forward.

"It is a perfect example of what can be achieved when you are able to get the community involved."

The advisory committee members are all residents of Quincy:

Co-chair Nathan Turner, Architect

Co-chair Patricia Burke, Green Building Consulting

Hannah Carlson, Landscape Architect

Jennifer Stacy, City Planning

Kristine Locke, Environmental Management

Kraig Peterson, Legal

Also on the committee are:

Planning Board Chairman, William Adams

Principal Planner Quincy Planning Department, Mary Smith, RLA.

Stress Stricter Protections For The City, Oversight In Land Disposition Agreement

Councillors Analyze Details, Finances Of Downtown Plan

(Monday's public hearing was held after The Quincy Sun went to press due to Thanksgiving. Those who miss the hearing or are unable to attend may call, write or e-mail council members with their comments.)

By LAURA GRIFFIN

The devil is in the details, according Thomas Kiley, one of the city's legal consultants and City Councillors want those details in the Quincy Redevelopment agreement to be specific and absolute for future interpreters.

City councillors last week discussed stricter protections for the city and oversight by the council to be written into the Land Disposition Agreement or LDA that spells out the contract between the city and the redeveloper.

Councillors cited several areas where, they believe, the legal language could be adjusted or expanded for clarity as they continued analyzing the agreement.

To date, the council's Downtown Committee headed by Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro and the Finance Committee headed by Councillor John Keenan have met jointly four times to scrutinize the agreement.

The committee chairmen will announce additional meetings this week. Once the committees conclude their review, they will recommend council action.

During recent meetings, councillors sought the particulars on the first planned structure, a $50 million parking facility, discussed the city's initial $27 million investment in the facility, future parking fees, curbs on future changes in the plan, and a route for enforcement of the agreement.

Councillors also discussed the process for obtaining the $244 million bond authorizations required for infrastructure improvements and were told the city should bulk up its waning reserves in order to maintain the current Moody bond rating of AA3.

The 62-page LDA, which spells out in binding legal terms the proposed agreement between the city and the developer, must be approved by the council, and then signed by the mayor and agents of the developer, Hancock Adams Associates LLC.

Hancock Adams is the entity created in 2008 to develop New Quincy Center, and is led by Street-Works Development LLC as the managing member

"We are entering into a contract; this is not a one-sided document," Attorney Robert Fishman said in describing the LDA.

Fishman, an attorney with Nutter, McClennan & Fish, acted as a consultant for the city's team while the city and Street-Works representatives ironed out the details of the LDA.

LDA Timetable

On Nov. 9, Sarah Woodworth, Managing Member, W-ZHA Financial Advisors, presented a detailed timetable for the Step 1 of the redevelopment plan. Woodworth and Kiley, a partner in Cosgrove, Eisenberg and Kiley, LLP, are also on the city's nine-member advisory team for the redevelopment project.

According to Woodworth, the ratio of private investment to city spending will always be four to one for the project and the developer's cash will always be invested first. Even after the bonds are due, the payments will be made from new construction and fees.

Once the LDA kicks in, the city will receive a first payment of $100,000 and a second $250,000 deposit for the city's consultant escrow accounts, according to Woodworth's timetable which calls for the LDA approval in January.

For its part, the city must then seek and obtain $50 million in state and federal grants for the Town Brook, Hancock Commons and Clividen Bridge projects, and proceed toward authorization of $244 million in development bonds.

"We have to get Town Brook funding by January, 2012," Sarah Woodworth, Managing Member, W-ZHA Financial Advisors.

According to the plan, the city would close on the sale of the Ross Parking Garage in September 2013 and receive $30 million earmarked for payment of the Concourse bond and another $10 million for community use.

By that date, Woodworth's timetable shows the redeveloper will have finalized such steps as purchasing all the private property required for Step 1, executing a 121A agreement, executing a performance bond and making the payments noted above and the project will be cleared by environmental and state agencies.

Under the agreement, the city will sell the Ross and Hancock Parking Lots to the developer for a combined total of $4.8 million. However, the two lots will be transferred separately. The sale in September 2013 of the five-acre Ross Lot for $1.74 million is a key element of Step 1. The sale of the Hancock lot is not part of Step One.

According to Woodworth's calculations, the city's funding for Step 1 of the project will stem from its land sale (4%), parking revenues (14%) and 121A payments (82%). A similar model with slight variations was depicted for the total plan.

Built into the plan are increased parking revenues from the proposed underground parking facility, sale of the Ross property, the higher taxes and payments for the new buildings constructed under the state's 121A statute. That statute promotes municipal development or re-development of sub-standard or decadent areas.

"This project is going to pay for itself," said Woodworth who labeled the anticipated tax revenues from 121A projects a "very secure source of money."

"There will be resources at every step," said Woodworth who estimated that building fees paid to the city will likely top $18 million and cited "drop dead" dates for both parties. The parties must meet the details of the agreement by those dates or the deal is off.

The current timetable for completion of Step 1 is September, 2017 with construction underway by 2014.

Finances

The city must strengthen its own finances before seeking the $244 million bond authorization needed for the LDA, according to Cynthia McNerney, the city's Financial Advisor, who addressed councillors Nov. 18.

McNerney discussed bond ratings with councillors and was joined by bond counsel Richard Manley, Jr., of Edwards Angell Palmer & Dodge, who, along with McNerney, favored the LDA's use of 121A for the redevelopment plan.

"It's very creative," said McNerney of the proposed 121A financing which permits the city to pay for infrastructure improvements after income from the improvements materializes. "I think this is a very creative solution."

Under the alternative redevelopment financing known as DIF (District Improvement Financing), municipalities fronted the cost of the improvements with the expectation, "If you build it, they will come," said McNerney.

For some cities, the developers never came or never produced sufficient income, according to McNerney who said those cities were stuck with bill, "They fell flat on their face."

McNerney also cited the "piecemeal" structure or "Steps" of the project whereby the city would borrow the $50 million and develop a track record on the redevelopment project and the phased-in income.

"The problem with fronting the money (is) there's no revenues during that time," said McNerney who commended the Quincy project. "This is a path that seems to make a lot of sense."

However, McNerney offered cautions to the councillors. She cited the city's shrinking reserves and stated that Moody's Financial Services recently downgraded Quincy from AA2 to AA3. While that rating is not a concern, any lower rating could affect the city's upcoming bonds, according to McNerney.

"That's the lowest rating in the double A category," said McNerney who warned councillors that the city should be building up its reserves before seeking the bond authorization.

"It's very important that it (the city) maintain the Double A rating," said McNerney who referred to the city's other projects either underway or in planning stages, such as the new high school and new middle school building. "You are challenged by what you are trying to accomplish."

"The (stabilization) fund balance has gone down significantly," said McNerney and city records confirmed her concerns.

Contacted after the meeting, City Auditor Sue O'Connor reported that the Stabilization Fund balance was $3,551,062 as of Nov. 19. According to O'Connell's records, receipts from the new meals' tax added over $120,000 to the fund since June 30 and the balance is increasing.

However, O'Connell's records, also, show that in fiscal year 2009, the fund balance was over $5.4 million and in fiscal year 2008, the balance was $7.9 million with double-digit balances as high as $12 million in the years prior to 2008. Free cash figures are not available until December.

Sea Turtles, Bonnethead Sharks, Cownose Rays Greeted At $3.7M Holding Facility On South St.

First 'Residents' Arrive At Aquarium's New Animal Care Center

By JOE REARDON

Photos On Page 19

One by one, newly arrived Cownose Rays were carefully transferred from the New England Aquarium truck into a container of fresh water to kill any bacteria that may be present. After a few minutes, they were then placed into the larger, salt-water tanks by the marine biologists who oversaw the move.

Inconspicuous on the grounds of the Fore River Shipyard among the other large, brick industrial buildings, the 240 by 100-foot structure now houses some of the most state-of-the-art equipment to nurse sea life back to health.

"There had been a desire for an offsite holding facility for rescued marine animals, animals in quarantine and for animals that were arriving for later display," said Tony LaCasse of the New England Aquarium. "If you were in this building nine months ago, it was a huge, dusty area.

"This space allows us to move animals back and forth and make the marine biologists' jobs easier."

The holding area had been in the works for more nearly two years. Aquarium officials looked at different locations within Boston before heading south and securing a 20-year lease from shipyard owner Jay Cashman, of the Cashman Co., for the holding area to be on the grounds of the shipyard.

The facility will include between 20-30 tanks, the largest being 30-feet in diameter and 6-feet deep. The facility also includes loading and work zones and exam rooms. It became operational in the summer and expanded this fall.

The animals will be collected from various locations in the U.S.

"Cashman is pleased to welcome such a well-known organization like the New England Aquarium to the Quincy Shipyard," said Cashman last August. "The aquarium's off-site holding and rescue operations will be a tremendous addition to the existing space, bringing an important facility to the region. The aquarium's presence is one of the cornerstones of the area's rebirth, as we look to bring in new and vital enterprises to the shipyard, stimulating growth for the local business community.

"We couldn't be prouder that they're (aquarium) housed here. It allows this place to beam with opportunity."

The marine animal rescue team rescues and rehabilitates stranded, injured and diseased marine animals from along the Massachusetts and New Hampshire coast. The animals include whales, dolphins, porpoises and seals. The main focus, however, is the rehabilitation of endangered sea turtles. In late autumn, dozens to hundreds of Kemps-Ridley and Green Sea Turtles become stranded on Cape Cod beaches because of hypothermia. The turtles were taken in Mass Bay where they were unable to return to the warmer waters in the Gulf of Mexico.

The turtles are kept in tanks of different temperature so they can transition from 54-degree water to their natural habitat of 73-degrees without harm. They will eventually grow to be 18 inches across.

Young Hammer Head Sharks, too, swim in the smaller, 10,000-gallon tank.

The largest tank holds 30,000 gallons of water and is home to the Hollow Rays. The rays were netted in Chesapeake Bay, transferred to an aquarium in Duxbury then to Quincy. Another 80 rays will be added in the coming months.

The new facility offers the complex and lengthy medical treatment the turtles require. Once healthy, the animals are released back into the wild.

Marine biologists from the New England Aquarium work rotating schedules at the facility, while several are full-time employees at the holding area.

"This is a labor of love for the aquarium staff," said LaCasse.

The $3.7 million facility includes high tech filters, pumps and water tanks that can hold dozens of various types of sea life. About $1.5 million more is expected to go towards more work needed in the aquarium.

LaCasse said there are over 750 species of sea life that ultimately could spend time at the holding facility. "This facility will host every kind of sea life you can possibly imagine," he said.

The facility offers space not available at the New England Aquarium in Boston. Similar work was done behind the scenes with very little room.

Eventually, LaCasse said, aquarium officials will meet with Mayor Thomas Koch's office about holding open houses at the facility, as well as school field trips for Quincy students and others around the South Shore.

Councillors Analyze Downtown Plan

Con't From Page 12

Agreement Details

At their Nov. 18 joint committee meeting, councillors challenged some of the wording in the LDA and questioned the city's role.

Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi sought more details regarding the city's $27 million investment in the parking facility and said the agreement offers no recourse for enforcement and no penalties if one party reneges on the agreement. Raymondi suggested an agency such as the Inspector General's office.

Raymondi also asked why the city is paying part of the costs of the first parking facility.

"Why are the taxpayers bearing the burden?" asked Raymondi while City Council President Kevin Coughlin foresees higher maintenance costs for the city from an underground parking facility and Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee feared that high parking fees will be a deterrent to shoppers.

Woodworth explained that an underground state-of-the-art parking lot with 568 spaces for public use is planned to complement a big box store which will be constructed above the lot and that the parking fees will cover its costs.

"The public sees parking costs as an obstacle (to) a destination for shopping," said Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee who, also, asked about validations for parking and private parking areas.

"You could conceivably do something like that," said Kiley, adding that the redevelopment plan is not designed to "....recreate ShoppersWorld as many of us knew it as kids. This is not a street retail development."

Gutro sought guarantees that the city would not be responsible for any environmental issues arising from the sale and clearance of the parking lots.

"You have a cap on your exposure," responded Kenneth Narvas, co-founder and partner of Street-Works. "You're capped as if it (hazards) didn't exist. (It's) our problem."

"To me that's not perfectly resolved," said Gutro, adding he wanted "more protection for the city" written into the LDA regarding the city's responsibility for hazardous waste after the transfer of the lots.

Councillor Joseph Finn, also, suggested the city could be responsible for disposing of hazardous soil with the current wording of the LDA. "There could be an inconsistency."

Kiley agreed. "I think it's a good point. It many need to be negotiated."

Councillors also questioned other areas in the legal document which could be challenged in a legal dispute at a later date and fuzzy language regarding "minor changes" which are not clarified in the LDA.

Under the agreement, a future mayor and the Director of Urban Planning and Development may allow "minor changes" without seeking clearance from City Council but "minor" is not defined.

Finn questioned the description of minor changes as "it doesn't speak to what a major change would be."

Fishman agreed that language could be adjusted for clarity.

McNamee and Keenan both described their problems with contracts in interpreting legal language long after a contract is finalized and both sought strict unambiguous definitions.

"The language always has to be interpreted 10 years later," said Keenan while McNamee urged the lawyers to include examples.

"We are limited because there's not enough specificity in this agreement," said McNamee who described his own work interpreting old contracts.

The committees concluded the first round of reviews last week and will set dates for additional meetings after this week's public hearing.

Healthful Eating For People Who Love Food

By TOM NIKKOLA

(NAPSA)-It is possible to enjoy the holiday season without losing sight of your exercise and nutrition programs. By setting ground rules, you can enjoy holiday parties and celebrations without overdoing the food- or starving yourself. Consider these simple ideas:

1. Don't succumb to peer pressure. If you'll be around other people indulging in sweets, treats and other unhealthy delights, be prepared. If you do choose to partake in some less healthful options, do it because you decided to, not because someone else talked you into it.

2. Good prep leads to a well- balanced party. Completing a workout prior to a dinner party or other event can help you better metabolize the food you're about to eat. While you likely won't burn more calories than you consume, exercise increases insulin sensitivity and powerfully prepares your body to store more glycogen, meaning more of those carbohydrates will likely be stored in your muscle instead of being converted to fat.

3. Water, water and more water. Constantly sipping on water is a great way to stay "full." A couple of glasses before a meal can be a great way to keep a lid on food intake. In fact, a recent American Chemical Society presentation said drinking two glasses of water prior to a meal can produce greater weight loss than consuming the meal alone.

4. Go for the veggies first. Besides being loaded with nutrients, the considerable fiber and water found in vegetables can help you avoid overeating. If you're dining out, start with a salad. If you're at a party, look for the vegetable tray.

5. Got protein? Keep it lean. Some fat in the diet is important. And the fat found in pasture-raised or grass-fed animal protein even has some health-promoting effects. Chances are, however, when you're at a party or going out for dinner, the meat wasn't raised that way. Look for a lean source of protein, such as grilled chicken, fish, turkey or lean cuts of beef.

6. Save the sweets and carbs for last. If you stay true to the ideas above, you'll likely feel pretty satisfied. Sweet potatoes, regular potatoes and rice are good sources of carbohydrates and they're gluten-free. If you still crave the occasional high-carbohydrate treat, be sure to consume a balanced meal of vegetables and protein first.

Quit Smoking: Dana-Farber Expert Offers Tips For Kicking The Habit

There is never a bad time to stop smoking, but if you want to take the step toward a healthier life, there's no time like the present.

"The most important thing you can do to avoid lung cancer is to never start smoking. And if you do smoke, it's never too late to quit," said Bruce E. Johnson, MD, director of the Lowe Center for Thoracic Oncology at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute in Boston.

According to the American Cancer Society, smoking is the most preventable cause of death in the United States. Smoking accounts for more than 440,000 deaths, or nearly one in every five deaths, each year. It also causes more than 85 percent of all lung cancers and increases the risk for many other types of cancers.

Why quit?

Quitting smoking lowers a person's risk of lung cancer, as well as other cancers, heart attack, stroke, and chronic lung diseases such as emphysema and chronic bronchitis.

People can lower their risk of a heart attack or stroke within a few weeks of quitting. Johnson says those who quit smoking and remain a non-smoker for five to 10 years can cut their risk of cancer in half compared to a person who keeps smoking. Even smokers who quit after age 50 can reduce their risk of dying early.

Cancer risk factors

Lung cancer is the deadliest form of cancer in the U.S., and causes more deaths each year than colon, breast, and prostate cancer combined. In 2010, it's estimated that more than 157,000 people will die from lung cancer, according to the American Cancer Society.

Although smoking is by far the largest risk factor for lung cancer, non-smokers can also develop the disease. "Twenty percent of women and 10 percent of men who develop lung cancer never smoked," explains Johnson. Environmental risk factors, such as second-hand smoke, radon, or certain industrial chemicals, can increase a person's risk of developing lung cancer.

Warning Signs

Lung cancer shares many symptoms with other diseases like a cold or the flu. So Johnson encourages people, especially smokers, to see their physicians if they experience any of the following:

- A cough that will not go away over several weeks. Smokers may see a change in the frequency or severity of an already persistent cough;
- Shortness of breath;
- Chest, shoulder, or back pain that doesn't go away and is made worse by deep breathing;
- Increased wheezing;
- Bloody coughs: "If someone coughs up blood, they should seek medical attention right away," stresses Johnson.

Ready to quit

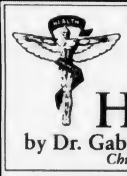
"When someone is ready to quit, the first things we encourage them to do are pick a date and seek the help of others, such as family, friends or professional counselors," says Johnson.

Other tips:

Choose a method, such as

- Change out cigarettes for nicotine replacement products
- Gradual withdrawal
- Anti-depressants

Avoid triggers



- Get rid of cigarettes, lighters, matches, and ashtrays
- Go for a walk; exercise can decrease cravings

Follow the Four "D's"

- Deep breaths
- Drink lots of water
- Do something to avoid focusing on cigarette cravings
- Delay reaching for a cigarette - the urge will pass.

On average it takes at least three attempts to quit and stay tobacco-free. So for people who have previously tried to quit and went back to smoking, it's important to pick another date and try again. Johnson reminds them, "It's never too late to quit."

More information on lung cancer and the benefits of quitting smoking is available at www.dana-farber.org/quitsmoking and www.dana-farber.org/stopsmokingvideo.

A PILL'S UNFULFILLED PROMISE

The dietary supplement known as glucosamine has garnered much interest for its purported ability to help prevent cartilage degeneration and treat arthritis, especially osteoarthritis of the knee. While the results of studies of glucosamine supplementation have been mixed, a recent study focused on the compound's ability to ease chronic lower back pain. In this case, the study was a randomized clinic trial (the most rigorous kind) involving 250 people over age 25 with chronic lower back pain. Results, which were reviewed after six months and one year of treatment, showed no difference in pain and disability scores between those taking glucosamine and those taking a placebo. However, drugless chiropractic treatment has been shown to offer significant advantages to back-pain sufferers.

The nervous system controls and coordinates all the different functions of your body including your reproductive system. At the FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC, we can help restore normal nerve function and communication, thereby allowing your body to work normally and naturally. QMC Hosts International Health Officials For Course On Quality

QUINCY MEDICAL CENTER (QMC) recently hosted a group of 20 senior health officials from a variety of developing countries who participated in a two-week executive program with the Harvard School of Public Health (HSPH). The program focuses on strategies to improve the quality of care in their hospitals and health systems. "We are honored to have been selected for this very unique opportunity to teach and learn from people from health care systems around the world," says Nissage Cadet, MD, Chief of Surgery at Quincy Medical Center, who hosted the contingent. This is the third year that QMC has been selected by HSPH to provide an overview of QMC's overall approach to Quality Improvement and is the only American hospital that the group will visit. The course has drawn health care leaders from Egypt, India, Vietnam, Nigeria and England and many other countries. Organizers of the course at the Harvard School of Public Health selected QMC to participate once again because it presented an "organized an excellent program that communicated QMC's overall approach to Quality Improvement and was very effective, communicating the need to focus on "system improvement" rather than "blame."

Carl G. Soderstrom, 70

Retired From Postal Service, Real Estate Broker, Community Activist

CARL G. SODERSTROM

A funeral service for Carl G. Soderstrom, 70, of Quincy, a retired U.S. Postal Service employee and community activist, will be held today (Wednesday) at 9 a.m. in Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St.

Mr. Soderstrom died Nov. 18.

Beloved husband of 44 years to Elizabeth A. (Mahoney) Soderstrom of Quincy. Devoted father of Deborah A., Robin M. and Holly L. Soderstrom, all of Quincy and Amy E. Soderstrom of Weymouth.

Cherished Papa of Richard Shea, Joseph LeBlanc, Nichols Maberry and the late Patty Shea.

Loving brother of the late Frederick and Ruth Soderstrom. Dear Uncle of Rick Soderstrom of Texas and cousin to Ginger Rowell-Miller of Quincy.

He is also survived by a lifelong friend, George Scott of Quincy; and many extended family members in Maine.

Born in Quincy, Mr. Soderstrom was a lifelong resident of the city.

He served in the U.S. Army from 1960 to 1963. After his time in the service, he worked at the U.S. Postal Service for 34 years. He retired in 1988 as the vice president of the Letter Carriers' Union.

Mr. Soderstrom was awarded the Humanitarian Award in 1986 by the U.S. Postal Service. He then went to work as a real estate broker for ERA Central Real Estate for almost 10 years and most recently, Granite Group Realtors.

He was actively involved in the community as a member of the Viking Club, Moose Lodge, Masonic Temple, Ward 2 Civic Association and the YMCA. He was also a volunteer for the Salvation Army.

He received The Best of Baystate Award by Baystate Community Services for his community involvement.

Mr. Soderstrom could also be seen on his local cable access TV show, "Conversations with Gus," where he was able to keep involved in many political races, interviewing candidates over the years and showing his passion for being a Democrat.

Aside from the community, he was also an active grandfather. He enjoyed attending all of the various sporting events that his grandchildren participated in.

Visiting hours were Tuesday from 4 to 8 p.m. in the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Quincy.

Memorial donations may be made to the Patty E. Shea Scholarship Fund, c/o Quincy Credit Union, 100 Quincy Ave., Quincy, MA 02169.

A Job Well Done

On Monday, Nov. 15, at approximately 6:50 p.m., Drug Unit Detectives were working in the Brewers Corner section of Quincy, conducting surveillance in the area of the 7-11 convenience store on Copeland Street.

LT. DAN MINTON

At this time, two males walked near one of the unmarked cruisers occupied by Detective Ryan, who recognized one of the males from past drug related encounters. Detective Coen was in the immediate area and was also conducting surveillance. Within seconds of observing the two males, the Detectives observed a female walk up to one of the males in the parking lot of 7-11 and hand him what appeared to be paper currency.

At that time, the male handed her a small item. The female then placed her hand in the front right pocket of her sweatshirt. The transaction lasted less than five seconds. The female then walked away, back towards the 7-11 while the two males continued to walk westbound on Copeland Street. At this point, Detectives followed the two males as Detective Ryan approached the female, identified himself as a Police Officer and advised her of Miranda rights.

Detective Ryan questioned the female suspect, who told them that she bought marijuana from the male suspect, taking out a knotted plastic sandwich of Marijuana from her right sweatshirt pocket. She provided the name of the suspect that Detective Coen was following, adding that "he is not my regular dealer – but I've bought off of him before."

She estimated that she bought Marijuana from the male suspect five times in the past and paid $10.00 for this purchase. After warrant checks on the female suspect came back negative, the marijuana was seized and she was released pending court action. Detective Ryan notified Detective Coen that drugs were recovered and statements confirmed the transaction.

Detectives Coen and O'Brien then approached the suspect and his friend on Copeland Street. After identifying themselves as Police Officers, the male suspect was given his Miranda rights. The suspect informed Detective Coen that he understood his rights and was willing to answer his questions. At this time, Officer Murphy and Detective Ryan arrived on scene The male suspect initially denied meeting with the female suspect near 7-11, but once the Detectives told the suspect about the surveillance, he changed his story and stated he met a friend there for "a piece of gum."

Detective Coen informed the male suspect that they observed him make a drug transaction, then searched the suspect, finding a cellular phone but no money. Detective Coen asked the suspect where the money was. The suspect said he had no money and told the Detectives that they were harassing him. Detective Coen then searched him again and located a folded-up ten dollar bill in the right sleeve of his sweatshirt, secured on his upper wrist with an elastic band. The Detectives planned on filing a complaint application (charged criminally with a court appearance, but not arrest on the spot) against the suspect for the marijuana, but the suspect became confrontational, demanding in an aggressive manner, "Why are you busting my %$##s" and "Why are you stopping me?"

Dispatch notified the Officers that the suspect had on his record a past assault and battery, assault and battery to wit a dangerous weapon and distribution of class D (Marijuana). Due to the suspect's criminal history and his demeanor, the male suspect was informed that he was under arrest for Distribution of Class D (Marijuana). As Detective Ryan placed one handcuff on the suspect's left hand, the suspect violently ripped away from his grasp, then punched the Detective in the chest. The suspect then fled eastbound on Copeland Street. Detective Ryan caught up to the suspect and grabbed a hold of the suspect's jacket. The suspect then swung his left arm back and struck the Detective on the upper left shoulder with his arm and handcuff dangling from his left wrist. The suspect threw a volley of punches with the handcuff wailing about. The punches struck the Officer in the chest and arms and one punch with the handcuff, caused a gash in one of his fingers.

Detective Coen, Officers' Murphy and Joe Paccioretti then brought the suspect to the ground, where he continued to violently resist. Once subdued, the suspect, a 19 year old Quincy resident, was transported to the station for booking. Nice Work!

A Look Inside The N.E. Aquarium's Animal Care Center

KEMP'S RIDLEY TURTLES – a critically endangered species of sea turtle – swim in a large holding tank at the New England Aquarium's new Animal Care Center located at 551 South St., Quincy. The 240-by-100 foot brick industrial building – formerly used in shipbuilding at the former Fore River Shipyard – is now the home to dozens of rescued and endangered sea turtles, a school of cownose rays, and a nursery for nine baby bonnethead sharks.

VIEW OF A large sea turtle holding tank at the New England Aquarium's new Animal Care Center, 551 South St., Quincy. The $3.7 million facility is a state-of-the-art, private, offsite holding facility for the Boston aquarium. There had been a desire for an offsite holding facility for rescued marine animals, animals in quarantine and for animals that were arriving for later display. After a long search, the Aquarium reached an agreement with Jay Cashman to renovate one of the old fabrication plants at the former Fore River Shipyard. The new facility is nearly up to full operations with the onset of the cold stunned sea turtle stranding season on Cape Cod.

THIS IS A HAMMER

Holiday Safety

Thanksgiving is upon us again (unless you're in Canada, in which case it's safely past) and the holiday season is about to go full swing. Your family is probably similar to mine, with relatives traveling from all over to catch up on things, and most of all, eat. You might not have a nephew's wedding to attend in the same time frame, but I just look at it as another opportunity to hang out with family and friends we might not otherwise get a chance to see.

If your home is host to this year's get-together, add a few of these items to your to-do list. They'll help make everyone more comfortable and safe amid all the bustle of activity.

• Plan to sequester your housepets during the height of holiday activity. Place them in a room with food, litter box, toys, and bed or blanket. Check on them frequently.

• Put away ongoing household projects, like painting or repairs, or close off rooms that are undergoing repair or renovation. Put a "do not enter" sign on the door if necessary.

• Remove chemicals, sharp tools, pesticides and other dangerous items from parts of the home that might be easily accessed by children. Don't store them near laundry, food or drink.

• Rearrange the garage a bit, even if you think no one will go into it. Place chemicals out of reach and store tools securely, in a closed toolbox or hanging high on your workshop pegboard.

• Shut off the heat to rooms you don't want guests to enter. You can do this by closing the registers. If they don't see the "do not enter" signs, they'll probably get the hint if it's dark and cold.

• When guests start arriving, make sure your car's safety brake is set and lock the doors to reduce the chance of curious kids climbing into it.

• Once the festivities are done, do a walkaround of the house and yard to make sure nothing dangerous is lying around – spilled liquids, lighted candles or unextinguished cigarettes, for example.

HOME TIP: Brush up on fire safety around the kitchen and home for the holiday: The American Red Cross and other safety organizations have plenty of tips on their websites.

Send your home-repair and maintenance questions to homeguru2000@hotmail.com, or write This Is a Hammer, c/o King Features Weekly Service, P.O. Box 536475, Orlando, FL 32853-6475. Remember, when in doubt as to whether you can safely or effectively complete a project, consult a professional contractor.

Simple Ways To Decorate Windows

(NAPSA)-Decorating your windows can be a daunting task. For simple ways to turn your house into a home, please note these answers to the most common window dressing dilemmas:

Q. How do I measure for my curtains or drapes?

A. Purchase panels that measure 2-1/2 times the width of the window. For added fullness, use three times the width. The bottom edge of your curtain or drape should fall to the windowsill, below the sill or to the floor. Leave about 1/2" of clearance if you opt for floor length.

Q. How do I know what size curtain rod to get?

A. Be sure to measure the window width-this is the most important step in buying curtain rods. After measuring the width of the window from casing to casing, add two to five inches depending on how much of the wall you want to cover. Additionally, you should consider fabric weight. The type of curtain rod you buy depends on the weight of the treatment because the heavier the curtain fabric, the more substantial the rod needs to be.

DECORATING WITH the right drapery will add drama and dimension to any decor.

Q. How do I select a curtain style?

A. Think about the function of the room and decide whether you want a formal, semiformal or casual look. Formal window treatments, found in dining rooms and living rooms, are usually layered and made from heavy fabrics. Scarf treatments or valances create a semiformal or casual look.

Q. How do I select a curtain fabric?

A. Determine what your needs are for a particular room, what types of fabric you prefer and if you want lined or unlined curtains. Fabrics like velvet and heavier cottons can provide energy-saving and room-darkening benefits without sacrificing style. Sheer fabrics let light in and create a softer look.

Q. How do I choose what color curtain to purchase?

A. Try matching the color of your curtains to the other most represented color in the room, such as walls, floors or bedding.

If your walls are neutral, bring in a little warmth by adding a pop of color.

Q. Where can I find the highest-quality curtains for the best price?

A. Many clever consumers turn to www.Curtainworks.com, which offers a complete line of curtains retailing for about $25 to $75. The website also features guides on how to measure, decorate and complete a variety of looks.

Indoor Comfort, Down-To-Earth Savings

(NAPSA)-Homeowners across North America have discovered the benefits of using the energy under their own backyards to provide heating, cooling and hot water. Geothermal heating and cooling systems tap into the constant temperature found a few feet below the surface of the earth to deliver a consistent, even flow of conditioned air throughout the home, eliminating hot and cold spots.

A geothermal system captures the free energy from the earth in a series of pipes, called an earth loop, buried in the ground. Fluid circulates through the pipes and heat energy is transferred from the ground to the geothermal unit in the house, providing warm comfort. Once inside, the heat can be distributed through either a conventional duct system or a hydronic radiant heat system.

According to studies by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), geothermal heating and cooling is the most energy-efficient option available, because the system relies on the most plentiful source of renewable energy and a source that is available virtually anywhere in the United States.

The result is a system that achieves green status in more ways than one: Homeowners can reduce their carbon footprint along with their utility bills. In fact, the energy savings provided by a geothermal system can be as much as 70 percent compared with a conventional system using natural gas, oil, electricity or propane fuel. Additionally, the system eliminates noise pollution, with a sound level similar to that of a refrigerator.

A geothermal system also addresses pollutants in the air. According to EPA tests, levels of pollutants are two to five times higher indoors than outside. Research also shows that exposure to poor indoor air quality can cause health problems including asthma, dizziness, fatigue and respiratory diseases, among many others.

The geothermal systems from WaterFurnace International, Incorporated, the leading manufacturer of geothermal heating and cooling products, have HEPA filters, heat recovery ventilators, electronic air cleaners and a selection of filters, all designed to contribute to good air quality throughout the home.

For a look at ways to improve your home's air quality or to find a geothermal system that fits your needs, visit www.waterfurnace.com or talk to a WaterFurnace expert at (800) GEO-SAVE.

Quincy Sun Featured Home of the Week

STATION HOUSE CONDOMINIUM $209,000

STATION HOUSE CONDOMINIUM is a small development of 5 units on over 10,000 s.f. of land. This unit has a deeded garage and very large outside of unit storage area. As the photo indicates, this is an end unit. It looks like a house and lives like a house. The first level has a tastefully updated kitchen with dining area and sliders to a large new deck and the parking area. The living room boasts hardwood floors, bay window and is large and very comfortable. Staircase and bedroom area are carpeted. The second level has two good sized bedrooms and a tastefully rehabbed less than year old bathroom.

THE RELOCATING OWNERS have enjoyed this "home" for 8 years. They have also enjoyed easy access to highway, shopping, and Quincy Adams T Station. In addition to carpet, kitchen, new windows, slider and deck, the unit has new woodwork and solid wood doors. Pride in ownership shows throughout.

IF HOME OWNERSHIP IS your goal, low taxes ($207. a month), low condo fee ($168. a month) and a potential (depending on your financing capabilities) monthly principal, interest and insurance of between $1050.27 and $1153.39 (computed on full price) make this a property you will want to see.

Danny Sordello Joins Conway Quincy Office

New Jack Conway-Quincy Realtor Danny Sordello brings 33 years of real estate experience to his Conway Country post.

Sordello was a former banker, sales agent, office manager and business owner in the North and South Shore marketplaces before joining Conway's Quincy office this month.

DANNY SORDELLO

A Boston native, he grew up in Everett and got his first Realtor's job in nearby Malden. He opened his own real estate franchise in Revere and ran the office for seven years before relocating to Hull in 1999.

He was a top lister and seller on the South Shore for 14 years before deciding to join the Conway Country team.

Helen Shiner, manager of the Conway-Quincy office, said, "I was happy to gain an agent like Danny, who has not only worked in our field for more than 30 years, but has also managed and owned an office. He is eager to let his former and potential customers know that he is now a Conway Country Realtor and has so many new resources to offer them."

Sordello and his wife Aleta, live in Hull.

For more information, contact Danny Sordello at 617-479-1500.

Buyer Education Series

Quincy Community Action Programs, Inc. (QCAP) will offer a first-time homebuyer workshop consisting of two sessions Saturday, Dec. 4 and 11 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the fourth floor conference room at QCAP, 1509 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Attendance at both sessions is required in order to receive a certificate.

The workshop provides a comprehensive review of the homebuying process. Real estate professionals will cover topics ranging from mortgages to home insurance.

In addition, participants who complete the 10-hour program may be eligible for downpayment/closing assistant of up to $10,000 and for the soft second program.

Participants may use their Certificate of Completion to obtain a low-rate loan through MassHousing or MassHousing Partnership.

Registration begins Nov. 15. For more information about the program and/or register for the workshop, contact Sandy Perkins, QCAP housing assistant, at 617-657-5327.

From CO Monitors To Annual Inspections

Tips For Warmth And Safety

(NAPSA)-Now is a good time for homeowners to have trained, qualified professionals-such as HVAC (heating, ventilating and air-conditioning) technicians or gas company representatives-perform comprehensive checkups of their home heating systems.

According to a recent survey conducted by the Propane Education & Research Council (PERC), however, just one in four homeowners has a professional inspection every year, while one in five has never had a home heating inspection. The survey also found that those who skip such inspections cite concerns over costs and the belief that they can perform such checkups on their own.

Armed with these statistics, Danny Lipford, veteran home remodeler and host of the popular television show "Today's Homeowner with Danny Lipford," reminds homeowners with gas-operated home heating systems of to-dos designed to keep families safe and warm. Lipford and PERC also emphasize that while there are home maintenance tasks you can perform yourself, others should be left to professionals.

The following is a list of recommended to-dos for homeowners:

Give your home its annual checkup

An annual checkup by a home heating professional helps ensure that a homeowner's heating system is operating efficiently and is properly maintained. "The investment in a yearly professional inspection is worth it and could save your family money in the long run," says Lipford. According to the PERC survey, homeowners who rely on regular inspections find that efficient heating system performance, avoidance of major repairs, and peace of mind are significant benefits.

DANNY LIPFORD

Important maintenance steps homeowners can take on their own include regularly changing or cleaning furnace filters and checking vents to be sure they are free from obstructions.

Leave it to the pros

Only a trained and qualified service technician has the proper training to install, service, maintain and repair gas appliances. "Don't try to modify or repair valves, regulators or other cylinder or appliance parts. Leave this to the pros," advises Lipford.

Have monitoring in place

Carbon monoxide, gas and smoke detectors are critical to home safety, yet one in three homes is without one or more of these important devices, according to the homeowner survey.

"Installing monitors is one item on your list that you shouldn't put off," says Lipford. "If you already have them installed, use this time to ensure they are working properly."

While household gas leaks are rare, knowing precautionary measures is important. "Should you or a family member smell gas from an unknown source [both natural gas and propane have a distinct rotten egg odor], leave the house immediately-then call emergency services and the gas company," says Lipford.

Leave space when storing

When moving items indoors for storage, don't put anything-boxes, paint, clothing, furniture and so on-near gas appliances. Read the instruction manual that comes with your gas appliance to find information on this important matter.

For more information on home heating system maintenance and monitoring, visit www.usepro pane.com.

The Tradition Within The Tradition

George Burke, Joe Gilmore Renew 60-Plus Year Friendship At Q-N Game

By JOE REARDON

Joe Gilmore will awake on Thanksgiving morning and, no matter what the weather, will head to Veterans' Stadium. It's a holiday tradition Gilmore knows well.

A 1952 graduate of Quincy High, Gilmore has attended every Turkey Day game between Quincy and North Quincy dating back to 1945. The only two years he missed were those he spent in the Army Infantry during the Korean War. This year marks the 63rd consecutive time he'll be in the stands taking in one of his favorite days of the year.

"I missed Thanksgiving for two years," said Gilmore, who has lived in Weymouth the past 47 years.

For Gilmore, Thanksgiving at Veterans' Stadium is just as much a yearly reunion as it is the chance to see the two city rivals go at each other on the gridiron.

"It's always been a good way to get together with classmates," Gilmore said. "They don't get the crowds there like they used to."

Gilmore generally goes to the game alone and meets up with friends there. "My wife isn't interested," he said with a laugh. "It's a very special day. Reunions are once every five years. This is every year. They're (friends) well in there 70s now."

Gilmore will take in the game with friend and local lawyer George Burke. Burke, a 1950 graduate of Quincy High, will be attending his 67th consecutive Quincy/North Quincy Thanksgiving Day game tilt.

It was Gilmore's uncle, a veteran of World War II, who took him to his first game in 1946.

The day was a memorable one.

"There must have been close to 15,000 people there and we had to settle watching the game from the Eastern Mass. Bus Co. garage," recalled Gilmore. "The weather was cold and rainy, but with all the excitement I was hooked and looked forward ever since to experience the Turkey Day game."

Burke remembers the excitement of the 1947 game that had well over 10,000 people. Like Gilmore, the swollen crowd forced him to view the game from the same location. "It was exciting," he said. "People were standing on the hill up to the bus station."

Gilmore couldn't afford a ticket the next five years, but that wasn't going to stop him from watching the Presidents take on the Red Raiders.

"I couldn't afford to pay my way in the next five years so I jumped the wall," said Gilmore.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL alumni George Burke and Joe Gilmore plan to watch this year's Thanksgiving Day game between Quincy and North Quincy together. The Quincy High alumnis have attended the annual holiday game more than 60 times apiece over the years.

Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Bosworth

There have been several memorable games over the years. The weather is what stands out the most for Gilmore, in particular the snow game of 1948. And games played in slick, muddy conditions were commonplace before the field turf was installed when the stadium underwent a facelift in 2007.

"They played no matter what," said Gilmore. "It was a poor field and there were a lot of muddy games. It's excellent now and such a fine layout. Before, it was a mess."

Gilmore has seen coaches come and go over the years as well.

"I remember Jack Donahue's last game (about 1960) as North Quincy High's long-time coach" Gilmore said. "Quincy was a very heavy favorite but North really dug in and won the last big game for the coach.

"It was amazing. Jack was replaced the next season – ironically – by Carl Leone who was perhaps the best all- around that Quincy ever had and now he was coaching the enemy."

The 1948 game was one for the ages as well. "There was a cold mist over the field but it was quite comfortable" said Gilmore. "Quincy had arguably the two best running backs in the school history – Aldo Lombardi and Charlie Sachetti – and they were a very heavy favorite. But in the biggest game of the year, anything is likely to happen and North Quincy upset Quincy 8-6."

One of the fastest halfbacks the Presidents ever had carry the ball was Gerry Frazier. For two seasons he was unstoppable. Frazier had huge games in both Thanksgiving Day games, running for two touchdowns in each to lead Quincy to victories in 1951 and 1952.

Although basketball was his very best sport - he went on to play a year for the Celtics in 1957 – Burke was also a guard during his high school years at Quincy High.

"I have such memories of the rivalry," said Burke. "That's a big part of life in Quincy, the football rivalry."

Burke has a word of advice for those high school players suiting up for the Turkey Day game. "For some kids it's the biggest game of their life," Burke said. "I would tell them to give all their heart and soul because it's a memory that will last a lifetime."

"I love being there with the crowd and participating in the excitement," he said. "There's an area right below the press box where the city officials sit and I sit there."

Burke was a standout athlete at Quincy High, where he starred in football, basketball and baseball. He was on three winning Thanksgiving Day teams for Quincy and also played in the Tech Tournament at the Boston Garden in the prestigious hoop playoffs.

Burke was given the nickname "Trigger" at UMass-Amherst because of his ability to hit the long, perimeter jump shots. A member of the Quincy High Hall of Fame in basketball and baseball, he garnered All-American honors playing guard for the Minutemen and along with NBA great Julius Erving, was the first player to have his number retired at UMass.

So whom will Burke be rooting for on Thanksgiving? The answer isn't as obvious as one would think. "I will always root for Quincy, but I have mixed emotions because my office is right across from North Quincy High," Burke said with a laugh.

He will miss watching the game with friend and former Quincy Assessor Mike Fagerlund, a 1935 graduate of Quincy High, who passed away last year.

"We were very good friends," said Burke. "He had missed four years because of World War II. I told him he was number one because he was serving his country. Now that he's gone, he's with me in memory."

For Gilmore, the thrill is still there after so many years in the stands. "The games are usually very competitive and still loaded with excitement, no matter who wins," he said.

Tree Lighting Sunday At Gilbert Memorial Park

The Seaside Gardeners of Squantum will sponsor the annual "Lighting of the Tree" at Gilbert Memorial park, corner of Huckins Avenue and East Squantum Street Sunday, Nov. 28.

Festivities begin at 4:30 p.m. Sunday with hot cocoa and home baked cookies. There will also be a holiday sing-along while awaiting the arrival of Santa to light up the Tree.

The tree lighting occurs on the same day as the annual Quincy Christmas Parade. If the parade is cancelled due to inclement weather, the Squantum Tree Lighting will also be cancelled.

Toy Drive At 6 Dunkin' Donuts Begins Friday

Six local Dunkin' Donuts stores will conduct an annual toy drive Nov. 26 through Dec. 17 to collect brnad new toys for children in need this holiday season.

Participating Dunkin' Donuts store locations are:

543 Southern Artery, 1462 Hancock St., 1250 Hancock St., 825 Southern Artery, 366 Centre St. and 100 Granite St.

Quincy residents are invited to drop off new, unwrapped toys to benefit local disadvantaged youth.

Dunkin' Donuts franchisees Victor and Octavio Carvalho are again partnering with the Germantown Neighborhood Center. Since 2000, the Carvalhos have collected nearly $100,000 worth of new toys for children.

This year, as a result of a shortage in donations of food and hygiene products, the public is invited to donate everyday necessities that will be distributed to underprivileged children and families in Quincy.

The drive will begin Friday, Nov. 26 and continue until Friday, Dec. 17.

78TH CITY FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Quincy Presidents vs. North Quincy Red Raiders

Looking To Make It Two In A Row Over QHS

North Quincy Ready To Defend City Championship

By SEAN BRENNAN

There is no longer that ten-year Thanksgiving Day losing streak hanging over the helmets of the North Quincy Red Raiders. That burden was resolved last year after North Quincy put a halt to Quincy's decade of dominance with a convincing 21-6 victory in the 77th annual City Championship.

This time around, it will be the Red Raiders who are the hunted; the Presidents have taken up the role of the hunters.

North Quincy, after several years of oh-so-closes, is the reigning Turkey Day titleholder. And with that status, the Red Raiders now must learn to play as the team with the bull's-eye on the back of their jerseys. It will be a different role for the boys from North Quincy, but, looking back at their season thus far, it should be a role that they hold with confidence.

The Red Raiders will bring a 5-5 record into this year's contest. Playing, again this fall, in the Keenan Division of the Patriot League, North Quincy was challenged every week, either in non-league games or during their slate of league affairs.

The 2010 season kicked-off with three consecutive non-league tilts against Boston Latin (10-6 win), Oliver Ames (14-12 loss), and East Bridgewater (46-28 loss). Entering the Patriot League portion of the schedule on Oct. 1 against Pembroke HS, the Red Raiders were sitting at 1-2 overall, but the team improved to 2-2 with an impressive 34-7 throttling of the Titans. This victory began a three-game winning streak for North as the team followed up the Pembroke win with victories over non-league Malden HS (26-15) and Patriot League foe Hanover HS, 19-0, to improve to 4-2 entering their upcoming Keenan Division slate of games.

That 4-2 record took a hit the next three weeks. North Quincy played Duxbury HS close, but in the end dropped a 36-21 decision; the Green Dragons rolled through the Patriot League, finishing undefeated. On Oct. 30, the Raiders put up a stinker at Hingham HS, losing 35-14, and the following week, traveled to Silver Lake HS, played the Lakers tough, but came up short, 21-7.

Game Tickets $8 At The Gate

Tickets for the 78th annual football game between Quincy and North Quincy will cost $8 for students, adults and senior citizens at the gate Thanksgiving morning. Kick off is at 10 a.m.

Looking to gain some momentum heading into tomorrow's game with Quincy, North Quincy came out on Nov. 12 and blasted Whitman-Hanson HS, 27-14, to climb back to .500 to give themselves an opportunity to finish the year with a winning record, just one season removed from finishing with a 4-7 record in 2009.

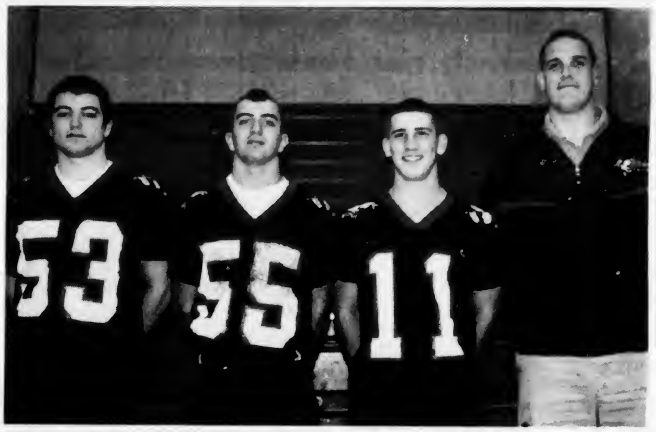
But when it comes to Thanksgiving, you can forget what has already transpired and wipe the slate clean. It is now just a one-game season and North Quincy has to take that approach when play gets underway at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving morning.

"It is a real fun and exciting week and a half leading up to the game and I know both schools do some prep rally type stuff and there is a lot of school spirit and pride involved," said NQHS head coach Jim Connor last week. "It is all in good healthy competition in what it means for the schools and the city in general.

"And for the kids who are just starting out, there are a lot of nerves and anxiety. But it is always fun to see what player is going to step up on Thanksgiving. Every year there is a player who does just that and it is going to be exiting to see who that player is going to be this year.

"The waiting and anticipation is really exciting, so we just have to prepare for that."

This year, for North Quincy, there is going to be someone new that makes a difference in "The Game" on offense. Under center, the Raiders will have a quarterback making his first start on Thanksgiving as last year's starter, Michael Stanton, graduated in June. That person is senior Joe Schmitz.



Schmitz has been a steady hand for North Quincy this fall. He has not been asked to carry the offense as that duty has fallen on the stable of running backs North Quincy rolls out each week. Instead, Schmitz has been an efficient leader. He threw when he was required and did a nice job when asked. His main duty tomorrow will be to execute the game plan and do so without putting his offense in difficult spots.

"Joe has been excellent this year," said Connor. "We started slow with him, but he has proven that he can play as he took us to a 5-5 record in a tough league. I am very pleased with the season Joe has given us."

But it is not going to fall just on him when the Raiders have the ball. Players such as Seyi Adesuyan (13 touchdowns), captains Kyle McKay (RB/DB), Jimmy Scribi (OL/DL), and Garrett Kelley (TE/LB), Mike Morrison (SE/DB), Mike Curran (RB/DB), Joe Bertucci (OL/DL), Joe King (OL/DL), and Antonio Diaz (OL/DL) have played in this game before and every last one of them should be there to provide leadership and a sense of calmness should things get ugly, early.

"On offense, we are going to rely on the guys that got us to 5-5 with a chance to finish with a winning record," added Connor. "We are not going to rely on guys who haven't already performed throughout the season. That is Seyi, McKay, Curran, and Garrett Kelley, that crew, that senior class

78TH CITY FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Quincy Presidents vs. North Quincy Red Raiders

Presidents Looking To End Year on Winning Note

Quincy Will Be Playing For Thanksgiving Day Payback

By SEAN BRENNAN

Tomorrow, when the 78th annual Quincy-North Quincy Thanksgiving Day game gets underway, the Quincy Presidents will be playing, with the intention of getting back into the championship circle.

The Presidents took one on the chinstrap last year, losing to North Quincy 21-6, in a defeat that put a halt to Quincy's ten-year run as city champions. A loss on Thanksgiving was not something the Presidents had experienced since they dropped a 21-6 decision to the Red Raiders all the way back in 1998. The goal, as it is every season, is to end the fall with a Turkey Day victory, and that is exactly what the Coddington Street gridironers will set out to do when the annual game kicks off at 10 a.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy enters play with a deceiving 4-6 overall record. The Presidents, up until a November 5th game at Scituate High School, were in contention for a berth in the Division III playoffs. Playing in the Fisher Division of the Patriot League, Quincy's schedule included difficult games against non-league opponents as well as a handful of contests versus quality teams in Patriot League play.

The Presidents opened the year with a tough road game at Cohasset High School (45-7 loss). Three consecutive non-league contests versus Canton HS (42-14 win), Plymouth South (12-11 loss), and Randolph (23-8 win) pushed their record to 2-2 entering the Patriot League portion of the schedule.

A 35-7 loss to Duxbury HS on Oct. 8 dropped them to 2-3, but following that, Quincy went on a two-game winning streak, beating Pembroke HS (22-12) and Middleboro HS (34-26), improving their record to 4-3.

A three-game set against Hanover, Scituate and Silver Lake offered the Presidents a golden opportunity to make a postseason push, but, unfortunately for Quincy, three straight losses shut the door on that dream. Quincy lost to Hanover, 29-7, fell to Scituate, 35-7, and came up short against Silver Lake, 29-8.

But, as is always the case when it comes to this game, a win over North Quincy will go a long way to eliminating the disappointment and the sting of this late-season losing streak.

"We have played well all season long, and it was disappointing losing these last three games, but if we can come out and beat North Quincy, that would go a long way to having a successful season," said QHS head coach Bill Reardon last week. "When it comes to this game, you now have a one-game season because, really, if we can come out and play well and get a win on Thanksgiving, that is all the kids will remember.

"It is going to be a challenge. Last year stung, so this year we need to take this extra time and prepare for a very good North Quincy team. We are going to have a number of players seeing additional time in this game, and nerves could play a factor, but as is the case every year, somebody is going to have to step up and make a big play or two. It is always fun waiting to see who that is going to be."

One player, who could play a significant role in the outcome of the game, is senior quarterback Ryan Schultz. Schultz will be under center for the first time, as in years past Lance Peterson was the field general guiding Quincy. But with Peterson graduated and gone, the speedy Schultz gets the opportunity to get Quincy back on the winning track.

Like his counterpart, Joe Schmitz of North Quincy, Schultz hasn't been asked to do too much this year for Quincy. He has thrown the occasional touchdown pass to sophomore receiver Derrick Stone (three TDs) and he also contributed two rushing scores, but like North Quincy, the Presidents rely mainly on their rushing game to pick up yards and points.

"Ryan has been steady for us this year," said Reardon. "He can throw the ball when we ask him to out of our shotgun formation, and he uses his speed to make plays as well. When he does throw it he usually looks for Stone or seniors Jordan Cardosa and Tom Paluzzi.

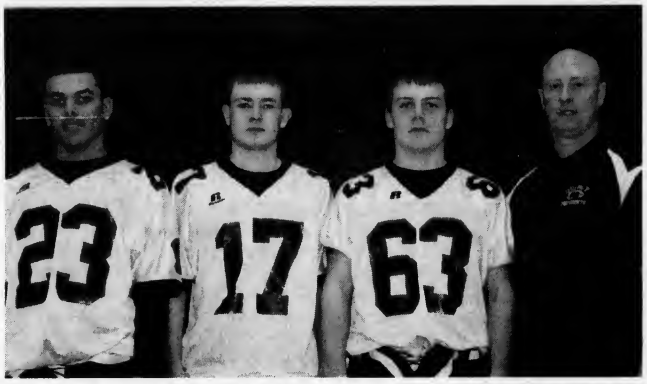
"He has been helped out by our running game, which has been a strength for us all season long."

When the Presidents do run the rock, watch out for the explosiveness of junior all-league back Reggie Cesar (six TDs). Cesar brings speed and elusiveness to the table every time he touches the ball. In consecutive games against Pembroke and Middleboro, Cesar scored on runs of 59, 50, and 74 yards; he brings that home run ability to the Quincy backfield.

Joining him in the backfield is sensational junior Jalen Green. Green exploded for eight touchdowns including a two-touchdown performance against Randolph HS and an 84-yard dash versus Pembroke. An added bonus to Green's game is his ability to kick field goals. Over the course of ten games, Green has successfully kicked three field goals, something that may be a deciding factor if the game on Thursday is close.

Other threats on offense for Quincy are senior running backs Josh Galindo and Ronn Newsome (three TDs) and Cardosa, Stone and Paluzzi.

Anchoring the protection in front of Schultz and the running backs begins and ends with senior captain Brain MacDonald (OL/DL), Ryan Boyle (OL/DL), Keenan Daniels (OL/DL), and Brendan Lally (OL/DL).



It is an offense that could give the Red Raiders fits.

"We have some great team speed," said Reardon. "Reggie is a major threat. Jalen Green has played re-

78TH CITY FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP
Quincy Presidents vs. North Quincy Red Raiders

Three Red Raiders, Four Presidents Named To League All-Star Team

The North Quincy Red Raiders and the Quincy Presidents, members of the Keenan and Fisher Divisions of the Patriot League, respectively, had a combined seven players named to the league's All-Star team for the 2010 season.

A panel of the league's coaches meet last week and made the all-star selections.

The Red Raiders (5-5 overall, 1-3 in Keenan Division) had three seniors named to the all-star team. Senior running back Seyi Adesuyan (13 touchdowns) earned a nod, as did senior running Kyle McKay (five TDs) and senior tailback/receiver Mike Morrison.

McKay was a team captain this fall for North Quincy.

Senior captain Garrett Kelley (TE/LB) was awarded the NQHS Sportsmanship Award.

The Presidents (4-6, 2-2 in Fisher Division) were represented by junior running back Reggie Cesar (six rushing TDs); it was Cesar's second straight all-star nod, and junior running back/kicker Jalen Green (eight TDs, three FGs).

Senior Josh Galindo and sophomore Jaquan Harris were also named to the all-star team for QHS.

1947 Game Drew Largest Crowd On Record

As the 78th annual football game between North Quincy and Quincy approaches tomorrow, the debate about which of the previous seventy-seven affairs drew the biggest crowd comes down to either the game in 1946 or 1947.

It appears the 1947 game had the largest paid attendance, reported to have been 18,003. In 1946, the paid attendance was 16,065.

Many estimate that close to 25,000 saw the 1947 game, if you count those who watched from the walls and trees, and those who lined the bus yard where the MBTA garage now stands.

The biggest previous crowd prior to 1946 was the 15,000 who watched the 1939 game.

Patriot League Standings

The Scituate Sailors, a team which last year finished in second-place in the Keenan Division, behind Duxbury High School, will represent the Patriot League in the Division III playoffs, after knocking off Pembroke HS, 40-28, on Nov. 12 to win the Fisher Division crown. Scituate will be playing Beverly High School on Tuesday, Nov. 30 in a Division III postseason game; this contest will be the Sailors first postseason game since 1979.

The Duxbury Green Dragons continued their dominance of the Patriot League's Keenan Division, beating out Hingham and Silver Lake for the chance to play against the Atlantic Coast League champion in the Division 2A semifinals on Nov. 30.

FISHER DIVISION

Scituate (8-2 overall, 4-0 in Fisher Division)
Pembroke (5-4, 2-2)
Quincy (4-6, 2-2)
Middleboro (3-7, 1-3)
Hanover (3-7, 1-2)

KEENAN DIVISION

Duxbury (10-0 overall, 4-0 in Keenan Division)
Silver Lake (6-4, 3-1)
Hingham (6-4, 2-2)
North Quincy (5-5, 1-3)
Whitman-Hanson (2-7, 0-4)

1120 AM To Broadcast Thanksgiving Day Football Game

The 78th annual meeting between the North Quincy Red Raiders and the Quincy Presidents will be broadcasted on 1120 AM radio.

Charlie Bergeron will be doing the play-by-play and Rob Mattson will handle the color commentary.

The radio broadcast will begin at 9:55 a.m. and a live web feed can be heard at www.mwlsports.com.

Teams Had A Healthy Balance of Contributors

North Quincy's Seyi Adesuyan, Quincy's Jalen Green Leading Scorers

North Quincy and Quincy will both be looking to end the 2010 football season on a high note when the kickoff of the 78th annual Thanksgiving Day game gets underway at 10 a.m. Thursday at Veterans Memorial Stadium, and every year, without fail, a player or players have stepped up and contributed in a major way; this year will be no different.

The Red Raiders will take a 5-5 record into the game and will be aiming to continue their winning ways after capturing last year's tilt, 21-6. North Quincy, through ten games, is averaging 20.1 points per game while allowing opponents to score 19.4 points per game.

The Presidents come into tomorrow's game sporting a 4-6 record and will be playing for their first Thanksgiving Day victory since 2008. Quincy is averaging 16.8 points per game while allowing opponents to score 24.5 points per game.

This Thursday, on the offensive side of the field, both programs will be leaning on their respective leading scorers, as well as a number of other players at the running back, tight end and wide receiver positions.

North Quincy Red Raiders

For the Red Raiders, senior running back Seyi Adesuyan (13 rushing touchdowns) leads a productive North Quincy rushing attack. Adesuyan opened the season with two TDs in North Quincy's 13-6 victory over Boston Latin; he followed that up with two rushing TDs in a 14-12 loss to Oliver Ames HS, and against Patriot League foe Pembroke HS, he scored another rushing score in NQHS 34-7 victory over the Titans.

Adesuyan scored two more times in a 26-15-non-league win over Malden HS on Oct. 9, scored a TD in North's 19-0 win over Hanover on Oct. 15, and scored one rushing TD in defeats to Duxbury HS and Silver Lake HS. He saved his most productive performance until the final regular season game against Whitman-Hanson when he scored three rushing TDs in a 27-14 win over the Panthers.

Fellow seniors Mike Morrison, Mike Curran and Kyle McKay were also productive this fall for North Quincy. Curran scored a rushing TD against Malden and Morrison caught a TD pass; McKay added two rushing TDs in the Pembroke game and Curran also scored on the ground versus the Titans.

Against Hanover, McKay scored on the ground and Morrison on an interception return; Curran and McKay had defensive scores versus Duxbury and Curran added a rushing TD in the Raiders win over Whitman-Hanson.

Junior running back Marquis Chase scored a rushing TD during North's 34-7 win over Pembroke HS.

Quincy Presidents

All-League running back, junior, Reggie Cesar (six touchdowns) led Quincy on offense this past season. Cesar had a 42-yard TD run in Quincy's 42-14 win over Canton HS on Sept. 16, a 59-yard score against Pembroke (Oct. 15, 22-12 win), and two long TDs (50 and 74) versus Middleboro HS in a 34-26 win.

Junior Jalen Green racked up eight touchdowns and three field goals for Quincy. He ran for a TD in the season-opener versus Cohasset HS (45-7 loss), kicked a FG versus Plymouth South (12-11 loss), had two rushing TDs against Randolph HS (23-8 win), he broke a 84-yard score against Pembroke, and finished with a 23-yard rushing score and a FG in the game against Middleboro.

Sophomore Jaquan Harris (two defensive scores against Canton), senior quarterback Ryan Shultz (five TDs, three passing touchdowns), and senior Ronn Newsome (three TDs) are also players to keep an eye on during tomorrow's game against North Quincy.

Other Quincy players who have the potential to make an impact on the offensive side of the ball include seniors Tom Paluzzi and Josh Galindo and junior receiver Jordan Cardosa.

78TH CITY FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Quincy Presidents vs. North Quincy Red Raiders

Presidents 1-3, Raiders 2-2

Quincy, N. Quincy Played Four Common Opponents

The Quincy Presidents and the North Quincy Red Raiders played four common opponents this season; all four teams (Duxbury, Silver Lake, Hanover, Pembroke) were members of either the Patriot League's Fisher or Keenan Division.

The Presidents finished 1-3 in these games while the Red Raiders went 2-2.

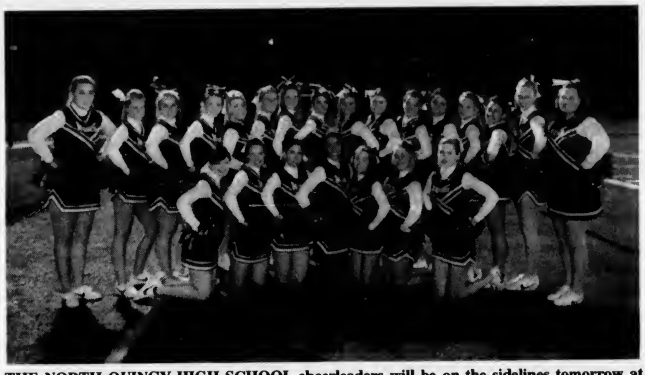
Quincy played this season in the Patriot League's Fisher Division against teams from Scituate (division champion), Pembroke, Hanover, and Middleboro while North Quincy competed in the Keenan Division against teams from Duxbury (division champion), Silver Lake, Hingham, and Whitman-Hanson.

Quincy knocked off Pembroke but came up short versus Duxbury, Hanover and Silver Lake; North Quincy defeated Hanover and Pembroke and lost to Duxbury and Silver Lake.

The Presidents lost to Duxbury, 35-7, at home on Oct. 8; QHS picked up their third victory of the fall on Oct. 15 on the road at Pembroke, 22-12; fell to Hanover, 29-7, at the Stadium on Oct. 29, and lost at Silver Lake, 29-8, on Nov. 12.

Quincy opened the season with a 45-7 non-league loss at Cohasset HS on Sept. 10. The Presidents evened their record at 1-1 following a 42-14 home thrashing of non-league opponent Canton HS on Sept. 16 before losing to non-league foe Plymouth South HS, 12-11, on Sept. 24.

A non-league home 23-8 decision over Randolph on Oct. 1 preceded the 35-7 loss to Duxbury HS, which was followed by consecutive Patriot League victories over Pembroke HS (22-12, Oct. 15) and at home against Middleboro HS, 34-26, on Oct. 25.



The Presidents enter the 78th annual QHS-NQHS game on three-game losing streak after falling to Hanover HS, 29-7, on Oct. 29, Scituate HS, 35-7, on Nov. 5, and Silver Lake HS, 29-8, on Nov. 12.

North Quincy, after opening the 2010 season on Sept. 10 with a 13-6 home victory over non-league opponent Boston Latin, lost consecutive non-league games to Oliver Ames (14-12, Sept. 16) and at East Bridgewater (46-28, Sept. 24).

The Red Raiders impressed in their Patriot League opener, defeating Pembroke HS, 34-7, on Oct. 1. A 26-15 non-league victory over Malden HS on Oct. 9 was followed by a league victory, at home on Oct. 15, over Hanover HS, 19-0.

After the Hanover game, North Quincy lost three-straight Keenan Division contests at home versus Duxbury HS (36-21, Oct. 22), on the road at Hingham (35-14, Oct. 30), and at Silver Lake HS (21-7, Nov. 5).

The Red Raiders closed out their Keenan Division slate with a 27-14 victory over Whitman-Hanson HS on Nov. 12.

THE NORTH QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL cheerleaders will be on the sidelines tomorrow at Veterans Memorial Stadium cheering on the Red Raiders in the 78th annual Thanksgiving Day game against Quincy. The Series Record:

Quincy 43, North 29, 5 Ties In 77 Games

Entering tomorrow's 78th annual football game between the Quincy Presidents and the North Quincy Red Raiders, Quincy High School holds the edge with a 43-29-5 series record.

The contests in 1934, 1937, 1940 and 1983 were scoreless affairs, while the 55th meeting in 1987 ended in a 14-14 stalemate.

The series was last deadlocked at 7-7-3 going into the 1950 game.

The Red Raiders will be looking to make it two straight victories over the Presidents after winning last year's affair, 21-6, and in the process snapping Quincy's ten-year run as city champions.

78TH CITY FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

Quincy Presidents vs. North Quincy Red Raiders

QUARTERBACK JOE SCHMITZ has guided the Red Raiders to a 5-5 record entering tomorrow's 78th annual Thanksgiving Day game against Quincy. Schmitz, a senior, will be starting his first Turkey Day game for North Quincy.

TRI-CAPTAIN JORDAN CARDOSA offers a major threat on offense for the Presidents as the team will be looking to rebound from last year's 21-6 loss to North Quincy tomorrow at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

that got us to a better record than last year.

"We are going to stay the course. Bad things are going to happen. It is going to be who can overcome."

One thing you can be sure of tomorrow is that North Quincy is going to try and run the ball, pound and wear out Quincy's defensive front, and work hard to maintain possession.

That game plan starts and ends with Adesuyan. The all-league back has been productive from the start. He scored both TDs versus Boston Latin, scored twice more against Oliver Ames and rushed for a score versus Pembroke. He scored two more times versus Malden, once against Hanover, Duxbury and Silver Lake and went off for three rushing TDs against Whitman-Hanson.

When he is on the sidelines catching his breath, Kyle McKay, Mike Curran, Mike Morrison and junior Marquis Chase can fill the void without missing a step. Suffice to say, North Quincy can run the ball.

This power run game starts and ends with the blocking and protection of the offense line, which includes Kelley, Bertucci, King, Scribi, and Diaz. Without this core, Adesuyan and the others have nowhere to run.

"Offensively, our backs are the strength right now," Connor said. "It goes hand-and-hand with our linemen. Our line this year is not the same as last year. These kids are all best friends with each other and have been playing with each other for years. They have great chemistry together and that has been so valuable to the offense."

If North Quincy has a chance to air it out, watch out for Mike Morrison on the edge.

When Quincy has the ball, any number of Red Raider defenders can make a big play as the team has speed and depth from the defensive front on out to the defensive backfield.

"We have a number of two-way starters but over the course of a game we probably play between 14 and 15 guys on defense," said Connor. "You'll see guys like Curran (defensive back), McKay, and Morrison back there and most of our offensive line plays on the defensive line as well.

"Jimmy Scribi (defensive lineman) and Garrett Kelley (linebacker) run the front two lines for us. And then McKay and Morrison lead the back line at the strong safety and free safety spots."

North Quincy's defense, through ten games, is allowing 19.4 points per game.

Quincy will be a stiff test for this unit. Coming into Thanksgiving, the Presidents have averaged 16.8 PPG behind some exciting play from running backs Reggie Cesar (six TDs), Jalen Green (eight TDs), Ronn Newsome (three TDs), and quarterback Ryan Schultz (five TDs, three passing).

"Their team speed is scary," said Connor. "Schultz is a good quarterback and they are a good team offensively. If they can get to the edge they are going to be a dangerous team to play against."

As it is every time these two teams play, the difference between winning and losing on Thanksgiving is the difference between enjoying your off-season and looking back with some regret.

"There is a lot less pressure, I hope, because we won last year," said Connor. "But going into each game, records don't matter, who is or isn't playing doesn't matter, once it gets into the game it really is 50/50 as to who will win.

"As soon as the game starts you're always one play away from the tide turning. I am confident in my team. We have a great group of kids and, that, hopefully, translates into a win tomorrow."

A second straight Thanksgiving Day win over Quincy, after suffering through ten years of Turkey Day misery, would be gravy for the Red Raiders.

Quincy Will Be Playing For Thanksgiving Day Payback

ally well for us this year and players like Ronn Newsome and Josh Galindo are important to what we like to do when we have the ball.

"In fact, Josh is probably our most important player on offense and defense. The leadership and experience he brings to the table is impossible to replace.

"And when we do decide to throw the ball, Jordan Cardosa, Derrick Stone and Tom Paluzzi give us the chance to make a big play."

Quincy comes into Thanksgiving averaging 16.8 points per game.

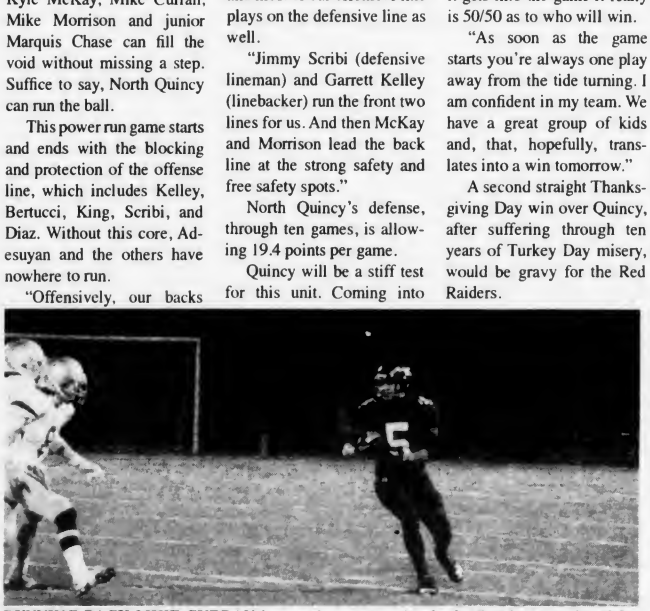
On the defensive side of the ball, the Presidents have proven that they can come up with turnovers, and in some cases this year, have turned those mistakes into points. Leading the charge is a number of two-way players including MacDonald (defensive line), Cardosa (defensive back), Cesar (DB), Galindo (linebacker), Stone (DB), Daniels (DL), Paluzzi (DB) and Green (DB), but the most dangerous defender for Quincy, and the one player North Quincy would be smart to avoid, is sophomore defensive back Jaquan Harris.

The young Harris came out and made an early impression on defense. In the Presidents' 42-14 victory over Canton HS, Harris returned two interceptions for touchdowns (42 and 35-yards, respectively). He is a game-changer and a player to keep a keen eye on tomorrow.

The Presidents, and Reardon, know that to beat North Quincy, they are going to have to tackle. Allowing runners like Adesuyan, McKay and Curran space or second chances will prove costly.

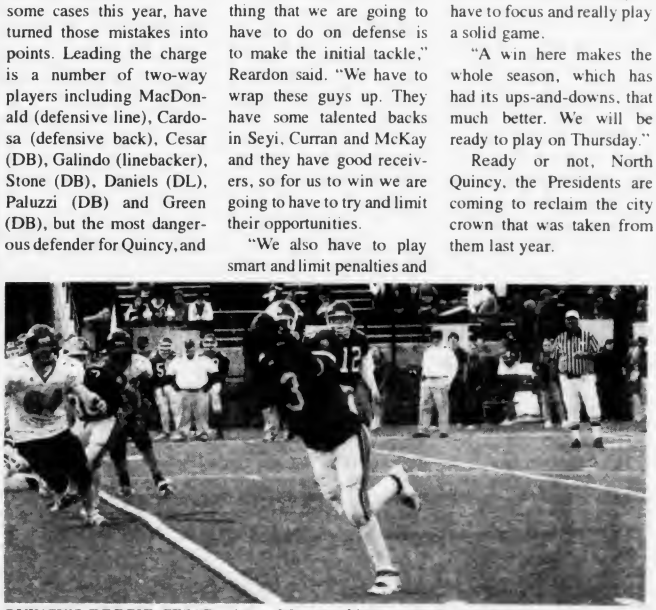
"The most important thing that we are going to have to do on defense is to make the initial tackle," Reardon said. "We have to wrap these guys up. They have some talented backs in Seyi, Curran and McKay and they have good receivers, so for us to win we are going to have to try and limit their opportunities.

"We also have to play smart and limit penalties and if we can force them into some turnovers that would go a long way to stopping what they like to do when they have the ball."



The Presidents are allowing 24.5 PPG on defense.

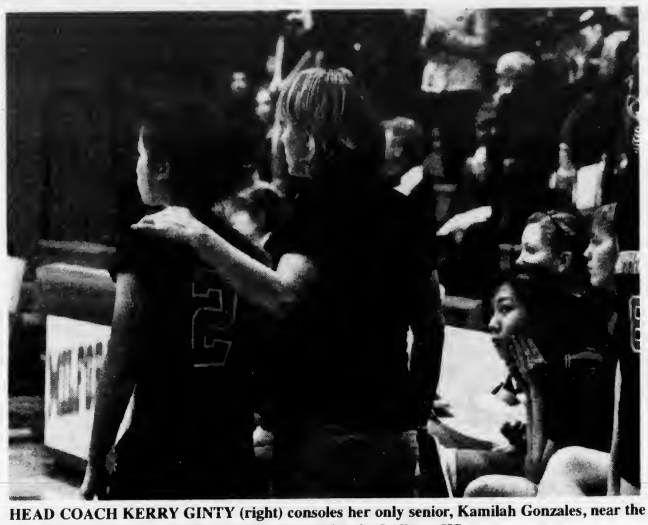
For Quincy, finishing with a 5-6 record is obviously better than finishing with a 4-7 record That is obvious. But finishing with a victory over North Quincy on Thanksgiving would also go a long way to viewing this season as a success. This game holds that much significance.



"There is always pressure because it is Thanksgiving," said Reardon. "We don't want to have that same feeling as we did last year after we lost, so we are going to have to focus and really play a solid game.

"A win here makes the whole season, which has had its ups-and-downs, that much better. We will be ready to play on Thursday."

Ready or not, North Quincy, the Presidents are coming to reclaim the city crown that was taken from them last year.



RUNNING BACK MIKE CURRAN is one of many running backs that have produced for North Quincy this season. Curran, along with Seyi Adesuyan and Kyle McKay head an impressive rushing attack for the Red Raiders as they enter tomorrow's game with Quincy.

QUINCY'S REGGIE CESAR, pictured here making an acrobatic catch during last year's Thanksgiving Day football game, is one of several Presidents who could make a major impact during tomorrow's 78th annual QHS-NQHS Thanksgiving Day game.

DESPITE A GUSTY EFFORT, North Quincy was eliminated from the Division I state volleyball playoffs following a 3-1-match loss to Lincoln-Sudbury HS last Wednesday at Milford HS. Picture from the left leaving the court are: Elizabeth Sullivan, Lizzie Kelley, Michelle Cole, and Rachel Chu.

Lost To Lincoln-Sudbury High School, 3-1; Majority of This Year's Roster Returns in 2011

North Quincy's Season Ends In State Semifinals

By SEAN BRENNAN

In the end they came up just short of a state championship. Two wins to be exact.

North Quincy's (20-5 overall) dream was dashed on November 17 when the Red Raiders ran into a talented Lincoln-Sudbury High School team in the Division I state semifinals, played at Milford High School.

The final score was 3-1 L-S. The Patriots jumped out early and took Game One, 25-9. Following a 25-14 Game Two loss, North Quincy dug deep and responded with an impressive 27-25 victory in Game Three, but in the fourth game, Lincoln-Sudbury, the top seed from Division I West ended North's year with a 25-14 game win.

It was a sudden end to a very successful season. The Red Raiders rolled through their regular season schedule, racking up 17 wins to just four losses. When the Division I Central-East playoffs began two weeks ago, North Quincy was seeded third in the field of 13 teams.

A 3-0-quarterfinal match victory over Cambridge Ridge & Latin advanced the Red Raiders into the sectional semifinals against Newton North HS; North Quincy dispatched of the No. 2 Tigers, 3-1, to earn a date with No. 1 Quincy High School two weekend's ago in the Central-East finals.

In what became an instant classic, North Quincy rallied from down 2-1 versus the Presidents to win the sectional crown, 3-2 and advance into the Division I final four for the first time since 2007.

Unfortunately that was as far as the program would advance this year. But, expect to see the Red Raiders competing for another Central-East sectional title and even, possibly, a state championship in 2011.

The team graduates one senior, Kamilah Gonzales. The remainder of this year's roster is returning, which is great news for North Quincy and bad news for everybody else.

The talent returning begins with the junior class of Elizabeth Sullivan (10 digs versus L-S), Olivia Umoren (seven kills, four blocks), Emma Ainsley (five kills), Rachel Chu, Michelle Cole, Kara Reardon, Lizzie Kelley, Megan Leahy and Elizabeth Forde.

Next year's seniors gained valuable experience during the tournament run and should be even hungrier for more next fall. This class makes North Quincy an early favorite to repeat as sectional champs.

Also returning will be sophomores Rose Bennett (six kills, four blocks), Lisa Wong, Si Han Huang, Emily Luc, and Elaine Chan. Freshman Maya Umoren (four kills) is also a star in the making for NQHS. Suffice to say (write), the Red Raiders are going to be loaded when the season gets underway next September.

For the Red Raiders, this wasn't a "bridge year." They expected to be good. And next year, you can expect them to be even better; ten months and counting if you are a fan of the program.

"A True Man for Others": Remembering Coach Cotter

The Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy Center, invites residents to come join Paul Kenney for a special program about the late Coach Jim Cotter on Wed., Dec. 1 at 7 p.m.

Jim Cotter spent 50 years guiding and inspiring thousands of Boston College High School students; his colorful and insightful memoir, "A True Man for Others," tells the story of his scrappy beginnings, his success as a scholarship student at BC High, and his career at the school as a teacher, coach, guidance counselor, athletic director and administrator.

Cotter passed away on July 20 at his home in Quincy surrounded by his family after a long and courageous battle with ALS.

Co-author Paul Kenney, a former student of Cotter's who has written for many of the major newspapers in New England, will talk about Cotter's life and influence and share pictures of Cotter's life journey.

Copies of the book will be available for sale.

For more information, visit www.thomascranelibrary.org or call 617-376-1301.

SCOTT DEWARE

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It has been a long time since many Americans went into the woods and shot their Thanksgiving dinner. Also, it has been a long time since many housewives sent to the market and brought home a turkey that was not already pre-plucked and pre-cleaned.

It is hard for us to imagine how it must have been on that first Thanksgiving in 1621, when a tiny band of only 55 Pilgrims who had survived their first harsh winter in the New World paused in their labors to give thanks for their first harvest.

Yet, despite the remoteness of that original Thanksgiving in terms of years, it is not so far away in spirit if we but reflect on the manifold blessings we have to be thankful for in this great nation.

Thanksgiving is a special day. Between the feasting and the football watching, let us all take a few minutes to think about why it is so special . . .

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Don't feel sheepish about looking to spend more time with that special person during the upcoming holidays. Do it because it's the right thing to do.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Never mind letting misunderstandings repair themselves. Consider speaking up while the healing process can be shorter and sweeter and leave fewer scars.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Romance is easily awakened in the Geminian heart, especially around the happy holiday season. So go ahead and make those plans with that special someone.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Moon Children can glow with their own inner light as the holiday season magic takes hold. It's a very special time for Cancers and Libras together. Enjoy.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) It's a good time for you fabulous Felines to take pleasure in your special gift for, well, taking pleasure! Look for this holiday season to give you every reason to purr.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) This is a good time to let others who are in your life get a little closer to you. You'll both find out what you've been missing for far too long.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Open up your eyes and see some welcome surprises you've missed or overlooked for too long. What you find can lead to other favorable changes.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) What you expect to be potentially troublesome might simply be especially challenging and well worth your efforts to check out. Good luck!

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A friendship might not seem as trustworthy as you'd like. OK. Ask your questions, get your answers and settle the matter once and for all.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A family situation moves into a new area because of (or, maybe, thanks to) some decisions you might have felt you could not avoid making.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You could be cutting it very close if you hope to make those holiday plan changes in time to avoid problems. Get a friend or family member to help.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Friends show how important you are to them. Keep these precious relationships thriving. They affect much that will happen to the fabulous Fish in the new year.

BORN THIS WEEK: Time spent at home alone nurtures your mystic self. Spending your time with others nurtures them.

Currently pending in the Ordinance Committee of the Quincy City Council

Be it ordained that the Quincy Municipal Code is amended as follows: In Title 2 Administration & Personnel Chapter 2.68 Police Dept. Section 2.68.110 Public Safety Enforcement add the following:

K. The collector-treasurer shall state, upon issuance of a bill to the record owner of the particular property or location, the costs of such paid police detail(s) as have been assigned and that interest at the rate of six percent (6%) per annum accrues from thirty (30) days from the date the bill was issued. Said bill shall also state that any additional collection costs will be added to the total amount due.

L. The collector-treasurer shall notify the assessor on a quarterly basis of any all bids pursuant to this ordinance which remain outstanding after thirty (30) days and the total due, including interest and/or collection costs.

M. Any unpaid bill for police details under this section, including interest and/or collection costs, shall be added to the real estate tax on the property and collected as part of that tax. In the case of tax exempt property, the charge will be committed as the tax.

QHS Culinary Arts Students Cook For Fr. Bill's Dinner

QUINCY HIGH culinary arts instructors (from left) Patrick Noe, Bill Gluvna, Mark Kelly with John Yazwinski, president and CEO of Father Bill's & MainSpring, were on hand Monday morning when the culinary arts students began preparing turkeys for the 20th annual Thanksgiving Community Dinner Thursday from noon to 3 p.m. at Christ Episcopal Church, 12 Quincy Ave., Quincy. Quincy Sun Photo/Joseph Reardon

Smith said. "It's a lot of work but it's fun doing it. And now we know how to cook turkeys."

Smith, whose specialty is chicken, broccoli and ziti, expects be doing at least some of the cooking for his family this year.

"I'm sure a lot of the kids will be helping at home," he said with a smile. "I'll be at my grandparents helping to cook for 14. Any time I go over their house I help them cook."

Another 10th-grade student, Anxhela Kapaj, said cooking the turkeys and making the pies helps get her into the holiday spirit.

"It think it's great," Kapaj said. "It's a good thing we're doing I'm glad we're helping. When I signed up for this class, I knew every day would be exciting. It's a lot of fun and the teachers are great."

Father Bill's & MainSpring President and CEO John Yazwinski visited the kitchen Monday morning as the students were assembling to begin the food preparation. Yazwinski said there are more than 130 volunteers helping out on Thanksgiving, ranging in age from 10 to 80, and some start as early as 4 am.

He believes the collaboration between the high school and Father Bill's is a positive for all involved. "Prior to this relationship we used to have 50 or 60 turkeys floating around," Yazwinski said. "Now it's a real coordinated effort.

"These are our future chefs and future leaders. This partnership speaks to the very nature of Thanksgiving by providing a great example of how a community can come together to help support their neighbors. We thank the Quincy Public Schools, and specifically the kids, for their continued commitment to our mission in helping those without a home. It is through their support that we will be able to provide a warmer holiday for many individuals and families this year."

Monetary donations can be made to the Father Bill's & MainSpring Thanksgiving Community Dinner by sending a check to Father Bill's & MainSpring, Development Office, 422 Washington Street, Quincy, MA 02169. Additionally, donations of turkey and food in bulk sizes are being accepted at Father Bill's Place 38 Broad Street, Quincy, MA 02169.

'Tis The Season

SANTA CLAUS extends holiday greetings to spectators along the 3-mile route of the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade Sunday. An estimated 150,000 people attended the 58th annual parade which traditionally signals the start of the holiday season here.

JAMIE COCHRANE Road Race float was the grand prize winner in the non-commercial float category in Sunday's 58th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade. The float received the grand prize: the Fr. Thomas Tierney Trophy and a cash award of $1,500.

RICK COBBAN, a Quincy native and longtime stilt man in the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade, rides the 3-mile parade route in style (and comfort) instead of 6-foot stilts Sunday: on the back of a float honoring him as this year's parade grand marshal. Cobban retired from walking the route on stilts – as he had for 25 years – after last year's parade. Story on Page 2; other photos on Pages 13 and 18.

In Quincy Center Redevelopment Plan

Council Focus On Town Brook, Environment

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Street-Works officials Monday outlined a plan that would redirect sections of Town Brook underground so that it runs parallel to the Concourse and so that it "daylights" 100 feet of the brook near the current site of the American Legion Post #95 at 27 Revere Road.

Daylighting sections of Town Brook through Quincy Center has been considered an attractive feature of the Quincy Center Revitalization project.

However, Monday's presentation doused some enthusiasm for several observers.

"We conservatively hope to daylight it a minimum of 100 feet," announced Stephen Chrusciel, Director of Construction for Street Works, White Plains, NY.

The short 100-foot length of the proposed 'daylighting' as well as the proposed underground Concourse route of the brook disappointed several observers.

"Let's not overstate it as a public amenity," said Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro who compared the proposed 100-foot length of the daylighted brook to the frontage of two homes. "This is not an extraordinarily terrific public asset."

Gutro also sought additional information on flooding problems in the area which appear to have increased with the construction of the Concourse.

New Property Valuations Available For Review

The Quincy Board of Assessors recently conducted a comprehensive reassessment of all classes of properties in the City of Quincy, as mandated by the Massachusetts Department of Revenue.

The proposed Fiscal Year 2001 valuations are available for review through Wednesday, Dec. 8 in the Assessors Office, City Hall, 1305 Hancock St., Quincy, daily from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday and Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The valuations can also be reviewed at the Thomas Crane Public Library Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Friday and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

To view the valuations online, visit the city's website: www.quincyma.gov.

The values are pending preliminary certification, according to the Board of Assessors.

Taxpayers may contact the Board of Assessors with questions regarding the proposed assessments by calling 617-376-1183.

'Remember Pearl Harbor' Wreath Laying Ceremony Dec. 7

The Quincy Veterans' Council will conduct a wreath laying ceremony to "Remember Pearl Harbor" Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 10 a.m.

The ceremony, which will mark the 69th anniversary of the Japanese sneak aerial attack on U.S. Navy vessels in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, on Dec. 7, 1941, will be held in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Veterans' Section at the Flag Pole on the World War II Memorial at the corner of Sea Street and Southern Artery.

Coffee and donuts will be served at the Cyril P. Morrisette American Legion Post 294, 81-83 Liberty St., immediately following the ceremony.

In case of inclement weather, the ceremony will be held at the Cyril P. Morrisette Post.

For more information, call Quincy Veterans' Services at 617-376-1192.

Quincy Christmas Festival Parade Delights 150,000

By JOE REARDON

Madison Connor and Alexis Segura bundled under a big, multi-colored blanket on Sunday afternoon, trying to keep warm from the late November chill as they waited in anticipation for the 58th Quincy Christmas Parade to pass by the vantage spot they picked out on Hancock Street in North Quincy.

The middle school-aged girls had attended the long-standing tradition that kicks off the holiday season in Quincy for as long as they could remember and hope someday to bring their own families to the event.

For Segura, like thousands of kids who lined the three-mile route, it was the sight of Santa Claus on the back of the Quincy Fire Department truck that has always been the highlight of the parade.

"I liked seeing Santa," said Segura. "That was the best part – always."

Connor agreed with her friend. "We all like when Santa comes," she said.

On a perfect, late November day, police estimated more than 150,000 spectators gathered under a bright, cloudless sky and cheered on the various marching bands, clowns, floats and politicians who marched in the biggest parade on the South Shore.

Five-year-old Emma Smeaton and her family claimed their spot in front of the Sacred Heart Church more than an hour before the parade was slated to pass by. For Emma, who sipped from a steamy cup of hot chocolate, catching a glimpse of Santa was her goal of the day.

"I like Santa," said Emma. "I'm going to say hi."

Eric Loporto has been attending the parade since he was a kid and enjoys it as much as ever now that he has his own family. "I've come my whole life," said Loporto. "It's always a great parade."

Vendors with massive amounts of Mylar balloons, horns, stuffed animals and assorted toys pushed their goods on shopping carts before the procession passed, the brilliant colors adding to the festivities.

The parade got off to a rousing start with police motorcycles from local towns blasting their sirens and flashing their lights to the delight of the crowd.

The Boston Crusaders pounded out Christmas music as they marched in perfect unison along the route.

The parade's grand marshal, Rick Cobban, was given a rousing cheer by spectators who recognized him from previous parades. Cobban retired after walking the route wearing stilts since 1985. Last year's parade was the final one for Cobban walking on stilts.

Blown up photos of Cobban from previous parades dressed as Uncle Sam and wearing a Red Sox uniform adorned the float where Cobban was waving to the crowd from.

Beautiful Clydesdales Horses pulled a huge Hallamore cart and various color guards from local organizations and the military marched in step, tall and deliberate.

Marching bands dressed in brightly colored uniforms from Acton-Boxboro High, North Quincy/Quincy High, David Prouty High, New Bedford High, Case High, Hanover High and Douglas High belted out Christmas songs with the horn and percussion units playing in flawless unison. The strains of bagpipes from the Boston Police Gaelic Column echoed on Hancock Street and a brilliant convoy of vintage corvettes rumbled through the North Quincy neighborhoods.

Karly Heine, who was the parade theme winner with her submission of "Christmas Around The World", waved to the crowd, a huge smile on her face, while kids cheered with glee at the Red Sox mascot Wally The Green Monster, the Aleppo Shriner Clowns, Ronald McDonald and McGruff the Crime Dog.

SPECTATORS GREET Santa and his elf at Pageant Field after their arrival by parachute. Santa was a popular guy all weekend, including his appearance in Sunday's 58th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade.

But Urge Council To Review Financial Details

Strong Public Support For Quincy Center Redevelopment Plan

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Cong. Bill Delahunt last week urged city councillors to seize the opportunity to overhaul Quincy Center and not get lost in the details as he and his colleagues did in 1973 when a similar opportunity called the Hilgenhurst plan for Quincy Center evaporated.

"We failed to act. We failed to see the larger vision. We debated it and debated it," said Delahunt who recalled his term as a Ward 5 councillor and described his longtime regret. "We thought we had time. We were wrong."

"I enthusiastically endorse this plan," said Delahunt.

Delahunt wasn't alone in supporting the current Quincy Center Redevelopment project or in urging swift action at the council's Nov. 20 public hearing on the Quincy Center Revitalization plan.

Over 77 speakers followed Delahunt to the mike and the vast majority advocated speedy approval of the plan when they addressed eight of the city's nine councillors and the nearly 500 persons in the new Quincy High School auditorium.

More than 60 residents, union members and business leaders favored swift passage of the Land Disposition Agreement or LDA, the proposed contract between the city and the developer.

The last speaker and ninth councillor, Ward 2's Daniel Raymondi, sat with the public and spoke only as 'Citizen' Raymondi who assailed the plan because it does not address Town Brook flooding problems.

Raymondi was one of the few speakers opposing the project but several others described their uncertainty and many supported the plan but urged councillors to study the details carefully.

Some two dozen union leaders and their members representing carpenters, plumbers, electricians and pipe fitters not only cited the thousands of jobs the project would create but, also, advocated a union-only PLA or project labor agreement as well.

Also among the supporters were former Mayor Walter Hannon who cited the neglect and deterioration of Downtown Quincy and urged councillors to be "part of a very historic event" and Peter Foreman, President of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

Foreman asked the council to act "responsibly, but expeditiously," stating, "Quincy can either lead or be left behind."

Curbside Collection Of Yardwaste Extended

In response to unseasonable warm weather this fall, Mayor Thomas P. Koch announces yardwaste pick-up will be extended one additional collection cycle.

Residents are instructed to place all yardwaste curbside for collection on their regular trash day the week of Dec. 6-10.

The City changed to bi-weekly collection this year in a cost cutting measure. By eliminating six weeks from the collection schedule the City saved the taxpayer over $48,000.

Yardwaste stickers should be placed on all yardwaste BARRELS. Place leaves, twigs and grass clippings in paper bags or cardboard boxes. Barrels should be uncovered and clearly marked with yardwaste stickers.

Yardwaste should be placed curbside by 6 a.m. on regular trash collection day. Yardwaste should be set apart from regular trash.

Tree branches should be cut into 3-foot lengths and tied with string or rope.

Yardwaste in plastic bags will not be collected.

Yardwaste, including larger brush and tree limbs, are accepted at the DPW Yard at 55 Sea St., Monday through Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., and on Saturdays from April 10 through mid-December, from 7:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Dec. 11, 1872, dime-novel hero Buffalo Bill Cody makes his first stage appearance in a Chicago-based production of The Scouts of the Prairie. Cody remained on the Chicago stage for the next 11 years. Buffalo Bill Cody was the hero of more than 1,700 variant issues of dime novels.

• On Dec. 6, 1884, in Washington, D.C., workers place a 9-inch aluminum pyramid atop an obelisk of white marble, completing the construction of the Washington Monument. A city law passed in 1910 restricted the height of new buildings to ensure that at 555 feet, the monument would remain the tallest structure in Washington, D.C.

• On Dec. 12, 1914, the Dow Jones Industrial Average suffers its worst percentage drop (24.39 percent) since it was first published in 1896. It was the first day of trading since the New York Stock Exchange reopened in November 1914 after being shut down due to the start of World War I earlier that year.

• On Dec. 9, 1921, an engineer at General Motors discovers that when he adds a compound called tetraethyl lead to gasoline, he eliminates the knocking that internal-combustion engines make when they run. In the 1970s, the Environmental Protection Agency required that carmakers phase out lead-compatible engines.

• On Dec. 7, 1941, in an early-morning sneak attack, Japanese warplanes bomb the U.S. naval base at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii, and the United States enters World War II. Two hundred Japanese aircraft destroyed or damaged 18 U.S. ships and killed 2,400 Americans.

• On Dec. 10, 1967, soul legend Otis Redding dies in a plane crash near Madison, Wisc. He was 26. "(Sittin' On) The Dock of the Bay" would be released in its "unfinished" form several weeks later. The whistled verse was a placeholder for additional lyrics that Redding had yet to write.

• On Dec. 8, 1980, John Lennon is shot and killed by Mark David Chapman outside his apartment building in New York City. Later that evening, police took Chapman into custody peaceably after finding him reading a copy of "The Catcher in the Rye" at the site of the shooting.

Hancock Street Bridge Work Begins Monday

The Massachusetts Department of Transportation's contractor will begin working on the Hancock Street Bridge in North Quincy Monday, Dec. 6.

The bridge repair work is expected to be completed in June, 2012.

During the work, the right-hand, northbound lane of the bridge will be closed to traffic from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. for approximately four days in order for the contractor to remove a portion of the northbound sidewalk. After completing the sidewalk work, the contractor will install jersey barriers to restrict the southbound side of the bridge to traffic.

Once the work zone is set, the bridge will be reduced to one travel lane in each direction throughout the duration of the work. There will be a right-turn only restriction in place at the intersection of Kendall Street and Hancock Street as well.

For more information, contact John Romano, Mass DOT, 617-973-7028, or Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee, 617-770-0678.

Rallying Around The Kettle

Red ribbons. Red lights. Red Santa suits.

It's the holiday season again and the color red is one of the omnipresent colors associated with this joyful and festive time of year.

But there is also another red that symbolizes one of the true meanings of this season.

The Salvation Army red kettle.

The kettle reminds us that there are people and families in our own community who need a helping hand for basic necessities including food, clothing and heating assistance all year round.

They should also serve as a gentle stop sign. When we see a red kettle outside a busy store, in front of a mall entrance or placed on a well-traveled sidewalk, just pause to reflect how fortunate many of us are. And remember that one small gesture – a donation of loose change from a pocket or a few dollar bills from a wallet – will go a long way toward helping someone locally in need.

The kettle drive is, and always has been, one of The Salvation Army's largest fundraising campaigns throughout the year, said Major Doug Burr of the Quincy Corps.

"The red kettles are almost synonymous with Christmas and the monies raised during that time of year goes to support our work all year 'round. Without the public's generosity, we would be hard pressed to meet the needs of so many families as we do," Burr said.

The Salvation Army Quincy Corps located on Baxter Street began its holiday kettle campaign Monday, Nov. 15. It continues through Christmas Eve, Dec. 24. The local Corps has set up kettles at 14 area locations. They are:

- Stop and Shop in Quincy, North Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Hingham.
- Shaws in Braintree and Weymouth.
- Star Market in Quincy.
- Roche Brothers in Quincy.
- Walmart in Quincy and Weymouth.
- Kmart in Braintree.
- South Shore Plaza – three locations in the mall.
- Macy's at South Shore Plaza – two doors outside.

There will also be a "Community Leader" kettle outside City Hall today (Thursday) and again next Thursday, Dec. 9. More than 40 community leaders will man the kettle and ring the bell for the Salvation Army from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. both days.

The community leader kettle was established many years ago by Henry Bosworth, founder of The Quincy Sun newspaper. This tradition will continue for the second year in memory of Mr. Bosworth who passed away in February, 2009.

Here is this year's line-up:

Today (Thursday, Dec. 2)

• 9 a.m. – Councillor and State Senator-elect John Keenan; State Representative-elect Tackey Chan; and State Rep. Ron Mariano.

• 10 a.m. – City Clerk Joseph Shea, Norfolk County Commissioner John Gillis; Ward 2 Councillor Dan Raymondi; State Sen. Michael Morrissey.

• 11 a.m. – School Committeewoman Jo-Ann Bragg; Dean Rizzo, co-director, Quincy Chamber of Commerce; School Committeeman David McCarthy.

• Noon – School Committee Vice Chairwoman Anne Mahoney; John Farmer, Salvation Army Advisory Board.

• 1 p.m. – School Committeewoman Barbara Isola; attorney and former city councillor, state representative and Norfolk County D.A. George Burke.

• 2 p.m. – Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci; Beth Ann Strollo, executive director, Quincy Community Action Program; Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest.

• 3 p.m. – School Committeewoman Elaine Dwyer; Sandra McGunigle, interim director of Public Relations, Quincy Medical Center; City Council President Kevin Coughlin.

Thursday Dec. 9

• 9 a.m. – Mayor Tom Koch; Councillor Mike McFarland, Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro.

• 10 a.m. – Fire Chief Joseph Barron; Police Chief Paul Keenan; Loretta McTiernan, vice president, South Shore Savings Bank, and president Quincy Lions Club.

• 11 a.m. – Norfolk County District Attorney and Cong.-Elect William Keating; Don Uvanitte, Salvation Army Advisory Board member; Donna Mavromates, director of Marketing, Quincy Chamber of Commerce; Maralin Manning, director of Business Development, Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

• Noon – Marybeth Curran, president, Quincy Rotary Club; Bonnie Schwerin, president, Quincy Kiwanis Club, assistant vice president and branch manager, S-Bank.

• 1 p.m. – Marion Fantucchio, Quincy assessor, Salvation Army Advisory Board; Patrick McDermott, Norfolk County Register of Probate; State Rep. Bruce Ayers; Thomas Crane Library Director Ann McLaughlin.

• 2 p.m. – Isobel Bertman, Rogers Jewelry, and Salvation Army Advisory Board member; John Farmer, Salvation Army Advisory Board member; Councillor Joseph Finn.

• 3 p.m. – Ward 6 Councillor Brian McNamee; School Committeewoman Emily Lebo; Mark O'Neill, Chief Financial Officer, Quincy Medical Center; John Yazwinski, president and CEO, Father Bill's & MainSpring.

We would like to acknowledge of our community leader volunteers as well as the other bell ringers manning the kettles throughout the area.

We also encourage anyone to stop by any kettle or consider making a donation to any worthy charity this holiday season.

DID YOU KNOW the Salvation Army Kettle is more than 100 years old?

According to the Salvation Army website, in 1891, Salvation Army Captain Joseph McFee was distraught because so many poor individuals in San Francisco were going hungry. During the holiday season, he resolved to provide a free Christmas dinner for the destitute and poverty-stricken. But he needed funding for the project.

McFee then remembered his sailor days in Liverpool, England and Stage Landing where the boats came in. There was a large, iron kettle called "Simpson's Pot" into which passers-by tossed a coin or two to help the poor.

McFee placed a similar pot at the Oakland Ferry Landing at the foot of Market Street. Beside the pot, he placed a sign that read, "Keep the Pot Boiling." He soon had the money to see that the needy people were properly fed at Christmas.

Six years later, the kettle idea spread from the West Coast to the Boston area. Today in the U.S., the Salvation Army assists more than four-and-a-half million people during the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons.

A GOOD DEAL for a great cause: During the holiday season – from Thanksgiving to New Year's Day – Rogers Jewelry in Quincy Center donates all proceeds from battery replacement sales to the Salvation Army. Last year, the donation was in excess of $1,500. Over the past years, the total has exceeded $20,000 for this worthy organization.

THE RACE for next year's open Ward 5 council seat has drawn its first candidate.

McCOLE

Neil McCole told The Sun he will run for the seat being vacated by longtime incumbent Doug Gutro who will campaign for councillor at-large next fall.

McCole, who will be making his political debut, has been active in the community. Among the organizations he has been associated with: the Friends of Wollaston Beach (serving four years as the non-profit's president) and the Ward 5 Community Association (longtime vice president)..

"I feel public service is a calling. The time is right for me to move into a greater role of service for our wonderful community," McCole says. He and his wife, Cheryl Devin-McCole are the parents of four children.

IF YOU THOUGHT Joe Finn would not be running for re-election as a councillor at-large next fall, think again.

FINN

Finn, who was first elected in 2001, says he will definitely seek a sixth two-year term next fall. He also dispelled any notion that he is moving out of Quincy – another rumor that's circulated around the city.

One councillor at-large who will not be running: John Keenan. He'll be sworn in as the city's next state senator in January and will serve out his current council term in 2011 but not seek re-election next fall.

THE COMMITTEE to Elect Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest will hold a reception Wednesday, Dec. 8 from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Hoffbrau Cafe, 400 Sea St., Quincy. Suggested donation is $25, $50, $100 or $250. Donations can be accepted online at MargaretLaforest.com.

A BELATED BIRTHDAY reception in honor of Ward 3 Councillor Kevin Coughlin will be held Wednesday, Dec. 8 from 6 to 8 p.m. at The Common Market Restaurant, 97 Willard St., Quincy. Cash bar and hors d'oeuvres. Suggested contributions $25, $50, $100 and $200.

Coughlin celebrated his 56th birthday Nov. 19.

Happy Belated Birthday, Mr. Council President.

Scenes From Yesterday

THIS IS A 1919 postcard view of what was known then as Klein's Corner at the intersection of Beale and Hancock Streets in Wollaston Center. Paul Klein, who lived a short distance away on Beach Street, owned the building and operated his drug store on the corner here until 1930. The drug store then changed owners and had a number of different names until it became known as the Blackwood Pharmacy. The store was home to drugstores for over 80 years until the Blackwood Pharmacy moved to Quincy Center in 2002. It is now home to the Grandasia Bridal & Fashion Shop, a bridal gown shop catering to all sorts of special fashion needs. A second story was added to this building in 1927, but after all these years and changes many of the architectural details of the original building's storefronts remain the same. Iredales Expresses Thanks For Campaign Support

Saying goodbye is always tough to do, but alas the dance has ended and it is time to rest and dream and think of new possibilities. Entering the political arena has been one of the hardest and yet one of the most rewarding things I have ever undertaken.

I am so very thankful to all that have helped along the path. From sign holders to wordsmiths, from those that helped deliver literature, from campaign managers to door knocking partners, from picture takers to data entry specialist, to those that showed political courage when it was not popular to do so, from our wonderful graphic artist to those that helped organize the parties, from those that gathered children to a kitchen table to those that helped with signs, from those that hosted coffee hours to those that kept me going when it looked as though life was being unkind, my heart is eternally grateful.

The greatest part of the experience was meeting so many new people and learning from them. If my estimates are correct, we knocked at over 8000 doors and talked to over 4000 people.

Life goes on hold when you are campaigning and you miss out on the simple things such as weekend trips away with your family or impromptu boating expeditions with your friends. What you get in return is a lifetime of memories, some will haunt me, such as talking to cancer patients about health care and some will uplift my heart, such as interacting with so many children.

The person I need to thank the most is my wife; she has allowed me to pursue my adventures and has never lost faith in me. When I started my business 23 years ago, Tina encouraged me as much then as she has now. She is truly my rock and greatest friend and I am blessed to have her in my life.

Another wonderful memory was knocking on doors with my son by my side. I never felt prouder watching him campaign and overhearing him say how much his father meant to him and why he was the right person for the job.

Ultimately, the right person always wins and I wish Tackey all the best as he pursues his new life. Tackey will undoubtedly do a great job as he is a gifted and talented politician who has learned well from those that he worked for. To Karl Roos, I also wish you the best and hopefully you will not be discouraged to try and run again. Karl also has many talents and is a person with great passion; I wish you all the best Karl and keep at it because you have a lot to offer.

As to whether I will run or not in the future depends upon the circumstances at the time. Many things figure into this decision and only time will tell. I encourage those that might be thinking about running for office to give it a try; you really never lose and you grow by more than you can ever imagine.

So for now, it is time to rest and dream of new possibilities. From the bottom of my heart thank you.

City Workers Seek Cost Of Living Pay Boost

This Week
1951
59 Years Ago

By FRANK McCAULEY

The Quincy City Employees Association has joined other groups of Quincy municipal workers in seeking a pay raise for 1952, City Manager William Deegan, Jr., announced.

The association has asked for a cost of living increase for the coming year. According to the November figure the cost of living in Massachusetts has gone up 5.1% since January of this year (1951).

Since the association's increased requests will be based on the increase from last January to the same month in 1952, the exact percentage of the wage boost sought cannot be accurately determined until the January figures are complied.

Quincy police, along with Quincy firefighters, are expected to ask for a flat $500 increase across the board while teachers are asking for a $500 increase or a 10% raise.

MAYOR DEPORES IGNORANCE OF CITY AFFAIRS

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin decried the lack of understanding concerning the operation of Quincy's municipal government.

Speaking at a teachers' conference at North Quincy High School, Mayor Burgin said"

"I am astonished in looking about the city at the lack of understanding concerning the operation of the city's legislative branch.

"Since I have been mayor and a member of the council for the past two years, I don't believe more than two groups from the Quincy school system have attended one of the council meetings."

Mayor Burgin also declared that the lack of knowledge concerning proportional representation voting on the part of many citizens was deplorable.

"It would be very well if more of our teachers participated in community affairs," he concluded.

Free Slide Presentation At Crane Library Dec. 6

Evolution Of The American Diner

Larry Cultrera will present a slide presentation about the unique roadside restaurant called The American Diner Monday, Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

See how diners have changed and evolved through the years from the horse-drawn lunch wagons of the late 19th century to the large multi-sectioned restaurants that are still being built today.

A segment on past and present local diners will feature Quincy favorites such as The Apple Tree Diner, the United Diner and the Mayflower Diner.

Cultrera, who grew up in Medford, has been fascinated by diners since he was a young boy. Back then, diners were fabricated restaurants that somewhat resembled railroad cars. Since 1980, Cultrera has traveled across the country documenting over 800 diners with his 35-mm camera and collecting postcards and memorabilia.

The slide presentation is sponsored by The Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

For more information, visit 617-376-1301.

THE APPLE TREE DINER which was located near the Quincy Lumber Company on Southern Artery will be among the roadside restaurants featured in a slide presentation Monday at the Thomas Crane Public Library.

ENC Free Holiday Concert Friday

Holiday favorites and jazz arrangements will be among the musical selections performed by Eastern Nazarene College's Symphonic Winds and 4 O'Clock Jazz Ensemble at a free winter concert Friday, Dec. 3 at 7:30 p.m. in the Cove Fine Arts Center on the college's main campus in Wollaston.

Comprised of ENC students, adults and selected high school students, the 35-member Symphonic Winds will perform a number of holiday selections followed by the 4 O'Clock Jazz Ensemble, which will present a jazz program featuring "big band" instrumentation and arrangements.

"We invite area residents to come and discover these local ensembles at this free concert," said Stephen Bell, director of both the Symphonic Winds and 4 O'Clock Jazz ensembles. "It's a wonderful way to step into the Christmas season."

For more information, call 617-745-3715 or visit www.enc.edu.

Concert To Benefit School Partnership

The Quincy School Community Partnership and State Street Corporation will present the 8th annual 'Tis The Season . . . Symphony & Song! Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 7:30 p.m. in the Lloyd Hill Performance Art Center, Quincy High School, 100 Coddington St., Quincy.

Doors will open at 7 p.m. There will be a gift bazaar and refreshments in the foyer.

Tickets are $20 and may be obtained at North Quincy High School and Quincy High School.

All proceeds will benefit the Quincy Public Schools music program.

The musical evening will feature the sounds of the holiday season with The Quincy Symphony Orchestra, directed by Yoichi Udagawa along with the Combined North Quincy and Quincy High School Choral Group and The John Adams Orchestra.

The benefit offers a fun-filled musical evening for the entire family.

'North Pole Postman' Aids Franciscan Hospital For Children

The patients at Franciscan Hospital for Children had an early Christmas surprise recently – a visitor from the North Pole, and it wasn't Santa Claus!

Actually, it was 'post' Mark the North Pole Postman. 'Post' Mark, as he known by the kids, is the elf who works in Santa's mailroom, and helps him go through all his letters.

The North Pole Postman, who has a red and white mail suit of his own, chose to do the benefit for FHFC because his nephew, Liam Davis, of Quincy, was born a handicapped child.

"The therapies that the Franciscan Hospital for Children have provided Liam, I believe, are the reason he is alive today," Perry said. "I am glad to be giving back to a facility that has been instrumental at helping a member of my family."

The North Pole Postman, also known as Mark Perry, with his nephew, Liam Davis, of Quincy.

PATIENTS AT FRANCISCAN Hospital for Children received an early Christmas surprise recently – a visit from Mark the North Pole Postman.

Deanna Dwyer, FHFC Marketing Director said, "When 'post' Mark approached me with his idea earlier this year, I thought it was brilliant. I am very excited to offer our patients something special and unique that is not found at any other hospital in Boston."

The North Pole Postman visited with approximately 40 patients on three different hospital units who chose to participate in the event. He collected letters from the patients, and will be delivering them to the North Pole. The patients with parental consent are lucky enough to experience the miracle of Christmas because 'post' Mark will send a response--an official, personalized letter from Santa postmarked at the North Pole.

Alma's Baked Fudge Dessert

At recent birthday party at my daughter Nancy's house for granddaughter Sophia who is now a teenager, my son-in-law Jed's mother Alma gave me today's delicious recipe for baked fudge.

She said it's been around for quite some time and was one of her mother's.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees

BAKED FUDGE

1-cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 tablespoons cocoa
¼ cup butter
½ cup milk
1-teaspoon vanilla
½ cup chopped walnuts (optional)

Combine the first five ingredients together. Cut in the butter until crumbly. Add the milk, vanilla and walnuts if used.

In an eight-inch pan, or small casserole dish, spread the ingredients.

FOR THE TOPPING

½ cup brown sugar
½ cup Karo syrup
2 tablespoons cocoa
¾ cup boiling water

Combine the brown sugar, Karo, cocoa, and mix well. Add the boiling water and mix. Then pour it over the batter in the pan, and bake for about 50 minutes. Serve warm or hot either plain or with ice cream or whipped cream.

QMC Cardiovascular Rehab Program Certified By National Association

Quincy Medical Center (QMC) aanounces the certification of its Cardiovascular Rehabilitation Program by the American Association of Cardiovascular and Pulmonary Rehabilitation (AACVPR).

The certification recognizes the QMC Cardiac Rehab Program for its commitment to improving the quality of life by enhancing standards of care.

"We are very proud to receive this certification," says Alan Berrick, MD, Chief of Cardiology and Medical Director of the Cardiac Rehab. Program at Quincy Medical Center. "This achievement is a testament to the quality of services that our cardiac rehabilitation staff provide, and the level of dedication that they demonstrate to their profession and, most important, to our patients."

Cardiovascular rehabilitation programs are designed to help people with cardiovascular problems (e.g. heart attacks, coronary artery bypass graft surgery, etc.) recover faster and improve their quality of life.

The QMC Cardiovascular program includes exercise, education, counseling and support for patients and their families. The program is part of QMC's comprehensive cardiovascular service for patients with coronary artery disease, congestive heart failure, peripheral vascular disease, stroke, arrhythmia and other conditions.

AACVPR certification recognizes outstanding programs that follow best practices in patient care and program management. The AACVPR Program Certification is the only peer-reviewed accreditation process designed to review individual facilities for adherence to standards and guidelines developed and published by the AACVPR and other professional societies. The AACVPR National Certification Committee reviews each program and the AACVPR Board of Directors awards certification. AACVPR Program Certification is valid for three years.

Jingle Bell Festival At The Woodward School Dec. 12

The Jingle Bell Festival hosted by the Class of 1988 will be held Sunday, Dec. 12 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Woodward School for Girls, 1102 Hancock St., Quincy.

The event will feature a kids DJ, crafts, face painting, tattoos, cookie decorating, a visit and photo with Santa, plus a free gift for every child.

There will also be a basket raffle featuring themed gift baskets, a 50-50 raffle, vendors selling jewelry, scrapbooking items, cosmetics, and more.

Hot dogs, drinks and popcorn will be available for sale.

The event will raise funds for The Bernadette Verrochi Ezell Memorial Scholarship Fund, in honor of a member of the Class of 1988 who lost her battle with cancer last year. The goal is to provide a scholarship to be awarded to an incoming or current Woodward School student.

Tickets are $7 per person, or $20 for family up to 5. Tickets can be purchased in advance by emailing jinglebellfestival@verizon.net, or at the door the day of the event.

TEN ESSAY-WINNING 8th graders from Point Webster Middle School recently attended a full-day Boston Globe Media Matters Conference at the University of Massaschusetts' Boston campus. Point Webster 8th Graders Attend Boston Globe Media Matters Conference

Ten essay-winning 8th graders from Point Webster Middle School had the honor of attending a full-day Boston Globe Media Matters Conference at the University of Massachusetts' Boston campus.

Students and their teachers, Kim DeLisle and Meg McMillen, attended classes and lectures hosted by UMass Boston and The Boston Globe.

Participants chose from an extensive offering of classes including Family Stories in Fiction, How to Line Up Interviews & Ask Great Questions, and News for Your Neighbors!: Writing and Presenting Local TV News led by award-winning news anchor, Randy Price.

A particularly informative session for both teachers and students was This I Believe which helps students of all writing levels "express their beliefs and values as well as discuss those of others."

This writing project draws on the 1950s radio pioneer Edward R. Murrow who began the CBS project of the same name. In 2005, PBS radio stations revived the series. Brian Baron, English Department Chair at Newton North, shared his school's commitment to This I Believe as an important gateway to writing successful college entrance essays. More details can be found at thisibelieve.org.

Teachers were treated to a special luncheon with newscaster and mystery novel writer, Hank Phillippi Ryan.

Phillippi Ryan recounted her path from high school English class to her career in journalism to her lifelong dream of becoming an award-winning author. She reminded teachers of their important and powerful effect on students even though the gratitude for their labor may not be seen for years, as in her personal story. One of her memorable lines to share with students is, "writing a terrible first draft is a gift."

The Conference was quite successful. Lenny Strauss, an eighth grader at Point Webster, said, "The Boston Globe writing conference was amazing! It was like a whole new world that we pioneers were to explore."

Star Of Sea Friends Prayer Meeting Monday

The Friends of the Star of the Sea will meet Monday, Dec. 6 at 7 p.m. at the First Church of Squantum, 164 Bellevue Rd., for prayer, fellowship, an update on the latest appeals, and an opportunity to share in the spirit of giving this time of year.

The Friends have made a commitment to Interfaith Social Services to adopt families during this season.

The number of families and the depth of that commitment will be explained and explored Monday following the prayer meeting.

Coffee and pastries will be served.

Strong Public Support For Quincy Center Redevelopment Plan

Dean Rizzo, executive director, Quincy 2000, suggested that Quincy could become a haven for biotechnology companies.

"They were talking about Quincy at a biotech conference," said Rizzo adding that Quincy must "capitalize on this momentum."

"This is a unique opportunity," said Stephen Dunleavy of Marina Bay who predicted that Quincy could become "a model for the rest of the country."

Actually, the eyes of the nation are already on Quincy, according to Rick Braccia, Business Manager of the Carpenters' Union who said he heard talk of the Quincy plan in Chicago. "This proposal is being looked at all around the country."

Stop & Shop Staying

And that's no wonder, according to Stop & Shop's Senior Vice President of Real Estate, Jim Sylvia.

Five years ago, Sylvia alerted the White Plains, NY, developers to the potential of Quincy Center.

"We were troubled by the area surrounding (Quincy Center headquarters). We called Street-Works. Their reputation speaks for itself," said Sylvia. "The plan that has emerged from this is spectacular.

"We urge you to do this," said Sylvia. "Time kills deals."

Sylvia also attempted to squash rumors that Stop & Shop will leave Quincy Center, emphasizing, "We will be part of Quincy for the foreseeable future."

While most of the speakers supported the plan, many cautioned councillors to review the details carefully and protect the city. Fewer than a dozen opposed the plan or described themselves as "unsure."

"I ask you to take this project, be part of a very historic event," said Hannon who cited the successful developments at State Street South, Crown Colony and Marina Bay, but stated, "We have neglected the downtown."

Hannon noted the importance of the T stations at Quincy Center and Quincy Adams in the plans, but, also, recalled the opposition and the repeated clashes with T officials as "one battle after another."

Critical Need

For some, Quincy Center now is the elephant in the room and a sick elephant at that and in need of medical attention, according to Henry Tuttle, executive director, Manet Community Health Center and Maralin Manning, director of Business Development, Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

"This city is in need of a heart transplant," said Manning who supported the project. "It is indeed a plan to move this city forward."

Businessmen Mark and Jeff Bertman, Daniel Flynn and Ed Keohane all backed the plan which Mark Bertman called "truly exceptional" and predicted would make Quincy "The Hub of the South Shore."

Bertman's son, Jeff, Co-Chairman of the Downtown Committee of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce, said, "The chamber group is 100% behind this plan."

"The timing could not be better," said Frank Traynor, owner of the Commonwealth Building, Willard Street, who recalled Quincy Center's heyday, which dissolved with the advent of the suburban mall.

Now Traynor said shoppers are tired of malls. "Today's trend is reversing (the rush to the mall)."

"I hate going to the mall," said Marty Aikens of Houghs Neck, who called Quincy Center "an embarrassment. I don't go downtown."

Aikens, a member of the Zoning Board and Business Agent for IBEW Local 103, added, "It's a good feeling to know my city's going to come back."

Several speakers, such as Kuma Gupta, praised other Street-Works destinations, such as San Jose, West Hartford and Bethesda, MD.

Major Concerns

Most of the speakers who raised questions, were unsure, or were opposed to the plan cautioned councillors to carefully review all aspects of the project. All were Quincy residents.

"It's imperative that we get this right," said Steve Perdios, spokesman for Quincy Environmental Network, who is working with the developer to protect Town Brook and develop green space alongside it.

"You guys have a lot of I's to dot and T's to cross," said Stephanie Hayes who questioned the value and the transfer of public property.

Laura Innis questioned the (parking lot) land transfers. "We need to be smart and make sure we're not giving away the store. I don't think we should be giving away or selling tangible assets.

"People aren't going to pay to park," said Innis, referring to the city's anticipated income from new garages. "Please do your homework, but please do it quickly."

Roger Hohmann was concerned about the traffic plans while Chris Chetwyn questioned why such a major proposal must be approved in a "rush."

The plan contains a lot of promises, warned Dan Dewey who cited the "Wolly" theater project. "Street-Works already broke one promise....

"The numbers everybody's throwing around are staggering," said Dewey, adding that, if the project fails, "There's nobody to bail us out."

The City Council's Downtown and Finance Committee will continue their review of the project tonight (Thursday) beginning at 7 p.m. in Council Chamber, City Hall.

Council Turns Focus On Town Brook, Environment

offers little to no habitat improvement to the Brook," Steve Perdios, spokesman for Quincy Environmental Network (QEN), said Tuesday. "I'm disappointed that the City is still focused on this alternative."

Perdios also said he envisioned more daylighting of Town Brook. "I'm hopeful that a new route that re-establishes the Brook as an amenity to the citizens of Quincy, rather than a nuisance, can be found.

"The QEN envisions a new park space with the Town Brook as its focal point, incorporated into the Downtown Redevelopment Project, a project that everyone wants to succeed in a timely manner."

At Monday's meeting, Richard Heapes, StreetWorks partner and co-founder, acknowledged that 100 feet is not exceptionally long, but added that StreetWorks never promoted the 'daylighting' of Town Brook as a major feature.

In addition, Heapes said that while the exposed brook length would be only 100-feet, the city could "manipulate the breadth of it."

Heapes indicated a wider pond-like area adjacent to the current site of the Hancock parking lot.

"We're working on it," the mayor's spokesman Chris Walker said Tuesday of the Town Brook issues, but Walker added that the proposed 100 feet of daylighted Town Brook is "six times more daylighting than there is now."

While the location and daylighting of Town Brook created an issue, no one denied that Town Brook must be improved.

Chrusciel offered councillors a PowerPoint presentation of Town Brook as it is today and viewers were shown ugly photos of overstuffed drains and deteriorating piping abused by abutters who've run sewer and utility lines across and over the underground waterway.

The rehabilitation of Town Brook is one of three core improvements that must be launched and funded before the Quincy Center Revitalization Plan gets underway, according to Mayor Thomas Koch's plan.

In order to complete the current plan for Town Brook, Walker said that Street Works would purchase the American Legion Post 95 at 27 Revere Rd. (at the corner of Mechanic Street). The property abuts the Concourse route and is currently assessed for $520,000.

Funding for the Town Brook improvements, the Hancock Commons improvements and the Cliveden Bridge project will be sought through federal grants totaling $50 million.

Councillors also discussed environmental issues and plans for utilities at Monday's meeting as well as the city's financial obligation for such items as demolition.

Councillor Joseph Finn sought specific information on the city's costs for the redevelopment.

All the costs are documented in a two-volume financial report researched by Faithful & Gould, according to the city's financial advisor Sarah Woodworth.

Fatithful and Gould is an international cost-management consultant firm.

At the outset of the meeting, Planning Director Dennis Harrington explained the city's requirements for "sustainability."

"We're doing it anyway," said Heapes. "I would agree to do it if it weren't required. It is smart long-term development."

Under the plan, Street Works anticipates adding 500 mature trees and an additional 2 ½ acres of new green space to the new Quincy Center. The 2½ acres of new green space does not include the green area of Hancock Commons or the proposed one-acre of a roof garden.

Lane Shift Latest Progress On Concourse

With construction on the Quincy Center Concourse continuing to move forward, contractors have shifted travel lanes on a portion of Revere Road as part of the state-financed financed project.

Drivers should take note of the minor shift in the construction area, but officials do not believe the change will cause any major disruptions as the east-west connector through Quincy Center continues to take shape.

Contractors will continue work near Ross Way for the winter, and the project – viewed as critical to the City's $1.3 billion downtown redevelopment – remains on schedule and on budget, officials said.

Demolition of the Quincy Fair Mall building is now nearly complete, and did not set back the timetable for road construction, officials said.

The Concourse, when completed, will provide a link from the Southeast Expressway to several neighborhoods in Quincy in what the City has long believed will end much of the traffic bottleneck in the heart of Quincy Center today.

Moving the traffic flow away from the City's commercial and civic center is a key element to creating a more pedestrian-friendly environment and setting the stage for the new development that will create new office, retail and housing throughout the downtown district.

KANIKA BROWN, Patricia Kobzik and George Elder were among the attendees at Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore's annual meeting. Brown and Kobzik shared their personal stories of how the non-profit housing agency impacted their lives.

MAYOR THOMAS KOCH (left) and Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore President Normand Grenier (right) present Robert Foy with an award honoring his 10 years of service on the Neighborhood Housing Board of Directors.

Amid Struggling Economy

Neighborhood Housing Services Celebrates Accomplishments

Patricia Kobzik's world turned upside down when her husband suffered a double brain aneurysm.

A lifelong Quincy resident, Kobzik lost her job shortly thereafter, and the family quickly went through their savings paying medical bills and making necessary renovations to their house so her husband could come home.

"We still needed to finish the ramp and other work when we ran out of money; we were walking across wooden planks (to get to the house)," Kobzik said. "I called (City Councillor Daniel) Raymondi and he suggested I talk to Janice Tucker at Neighborhood Housing Services of the South Shore (NHS)."

Working with the non-profit affordable housing agency, Kobzik received an emergency home rehabilitation grant that enabled her to complete the work on her house and bring her husband home.

"We all hate to ask for help – it wasn't easy for me to do," a tearful Kobzik told attendees today at Neighborhood Housing Services' annual meeting. "You don't know how much this means to us; from the bottom of our hearts, we are so grateful."

Kobzik's story was just one of several shared by local residents at the annual meeting, held at the Tirrell Room. Attended by Mayor Thomas Koch, NHS board and staff members and representatives of partner organizations, the meeting gave community leaders a chance to hear first-hand the impact made by the 29-year-old non-profit organization, which not only builds and manages affordable housing, but also offers programs that help residents prevent foreclosure, renovate their homes or achieve the dream of homeownership.

Quincy resident Kanika Brown recently achieved that dream thanks to a new program administered by NHS that provides down payment assistance to first-time home buyers.

"I had always dreamed of being able to provide my son with a home of our own, but there were times I thought it would never happen," Brown told attendees. "I'm a hard worker. I'm a flight attendant, a single mother and thanks to Neighborhood Housing, I stand before you today a homeowner."

One NHS program that has seen a dramatic increase in caseloads is the agency's foreclosure prevention counseling service. At the meeting, Stoughton resident Robert Sweetman recounted how he was in danger of losing his home after his variable-rate mortgage doubled his monthly payment to $4,200. Working with NHS's Brockton office, Sweetman was able to modify his loan, enabling him to keep his home.

Sweetman was one of 1,000 homeowners who were serviced by NHS's foreclosure prevention program during the past year.

"I wish we weren't so busy, but we are," said David Kilnapp, chairperson of the NHS Board of Directors. "And with the struggling economy, our services are going to be that much more necessary in the coming years."

Executive Director Robert Corley outlined several of the agency's recent accomplishments, including a partnership with Father Bill's Place & MainSpring that produced two new housing developments aimed at addressing homelessness: 12 townhouses in Weymouth for formerly homeless families, and 32 efficiency units in Brockton for homeless veterans. A state-of-the-art veteran's home is also scheduled to break ground next spring in Hingham.

Corley also highlighted two new job programs NHS launched during the past year. Through a partnership with Quincy-based Labor Ready, three to five NHS tenants are employed each week in the agency's property management department. A collaboration with Training Resources of America and YouthBuild Quincy, meanwhile, enables out-of-school 16-to-21-year-olds to learn construction trades and earn their GEDs while helping to build affordable housing.

"This year we counseled over 600 home buyers, helped nearly 300 people purchase their first home and over 55 families rehab their existing homes," Corley said. "But it's important to remember that we serve people not data, families not units and neighborhoods, not regions."

A special highlight of the annual meeting was the presentation of an award to former City Auditor Robert Foy recognizing his 10 years of service on the agency's board of directors.

"When we look for people to join the board, we look for someone of high integrity, someone well respected, someone who will make an impact," NHS President Normand Grenier said. "That made Bob Foy an easy choice."

Corley agreed. "This year is about honoring our root values as we continue to move forward in these tough economic times," Corley said. "Bob Foy and his wife Mildred perfectly embody what NHS is all about."

FOOT NOTES

Diplomate, American Board of Podiatric Surgery
Diplomate, American Board of Podiatric Orthopedics
ADDRESSING HAMMERTOES
When the smaller toes of the foot become bent and prominent, they are known as hammertoes. Over time, the joints became fixed or rigid. Surgery is the only effective manner of correcting this deformity. One possible procedure includes taking the tendon from under the toe and re-routing it to the top of the toe so that the toe is pulled down. In some severe cases of hammertoe, the tendon on the top of the toe and the joint at the ball of the foot need to be released to allow the toe to straighten. Medically fit patients who have home support may have their surgeries performed as day surgery and be driven home after the procedure.
We know it's not easy to ignore the pain of hammertoes and other foot conditions, especially when every step places weight and pressure on the affected area. If your foot problem concerns pronation, we invite you to consult with us about HyProCure™. Cont'd From Page 2

Several units from the parade took home prizes.

The grand prize in the non-commercial float division and the Father Thomas Tierney Trophy and cash prize of $1,500 went to the Jamie Cochrane Road Race float. The Woodward School took first place, followed by the Life Community Church and Quincy Partnership.

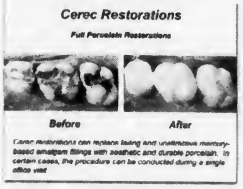
Commercial float winners included the Quincy Credit Union for the best Quincy float. Quincy Medical Center copped the best specialty float, and the best commercial float award went to Jack Conway Realty.

In the Independent Color Guard contest, the U.S. Marine Corps was first, followed by the Quincy Police in second and Morrisette Post in third.

In the band results in Div. 1 Case took the best musical score and best drum major on the way to finishing first. New Bedford was second overall after coming away with the best percussion score and best color guard.

Somerset dominated the Div. 2 competition, taking first overall along with the best musical score, best percussion score and best drum major. Immaculate Heart of Mary took second and David Prouty was third overall.

It was all Acton-Boxboro in Div. 3 as the Colonials swept the categories and was first overall. Hanover took second and Quincy/North Quincy clinched third. Overall, Acton-Boxboro was first, Somerset second and the Immaculate Heart of Mary third.



"SPIKE," an Aleppo Clown and a good friend of former Quincy Veterans Services Director Henry (Hank) Bradley, rides the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade route on his toy car.

Parker Elementary School Vocabulary Parade A Hit

By JOE REARDON

Margaret Eng sat in a chair in the Parker Elementary School cafeteria, munching on mini pretzels and still dressed in her costume that stood for one of the vocabulary words she was working on in class.

Margaret's costume included pictures of the Eiffel Tower, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, a park, pond, zoo and school. The 7-year-old girl and the rest of the school's 56 second-grade students took an hour out of the school day last Thursday to march from classroom to classroom, 17 in all, to show off the their costumes.

The students in the classes had to guess what vocabulary word the costumes represented. Margaret's happened to be "location."

"Making the costumes was fun," she said. "You got to show off your costume."

Seven-year-old Rebecca Morrill said she had fun working on her costume and is hoping to do the same next year. "I liked going around the school to the different classes," said Rebecca.

Dressed in a fairy costume with bright pink and green color, and sprinkled with glitter and sparkles, Rebecca's costume represented the word "radiant."

The vocabulary parade turned out to be a huge hit for both the kids wearing the costumes and those who tried to guess what their costumes represented.

MAYOR TOM KOCH is greeted by students at the Parker Elementary School. The mayor was among those attending the school's recent Vocabulary Parade.

The words, second-grade teacher Katie Connolly said, were not easy ones, and the parade was a fun way for the kids to help learn them. Among the vocabulary words the kids were studying was nature, cavities, constructed and shelter.

Judging by the detail in the costumes, it was obvious the kids put plenty of thought and effort into them. When it came time to start the parade, the kids leaped from their chairs and instantly formed a line to the door.

"We thought it would be a good way to incorporate vocabulary into the second-graders' day," said Connolly.

The parade was the culmination of two weeks of work where the kids came up with ideas for costumes that would coincide with the words. For the majority of the kids, the work they put into their costumes was the most fun and rewarding.

"They really loved the fact that the older kids would have to guess what they were," said Connolly. "It makes education fun."

A list of the words were given to all the teachers and already written on the chalkboard before the second-graders arrived in the classrooms. Students eagerly raised their hands as Connolly went from student to student and asked the kids what word they thought the costumes represented.

Student teacher Caitlin Doherty of Quincy, who attended the Parker School years ago, said the vocabulary parade was a useful tool in teaching.

"I think it's one of the best things you can do," said Doherty. "It brings all of the disciplines together. You're taking words that are hard and taking them to the second-grade level."

PARKER SCHOOL ELEMENTARY students (from left) Elena Tran, Justin Qiu, Madison Stevens and Kaan Yavuz display the costumes they wore at the school's recent Vocabulary Parade. Photos Courtesy/Katie Connolly

Like Connolly, Doherty, who is working on her master's degree at Lesley College, agreed that the parade was a big success and should be continued yearly. "This would be an awesome thing to continue," she said. "For the fourth and fifth graders it's good review. It's also a good way to build community in the school."

Principal Maryanne Palmer was pleased with the success of the parade. "It brought the vocabulary words to life for them," she said. "I hope we will continue it. It's a chance for them to dress up around Halloween time and connect with the vocabulary.

Christmas Festival Poster Contest Winning Entries In Quincy Sun Window

The winners of the Quincy Christmas Festival Poster Contest were recently announced on Quincy Access Television.

The winners are:

Grades 1 - 3

Amanda Morris, first place; Makala Lam, second place; and Aaron O'Toole, third place.

Grades 4 and 5

Lauren Saccoach, first place; Kari Wismar, second place; and Amanda Tran, third place.

All elementary school students in Quincy were invited to participate in this year's contest. The theme was "Christmas Around the World."

The winning posters can be seen on display in the windows of The Quincy Sun, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Center. Other entries can be seen in the Children's Wing of the Thomas Crane Main Library on Washington St.

This year's poster contest was sponsored by Quincy Access TV.

Sun Citizen Of The Year Honor Renamed

Nominations Open For Henry W. Bosworth, Jr. Memorial Citizenship Award

Nominations are open for The Henry W. Bosworth, Jr. Memorial Citizenship Award – formerly The Quincy Sun Citizen of the Year award.

The award – which has been presented annually by The Quincy Sun since 1985 – was renamed in memory of Mr. Bosworth, this newspaper's longtime publisher and founder.

A panel of judges selected Mr. Bosworth to receive the award posthumously last year. He passed away in February, 2009.

Mr. Bosworth was honored for dedicating much of his life to the city he loved and for supporting innumerable community, charitable and civic causes both personally and through the pages of this newspaper for more than 40 years.

Mr. Bosworth was nominated for the award by Edith Matthes of Weymouth, a longtime Quincy Sun reader. In nominating Mr. Bosworth, she wrote, "Henry Bosworth deserves this award because it is only fitting to praise his superior talent in the building of The Quincy Sun, especially his 'Sunbeams' column as it was full of history and knowledge of Quincy and the world."

Quincy Sun readers are again invited to nominate an individual they believe is most deserving of the award. As in past years, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service or a special achievement.

A nomination ballot to help the selection process appears below on this page of The Quincy Sun.

The ballot will be printed in each issue of The Sun until nominations close on Friday, Dec. 31. After Dec. 31, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted.

If you know someone you would like to see recognized with the 2010 award, fill out the ballot and mail it to:

The Quincy Sun
Attn: Henry Bosworth Award
1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169

Ballots can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address in Quincy Center by Dec. 31.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. Those submitting nominations are also encouraged to attach to the ballot a letter detailing the reason for their nomination.

Nominees can be past or present public officials, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure, or an "unsung" neighbor, friend or community activist who has given freely or his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Those nominated in the past are eligible to be nominated again. Since this is not a popularity contest, each nominee has an equal chance of being selected regardless of the number of nominations received. Anyone nominated just once has the same chance of being the award recipient.

The name of the winner will be announced in The Quincy Sun early next year.

Hints For Homeowners

Essential Tools For Everyday Repairs

(NAPSA)—No matter the age of your home, regular maintenance is essential for keeping your space comfortable and future repair costs down. It's better to address minor repairs as they come up, before they become big problems. The good news is that you don't need a lot of professional tools to get the job done. Here are a few favorites from Timothy Dahl, founder and editor at CharlesandHudson.com, which come in handy for most home repairs. The website is an independent resource for do-it-yourself enthusiasts seeking the latest in home improvement tips and techniques as well as the finest tools and hottest news in the home building industry.

Tool bag—An essential for storing your tools so they are protected from the elements and easily accessible. Searching through drawers and boxes for the tool you need ASAP isn't fun. A military-grade tool bag from an Army/Navy surplus store has plenty of pockets and is lightweight and made of durable canvas material.

Flashlights—You can't fix what you can't see, and the Energizer Hard Case Professional Inspection Light keeps your work space properly illuminated. Its white LED is intense and the housing is lightweight and easy to maneuver into tight spaces. With a diameter just over 1/2", it doesn't take up a lot of space in your tool bag, but is tough enough to get jostled around and dropped without breaking.

A TOUGH INSPECTION light can be a bright idea when you need to work in narrow or obscure work spaces.

YOU CAN PROTECT your tools by keeping them in a lightweight, durable, canvas bag.

The company also recently introduced the Energizer Hard Case Professional Area Light, which can mount above workbenches or anywhere you'd rather not have to run electrical wiring. It also comes with a magnetic backing for easy mounting under the hood of a car or on any metal surfaces.

Screwdrivers—You should have a set that includes a variety of lengths and diameters of driver heads and slot sizes. Choose quality name brands such as Stanley or Craftsman and make sure the handles are comfortable and easy to grip.

Pliers—There is a wide variety of pliers designed for various home improvement projects, but needle-nose pliers do the trick most every time. Make sure the grip isn't too large to open and close with one hand, and a spring-loaded mechanism can help for quicker, simpler opening.

Hammer—Like pliers, there are a multitude of hammers for every job. Select a basic eight-ounce model that's easy to swing and has a steel head and wood handle for better vibration dampening, such as those from Estwing.

Measuring tape—For repairs and decorating projects, a measuring tape is one of your most important tools. A good 24-foot tape should handle all your applications. The ones from Komelon are especially durable and lightweight.

Preparing yourself with the appropriate tools before tackling home repairs can help you get the job done right and with time to spare. For the most up-to-date information about DIY tool recommendations, visit www.charles andhudson.com, and for the latest in innovative work lights, check out www.energizerlights.com.

A Job Well Done

On Sunday, Nov. 21, at approximately 3:07 p.m., Officers Steve DesRoche, Brian Flaherty and Brian Mahoney responded to Winthrop Street on a report of an armed robbery in progress. Quincy communications updated responding units that the victim stated that the suspect had just robbed him of money. Sergeants J.P. Kelly and James McNeil also responded as more information was gathered.

LT. DAN MINTON

The victim told the Dispatcher that the suspect drove off in a car. Officer Flaherty arrived on location, quickly interviewed the victim and broadcasted that the suspect could be headed westerly on Sea Street in a black Dodge Magnum or a green Acura. Officer DesRoche arrived on scene and assisted in the interview.

The victim, a 23-year-old male, said the suspect, known as "Troy," was wearing a black ski mask with a red face, a black hoodie and jeans. The victim also said that the suspect had a tattoo on his neck. Officer Flaherty then stated that the victim saw both vehicles drive away after the robbery and was unsure which one the suspect was in.

The victim said that Troy called earlier in the day asking if he could come over to see him and he agreed to this. Once Troy arrived, they talked briefly, then Troy pulled down his black hat he was wearing, revealing a ski mask with the eyes cut out of it. The suspect then pulled a "red folding knife" out of his pocket and opened it up - sticking it in the chest of the victim as he sat on the bed. The suspect then started yelling, "Give me the money".

The suspect, with rope in his hands, leaned over the victim and attempted to tie his hands up. The victim resisted and tried to get past Troy, but Troy grabbed the victim from behind. He then wrapped his arm around the victim's neck and held the knife against the victim's neck. The victim grabbed a nearby skateboard with his left hand and hit Troy with it. The suspect let go, then picked up the victim's wallet and took approximately $150.

The victim picked up a different knife and chased Troy out of the house. The victim closed the door behind him and then called the Police. Officer Mahoney, who took up surveillance on Sea Street, spotted a green Acura occupied by 4 people, coming from the scene of the crime. Sergeant Kelly stopped the vehicle at the Adams Shore Supermarket, and was backed up by Sergeant McNeil, along with State Trooper Gordon.

Trooper Gordon, who pulled in front of the suspect vehicle, spotted the suspect sitting the right rear seat. The suspect leaned over as if to hide himself when the car was pulled over. The Trooper immediately noticed the tattoo on the neck of the suspect and removed him from the vehicle. Trooper Gordon stated that all four occupants were handcuffed for safety reasons as it was only Sergeant Kelly and himself on scene at first.

The suspect with the tattoo confirmed that his name was Troy, so Officer DesRoche brought the victim to the suspect's location, where he confirmed the identity out of the four occupants. The suspect, a 24 year old Cambridge man, was arrested and charged with "Armed Robbery while Masked, Assault & Battery with Dangerous Weapon and Larceny under $250."

Officers found $165 in his wallet, but no knife was discovered on him. Sergeant Kelly, meanwhile, had interviewed the driver, an 18 year old Boston resident, who was shaking uncontrollably, admitted that he did not have a driver's license. The driver was placed under arrest for "Unlicensed Operation of a Motor Vehicle and Misleading/Impeding a Police Officer." At this time, Officer Mahoney along with his K-9 partner, Shaggi, conducted an exterior sniff of the vehicle and had a hit on the trunk of the vehicle. A subsequent search of the vehicle and trunk revealed no narcotics, with the exception of ashes and/or marijuana leaves on the trunk floor.

Officer DesRoche searched the suspect vehicle and located a black ski mask with a red face on it stuffed down in the rear pocket of the passenger side seat, just where the suspect had been sitting. After pulling up the cushion of the rear seat where the suspect was sitting, a red folding knife matching the description provided by the victim was found. The victim confirmed the mask and knife as the same items used against him.

The Officers on scene suspected that the incident stemmed from a drug deal collection. So, the question remains, if you plan to rob someone that knows you, who let you in their home, and after spending some time with the victim, you put the mask on and brandish a knife, does the suspect qualify as one of "America's Dumbest Criminals? Nice Work!

Mike Curran Leads Red Raiders With Two TDs, Interception

North Quincy Stuffs Quincy, 13-6

FOOTBALL
North Quincy - 13
Quincy - 6

By SEAN BRENNAN

In a Quincy-North Quincy Thanksgiving Day football game that featured two teams willing to run the ball a combined 57 times, the final outcome, oddly enough, came down to a last-second interception in the shadow of the Red Raiders end zone.

Mike Curran, one of a handful of North Quincy seniors who shined in the 78th annual City Football Championship, capped off his remarkable and unforgettable day by stepping in front of a Jalen Green pass attempt, corralling the turnover and sealing North Quincy's second straight Turkey Day triumph over the rival Presidents, 13-6.

Curran's interception came with 13 seconds left in regulation and just 4:45 after he had bounced a toss sweep down the right sidelines 36 yards for the game-deciding touchdown.

This will be a Thanksgiving that he will remember, forever.

"I am happy we did it (won) for the ones who couldn't," said Curran, referencing the decade-long dominance that QHS had held over NQHS from 1999-2008. "On that second touchdown, someone threw the block, I saw the cut-back lane and I cut it back in and headed down the sideline. It was a great feeling.

"On the interception, I saw Jalen Green running around and he just tossed it up. I ran over and made a play for my team."

Curran rushed for 102 yards on seven carries. He scored North Quincy's first touchdown, a 19-yard dash with two minutes remaining in the opening quarter, a run that tied the score at 6-6. Add on the game winning, fourth quarter TD and the game-clinching interception and Curran will be the one player, when folks talk about the 2010 contest, whose name will always comes up.

But he did not do it by himself. The Red Raiders (6-5 overall) also received contributions from seniors Seyi Adesuyan (10 carries, 40 yards), Kyle McKay (9-58), Joe Schmitz (quarterback) and Mike Morrison (defensive star). And it doesn't end there. North Quincy extended its winning streak to two over the Presidents because they played a clean game, they did not turn the ball over, and despite allowing Quincy to control ball possession for 9:20 of the fourth quarter, made the plays on defense when it mattered the most.

Because of all of this, the Red Raiders, for a second consecutive Thanksgiving, went home as champions.

"It does feel good to get another one," said NQHS head coach Jim Connor after the game on the field amongst an excited North Quincy crowd. "The kids played outstanding and the guys you thought would play well stepped up. There were guys who had been consistent all year, like Mike Curran and Mike Morrison on defense who really stepped up and made themselves the elite in this game."

"Curran with his two touchdowns and the interception at the end; you know he was the man today and he earned it," continued Connor. "I am really happy for him and I am happy for all the kids. We did what we needed to do to win."

For Quincy (4-7 overall) the end result was tough to swallow. The Presidents played the Red Raiders even up throughout. Quincy opened the game on offense and proceeded to march from the North Quincy 45-yard line down to the Red Raiders 10-yard line. On the sixth play of the drive, Jalen Green (12 carries, 80 yards, TD) broke free of the defense for a ten-yard score.

The point after attempt was blocked, but the Presidents had struck first blood.

Quincy would punt on their second drive; a costly holding penalty negated a long Reggie Cesar (17-96) rush on their third offensive possession. On their final drive of the first-half, Quincy advanced the football to the North Quincy nine-yard line to set up a 26-yard field goal attempt by Green with one second remaining before the halftime break.

Green's attempt missed wide left, leaving the teams deadlocked at 6-6 after two quarters.

In the third quarter, the Presidents took possession on their own nine-yard line at the 5:12 mark and went on a 13-play drive that eventually dried up on an incomplete pass on fourth-and-7 at the Red Raiders 29-yard line.

Two Kyle McKay runs (six and 11 yards), a 14-yard dash from Curran and a six-yard run from Adesuyan later, set North Quincy up second-and-4 at the Quincy 36-yard line. Curran then swept right, found daylight and raced into the end zone for his second touchdown. McKay's PAT split the uprights to give the Red Raiders the 13-6 advantage with five minutes left on the clock.

The Presidents could have folded, but didn't. Starting at his own 37-yard line, Quincy senior quarterback Ryan Schultz went for 15 yards on a third-and-8 from his own 49-yard line to keep the dream alive. A 12-yard rush by Green on third-and-11 brought the ball down to the North Quincy 24-yard line; Schultz and Cesar followed with five-yard runs, respectively, before Schultz was stuffed for no gain at the Red Raiders 13-yard line with 13 seconds remaining, setting the stage for Curran's game-ending interception.

"I feel bad for my kids," said QHS head coach Bill Reardon graciously after the game. "Congratulations to North. They played well and deserved to win, but I feel bad for our kids. They fought and fought and fought."

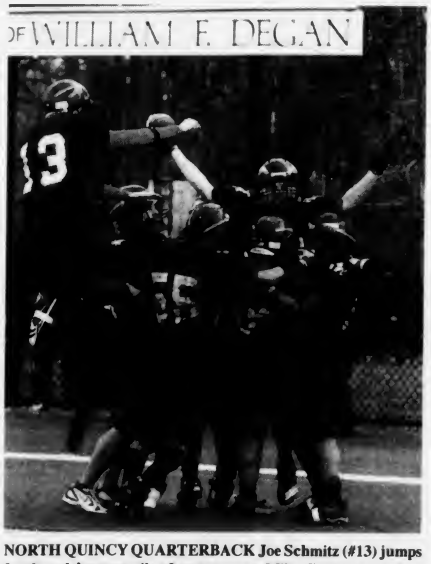
"It wasn't turnovers, it was the penalties that cost us," Reardon continued. "The fourth quarter we are just driving the ball. I think we had it for eight minutes (time of possession in the final quarter was 9:20 Quincy to North's 1:40) and then we have third-and-2 and we go offside's and we don't pick up the first down and then they go right down and score.

"And that is how the game ends."

When North Quincy took one final kneel down to seal their second straight Thanksgiving Day victory, it put to rest any future talk of hexes or Turkey Day futility by the Red Raiders. North Quincy, this time around, was slightly better than Quincy. But anyone who witnessed the 78th annual City Football Championship would be lying if they told you that the final outcome couldn't have ended differently.

It just so happened that North Quincy came up with a couple of more big plays, a notion that was not lost on Coach Connor.

"Quincy played incredible," he said praising the effort of the Presidents. "They run a real good offense and they are fast and can move. Besides the end, there wasn't another turnover. It was just a great Thanksgiving Day high school football game."



It was entertaining theater, this 78th edition. Fans, alike, should be thankful, that this year, Quincy and North Quincy, brought and left everything they had at the table.

It's too bad we all have to wait a year for a second helping.

THE NORTH QUINCY RED RAIDERS made it two wins in a row over Quincy High School last Thursday in the 78th annual City Football Championship. North Quincy, behind two touchdowns and an interception by senior Mike Curran, defeated Quincy, 13-6.

QRD Announces Winter Saturday Gym Schedule

The Quincy Recreation Department announced Tuesday that the department will conduct supervised recreation programs in nine school gymnasiums on Saturdays throughout the winter.

These Saturday programs are free and open to boys/girls age eight through high school. The time varies according to age groups and all programs have walk-in registration at each location and are open only to Quincy residents.

Participants many attend the location of their choice; they are not limited to their neighborhood gymnasium.

Assorted gym activities such as floor hockey, tag football, basketball and gym games will be conducted under the supervision of QRD staff.

The core schedule is from: 9-10:30 a.m. for elementary level (age 8-Grade 5) and 10:30 a.m. until 12 noon for middle/high school. Some adjustments in this schedule may be made at different locations to accommodate difference in attendance by age groups.

Due to previously scheduled school functions, the program will not be held Dec. 4 at Atlantic and Merrymount and Dec. 11 at Merrymount.

The Saturday schedule is offered at the following schools: Atherton Hough, Atlantic, Beechwood Knoll, Bernazzani, Merrymount, Montclair, Snug Harbor, Squantum, and Point Webster.

For additional information, call the QRD at 617-376-1394 or visit QuincyRec.com.

Registration Begins On Dec. 7

QRD Announces Ski and Snowboard Lessons

The Quincy Recreation Department and Barry J. Welch, Director of Recreation, announced Tuesday that the QRD will conduct registration beginning Tuesday, Dec. 7 at 9 a.m. for a program of ski or snowboard instruction to be conducted at the Blue Hill Ski Area (BHSA).

Registration may also be done online at QuincyRec.com and will continue at the QRD as long as openings exist; there is limited enrollment for this activity.

This program is open to Quincy youngsters age eight through high school and features a one-hour and thirty minute lesson for beginners to advanced use of the ski tow and transportation to and from the ski area.

The staff of the QRD supervises the transportation and the lesson instruction is provided by certified instructors of the Blue Hill Ski School.

This program will be conducted on Tuesdays, beginning Jan. 4, 2011 and will continue for five weekly sessions. The basic cost of this program is $170 and is payable at the time of the registration.

The Blue Hill Ski Area can provide rental equipment at an additional cost and arrangements for rental equipment will be done by the QRD at the time of registration. Five-week rental of ski/snowboards, boots and poles is $75; helmets can also be rented for $25.

The program leaves from the QRD office, One Merrymount Parkway, at 3:15 p.m. and returns at 6:30 p.m.

The BHSA is opening this year with increased snowmaking output and upgrades to its lighting systems; the always popular program should be even better with the Division of Recreation and Conservation committed to making the unique facility into a first-class ski center for the metropolitan area.

For more information, call the QRD at 617-376-1394.

Water Meter Replacement and Automated Meter Reading System Project

Information for Residents

The Quincy Department of Public Works is updating 24,000 water meters throughout the city. The project includes the replacement of both the water meters and external reading system. The completed project will greatly improve the reliability and accuracy of water meter reading operations and will increase the efficiency of the DPW. The city has contracted with Easton Winwater Services, who will be performing the installations. Easton WinWater Services will need access to each water customer's house or business for this work. Please be aware that Easton WinWater Services will contact customers directly via U.S. mail. Residents of Quincy are reminded not to respond to unsolicited phone calls or home visits. All personnel installing water meters are issued identification and will arrive in uniform and in marked vehicles. A link to names and pictures of each installer can be found on the DPW website. If you believe you have been contacted by someone other than Easton Winwater or the city, please call the Quincy Police Department at 617-479-1212.

The meter replacement work will begin in September in the North Quincy/Squantum area, and will progress throughout the city by water meter reading route over the course of a two-year period. There is a systematic implementation plan for this project and therefore customers are asked to not contact Easton Winwater Service or Public Works for their meter replacement until they have received a notification letter from Easton Winwater. For a current update on this program please visit the DPW website at http://www.quincyma.gov/Government/PWD/WaterMeterRepacement.cfm

THE SQUANTUM STORM varsity football team was among 83 boys and girls who participated this year in the Quincy Youth Football League. The varsity team was joined this year by cheerleaders, a junior varsity team and a freshmen team.

Storm Celebrates Season

The Squantum Storm youth football program, one of the six franchises in the Quincy Youth Football League (QYFL), held its annual banquet on Nov. 18 at the Quincy Catholic Academy.

The night, which was attended by 250 players, cheerleaders, parents, guardians, siblings and grandparents, featured a variety of Italian cuisine provided by parent-volunteers under the leadership and direction of parent Helen Veasey.

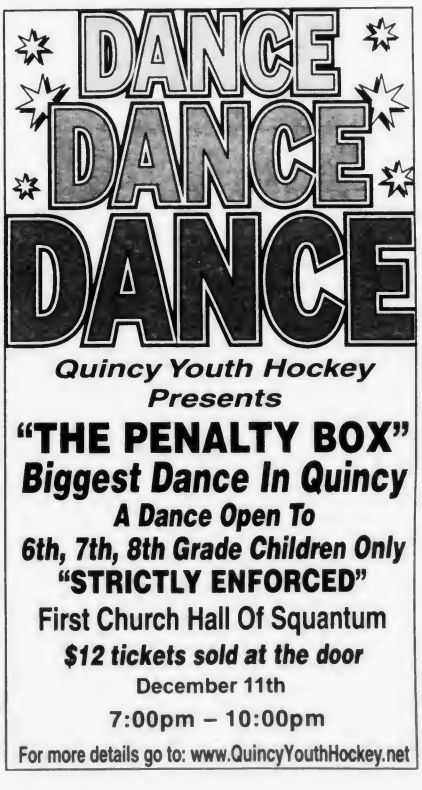
A highlight of the evening was a ten-minute audio-visual slide show of the 2010 varsity team and cheerleaders created by parent-volunteer Lisa Aimola utilizing photos she and parent Stan Grossfeld took during the fall season. Their sons, Evan and Sam, were eighth-grade varsity players on the Storm this fall.

Bruce Marquis, franchise holder, provided special recognition to the more than 60 Storm volunteers who coached, oversaw equipment, raised funds, covered the concession stand at Veterans Memorial Stadium on two Sundays, and ran an Adult Halloween Party at the Nickerson American Legion Post #382 on Oct. 30.

Key volunteers who were singled out were Advisory Board Members Lisa Aimola (photography), Kathie Brodeur (cheerleaders), Anthony Caprigno (freshman coach), Cherie Manning (concessions), Ted Marquis (adult Halloween party), Torie McKay (equipment), Diane O'Connor (calendars), and Steve Roche (immediate past franchise holder); varsity coaches Hugh McPhee (head coach), Mike Killilea and Steve Striffler; junior varsity coaches Chuck Jaehnig (head coach), Doug Deegan, Anthony DiPalmo, Dave Cramond, and Finbarr O'Connor; freshmen coaches John Collins (head coach). Patrick Layden, Anthony Caprigno, Mike Foley, and Jim O'Leary; and cheerleading coaches Kathie Brodeur (leader), Amanda Brodeur, Chealsie Brodeur, Bridget Campbell, and Emily McDonough; and team DJ Kenny Manning.

The Storm program had 83 boys and girls registered for the 2010 season, including 24 cheerleaders and 59 football players – one girl and 58 boys; each youngster received a hooded Storm sweatshirt with their name and number on the left sleeve.

The squads were as follows:



Cheerleaders – Isabella Collins, Kesley Dyer, Julia Geary, Jillian Harrington, Leila Dumas Hovey, Olivia Keenan, Maxine Lau, Natalie Lunny, Samantha Marshall, Whitney Marshall, Catherine Mayo, Colleen McDonough, Kelly McDonough, Mary Kate Moriarty, Morgan Murphy, Shannon O'Brien, Danielle O'Driscoll, Arianna Ramos, Marisa Riley, Rachel Riley, Mari Salmanowich, Joslyn Sommers, Samantha Striffler, and Arianna Urekew.

Pregnant Women And Infants —Targets For The Flu

(NAPSA)—The risk from flu is greater for pregnant women because pregnancy can reduce the ability of the lungs and the immune system to work normally. This can be bad for both mother and baby. According to a study done during the first month of the 2009 H1N1 outbreak, the rate of hospitalizations was four times higher in pregnant women than other groups. Also, although pregnant women are about 1 percent of the U.S. population, they made up about 5 percent of U.S. deaths from 2009 H1N1 reported to the Centers for Disease Control (CDC).

Young children, whose immune systems are still developing, are also at risk for flu-related complications. Each year, about 100 flu-related deaths in children are thought to occur in the U.S. During the 2009 H1N1 pandemic, more than 300 deaths in children were reported to CDC. CDC believes many more deaths in children may have gone unrecognized or unreported.

Experts think the 2009 H1N1 virus will be around again this flu season. So one of the three parts of this season's flu vaccine will protect against the 2009 H1N1 virus. While CDC encourages everyone 6 months and older to get vaccinated against the flu, there is a special message for pregnant women and parents: "Don't pass up this easy way to protect yourself and your children against the flu," says Dr. Anne Schuchat, Assistant Surgeon General of the U.S. Public Health Service and CDC Director of the National Center for Immunization and Respiratory Diseases.

"Getting a flu vaccine during pregnancy can reduce the risk of getting the flu while pregnant and after," says Dr. Schuchat. "And babies younger than 6 months can get very sick from flu but are too young to get vaccinated. The best way to protect them is to have their caregivers and close contacts vaccinated."

Seasonal flu vaccines have been given safely to millions of pregnant women and children over many years. Though there is no proof that thimerosal (a preservative) is harmful to pregnant women, their babies or young children, some worry about it. So, as before, vaccine companies are making plenty of preservative-free flu vaccine as an option for pregnant women and small children.

Usually worse than the common cold, the flu can cause fever, cough, sore throat, runny or stuffy nose, body aches, headache, chills and weakness. Some people also have diarrhea and vomiting. Pregnant women and parents of children younger than 2 years of age should call the doctor or nurse right away if they or their children become sick. A doctor can prescribe flu antiviral drugs.

Vaccination continues to be the best protection. To keep all family members healthy, get yourself—and all your children 6 months of age and older—vaccinated against the flu. One shot will last all flu season, even if you get it early in the season.

For more information, talk to your doctor or contact CDC at (800) CDC-INFO.

Mindful Eating For A Healthy Holiday Season

The holiday season can be the most challenging time of year to stick to a diet, lose weight, or simply maintain healthy eating habits.

Some individuals reluctantly choose to deny themselves holiday treats or substitute with unsatisfying alternatives, while others are unwilling to forgo the holiday smorgasbord and may overindulge.

Julie Redfern, RD, manager of the Nutrition Consult Services at Brigham and Women's Hospital (BWH), offers useful tips for staying on track during the holiday season without completely missing out on this delicious time of year.

To find a balance between overindulgence and deprivation when it comes to eating during the holidays, Redfern suggests these tips:

• Have a light snack before heading to holiday parties. Arriving hungry often results in over eating, and most likely consuming foods that are high in saturated fat and calories.

• Offer to bring your favorite healthier choice dish when attending a party to ensure that you have some healthy food options.

• Research healthy ingredient swaps for your holiday favorites. By switching out whole milk and cream to 1% milk in a traditional eggnog recipe saves you almost 200 calories and 20g of fat per serving.

• When attending holiday events, stop dressing for excess. Choose form fitting slacks that leave very little "wiggle room" for over indulgences. People tend to overeat without realizing it if they are wearing lose clothing.

• Situate yourself far from the food table. Close proximity to food makes it more difficult to resist.

• Carrying a clutch or handbag can help keep your hands busy and not grabbing every hors d'oeuvres that passes your way.

• Using a small plate or no plate at all is a great way to avoid overeating at holiday events. You will ultimately eat less if you have to walk back and forth from the hor d'oeuvres table.

• It's all about portion control. A dinner plate should be half vegetables, a quarter protein, and a quarter carbs; and try to avoid going back for seconds and thirds.

• Channel your inner food snob. Resist the foods you can and save the calories for your favorite holiday treats.

• Don't deprive yourself of desserts, instead choose the goodies that you like the most and have smaller portions.

• Serve big holiday meals buffet style. Getting up for seconds helps prevent mindless overeating that can occur if the food is within arms reach. Wait at least 20 minutes before getting up for seconds, as it can take that long for your brain to realize you are full.

• Cut out some fat by skipping the skin on turkey or chicken and try refrigerating gravy and then skimming the fat off the top once cooled.

• Be mindful of high calorie holiday drinks like apple cider and eggnog. Enjoy only a small cup of your favorite drink and sip lots of water to help curb your appetite.

• Eat once, not all night. Picking at the food table all night can quickly add up calories, and you are more likely to eat less healthy finger foods. Instead, make yourself a balanced plate of food only once during the party.

• Focus on conversation or activities with your family and friends, rather than on food.

• Start a new tradition, like taking a family walk after the main holiday meal.

• When hosting a holiday party, supply friends and family with disposable dishes to take goodies home with them, instead of leaving you to eat the sweets and other unhealthy food choices for the entire week.

• Making leftovers into soup is a better option then the usual weeks worth of turkey sandwiches.

• Whether at work or at the mall, prevent derailing your weight management efforts by pre-portioning protein rich snacks in your purse/dash board or desk drawer to grab incase of a low blood sugar episode.

• If you find yourself lonely/bored during the holidays try treating yourself to something you might not treat yourself to on a regular basis. Ideas can range from a trip to the movies, a nap, a manicure, or cozying up to a good book or magazine with a cup of warm tea.

The holiday season is a difficult time to control eating, says Redfern, making it more realistic to try to maintain your weight, rather than lose weight during the holidays.

Milton Hospital Earns National Improvement Award

Milton Hospital, a clinical affiliate of Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center providing community-based health care, announces that Press Ganey Associates, Inc. has named it a 2010 Top Improver Award Winner.

Press Ganey currently partners with more than 10,000 health care facilities—including 50% of U.S. hospitals—to measure and improve the quality of their care and their bottom line. The company's databases are the largest in the industry, and allow facilities nationwide to benchmark their results against peer organizations. This award recognizes clients who have shown continuous improvement in their patient, physician, or employee satisfaction scores—comparing quarterly scores over two years, with improved scores in three of the four eligible periods. Milton Hospital is one of just 29 Press Ganey client facilities to receive this honor in 2010.

Since opening its newly constructed, state-of-the-art emergency facilities in 2008, Milton Hospital has taken many steps to implement patient satisfaction strategies to better serve its patients. The hospital's "Journey to Excellence" program, which emphasizes ongoing improvement in quality and patient satisfaction, has been central to the development of successful, long-term improvement strategies, both in the ER, and throughout the hospital.

"Our first step was to establish an Emergency Department Task Force," said Paul Paganelli, Milton Hospital's Chief of Emergency Medicine. "This committee is an interdisciplinary team of hospital senior administrators, ED physicians and clinical staff, representatives from the laboratory, admitting, inpatient care, environmental services and other areas. Its goal is to identify problems and develop solutions by emphasizing collaboration between many areas of the hospital."

Specifically, Milton Hospital worked aggressively to move patients out of the waiting room and into treatment rooms as soon as space becomes available. Staff offers triage at the patient's bedside, assessing and registering a patient right in their treatment room. While emergency nurses and Harvard Faculty Physicians oversee care, a volunteer "concierge" provides non-medical services that make patients feel at ease, such as offering a blanket, water, or small comfort items as the patient recovers or awaits further treatment.

Helping to create a smooth flow for patients, Milton Hospital's Resource Nurse acts as an Emergency Room traffic controller. "Often during peak times, it becomes more challenging for nurses to monitor every patient's progress through treatment," said Doris Sinkevich, Milton Hospital's Chief Nursing Officer. "Resource Nurses are trained to create a smooth flow within the emergency department by managing daily nursing assignments, changing assignment as needed and checking for suitability of nursing skill levels."

SUBLUXATION OF A DIFFERENT SORT

While chiropractors use the word "subluxation" primarily to describe a misalignment of the spine, it also describes common conditions associated with dislocated joints. One example of such is the injury known as "hip subluxation," which may result from the trauma of a car crash or a hit in a football game. Hip subluxation is a partial dislocation of the joint, in which the ball at the top of the femur moves in and out of the joint without tearing the capsule surrounding the joint. Prompt diagnosis and treatment of this injury (which is often dismissed as a hip strain or sprain) is crucial. Up to 25% of hip subluxation injuries lead to bone death within the hip joint.

We will take the time to explain your diagnosis to you and develop a personalized treatment plan. The care and maintenance of the spine and nervous system is a necessary component of any natural approach to healthcare. Why suffer needlessly when safe and gentle chiropractic could put a smile back on your face. We're located at 112 McGrath Hwy., Quincy, where we are specially trained and skilled in analyzing the spinal column to determine any type of problem. Please call the FAMILY PRACTICE OF CHIROPRACTIC at 617.472.4220 to schedule an appointment. Chiropractic works! We offer computerized spinal scans. We are able to adjust patients sitting, standing, or lying down to accommodate any level of discomfort. If your problem is a chiropractic condition we offer you exceptional service.

DENTISTRY for the 21st Century

by Steven A. Brustin, D.M.D.

BRIDGE BUILDING

A "bridge" is a fixed dental restoration that is commonly used to replace no more than four adjacent front teeth or two side teeth. Much like a highway bridge, it is supported by two abutments, which are structurally healthy teeth on either side of the gap. The span, or "pontic," is a metal framework attached to the abutments at each end with the necessary number of attached artificial teeth. When properly crafted, the artificial teeth and abutment crowns should match the contour and color of natural teeth and appear to be growing out of the gums. However, the pontic should barely touch the gums because exerting unnecessary pressure on the gums and underlying bone can damage them.

Unlike removable partial dentures, fixed bridges cannot be taken out of your mouth. They remain in place as you eat, speak and sleep – just like natural teeth. We deliver a high level of quality dental care. All the members of our staff are dedicated to serving you – we will be happy to answer any questions you may have. Call us at 617-479-6220 to schedule an appointment. We're located at 44 Greenleaf Street, where we stress preventive dentistry for the entire family. We offer the services of anesthesiology with a fully trained and qualified anesthesiologist. Visit us on the web at www.quincy-dentist.com.

P.S. There should be sufficient space on the underside of the pontic of a dental bridge so that dental floss can be passed beneath it to keep it clean.

Howard W. Colby, 96
Accountant; Veteran

A funeral Mass for Howard W. Colby, 96, of Quincy and Colebrook, New Hampshire, was celebrated Nov. 24 in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Colebrook.

Mr. Colby died Nov. 20.

Born on a farm on the outskirts of Colebrook, NH, he graduated from Colebrook Academy during the Depression and completed secretarial coursework at Bryant and Stratton in Boston. He moved to Concord, NH, where he worked as an assistant in the Department of Fish & Game, traveling the state and promoting wildlife preservation. With a death of a close friend and associate in the department, he then went to work in the office of the Whittemore Company in Boston.

Mr. Colby enrolled in the United States Navy in 1942, where he worked as a secretary for the Chief of Naval Security in New England. After training in California, he transferred to Okinawa, Japan, where he worked establishing the military government and after the Japanese surrender, he returned to Boston and went back to work at the Whittemore.

He married Ann O'Leary in 1951, moved a block from Maypole Hill in Quincy, and at nights obtained an accounting degree from Bentley College; he later transferred to the Boston Sand and Gravel Company and worked there as an accountant until retirement.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

It is an interesting phenomenon how two people view the same situation so differently, according to how they think.

Have you ever thought about why some people say a day is partly sunny and others, commenting on the same day, will say it is partly cloudy? It is the optimist who remembers the sunshine; the pessimist remembers the dark clouds. . . Of if a glass of water is half full, the optimist will think of it that way. But the pessimist will say, "It's half empty."

How do you think and what you think can and does affect your actions. Lovable thoughts produce one result. Thoughts of hate produce the opposite result. It is true . . . "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he."

Wouldn't today be a good day to begin to think hopefully and look for opportunities in every difficulty instead of difficulty in every opportunity?

Being an optimist is much more fun than being a pessimist. . . It is more pleasant to be around an optimist than a pessimist. . . Don't you agree?

Salome's Stars

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You might feel that you have all the answers right now. But it might be wise to listen to other ideas before you decide to close the lid on other possibilities.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Bovines give and expect loyalty, so it might not be easy to reconcile with someone you feel let you down. Why not ask a neutral party to set up a clear-the-air meeting?

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Anticipating the holidays with family and friends fuels your must-do Gemini energies. But try to pace yourself so you'll be up for whatever comes along later.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) More background information might come through regarding a decision you expect to make. Be sure to check the source carefully before you move.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) The strong, nurturing nature of the Lion comes through this week as you reach out to family and friends in need of your warm and loving support.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) A relationship that has almost totally unraveled could be close to being restored with more effort on your part to be more patient and less judgmental.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your sense of fair play is strong this week, which can cause a problem with a longtime relationship. But in the end, you'll know what decision to make.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) You might not know all the facts behind an unwelcome development, so keep that Scorpion temper in check and resist lashing out at anyone.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) This is a good time to reinforce relationships -- family, friends, colleagues -- that might have been overlooked in recent years.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Family situations continue to thrive. Business associations also improve. Some holiday plans might have to be shifted a bit. Be flexible.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Avoid any influence of negative energy in this week's aspect by not allowing small problems to grow into large ones. Work them out immediately.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) A friend might need advice on how to deal with a challenge to his or her moral values. And who better than you to give the honest answer? Good luck.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have a sense of adventure that inspires others to follow your lead.

This day is NOT a hearing date, but a deadline date by which you have to file the written appearance if you object to the accounts. If you fail to file the written appearance by the return date, action may be taken in this matter without further notice to you, including the allowance of the account(s).

Additionally, within thirty days after said return day (or within such other time as the Court upon motion may order), you must file a written affidavit of objections stating the specific facts and grounds upon with each objection is based and a copy shall be served upon the Conservator pursuant to Mass. R. Civ. P. 5.

You have the right to send to the Conservator, by registered or certified mail, a written request to receive a copy of the account(s) at no cost to you.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The outcome of this proceeding may limit or completely take away the above-named person's right to make decisions about personal affairs or financial affairs or both. The above-named person has the right to ask for a lawyer. Anyone may make this request on behalf of the above-named person. If the above-named person cannot afford a lawyer, one may be appointed at State expense.

WITNESS, Hon. Robert W. Langlois, First Justice of this Court.

Eva M. Mercurio, 91

A funeral Mass for Eva M. (Cappola) Mercurio, 91, of Quincy, was celebrated Monday in St. Mary's Church, Quincy.

Mrs. Mercurio died Nov. 22 at Jordan Hospital, Plymouth.

A lifelong resident of Quincy, she was a former cafeteria worker for the Quincy Public Schools at the Central and Sterling Junior High Schools. She was also a longtime communicant of St. Mary's Church and was a member of the Parish Senior Citizens Group.

Wife of the late Joseph Mercurio; mother of Gail Rapose and her husband Kenneth Jr., of Halifax; grandmother of Kenneth Rapose III; sister of Ida Ricci of Quincy, Yolanda Yollie Donovan of FL and the late Irma Estes, George, Emilo Meo, Angelo Ralph, Patsy Pat and Pietro Peter Cappola.

She is also survived by many nieces and nephews.

Interment was in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Bolea-Buonfiglio Funeral Home, Quincy.

Mary C. Tierney, 78
Teacher Assistant

A funeral Mass for Mary Catherine (Maguire) Tierney, 78, of Milton, formerly of Quincy, was celebrated Nov. 23 in St. Agatha Church, Milton.

Mrs. Tierney died Nov. 20.

Born in Brockton, she was raised in South Boston and was a 1952 graduate of South Boston High School. She married William J. Tierney, Chief Justice of the Boston Municipal Court, and they moved to Milton. She worked for AT&T as an operator and later as a teacher assistant in the special needs program of Milton Public Schools.

She also did volunteer work as therapist for special needs children.

Later in life, she and her husband retired to Quincy and wintered in Florida. She was the President of the Quincy West Condominium Association of Quincy.

Wife of William J. Tierney; mother of Kathleen M. Tierney of Walpole, Jean Marie Whelan of South Boston, Thomas E. Tierney of Mendon, William J. Tierney, Jr. of Milton, and James M. Tierney of Duxbury.

She is also survived by 14 grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Alfred D. Thomas Funeral Home, Milton.

Memorial donations may be made to the Arthritis Foundation, 29 Crafts St., Ste. 450, Newton, MA 02458 or to the National Autism Association, 1330 West Schatz Lane, Nixa, MO 65714.

Edward J. Curran, Sr.

A Mass of Christian Burial for Edward J. Curran Sr. of Quincy, formerly of Dorchester, was celebrated Tuesday in Saint Ann Church, Wollaston.

Mr. Curran died Nov. 24 at South Shore Hospital after a brief illness.

Born in Everett, he was a graduate of Somerville Hill School. He was a member of the U.S. Army National Guard.

Mr. Curran was employed as an MBTA bus driver and retired after 30 years of service. He was a member of Local 589.

After his retirement, Mr. Curran joined Quirk Auto Parts in Braintree where he worked for nine years.

Beloved husband of Catherine (Donovan), he was the devoted father of Catherine C. Hayes of South Weymouth, Edward J. Curran, Jr. of Washington, Robert S. Curran of Groton, Patricia A. DiNocco of Abington, Christine C. Curran-Cave and Timothy J. Curran, both of Quincy.

Son of Ellen C. (Post) Curran of Somerville and the late Mark F. Curran. Brother of Ellen Galligani of Plymouth, Thomas Curran of Maine, Mark Curran of Florida and John Curran of Merrimac.

Uncle of Paul Donovan of Quincy, Daniel Donovan of Milton and many other nephews and nieces.

He is also survived by 10 grandchildren.

Interment was in Pine Hill Cemetery, Quincy.

Funeral arrangements were made by the Dolan Funeral Home, 460 Granite Ave., Milton.

Thank you for supporting the 2010 QMC Cancer Walk!

Teams and individuals from all over Quincy came out to walk with us and raise money for our cancer programs.

Quincy Medical Center is very grateful to all of the walkers, businesses, organizations, and donors who raised over $120,000 for the 13th Annual QMC Cancer Walk. Your generous support helps us provide free cancer screenings, cancer education and the latest medical technology for cancer detection right here in the community.

Thank you!

'DAY OF INFAMY' REMEMBERED – A wreath laying ceremony conducted by the Quincy Veterans' Council at Mount Wollaston Cemetery Tuesday marked the 69th anniversary of the Japanese sneak aerial attack on U.S. Navy vessels in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, on Dec. 7, 1941. Laying the wreath at the flag pole of the World War II Memorial located in the Veterans' section of Mount Wollaston Cemetery are Frank Connolly, who served on the cruiser USS Saint Louis and is Quincy's last Pearl Harbor survivor; and Heikki Pakkala, commander of the Quincy Veterans' Council. Quincy Sun Photo/Robert Noble

Wreath, Memories Mark 'Day Of Infamy'

By JOE REARDON

Quincy's Frank Connolly was a 20-year-old range fire operator on the turret of the light cruiser the USS Saint Louis when Japanese planes and submarines attacked Pearl Harbor 69 years ago Tuesday.

The last remaining Quincy survivor of the historic attack that plunged the United States into World War II, Connolly remembers that early Sunday morning in December vividly.

"We were the first ship to get out of there," he said. "While we were waiting, I was cutting the awnings to get the guns out."

Connolly said the Japanese fighter planes came in so low that he could clearly see the faces of the pilots.

Following the attack several U.S. ships went after the Japanese submarines that inflicted a huge amount of damage, but they proved to be very elusive. "We didn't know where they were, nobody did," he said.

Three days after the attack, Connolly was one of the seamen who retrieved bodies that had floated to the surface. That lasted for two weeks.

Larry Norton stood at the World War II memorial in Mount Wollaston Ceremony in the bright sunshine and bitter cold, just minutes after yesterday's solemn ceremony in remembrance of the 69th anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

Raymondi Banned Again After Renewal Plan Changes

LDA To Include Bigelow Flood Plan

By LAURA GRIFFIN

Recent changes in the Quincy Center Plan have forced City Solicitor James Timmins to once again ban Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi from any participation in current or future discussions or votes on the Quincy Center renewal project.

"Councillor Raymondi's involvement is prohibited," Timmins told councillors at the Dec. 2 joint meeting of the council's Downtown and Finance Committees chaired by Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro.

The committees are currently reviewing the proposed contract or Land Disposition Agreement (LDA) between the City of Quincy and Street-Works, White Plains, NY.

The LDA spells out the duties of each party in the proposed Quincy Center renewal process. Details of the LDA have been changed in recent weeks and Timmins cited those changes as the reason for his decision.

Timmins said the specific reason for banning Raymondi was Mayor Thomas Koch's decision last week to add Town Brook improvements and the Bigelow flood plan to the list of preliminary requirements for the Quincy Center renewal project

This is one of several major and minor changes that the mayor, his team and Street-Works representatives have made to the legal document in the past weeks.

Raymondi is a direct abut-

Daytime Brownouts To Continue

Sluggish Start For Fire Fee Program

The Fire Department's cost recovery program appears to have fizzled in its first three months, according to Fire Chief Joseph Barron who told City Council Monday that the city has recovered only $2,700 to date and, currently, has only $14,000 in outstanding claims.

Barron had anticipated adding $250,000 to the department's budget from the controversial fee-for-service program which allows the fire department to charge insurance companies after vehicular accidents and to charge errant property owners for excessive false alarms.

However, these first few months of the program indicate those estimates were overly optimistic, according to Barron.

"The cost recovery program has been difficult to implement," said Barron.

Community Preservation Applications Due Jan.7

Applications for this year's community preservation projects are due Friday, Jan. 7, according to Steve Perdios, Chairman of the Community Preservation Committee.

Perdios announced the deadline and distributed applications to councillors Monday.

During Monday's discussion, Perdios described the dozens of projects funded by Quincy residents since the program's approval in 2006. Those projects range from improvements to Adams Academy, the Church of Presidents and Souther Tide Mill to the preservation of centuries-old records at City Hall.

Sometimes, the funds bring an extra bonus as demonstrated by the preser-

Tsaffaras Selected Quincy College President

By LAURA GRIFFIN

It's been a rocky ten months for Quincy College but the search for a new president appears to have ended with a substantial 10-3 vote by the Board of Governors on Dec. 2 to offer Peter Tsaffaras a contract.

Tsaffaras, a Quincy resident, is presently Acting General Council and Deputy Commissioner for Employee Relations at the state's Department of Education. He has worked in higher education for 39 years

PETER TSAFFARAS

"I'm a little overwhelmed, a little surprised that it happened so fast," Tsaffaras said Monday, adding, "I'm very honored, have a sense of humility."

Several board members indicated this week that

Single Snow-Plow Contractor Began Last Winter In Ward 1, Ward 2, Parts Of Wollaston

Snow Program Expanding To Include Ward 4

Mayor Thomas Koch announces the City's Department of Public Works will expand a pilot snow plowing program that last year cut costs and created more accountability by paying a single snow-plow contractor responsibility for specific City neighborhoods.

The program will expand to Ward 4 during the upcoming snow season after last year's pilot program awarded snow removal in Ward 1, Ward 2 and parts of Wollaston to a single contractor who has paid by the inch of snow, rather on an hourly basis for snowstorms.

"We saw substantial progress in accountability, quality, and cost in our snow plowing operations last year through the pilot program, enough saw that is certainly worth of expanding to a second district," said Mayor Koch. "Snow removal is one of the basic core services that is absolutely vital for our residents, and we are going to continue to look for creative, cost-effective ways to ensure we are doing the best job possible."

Reilly Brothers Construction of Stoughton will continue to be the primary snow contractor for the neighborhoods included in last year's contract, while C. Naughton Inc. of Quincy was recently awarded the contract to run snow operations in Ward 4, according to DPW Commissioner Larry Prendeville.

Under the new program, contractors are required to set aside a specific number of plows – both large and small – to cover the full neighborhood and get paid based on the size of the snowstorm. That eliminates the costly idling time that have traditionally been charged by contractors, especially considering weather forecasts can very substantially, Prendeville said.

Most importantly, Prendeville said, the new system has a created a "tremendous level of accountability," that has cut down on the number of resident complaints and streamlined the overall operation during snowstorms, he said.

"This is performance-based, so the incentive is their for the contractor to do the best job possible, which is critical to us," Prendeville said. "We saw a marked difference in the number of calls from residents. There's always room for improvement, but we think we are making great progress."

Ice Skating On Manet Lake Community Meeting Topic Sunday

Ward 1 Councillor Margaret Laforest will host a community meeting regarding the return of ice skating on Manet Lake Sunday, Dec. 12 at 7 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Maritime Center, 137 Bayview Ave., adjacent to the public landing.

Manet Lake is located behind the Houghs Neck fire station and accessed via Winthrop Street and Lakeside Avenue.

"Outdoor skating has been a long tradition in Houghs Neck," Laforest said. "In talking to one resident in her 90's, she recalled her childhood on Winthrop Street and skating and having hot cocoa with friends. I, too, have many fond memories of skating on Manet Lake, yet my children and their friends have never had this experience.

"Ever since I took office as Ward 1 councillor, Houghs Neck residents have asked me to look into skating at Manet Lake, as it was a favorite childhood past time of many."

With the support of Mayor Tom Koch, Laforest said she has spent the past few months researching and talking to the department heads to see if it's feasible to return skating to Manet Lake this winter season.

In January of 2001, the Quincy Conservation Commission issued an "Order of Conditions" which approved the Manet Lake Vegetation Management Program that permits "the annual cutting of phragmites for the purpose of flooding Manet Lake for ice skating in the winter months."

For more information, contact Laforest at 617-376-1351.

Single-Stream Recycle Bins Delivered As Part Of Grant

Three-thousand Ward 1 households will be receiving blue recycling barrels – twice the size of traditional recycling bins – to increase participation in the City's growing Single Stream Recycling Program, Mayor Thomas Koch announces.

The barrels are paid for by the city's Energy Efficiency and Conservation Block Grant from the U.S. Department of Energy and part of "Energy Smart Quincy," a broad-based program to increase energy efficiency and protect the environment in the City.

The barrels are expected to be used by homeowners and families to increase household recycling through the Single Stream program, which allows residents to place all recyclable material in a single container, without the need to sort it.

The program, which started with the City's new regional trash contract with Quincy and Braintree, and have since seen a substantial increase in the citywide recycling rate. That's important, Mayor Koch said, because the city spends more than $3 million, but actually makes money by returning recyclables.

"Increasing our recycling makes sense for our environment, and it makes sense financially. Reducing the amount of trash we produce is a major priority and we hope these new barrels will help us get toward that goal," Koch said.

The Energy Efficiency and Conservation Block Grant will also be used to hire a energy manager with a goal of reducing City government's energy output by 20 percent; new energy efficient street-lights and intersection improvements in Brewer's Corner; energy efficient windows and other systems at Quincy Community Action Program's new HeadStart facility at the former St. John's School; Traffic synchronization systems at intersections around Quincy to reduce vehicle idling; and a broad public outreach campaign that will encourage residents to take part in a number of energy efficiency and cost-savings programs.

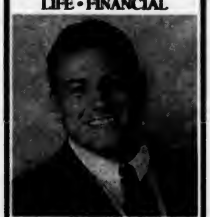
UNLOCKING SECRETS



Keys have long been subjects of fascination because they are symbolic of the ability to unlock secrets. The gift of a key, both real and symbolic, carries with it the singular power to gain access to the most treasured possessions of the giver. Against this backdrop, key pendants have become one of the most popular pieces of fashion jewelry, in particular among young people. Not only do these pieces look especially alluring when studded with diamonds and other gemstones in a variety of precious metals, they evoke romantic feelings associated with bygone eras. Key pendants are beautiful reminders that it is good to cultivate a certain amount of secrecy that can only be uncovered by those who hold the key.

Choosing jewelry for yourself or someone else is always a special occasion because it makes such a personal statement. When we design any jewelry for a client, whether a pendant, bracelet, earrings, ring, or brooch, we strive for a piece of jewelry that, the more you look at it, the more it says and the more you feel. We believe a design should have an enduring, magical quality to it. Experience the magic of our custom designed jewelry. We're located at 1402 Hancock Street, Quincy Center, the best place to begin and finish your holiday shopping. PH: 617-773-3636.

Tsaffaras Selected To Succeed Harris As College President

Tsaffaras' contract will be settled by mid-December.

In his statement, Tsaffaras actually referred to the speed with which the vast majority of newly appointed board members voted his appointment. Seven of the current board members were recently appointed to that position and their first business was the presidency.

Prior to their appointments, the previous Board of Governors was in upheaval throughout the spring and the summer as they unsuccessfully attempted to change leaders and prepare a contract. Several board members resigned and one was not re-appointed to a new term.

Outside of Tsaffaras, no one is more pleased by the decisive vote than the college's current president, Sue Harris, who will retire Dec. 30. Harris submitted her retirement plans last January.

"Congratulations and my very best wishes for him and the college," is the message that Harris offered Monday for her successor. Harris added that she expects the college to benefit from "his wonderful talent and expertise."

SUE HARRIS

Tsaffaras' current boss, Commissioner Richard Freeland also lauded Tsaffaras this week, calling the appointment "an outstanding selection."

In a formal statement Monday, Freeland said that Tsaffaras has served the state's department "with integrity and distinction. He has made an important contribution to the Commonwealth and has had senior responsibility for relations between this Department and the unions..."

Tsaffaras who lost his first bid for the presidency by one vote last Spring had himself been a member of the Board of Governors from Dec. 2005 until last January. He also served as chairman from 2006 through 2008.

His membership on the board created some of the controversy which began in February and continued through October.

Now Tsaffaras looks forward to growing the college and increasing its community presence.

In his formal statement this week, Tsaffaras said, "I am hopeful that along with my academic background, my almost 39 years of experience in public higher education has prepared me for the challenges that lie ahead.

"I look forward to working with the constituent groups of the college community in leading Quincy College in the years ahead," said Tsaffaras.

When contacted Monday, Tsaffaras did not directly discuss the college's previous goal of independence from the City of Quincy, but stated that a major goal will be to meet the requirements of the college's accrediting agencies.

"The accrediting agencies have stated that we need to change our government structure. We have to change in some respect," said Tsaffaras.

Tsaffaras received his law degree from the New England School of Law, a master's degree in urban studies from the University of Massachusetts, Boston and his bachelor's degree from the University of Massachusetts at Lowell.

Starting in 1982 at the Bridgewater State College and then the former Boston State College, Tsaffaras has served in positions in higher education. He currently teaches at Massasoit College and has a small private practice.

As for Harris, she plans to continue at her position until Dec. 30, "I'm hoping we'll have a couple of weeks (transition) before the end of December."

Harris said she's most pleased with the increased faculty and technology offered students during her five-year tenure as well as the expanded campus in Plymouth and the successful move in Quincy to modern space on Newport Avenue.

Once December is over, Harris and her husband Richard will hit the road along the East Coast, visiting friends and relatives along the way. Her husband retired after teaching 39 years in the Quincy school system at North Quincy High School.

State Rep.-Elect Tackey Chan Ready For Beacon Hill

Quincy's next state representative is ready to hit the Beacon Hill ground running.

CHAN

Tackey Chan, who was elected to represent the Second Norfolk District in last month's election, is zeroing in on the committees he'd like to serve on as well as legislation he intends to file after he is sworn-in Jan. 5.

The lifelong Quincy resident and former legislative aide also supports expanded gambling and making permanent the state's film tax credit to create jobs and get the state's sagging economy moving again.

In a recent interview, Chan also discussed making history as the first Asian-American Democrat to be elected to the Massachusetts House of Representatives, growing up in Quincy, and how the values instilled in him have helped shape his public service.

The Sun: What are the first bills you intend to file as a state representative after you are sworn in Jan. 5?

Chan: I would like to file legislation to require as a condition of parole to wear a GPS (Global Positioning System) bracelet. You may recall the Supreme Judicial Court has ruled that the probation department cannot issue additional parole conditions after the judge has issued them.

I would like to require all gas leak related explosions to be investigated by the Department of Public Utilities. Currently, there is no requirement under law to have these tragic events investigated and to provide recommendations to prevent future occurrence.

Sun: Can you list the committees that you like to be appointed to and why?

Chan: I would like to be appointed to the Joint Committee on Economic Development and Emerging Technologies, the Joint Committee on Telecommunications, Utility and Energy, and the Joint Committee on Consumer Protection and Professional Licensure.

The Economic Development and Emerging Technologies is the committee where job creation legislation goes. One of the major issues to be taken up is expanded gambling. This is a subject that I have knowledge in from my working for Sen. (Michael) Morrissey. I hope to bring my unique knowledge base to the committee.

After working as your consumer advocate on utility issues in the (state) Attorney General's office, I understand energy policy on a large scale and at the consumer level. There continues to be a strong interest in expanding alternative energies in this state. I would bring experience as someone who sees the "large energy picture" but not lose sight of the impact it will have on consumer's bills.

Consumer Protection and Professional Licensure is a regulatory committee charged with reviewing consumer protection laws and regulatory law of various professions. I have worked on many of these issues before as an Assistant Attorney General and working for Sen. Morrissey. This in an interesting committee that gets to work on a large variety of consumer issues that impact people's lives.

Sun: Can you explain your position on casinos and gaming?

Chan: I am in favor of expanded gambling. I believe that gambling can be expanded properly with the right regulatory structure. I have done research on this issue extensively in the past. If it is done right and responsibly, it will work. A casino can bring thousands of construction jobs and permanent service industry jobs. I think proper siting is very important and take full consideration the impact it will have on the infrastructure of the community it is located in.

Slots at the racetracks helps an industry people often forget about. Massachusetts has a long horse-breeding history. There are a little over 100 horse farms that represent hundreds of farm and farm related jobs and hundreds of acres of open space. A horse racetrack's impact is not just as the track. Also, unlike a casino, a racetrack is already in a location that has accepted gambling in the community and there is existing infrastructure.

Sun: Name one other law that could help generate jobs in the area?

Chan: The state has a unique opportunity to have an industry come here to stay and invest. By making the film tax credit permanent, it will encourage the film industry – whether small independent or large Hollywood films – to come here and use local workers and businesses. The movie industry will need to hire local actors, production assistants, lighting, grips, carpenters, laborers, hotels, restaurants, food services, florists, clothing retailers, taxi and car services, etc. There were 12 major films shot in Massachusetts in 2009 totaling hundreds of millions of dollars brought here.

Also, making the film tax credit permanent will help with the financing of a film studio and offices at the South Weymouth Naval Air Station, which will mean construction and service jobs for the region. It would be the largest sound stage on the East Coast and bring more of the film industry here.

Sun: When you are sworn in Jan. 5, you will be the first Asian American from Quincy to serve in public office. Do you consider yourself a pioneer in local politics?

Chan: It just happens to be a fact that I'm an Asian American kid who grew up in Quincy. It's not lost on me but it was not the center point of this campaign or the center point of who I am. It's just timing. I always remind people that my dad bought his first house in Quincy. I was born at the Carney Hospital just over the bridge but I've lived my entire life in Quincy. My parents were immigrants from Hong Kong and their first property they ever bought was in Quincy when they saved enough to do it in 1973.

I'm just old enough to remember The Bargain Center and Sabina's Hair Salon. I went to the Wollaston Theater on Tuesday nights when it was Dollar Night. I also saw a lot of changes in the city. I'm old enough to remember the shipyard. I am a Quincy kid. And I never left. So I have my roots here.

People forget I grew up in a different time. I was the only non-white face in one square mile. I grew up in a different kind of Quincy. I found myself having to adjust to the changes in the population as well. I remember when I was 22 years old I was in Christie's and one guy says to me, 'you speak English good.' I thanked him and said 'I speak English well. I appreciate that.' I'm looking at the guy and thinking 'I have a Boston accent.' There's no shocker here – I 'pahk my cah' like everybody else.

I do understand immigrant households and immigrant issues. My parents are immigrants. So I know what it's like to live in a dual cultural situation. I also know what it's like to be singled out because you're the kid who didn't look like everybody else for a while. I tell people I grew up in the city but that I also have a different view of the city because I had a different type of childhood of having it brought to your attention.

Sun: What is your prior experience working on Beacon Hill?

Chan: I got my start working for Mike Bellotti when he was a state rep. Michael took me as an aide for about 11 months in 1995. Mike Morrissey's office then had an opening so I ended up going to Mike Morrissey's office as a part-time employee. In the meantime, I had some work study jobs while going to college. Eventually Michael was able to move up the chairmanship ladder and I was able to get a full-time job with him and worked there for about a dozen years.

But I remind people that when you're staffing, you're being told what to do and you don't get to make a decision. You have to provide the information and do the research but you yourself are not part of the inner circle or the decision-making process. I have learned a lot of good skills about the law – how the law works, the process, how to work things from multiple angles – but at the end of the day, a staffer is not a decision-maker.

Sun: What values were instilled in you and how do they impact being a public servant?

Chan: The single biggest factor in my life was when my father died when I was 15. He had cancer for three years. We had no immediate family in the area. We were very dependent on friends and neighbors and people from B.C. High School and St. Ann's to support and comfort us in a very difficult time. But Mom and Dad always reminded us that things aren't that bad no matter how bad it gets. You have to keep an eye on people who are less fortunate than yourself.

St. Ann's School and B.C. High stressed the importance of community. A lot of B.C. High kids do a public service and require 150 hours in order to graduate. I did mine at South Shore Cerebral Palsy. It was one of those summers I will never forget working with kids with cerebral palsy – from infants to toddlers. That had a very profound effect on my life.

It was those kinds of values, just getting out and working with people and also recognizing that you had a good education and you had some personal loss that shapes a lot of who you are.

Sun: What is the one pledge that you will make to your constituents as a state representative?

Chan: I think it's pretty important to show up, talk to people, listen to people, and I'm not afraid to get yelled at occasionally. You have to be there – I do know the importance of being there.

And everyone's opinion is important. Everybody's point of view, everybody's issue . . . you have to give it your full attention. Of course the trouble is everybody's got their one big issue and sometimes you get two people who are polar opposite on the same issue which is the nature of the business.

But you have to recognize that their opinion is very, very important. I am looking forward to getting to work in January – that's where I am now.

The book, filled with proverbs preaching industry and prudence, was published continuously for 25 years and became one of the most popular publications in colonial America, selling an average of 10,000 copies a year.

• On Dec. 17, 1843, Charles Dickens' classic story "A Christmas Carol" is published. When Dickens' father was thrown into debtors' prison in 1824, 12-year-old Charles was sent to work in a factory. The miserable treatment of children and the institution of the debtors' jail became topics of several of Dickens' novels.

• On Dec. 18, 1886, the often-controversial baseball legend Ty Cobb is born in Narrows, Ga. In 1911, he led the league in eight offensive categories, including batting (.420), slugging percentage (.621), hits (248), doubles (47), triples (24), runs (147), RBI (144) and steals (83), and won the first American League MVP award.

• On Dec. 13, 1915, detective novelist Kenneth Millar, better known by his nom de plume Ross Macdonald, was born in Los Gatos, Calif. He wrote 24 mystery novels, 20 of them featuring detective Lew Archer, who first appeared in "The Moving Target" (1949).

• On Dec. 14, 1977, the film "Saturday Night Fever" had its world premiere at Mann's Chinese Theater in Los Angeles. Four No. 1 pop hits were launched by the movie's landmark soundtrack album, including "How Deep Is Your Love."

• On Dec. 15, 1944, legendary bandleader Glenn Miller (also a captain in the U.S Army Air Force) disappears over the English Channel en route to France for a congratulatory performance for American troops who had recently helped to liberate Paris. The wreckage of Miller's plane was never found.

• On Dec. 16, 1989, federal Judge Robert Vance is instantly killed by a powerful explosion after opening a package mailed to his house near Birmingham, Ala. In June 1991, a federal jury convicted Walter LeRoy Moody on charges related to the bombings and sentenced him to seven life terms plus 400 years in prison.

TAXICAB FOR ALL OCCASIONS AT POPULAR PRICES

STEPHEN PENNIMAN and Son Livery Company that was located behind the Greenleaf Building on the corner of Hancock and Granite Streets in Quincy Square mailed this advertisement postcard in March 1909. They provided hackney, livery and boarding services at their stables there. They also provided public carriages at the Quincy railroad depot. This brand new Model T Ford was one of the first built by the Ford Motor Company in Detroit and was the first motorized taxicab in Quincy. In 1910, there were only 300 motor vehicles registered in the city. Today, 100 years later, there are over 75,000. The Penniman family provided taxi service in Quincy for over 50 years. Quincy's Yesterdays

Survey: Merchants Cool To Sundays

By FRANK McCAULEY

Massachusetts may repeal its 300-year old "Blue Laws" that restrict business on Sundays but downtown Quincy merchants as well as Mayor Francis X. McCauley, are far from enthusiastic about it.

"I don't want to see us turn into another California, going full blast seven days a week," said McCauley. "Sunday should be a day apart."

Almost all of the merchants contacted by The Quincy Sun in a mini-survey agreed whole-heartedly with the mayor.

This Week

28 Years Ago

"I am unhappy about the prospect," said Burt Cook, proprietor of Tags Discount Furniture and Sleep Shop. "It only means I have to work harder and I don't want to do that. I want to enjoy myself and Sunday is the only day I have left."

"Personally, I don't like the idea," said Bob Colman who owns Colman's Sporting Goods Stores in Quincy, Danvers, Canton and Woburn.

"It's too big a strain on manpower. I'd have to staff the place with inexperienced people on Sunday and service would not be as good," Colman continued. "It would not be fair to the customers."

MORRISSEY DENOUNCES FOREIGN SHIP SUBSIDIES

The Massachusetts House of Representatives at the urging of Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has asked the United States Congress to preserve operating subsidies for American-built ships and not to extend them to foreigners.

"The Unites States Senate," said Morrissey, "recently adopted a maritime bill that would be the first step toward displacing U.S. shipbuilding in favor of foreign-owned, foreign-manned, foreign-built fleets."

Devil Is In The Details Of The Downtown Plan

There is so much to love about the City of Quincy and I think all of us want to see a thriving downtown. The question is which road do we take to get there? Our most urgent priority is creating jobs. Many families are struggling for basics as we make our way through the worst economic collapse since the great depression. Let us remember how we got here. The complicated financing schemes that created the mortgage meltdown seem similar to the details of the downtown deal.

One lesson from it all is the value of tangible assets. Holding onto land or parking garages guarantees you always have that real estate. When Street Works neglected to pay the widow of the Wollaston Theatre her due payment in January they demonstrated we needed to take a closer look. At the time of the sale we were told it was a "good faith effort". How was the collapse of this step to save our beloved landmark from the wrecking ball kept quiet for 10 months? If Street Works cares about Quincy they would understand how much we want "The Wolly" saved.

The City Council, who represent US, need to have the courage to stand up for those they represent. While we all want to see progress we cannot progress without taking a look at where we've been. This city council can show this is no longer "A City Under the Influence". Letting the Mayor have the unilateral power to give away acres of prime real estate in the middle of OUR downtown is a dangerous precedent.

Some details of the LDA most concerning to residents such as the "daylighting" of Town Brook are currently unacceptable. Relying on state and federal grants for that work, does not ensure it will be done. Neither does the language of the LDA. From the meeting Quincy Environmental Network held with Street Works my understanding is that the brook will only be open for a short distance along the highway. Really? Is that the best we can do?

Relying on parking fees to pay back our debt to Street Works is risky and irresponsible. No one is going to pay to park downtown with so many other shopping options nearby. This city is having difficulty keeping our schools, libraries and hospital open. Examples of their negotiations like the Memorandum of Understanding with Thayer and the three quarters of a million dollars paid to Little Q Pot are further cause for concern. I applaud the administration for their vision and hope they will hear the reasonable voices with valid concerns to ensure the project's success.

Says Street-Works Is Taking Over The City

It is beyond my comprehension how a bunch of people from New York can completely take over a city and control the mayor and every aspect of what takes place in Quincy Center?

When a dedicated and honest hard-working city councillor like Dan Raymondi ask questions they cant' or won't answer they pull a few strings and have him removed from the hearings. They also leave one-sixth of the citizens of Quincy with no voice.

If we really had a city council with any guts they would all walkout with Dan and show the people of Quincy who is really running this city.

They have the mayor and other city officers under their thumb. Only no good can come from this whole mess.

Try calling City Hall some day. No one ever answers the phone.

1947 Thanksgiving Game Drew Over 23,000 Fans

The article written in your recent Thanksgiving issue on George Burke's attendance at the Quincy-North Quincy game was very well done.

However, there is one error in the article. The attendance at the 1946 game was approximately 20,000, but the 1947 game drew over 23,000 (not the 10,000 reporting in the article).

Almost all of your reporting on the game show a table indicating that the 23,000 figures is the correct number.

I happened to play in both the '46 and '47 games and in both, standing room only.

During that period, Quincy would have been state champions in 1945, but North beat them 6 to 0. In both the '45 and '47 games, North would have been state champs if they beat Quincy; Quincy won both the '46 and '47 games to eliminate North from being state champions.

5 Quincy Dancers To Appear In The Nutcraker This Weekend

Jared Lyons of Quincy will star in The Braintree Ballet Company's 15th anniversary production of The Nutcracker to be performed Saturday, Dec. 11 at 2 and 7 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 12 at 2 p.m. in the auditorium of East Middle School, River Street, Braintree.

Other dancers from Quincy appearing in the holiday classic are Sara Avdulla, Danielle Carlin, Sofie Forbes and Jacqueline O'Dywer.

Lyons, age 15, is a sophomore at Archbishop Williams HIgh School. He will dance the lead role of The Nutcracker Prince.

This is Jared's third season dancing with the company which is a company made up of dancers from The Dance Studio of Braintree.

Both the studio and the company are directed by Melissa Kelley Clark who grew up in Quincy.

"Jared is a blessing to our company," Clark says. "He works so hard, is dedicated and motivated. His love for dance shines in every performance as well as every class he takes. We just love that he is part of our dance family," she adds.

Performances Friday, Saturday, Sunday At 7:30 P.M.

NQHS Drama Club Presents 'Flowers For Algernon'

The North Quincy High School Drama Club will present its production of David Rogers' play Flowers for Algernon tonight (Thursday), Friday, Dec. 10 and Saturday, Dec. 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the school's Black Box Theatre.

Tickets are $8 and can be purchased at the door. Show time is 7:30 p.m. for all performances.

The play is based on a popular book which was made into a movie in the 1970s.

The show will feature many North Quincy High School students as well as two elementary school students from Quincy.

Directed by English and Theatre teacher Tracy Phelan, the show features Dan Whooley as the main character Charlie Gordon. Charlie is born mentally retarded, and through a series of treatments and operations he becomes a genius.

The experiments run by the scientists, played by Nick Burt and Simon Belcher, involve a mouse named Algernon. Throughout the course of the show, as Algernon gets smarter, so too does Charlie.

When Algernon starts to regress, Charlie realizes he only has so much time as a genius.

A touching drama, Flowers for Algernon was turned into a popular movie starring Cliff Robertson in the 1970s.

For more information, contact Jim Phelan at 617-549-0956.

'Ondine' Film At Library Dec. 16

The 2009 Irish movie "Ondine" will be shown Thursday, Dec. 16 at 7 p.m. at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 40 Washington St., Quincy.

In the film, Syracuse, a simple Irish fisherman, catches a beautiful and mysterious woman in his trawler nets. The woman seems to be dead, but then she comes alive before Syracuse's eyes, and he thinks he may be seeing things.

However, with the help of his irrepressible daughter, Annie, he comes to believe that the fantastical might be possible and that the woman (Ondine) might be a myth come true. Ondine and Syracuse fall passionately in love, but just as we think the fairy tale might go on forever, the real world intercedes.

Directed by Neil Jordan, the movie stars Alicja Bachleda and Colin Farrell.

The 103-minute film is rated PG-13 for some violence, sensuality and brief strong language.

The screening is sponsored by the Friends of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

'Night Of Giving' Dec. 15 At The Common Market

The Common Market Restaurant, 97 Willard St., Quincy, will hold its annual "Night of Giving" at their Cafe de Paris lounge Wednesday, Dec. 15 from 6 to 11 p.m.

Free hors d'oeuvres will be available to customers who bring in a wrapped present for a boy or girl to the restaurant that evening.

The restaurant also makes a donation to the charity and the bartenders donate a portion of their night's gratuities to the charity.

"A few of our managers started this annual tradition and it's been extremely successful," said Restaurant Owner Greg McDonald. "People stop in during the night, bring a present, enjoy a drink, have some complimentary hors d'oeuvres, see old friends and feel good that they are helping families during these difficult times."

The Common Market partners with "My Brothers Keeper," a local charity, to assist families in the area and provides presents at Christmas time.

Since the "Night of Giving" started at The Common Market, customers have donated more than 1,000 Christmas presents.

Marie's Kitchen

BY MARIE D'OLIMPIO

Tortellini, Chicken And Peas Pasta

I am always looking for different recipes to try out for the family, and I found a great one recently that everyone seemed to enjoy

It's a pasta dish that will be a nice addition for the holidays. Even though I like pasta with tomato sauce, this recipe for a cream sauce is the best.

Tortellini, Chicken, Peas Pasta

1 bag of frozen tortellini's
2 small chicken breasts or
3 boneless chicken thighs (if you prefer dark meat)
Oil for sautéing the chicken
1 package of frozen peas
4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
¼ cup cream cheese
Parmesan cheese for topping.
Salt and pepper to taste

I doubled the recipe for the cream sauce because of the amount of meat and pasta.

For the cream sauce: In a large skillet, melt the butter and add the flour making a roux. Add the milk and cream cheese and stir until thickened. Set aside.

Cut the chicken in bite size pieces and sauté in hot oil. Set aside.

Cook the peas and tortellini according to directions.

Place the chicken, peas and tortellini altogether in the cream sauce and heat until hot and bubbly. Top with the Parmesan or a favorite cheese.

Quincy Lions Club Honors Past Presidents

Mariana Verenis Inducted Into National Honor Society At Woodward School

Mariana R. Verenis, daughter of Nick and Mindy Verenis of Quincy, a junior at the Woodward School For Girls, has been inducted into the National Society of High School Scholars. (NSHS)

NSHSS Founder and Chairman Claes Nobel, a senior member of the family that established the Nobel Prizes, made the announcement.

Nobel said, "On behalf of NSHSS, I am honored to recognize the hard work, sacrifice, and commitment that Mariana has demonstrated to achieve this level of academic excellence.

"She is now a member of a unique community of scholars – a community that represents our very hope for the future."

Jingle Bell Festival Sunday At The Woodward School

The Jingle Bell Festival hosted by the Class of 1988 will be held Sunday, Dec. 12 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Woodward School for Girls, 1102 Hancock St., Quincy.

The event will feature a kids DJ, crafts, face painting, tattoos, cookie decorating, a visit and photo with Santa, plus a free gift for every child.

There will also be a basket raffle featuring themed gift baskets, a 50-50 raffle, vendors selling jewelry, scrapbooking items, cosmetics, and more.

Hot dogs, drinks and popcorn will be available for sale.

The event will raise funds for The Bernadette Verrochi Ezell Memorial Scholarship Fund, in honor of a member of the Class of 1988 who lost her battle with cancer last year. The goal is to provide a scholarship to be awarded to an incoming or current Woodward School student.

Tickets are $7 per person, or $20 for family up to 5. Tickets can be purchased in advance by emailing jinglebellfestival@verizon.net, or at the door the day of the event.

ter to Town Brook and, thus, his property value would be affected directly by changes in Town Brook and the flood control project, according to Timmins.

"It's been made a condition of the project," said Timmins, adding, "He can no longer meaningfully participate in the LDA (Land Disposition Agreement)."

Timmins said the restriction on Raymondi applies not only to the council's current review of the LDA, but to all future issues related to the renewal project.

"He'll have to leave the chamber," Timmins said, referring to future discussion of the Quincy Center Revitalization Plan.

Timmins said he expects the State Ethics Commission to ratify his decision within the week.

"It's been a bit of roller-coaster," Raymondi said of the reversal Monday.

However, Raymondi said he does not intend to challenge the initial part of Timmins' ruling.

If the LDA passes, Raymondi said he intends to seek a reversal of the ruling so that he can protect his ward if the urban renewal project progresses.

Raymondi called it unfortunate that his 15,000 plus constituents will lose his voice on the council as they are most directly affected by the urban renewal plan.

"They're directly impacted whether it's a success or not," said Raymondi.

The ethics issue has, also, been confusing for Raymondi's colleagues on the council.

"This process has been a bit of a yo-yo process. It's off. It's on," said Ward 4 Councillor Brian Palmucci.

Palmucci asked whether Raymondi's prior involvement in LDA discussions would affect the validity of the council's final decision.

Palmucci referred to two prior decisions on the issue. In September, Timmins and the Ethics Commission banned Raymondi from the LDA discussions, and then reversed that decision in October.

Once the October decision was issued, Raymondi was able to participate in all deliberations except those involving Town Brook.

"The yo-yo has ended," said Timmins, stating that when the flood control plan was added to the core projects last week, Raymondi was out.

In a later discussion, Ward 5 Councillor Doug Gutro echoed his regret and that of his colleagues over the loss of Raymondi's voice in the discussion.

"If Councillor Raymondi were permitted to be here, he would have a lot of questions." said Gutro.

During the sessions in which Raymondi participated, he questioned the zero-value appraisal of the Ross Parking Garage and the city's commitment to a $27 million investment in the building of a new garage.

"What has changed in the agreement that has precluded Councillor Raymondi? What other changes?" asked Gutro.

James Fatseas, Koch's Chief of Staff, called the LDA a draft and described the negotiations between the developer and the city as an "ongoing process."

"There have been many other changes. As we (reviewed) the (LDA) document, we made some minor and major changes, " said Fatseas, adding, "As recently as today, there have been a number of items. We are not waiting to continue our dialogue. This is a draft. We are acting on (revisions) as quickly as possible."

Sluggish Start For Fire Department Fee Program

citing resistance from insurance companies and noting that the Registry of Motor Vehicles has not been cooperative.

"We seem to be getting pushback in every aspect of this," said Barron of the plan which the Council approved in mid-August, but only after considerable controversy.

Under the plan, the recovered funds are immediately debited to the department and were originally earmarked for equipment, rather than manpower.

However, those funds could have been used to offset the department's escalating overtime costs which are running at some $17,000 a week and could have offered back-up for rehiring laid-off firefighters.

Barron said he won't know until January whether federal funds will be available to rehire laid-off firefighters.
